The John T. Anderson Substation being constructed by MinnKota Power on the south side of Thief River Falls should be energized or on-line by the end of July. This will give the city another substation to serve the city, particularly the industrial park users. This station provides the city with a third service line and lessens the chance that another serious ice storm could cause the problems it did in 1997. The 115,000 volt line is a direct tie from Warren-Oslo.

Finseth asks disaster request

Chairman of the House Agriculture Policy Committee, Tim Finseth, R-Angus, has asked that Governor Ventura start the process to request the federal government declare certain northwestern Minnesota counties as agriculture and public disaster counties due to the excessive moisture the area has received.

Although other counties will be included in the request for federal recognition, Finseth asked in a phone call to the Governor's office that he makes sure that Polk, Marshall, Red Lake, and Pennington counties be included in the Governor's request to the Federal Emergency management Agency (FEMA).

"With all the rain we've had up here, farmers have not even gotten the chance to plant a large percentage of their fields," Finseth said. "Our crop conditions are so poor, I wanted to make sure that the Governor includes these counties in his request for federal assistance."

If the request for agriculture and public disaster recognition for these counties is accepted by FEMA and the President signs the disaster declarations, the counties will be eligible for emergency loans and other federal assistance.

Kiesow family reunion draws 182 relatives to Espelie Twp.

Families of six of the 10 children of Herman and Ida Kiesow, and of Herman's brother Julius, attended the Kiesow family reunion Sunday, June 27, at the old Henry Kiesow farm in Espelie township of Marshall county near Goodridge.

Participating in the event were 182 relatives from 13 states and a foreign exchange student from Japan who had lived with one of the families and returned for a wedding of that family's child.

States represented were Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Washington, Georgia, Texas, Nevada, New York, Florida, Alaska and Illinois. Attending from Japan was Shuri Sado, who came back to the U.S. to attend the wedding of Trevor Kiesow to Keri Stratton Saturday, June 26.

Reunion festivities started Friday, June 25, when 90 family members gathered at Oakland Park in Thief River Falls for a pizza picnic. Activities Saturday, June 26, included fishing, golfing and visiting and a chicken dinner catered at the Heritage Community Center in Thief River Falls for 91 people. Many of the relatives attended the Kiesow-Stratton wedding dance in Goodridge Saturday night.

At the Henry Kiesow farm Sunday, several antique cars and tractors were brought by family members to give rides and stand for inspection. A pig roast provided the main fare for dinner, along with a sharing of traditional family foods such as cabbage rolls and peppernuts, made from the recipes Ida Kiesow altered after coming from Germany to accommodate the ingredients available here.

Oldest family member to attend the reunion was Walter Kiesow, 82, of Enumclaw, WA. He suffered a paralyzing stroke two years ago but his will to attend the reunion aided his recovery to the extent that he was able to make the trip.

Youngest family member attending was Alexis Marie Kiesow, daughter of Tony Kiesow and Nicole Burns, who was born June 12, 1999. Tony Kiesow now lives on what was formerly Walter's farm, so the oldest and youngest family members attending have roots in the same farm.

To assist in identifying the various family members attending, color coded T-shirts designed by family member Florene Hall were worn by the various families. Each family attending also received a Kiesow Descendant Family Reunion 1999 genealogy and address book.

Also among those attending was Kris Olsen of York, Pennsylvania, great-granddaughter of Julius and Mathilda Kiesow, whose mother was taken from her mother while a young child. Kris found her Kiesow family roots by posting an ad in the Todd county, Minnesota, genealogical web site in February of 1998. The story of Kris finding her family and attending the reunion, as written by Kathi Carlson, appears in the June 30 issue of the Thief River Falls Times.

First generation of the families involved in the reunion were Herman and Ida Kiesow who immigrated to the United States from Germany in 1886 and settled in Hutchinson. They lost their first child, Ernest, shortly after their arrival, with the cause said to be the stress of the ocean crossing on the pregnant Ida.

A year later Herman and Ida moved to a farm at Clarissa, next to Herman's brother Julius, who had preceded Herman and Ida to the United States in 1886 with his wife Anna and two children. Herman and Julius were from Pomeraine, Germany.

In 1896 Herman and Ida moved to Moylan township in Marshall county where they raised nine children—Otto, Richard, Bill, Erick, Caroline, Henry, Rosie, Selma and Herman Jr.

Of these children only Rosa (Rosie) Kiesow Kotz, 96, survives. She was born Dec. 30, 1902, married Frederick August Kotz June 28, 1942, and had no children. She lives at the Knute Nelson Nursing Home in Alexandria and was unable to attend the reunion.

Brooks man is killed in accident Monday morning

William Klasen, 29, Brooks, died in a one-vehicle accident one-quarter of a mile south of Oklee on Monday, July 5.

Minnesota State Patrol received a report of the accident at 5:40 a.m. According to the accident report, Klasen was driving a 1987 Chevrolet Celebrity north on Minnesota Highway 222 when his car left the east side of the road, hit an approach, went airborne and came to rest sitting upright. During the accident Klasen hit the dash of the car. He died of his injuries. He was not wearing a seat belt.

The accident remains under investigation.

D. Patrick McCullough reigns as Winter Carnival King Boreas

(Former Newfolden resident D. Patrick McCullough, currently serving as the St. Paul Winter Carnival's King Boreas, was recently featured in an article by BSU director of news services and publications Al Nohner in BSU Horizons, an alumni association publication. The article is reprinted as follows with permission of the author.)

D. Patrick McCullough, a native of rural Newfolden and now an attorney in St. Paul, has been busy making numerous appearances as King Boreas of the St. Paul Winter Carnival. He expects to make some 200 appearances in addition to the approximately 100 during the carnival itself.

As a youngster, Pat McCullough used to find some quiet time when he was herding cows. After getting up by 5 a.m. to do chores, he and his siblings were sent to pasture with the cows to keep the animals out of the neighbors' fields.

As the day got longer and the cows more docile, McCullough would lay down on a hill overlooking the herd and daydream of kings and lands far away.

(McCullough explained that the "hill" was part of a gravel pit where the cows were pastured—the only rise of significance in the vicinity of the Newfolden area farm.)

In January, McCullough became royalty, crowned as King Boreas, the ruler and lord of snow, winds, ice and frivolity during the St. Paul Winter Carnival.

"This would have been a fairy tale dream when I was growing up," said McCullough, a 1967 Bemidji State University graduate from Newfolden. "We didn't have TV, so you had to have a good imagination to get through the work and the days. Lying in the sun, I could do anything I wanted to in my mind."

Herding cows was one of the treasured opportunities to let his mind roam. It as a task that fell to the nine children of the McCullough family since they couldn't afford posts or barbed wire to fence all of their land.

"We had more kids than fences, so we herded the cows," McCullough remembered about growing up in a log home with no electricity, no running water and no indoor bathroom facilities. "But we were always very happy because we didn't know we were poor, and there weren't very many affluent people around us."

At 14 he started working as a farmhand while attending high school. Following graduation, he joined the military and boarded a plane taking him to boot camp.

He had heard and seen pictures of airplanes in school, but had never been near one. Frequently ribbed by his family for his well-known fear of heights, he stepped into the transport while a strange thought passed through his head. "Some fools even jump out of these things."

Naturally, he joined the paratroopers, serving in the 101st Airborne for two years.

"Overcoming my worst fears and challenges proved to me that I could do anything I wanted to do," said McCullough, who entered BSU after service. "I wanted to go to college so my children wouldn't have to experience poverty and go through the struggles I did growing up."

At first he wanted to be a psychiatrist, and earned a degree in psychology with minors in German and sociology. As class president, he also came to enjoy debate and lively interaction with people. He took another leap and decided to change career directions. McCullough earned a law degree from the William Mitchell College of Law and hung his shingle on a building in the east side of St. Paul.

"It was different starting out in 1971 than it is now," he said. "It wasn't easy, and I joined many organizations to get some exposure in the community."

One of the organizations was the St. Paul Winter Carnival, and he was chosen as the East Wind in 1975.

Library to present reptile program

As part of the children's summer programming at the Thief River Falls public library, Jeff Korbel will present a half-hour program entitled Reptiles of the World at 2 p.m. on Thursday, July 8. The program is free and there is no pre-registration.

Jeff Korbel, a representative in northern Minnesota of the Minnesota Herpetological Society, will bring approximately 200 reptiles and insects for viewing, including boa and python snakes, lizards, tarantula spiders and scorpions.

The speaker will talk about the differences between reptiles and amphibians, where they come from, their environmental niche, whether or not they make good house pets, which ones are venomous and how they use their senses.

An active herpetologist with a naturalist background, Korbel believes it is important to educate people about reptiles. He served as a forest naturalist at the Chippewa National Forest for three years and currently also works as a fly fishing instructor and fishing rod builder. He is also a student working on an education degree.

Korbel's wife is a teacher and they own a black Labrador retriever as well as their collection of reptiles and insects.

"This will be my first time to bring reptiles to Thief River Falls," he said. "I'm looking forward to a full library. Don't forget to bring your cameras."

For more information on this program, contact the Thief River Falls public library at 101 East First Street or call 681-4325.

Jeff Korbel will present a program on "Reptiles of the World" Thursday, July 8, at 2 p.m. in the Thief River Falls public library. He is shown with his python named "Boris." There is no charge for the program and no pre-registration is required. For more information, contact the library at 681-4325.

Modification made to requirements for cover on CRP land

In response to the amount of unplanted Conservation Reserve Program acreage in Minnesota this year, the state Farm Service Agency has made a modification in cover requirements for idled contract acres.

The "clean till options" in the Minnesota Approved Cover Types and Practices for Idled AMTA Contract Acres was modified to add a fifth statement which says: "The last operation in the fall will be done in a NE-SW direction, perpendicular to the prevailing wind, to establish ridges."

The modification is for 1999 only and must be approved by the county committee in consultation with the district conservationist. In this area, approval appears to be a foregone conclusion.

AARP offers older drivers driving program

With the approach of summer months, increased local traffic and vacation driving is a signal for older motorists to update their driving knowledge and skills.

Why older drivers? As we grow older, driving becomes a habit and many skills are taken for granted. The problem is that physical changes, declining perceptual skills, and local driving conditions can lead to serious accidents when not detected. The answer is the AARP 55 ALIVE/Mature driving program.

AARP 55 ALIVE is an eight-hour classroom refresher course specifically designed to meet the needs of older drivers. The course addresses the physical changes that can affect your driving ability and behavior, and ways to compensate for those changes. Also the curriculum is geared to remind you of skills and techniques you once learned but fail to use regularly, and update you on the rules of the road.

"Many older drivers tend to forget it's easy to develop unsafe driving habits over time because we become too familiar with something we have done for many years," says Rich Dohrmann, AARP 55 ALIVE Minnesota State Coordinator. "That is why we teach the rules of the road and the ways to prevent accidents by identifying what should be done in adverse driving conditions."

In 1998 a statewide network of 574 volunteers in Minnesota who are 50 and older, reported 59,191 graduates in 2,496 classes. The program gives the volunteers an opportunity to help their peers learn how to handle adverse driving conditions and traffic hazards, as well as the affects of aging and medications on driving. 55 ALIVE teaches participants about normal, age-related changes that can interfere with vision, hearing and physical strength that typically influence driving ability and attitudes. For example, did you know that:

- vision is a critical factor that impacts driving ability?
- side vision is a problem for older drivers?
- impaired hearing is a common problem for 20 percent of people 55 and older and 30 percent of those over the age of 65?
- another area of physical decline among older drivers is reaction time, and that slower reaction time represents a significant problem for older drivers?
- medications taken by older persons can interact with each other and with alcohol cause serious adverse reactions to occur!

These problems are what lead to the typical traffic violations committed by older drivers, including failure to yield the right-of-way, improper left turns, incorrect lane changes, passing, and entering and leaving expressways. Recognizing this, and that most older motorists began driving before formal driver education existed, 55 ALIVE instructors teach the rules of the road. Participants also learn about the proper use and maintenance of their vehicles, and learn the safety aspects of the car including safety belts, airbags, anti-lock brakes, and child safety seats.

"If cars suddenly seem to appear from nowhere, intersections bother you because there seems to be so much going on or if gaps in traffic are harder to judge, then it is time to take the 55 ALIVE program. You'll be glad you did," says Dohrmann.

Completion of the 55 ALIVE classes can result in discounts from several automobile insurance companies throughout the country. In addition, legislation has been enacted in 34 states and the District of Columbia which requires all automobile insurance companies conducting business in those states to provide a premium discount to graduates of state-approved improvement courses. Minnesota does offer legislated insurance premium discounts.

For more information on AARP 55 ALIVE class location or volunteer opportunities please call toll free 1-888-227-7669. A nominal fee is charged for the eight-hour course.

AARP has developed an "Older Driver Skill Assessment and Resource Guide." This useful handbook helps older drivers to self-assess their driving skills through focused questions, ideas and self-tests. Single copies may be obtained by requesting brochure number D14957 from the Minnesota AARP information center, Mall of America, 60 East Broadway, W-334, Bloomington, MN 55425, telephone 612-858-9040 or by writing AARP Fulfillment, P.O. Box 96796, Washington, DC 20090-6796.

Mundalls are serving SDA and Open Arms churches

Marcus and April Mundall

Pastor Marcus Mundall and his wife April are serving the Seventh-day Adventist churches in Thief River Falls and Crookston and the Open Arms Christian Fellowship in Thief River Falls. They arrived in Thief River Falls May 27.

Marcus was born in Belize, Central America, the third son of a missionary doctor. The family moved to Bertha, MN for five years, then lived at several places in the Midwest before settling in Connell, WA. Marcus his five brothers and one sister and graduated in 1994 from Upper Columbia Academy in Washington.

April was born in Berrien Springs, MI and moved with her family to Maryland when she was eight. That has been her home since that time, living with her mother and two younger sisters. She graduated from Blue Mountain Academy in Pennsylvania in 1993.

The couple met at Southern Adventist University in Tennessee where Marcus studied theology and April pursued Bible education and nursing courses. Both worked at summer camps. During the 1995-96 school year, Marcus served as assistant dean of boys at Mount Ellis Academy in Bozeman, MT, while April taught Bible, English and hand bells in Micronesia.

Both returned to Southern for more classes until their marriage Dec. 28, 1997. Their wedding trip was as student missionaries to Sydney, Australia, where they were youth pastors for the Kellyville Seventh-day Adventist church.

After returning to the U.S. last Christmas, they took enough course work to graduate in May. Having done a lot of traveling, they say they are looking forward to settling into Thief River Falls and pursuing some of their hobbies. Marcus is a soccer player, bird watcher, gardener and French horn player. April enjoys crafts (especially crocheting), gardening, cooking and reading.

TRF soldier adjusts to changes in the weather

by Garrell Reed

Imagine living, working and training in a region where snow, ice and blistering winds are the norm. Now imagine rapidly picking up and flying off to a steamy tropical island for weeks of intense military combat training, all without missing a beat.

Adapting to an extreme change in climate was just one of the challenges the son of a Thief River Falls couple faced during a recent training exercise dubbed Tandem Thrust 99.

Army Sgt. Chad M. Kuck, son of Allan and Peggy Kuck of Thief River Falls, was among more than 12,000 service members from the U.S., Canada and Australia who converged on a tiny island in the South Pacific to participate in elaborate military war games.

Tandem Thrust is a biennial exercise that calls together military units from different services and nations and trains them to work together to respond to crisis situations around the world.

While the other services fulfilled their respective roles, Kuck and his fellow soldiers took on the responsibility of repelling enemy ground forces and evacuating allied non-combatants from the island.

"I ran the vehicle search at the main gate checkpoint," explained Kuck. "I help identify and search non-combatant civilians for evacuation back to the U.S. I also assist with riot control."

During the three-week exercise, the Canadian Navy, backed by U.S. Navy aircraft and Marine troops, played the role of the 'bad guys,' representing a fictitious island dictatorship intent on seizing its neighbor's territory. The United States and Australia responded by sending air, ground and naval forces to help the besieged republic turn back the invaders.

"At Fort Wainwright I'm a fire team leader," Kuck said. "I help with the rifle ranges, physical training and I conduct classes. My main mission is to train and lead my soldiers."

Tandem Thrust posed numerous challenges for the Army, including controlling hostile anti-American demonstrators, safeguarding American and allied citizens, and fighting off enemy forces. For Kuck and the arctic warriors of Fort Wainwright, however, one of the biggest challenges was adjusting to Guam's tropical climate.

"I'm sunburned and drinking lots of water," Kuck said. "The 60-degree change in temperature in one day was extreme to adapt to, but we overcame it."

No matter where the hotspots around the world might pop up, when the call goes out, Kuck will be ready.

Donor June Scholin continues to give the gift of life

By Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

There's no way of knowing just how many lives June Scholin has saved over the years.

For more than 50 years, June has been donating blood, and on Thursday, July 1, she was recognized by United Blood Services and presented with a plaque designating her as a ten gallon donor during a blood drive at Redeemer Lutheran Church.

United Blood Services is based in Fargo and provides blood to more than 40 hospitals in Minnesota, North Dakota and part of South Dakota. Area patient needs require over 700 units per week or approximately 36,000 units per year. A unit of blood contains 450 milliliters or approximately one pint.

June's gift is not common. In our area, only about five percent of the population donate blood, and respond to the never-ending need.

The history of donating blood goes back to the early part of the century. While a few successful transfusions took place before 1900, modern, large-scale transfusions became practical after the discovery of blood types in the early 1900's.

During those earliest transfusions, however, blood was transferred directly from the donor to the recipient. In 1914, the storage of blood became possible with the discovery of chemicals that prevented clots from forming.

Today, preserving solutions permit blood to be stored for as long as 42 days although, according to United Blood Services representatives, most of the blood collected by its technicians is used within a week.

While advances in science have changed the way blood is used and the methods used for collection, the majority of the nation's blood supply is still provided by volunteers like June.

The donation process is simple and takes less than an hour.

The first part of the process determines an individual's suitability as a donor. A drop of blood is collected and tested to make sure that the person is not anemic. A potential donor's blood pressure, pulse and temperature are also taken, and questions about health and behavior are asked to help determine whether the individual may have been exposed to HIV or other viruses.

If it is determined that a volunteer is able to donate, blood is taken from the arm of a donor using a new, sterile needle. Most people feel fine during and after a donation, and many say that they "feel better" afterwards.

After donating blood, donors are treated to refreshments and asked to remain in the building for 15 minutes.

There is minimal risk to blood donors. A donor cannot get AIDS or any other infectious disease, by donating blood. All of the equipment is sterile and used only once.

Donated blood goes to a United Blood Service laboratory for nine hours of typing, testing and the separation of whole blood into blood components before it is labeled and delivered to area hospitals.

Should any tests show that the donor may be a carrier of hepatitis, syphilis, HIV or other viruses, the blood is not used. If required by local law, the results of the blood tests are reported to the health department, and the donor's name is placed in a Deferred Donor Directory. The donor is notified of the results and told that they must not give blood. Also, anyone who tests positive for HIV tests will be provided with counseling and referral information.

Technology continues to advance, and currently, United Blood Services is participating in a research study that will evaluate a new type of testing, using Nucleic Acid Amplification Technology, to detect viruses in the blood.

One of the most common questions asked by potential donors is whether or not he or she has enough blood to spare.

If a person weighs more than 110 pounds, they have enough blood to spare and share. The average adult person has about eight pints of blood. The fluid or plasma is replaced within 24 hours, and red blood cells are replaced in about five weeks. To ensure the safety of donors, guidelines allow donations every 56 days.

The need for donated blood is not likely to end. Although, since the 1960's, researchers have investigated a number of possible blood substitutes to be used in emergency situations, no substitute has been discovered for blood.

Because the need for blood is never-ending, United Blood Services is on the road constantly holding blood drives in the communities within its service area.

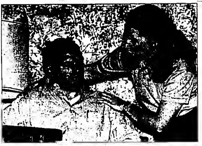
In addition to blood donors, other volunteer services are utilized. Local volunteer coordinators organize the drive, publicizing the event and making donor appointments, and other volunteers register donors and serve refreshments at the site on the day(s) of the drive.

Why should we think about donating blood? The most obvious reason is that none of us can guarantee that we or a loved one will not need blood at some time during our lifetime. In fact, it is estimated that up to 90 percent of the population will use blood before the age of 72.

The need for donated blood becomes more critical on holiday weekends as an increase of people on our highways result in more accidents. Unfortunately, it is also a time when many regular volunteers find themselves too busy to donate blood.

June Scholin was not one of those who found herself too busy to donate blood last week. In fact, since making her first blood donation as a young woman attending teacher's training in 1943, she has donated blood on a regular basis throughout the years — at least 10 gallons worth, and that adds up to giving the gift of life to countless others and setting an example for all of us. Thank you, June.

June Scholin (center) was presented with a plaque and special card designating her as a 10-gallon blood donor by United Blood Services during its recent blood drive in Thief River Falls. June has donated blood on a regular basis since 1943. Marilyn Winter (left) is one of the community's volunteer coordinators for the blood drives, organizing the event and setting up appointments.



A meddling mother and a son who seeks his escape in alcohol and the fantasy world of movies are part of the play "The Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams. The play will be staged by the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council Thursday through Saturday, July 8-10, at 7 p.m. in the Northland Community and Technical College theater. Peggy Countryman plays Amanda, the mother and Rob Burkel is her son Tom.

Selective Service now available on the Internet

The Selective Service System recently registered its 100,000th man via the Internet.

"This is proof that Internet registration is a huge success, and growing," said Selective Service Director Gil Coronado. "In just over six months, 100,000 young men have registered using computers."

Young men can now register with the Selective Service at http://www.sss.gov. When basic information is entered, participants instantly receive their Selective Service registration number. Men can still register at any local post office by completing a simple card, or they may fill out and return a card they get in the mail.

By law, men are required to register within 30 days of reaching age 18. Approximately 4,000 Internet registrations are received each week. Between 30,000 and 40,000 registration cards arrive at the Selective Service Data Management Center in Illinois every week.

Kidney Foundation of Thief River Falls is conducting its annual fund-raising campaign to assist people in this area who have kidney-related health problems. Gathering to prepare mailings to potential donors were (from left) Cheryl Hinschberger, Ruth Nepper (secretary), Rick Erickson and Marilyn Winters (treasurer). Not present when the photo was taken were Bob Bergen (president) and Sue Dupree.

Bethany Nelson gets $25,000 faculty scholarship

Bethany Nelson has been awarded a $25,000 faculty scholarship from Concordia College.

Nelson is the daughter of Joel and Kim Nelson of Thief River Falls.

Concordia College in Moorhead established the faculty scholarship in 1984 to recognize the combination of academic excellence in high school and the potential for outstanding contributions to the Concordia community. The scholarships are based on merit rather than financial need and are payable in annual installments of $6,250.

To be eligible for this award, students must have a high school class rank or test scores in the top 10 percent. Final determination is based on an essay, a faculty interview and demonstrated leadership and achievement in school, church and community activities. Seventy students were selected from a pool of nearly 650 qualified applicants.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

I used to live on Rural Route 1. Now, thanks to the new 911 addressing system, I live at 10345 45th Street West, or something like that.

One of my older friends was amused by her new address. "I've lived in this same swamp for 53 years," she said, "and now they are calling it Main Street West!"

The first of these crazy new addresses I ever saw was 187th St. SW in Buxton, ND. I was sure it was a joke. I thought some impish North Dakota person invented a big address to get more respect on the phone when ordering things from New York.

Then I got notice of my new address. No more rural route. The cowpath past my place had become 125th Street.

The idea behind these complicated addresses is that the ambulance will be able to find farmsteads more easily. To check that theory out, I called the 911 people to see where they would end up if I had an emergency and couldn't tell them where to go.

Good thing I checked. They had me on the wrong road. They had me in the wrong county. If I actually had been choking on something, I would be still lying there.

I tried to describe to the dispatcher where I actually lived. I gave the big fancy address. No help. I gave the fire number, GX304YM38. That did no good either.

Finally, I said that I lived on the old Johnson place.

"Oh, the old Johnson place!" The lady said. "You mean the white house just down from the Erickson farm?"

Now it was all clear. The dispatcher found my farm in her plat book. She corrected her computer. When I finally have a heart attack, they will know where to find me.

Perhaps these new addresses make sense to somebody, somewhere. One can only hope that they make sense to the ambulance crews. Perhaps they will make things easy for them.

But I doubt it. It is more likely that some bureaucrat with more power than brains decided that everybody should live on a street and have a house number just like him, whether it makes sense or not.

I suppose we'll get used to the new addresses, just like we got used to having to dial the prefixes on the phone numbers when that improvement came in. But, no matter how meaningless the change, I will miss living on Rural Route 1.

but so many ways.
Our memories of you we treasure so,

PARENTING TIPS
Learning From Life

It's easier to understand a new idea using real-life objects than using pictures or words. For example, the word "orange" stands for the fruit we eat as well as the color of certain things. But that idea may be hard for children to understand if we just tell them about it or show them pictures.

If children touch, smell, peel and eat an orange and then look around for objects that match the color of the orange the idea will "come alive." Any time you can use the real object instead of a picture it is better and easier for your child to grasp the idea.

During the summer we have the opportunity to take part in many county fairs. A fair can be a time to give your child a look at some "real" things. For instance this is a great time to take a close look at farm animals. Seeing the real thing is so much more "educational" than looking at pictures in books.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

When looking at farm animals, talk about how big they are, what color are they, what the baby is called, what does the animal say, etc.

...A Cat Owner, or Owned by a Cat?

Sometimes I get a little crazy and think how nice it would be to have a kitty. Yes, it would be great to have a companion for the dog, a self-sufficient little bundle of fur that would cuddle with me while I rested on the couch, catch any errant flies and spiders in the house, sit in the window sills and watch birds and be much less demanding than the puppy. Then I think about being a cat owner again and come to my senses, especially after re-reading the following story. It's called "Feline House Management 101." You cat owners will understand every word of it:

DOORS:

Do not allow closed doors in any room. To get door open, stand on hind legs and hammer with forepaws.

Once door is opened, it is not necessary to use it.

After you have ordered an "outside" door opened, stand halfway in and out and think about several things. This is particularly important during cold weather, rain, snow or mosquito season.

Swinging doors are to be avoided at all costs.

THROWING UP:

If you have to throw up, get to a chair quickly.

If you cannot manage in time, get to an Oriental rug. If there is no Oriental rug, shag is good.

When throwing up on the carpet, make sure you back up so that it is as long as the human's bare foot.

BATHROOMS:

Always accompany guests to the bathroom. It is not necessary to do anything – just sit and stare.

HELPING HUMANS

When supervising cooking, sit just behind the left heel of the cook. You cannot be seen and thereby stand a better chance of being stepped on and then picked up and comforted.

For book-reading humans, get in close and rub under the chin, between eyes and book waving your tail in the air - unless you can lie across the book itself.

For humans paying bills or working on other paperwork, first sit on the paper being worked on.

When removed, watch sadly from the side of the table.

When activity proceeds nicely, roll around on the papers, scattering them to the best of your ability.

After being removed a second time, push pens, pencils, erasers and other things off the table, one at a time.

When a human is holding newspaper in front of him or her, be sure to jump on the back of the paper.

WALKING:

As often as possible, dart quickly and as close as possible in front of the human, especially on stairs, when they have something in their arms, in the dark and when they first get up in the morning. This will help their coordination skills.

CAT GAMES:

Get enough sleep in the daytime so you are fresh for your nocturnal games.

If you should have an accident during play, such as falling off a chair, immediately wash a part of your body as if to say, "I meant to do that!"

Humans would have you believe that those lumps under the covers are feet and hands. They are lying – they are actually Bed Mice. Rumor has it that only the most ferocious attack can stun the Bed Mice long enough for you to dive under the covers to get them.

Any small item is a potential toy. If a human tries to confiscate it, this means that it is a Good Toy. Run under the bed with it. Look suitably outraged when the human grabs you and takes it away. Always watch where it is placed so you can steal it later.

HUMANS:

Humans have three primary functions – to feed us, to play with and give attention to us, and to clean the litter box.

It is important to maintain one's dignity when around humans so that they will not forget who is Master of the House.

Humans need to know basic rules. They can be taught if you start early and are consistent. You will then have a smooth-running household.

Citizens' forum wrestles with rural economic crisis

by Joseph Kurtz
Extension Communications
University of Minnesota

Financial challenges facing today's farmers and financial barriers for young people who might want to farm or live in rural communities were key themes at 50 local citizen's forums across Minnesota June 14.

"If current prices and conditions don't change, it will get to the point in a couple of years that those left won't be able to sell land or machinery," said Pennington county extension educator Howard Person of Thief River Falls. "There won't be buyers."

Person was facilitator at the Crookston forum which had 40 participants. Altogether, there were an estimated 1,200 participants at 50 sites. The participants were also part of the audience for the statewide forum, a live one-hour radio and television broadcast on the social and economic crisis in rural Minnesota that featured Minnesota Governor Jesse Ventura. The broadcast was carried on Minnesota Public Radio and KTCA television.

Participants at Crookston included a dozen or more farmers, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, some Crookston city residents and a member of the clergy. "The overriding theme was, 'Yes, we're in deep trouble, and it will get worse,'" said Person.

"A key question was, 'Do you want to support small farmers or let agriculture go the way of big business?' Government actions such as paying pork producers $5 per hog or reducing property taxes $4 per acre were seen as crumbs."

Person said government agriculture policy in Europe and Japan was a topic. "They have a national policy that supports small farms and they subsidize those farms heavily," he said. "It's obvious to those farmers that the government wants them there, and wants food produced in their own country. That's not apparent here. If there's another way, people are very open to suggestion."

A representative of an organization that supported the 1996 federal "Freedom to Farm" bill said it was supposed to include an assurance of free and open markets, no trade embargoes, and crop insurance. "Those things haven't happened," he added.

"Most farmers said, if we're going to do something, let's do it soon, or there won't be many left in a couple of years," Person said.

At the forum at Albert Lea, current farm circumstances were also a main concern. In addition, much concern was expressed for young people who want to get into farming. Pat Stumme, extension educator in Freeborn county, said the forum had 21 participants. The group included eight who had lived on farms and represented a broad spectrum of ages and employment backgrounds.

"The huge financial barrier to being able to get into farming was cited," said Stumme. "There are beginner farming loans, but if the operation won't cash flow, the loans won't do anyone any good. Prices and marketing opportunities need to turn around."

There was also discussion on the impact of farming on rural communities. In addition to Albert Lea, with a population of around 18,000, there are six smaller communities in Freeborn county. A comment was that when agriculture suffers, rural communities suffer.

A forum at the Dakota county extension office in Farmington drew 40 participants. Jayne Hager Dee, county extension leader and Jeremy Geske, extension educator, served as facilitators.

"One comment at our forum was that in agriculture we don't do cooperative marketing of our products as much as we should," said Dee. "Rugged individualism is traditionally associated with farmers, but sometimes it can be detrimental. There may be a need for education in cooperative marketing."

Government policies such as deregulation were seen as favoring large businesses and corporations. "A real distrust of larger companies was expressed," said Dee, "along with the feeling that government is more responsive to big companies than to individual farm producers."

The Dakota county gathering attracted some representatives of organized labor who were interested in organizing farmers. They urged farmers to "raise a little less corn and a little more hell," using tractorcades or whatever is necessary to get the attention of government policy makers.

Overall, the feeling in Dakota county was that low farm prices are here for awhile and that the next few years will be tough, Dee said.

Extension educator Karen Ostlie was facilitator for the forum at Ivanhoe in Lincoln county. Providing opportunities for young people to stay in the county was a main concern.

"Lincoln county is very rural and very dependent on agriculture," Ostlie said. "The county has a high average age, with very few young farmers. When the older farmers retire, what will happen to the land? Taxes and interest on borrowed money mean that it is difficult for a young farmer to succeed."

The second, third and fourth sessions will be more specific on issues and what the possible solutions might be. Upcoming state forums, each followed by locally-based citizens' forums, will be:

- July 9, with the theme of "understanding the views of agribusiness and the food industry." The purpose will be to engage the much talked about, but little understood, middlemen of the food industry. The forum will originate from the Clay County Fair in Barnesville.
- August 5, with the theme, "What value do we place on the rural economy?" It will focus on consumers' values and attitudes on agriculture and the value society places on the rural way of life. It will originate from FarmFest near Redwood Falls.
- August 30, with the theme of "creating a vision for the future of Minnesota agriculture." It will wrap up the forum process, looking at what differences the process has made and visions for the future. It will originate from the Fitzgerald Theater in downtown St. Paul.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q: Does a family history of disability get considered as part of a disability application? In other words, if someone in my family now receives disability, will that harm my chances of getting disability?

A: No. Each application is decided on its own merit. Having parents, siblings, or a spouse either on or also applying for disability will not be a factor of consideration in developing your own application.

Q: If my application for benefits is denied, is there an appeal process open for me to use?

A: Yes. The Social Security Administration has a multiple step appeals process built into the system for all of its programs. Since disability issues are usually more subjective and open to discussion than other agency decisions, disability claims are more likely to be involved with the appeals process. A wide range of issues are open to appeal including if it is decided that you are not eligible or no longer eligible for benefits, or that the amount of payments to you should be changed. In addition, parts of a decision can also be questioned. For example, as it relates to disability, you and Social Security may agree that you are disabled but have differing opinions of when the disability began. Basically if a person disagrees with an agency decision they can request a review. There are four levels of review, which are sequential in nature. They are reconsideration, hearing by an administrative law judge, review by the SSA Appeals Council and the potential of federal court review. When a decision is made concerning your application or ongoing benefits, a letter is sent telling you what the decision is and providing information about how to appeal it if you disagree. For more information request the SSA fact sheet "The Appeals Process" (SSA Publication 05-10041) from any local office, the agency website www.ssa.gov or the national toll-free number 1-800-772-1213.

Q. I work part-time but might have to stop working soon if my health does not improve. Will I be able to look into getting disability even though my husband is working full-time? I have heard that his income can prevent me from getting benefits.

A. You can definitely look into benefits, and your husband's earnings are not going to matter. When talking to someone about Social Security Disability there are two main topics that are discussed. The first is the client's work record because persons need a certain amount of work on their record to be considered for disability benefits. For most adults this requirement is to have five years of work within the ten years before health problems made them unable to work.

Of course, there are more specific requirements concerning the amount of earnings involved and when the work took place, but part-time work can definitely fulfill these. A person not meeting the work requirement cannot be eligible for disability through Social Security based on their own work record no matter how ill they might be.

The second main topic is the client's health with the long term nature and severity of the impairment discussed. The income of a spouse is not a point of discussion because income is not a factor of entitlement.

It is important to bear in mind that all of the above pertains only to Social Security. What can be confusing is that Social Security offices also administer the totally separate Supplemental Security Income (SSI) program that is based in large part on financial need. SSI has its own disability program, and that is concerned with a client's income and other issues.

To better serve our clients by informing them of available programs, Social Security representatives ask some basic questions during an interview to determine which program is involved. Coming back to your original question, you can file for Social Security disability benefits based on your part-time work and regardless of your husband's earnings.

Silver Creek Centennial

Silver Creek Lutheran Church celebrated its centennial on June 26 and 27, 1999. The theme for the centennial was "A Century of Faith."

A reunion for the confirmands was held Saturday evening following a short program. Pastor Oehlen portrayed Pastor Bjornson, the "circuit riding preacher" who served the parish in the early 1900's. Having visited with Pastor Bjornson's granddaughter, Lydia Lee, he learned about the struggles of a circuit rider and relayed them to the audience. Music selections were by the Silver Creek choir and the Torgerson family choir. They were the children and grandchildren of the late Carl and Hallie Torgerson, former members of Silver Creek. Hallie had helped organize the first choir of Silver Creek in 1941.

A communion service was held on Sunday morning. The message was brought by Paul Swanson of Hallock, vice president of the Northwest Minnesota Synod. The selection "Beautiful Savior" by the Torgerson family was sung as a tribute to their sister, Janet Fischer, who passed away the previous week.

At noon, a dinner was served to approximately 275, catered by Jeanette Reierson and served by members of Nazareth Church of Holt.

United Nations Proving Itself A Global Threat

Despite the willingness of Americans to believe that what their country does is right, many have wondered and continue to wonder how we could have been involved in the bombing and virtual take-over of a nation with which we were not at war. How were we and are we involved in Kosovo in an action that imposes our country and others on a tiny nation and its internal strife?

At least part of the answer is included in the following column by F. R. Duplantier of America's Future:

GLOBAL GOVERNANCE:
GAVEL, GUN & PURSE

"The United Nations was created to provide a forum for sovereign nations to meet and discuss differences in hopes of finding peaceful solutions to those differences," observes Henry Lamb of Sovereignty International.

"The purpose and function of the United Nations is changing, however," Lamb warns that the UN "no longer sees itself as the facilitator for cooperative action by sovereign nations," but rather "as the administrator of what is called 'global governance.'"

Writing in the summer issue of eco-logic, published by the Environmental Conservation Organization, Lamb notes that the UN has published "many documents which reveal both the intent and the plan to achieve global governance. The plan is quite comprehensive," he observes, "and it is currently being implemented. The plan seeks to control environmental and social policy, education, economic activity and military action," Lamb contends.

"The United Nations no longer sees its responsibilities as limited to serving its sovereign nation members," he charges. "It has now assumed responsibility for providing security to all the people of the world, without regard for the sovereign authority of the nations in which those people live."

According to Lamb, "The published plan for global governance intends to have all military power—including the manufacture, sale and distribution of munitions (including handguns)—under the auspices of the United Nations. The plan calls for the elimination of permanent members of the Security Council and elimination of all veto power."

"The published plan for global governance," Lamb warns, "is being implemented, particularly in the United States, despite the fact that Congress has not ratified many of the key treaties, nor has it authorized the use of U.S. military forces by the UN."

Lamb emphasizes that the World Trade Organization is "only the first step toward controlling economic activity; the next step, consolidation of international currency flows, is well under way. The second step is necessary before the UN can impose the 'Tobin Tax' which," he explains, "will give the UN an independent revenue source, making it truly independent of its member nations."

Lamb points out that the International Criminal Court "will have the power to enforce virtually all international law. The public was told that the ICC was a vehicle to prosecute only war criminals and international terrorists," he recalls, "but it is clear from the preparatory literature that its creators fully intend to amend the charter to broaden its jurisdiction to environmental and social law as well."

According to Lamb, "Control of military activity is the big prize for the UN. All the other control mechanisms," he emphasizes, "are only partial steps to ultimate UN control. Control of military activity is the final step. And we are moving in that direction very rapidly."

Lamb argues that NATO intervention in Kosovo is "consistent with the UN's objective of ignoring national sovereignty" and he speculates that NATO could constitute the "standing army" needed to complete the UN plan for global governance.

How Do You Live Your Dash?

The following poem was passed along to us from someone who probably pilfered it from the Internet. It is under a heading called "This Week's Parishioner Participation" and is entitled:

HOW DO YOU LIVE YOUR DASH?

I read of a man who stood to speak
At the funeral of a friend.
He referred to the dates on her tombstone
From the beginning to the end.
He noted that first came her date of birth,
And spoke the latter date with tears,
But he said what mattered most of all
Was the dash between those years (19xx-19xx).

For that dash represents all the time
That she spent alive on earth....
And now only those who loved her
Know what that little line was worth.
For it matters not how much we own—
The cars, the house, the cash;
What matters is how we live and love
And how we spend our dash.

So think about this long and hard;
Are there things you'd like to change?
You never know how much time is left
That still can be rearranged.
If we could just slow down enough
To consider what's true and real,
And always try to understand
The way other people feel.

And be less quick to anger,
And show appreciation more
And love the people in our lives
Like we've never loved before.
If we treat each other with respect,
And more often wear a smile....
Remembering that this special dash
Might last only a little while.

So when your eulogy is read,
With life's actions to rehash....
Would you be proud of the things they say
About how you spent your dash?

Strandquist

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

The weather in northwest Minnesota is still acting out of sorts. Almost every day there is wind and water that we can do without around here. Fargo had what they called a taste of Y2K and they don't think it's funny. It didn't take them long to get some back up for their water supply when they found themselves without that important commodity. Up on the sandridge here, Roy says those morning showers saves on the watering chores. It has been hard on the flowers. I only had one weekend to arrange peonies, but they were huge. folks say that the season seems to be rushing things more than usual especially for flowers that we would like to see for awhile longer.

The dahlias are coming along just fine now though they were covered with black mud after some of those hard rains we had. Most of them now are tall enough to take that treatment and after Roy came home, the first day he gave them a good cultivating and I hilled them with a hoe. It doesn't take him long to get things in shape again. The next day we put away seven ice cream pails of strawberries and Saturday we were off to celebrate in Strandquist.

Strandquist Celebration

There were hundreds of people in Strandquist this weekend, all seemed excited to be there, remembering how it used to be when there were four grocery stores, three cafes, a nice motel and the passenger train stopped both going north and south every day. The baseball team will always be remembered as the winners of the Minnesota championship and the idols of many lower grade students. The players were coached by T. M. Pringle and they had learned obedience from O. W. Yngve. There were the three Koland boys, Hans, Ole and Joe, Swede Sjodin, Herbert and Loyal Olstad, Torbin Johnson, Bert Benson, Roy Stennes, Myron Hanson and Arnold Sanderson, a group never to be forgotten.

The Kiddie Parade was first on the list of entertainment with 13 entries. First prize went to #4, Tim Ronstrom on the tractor and Spencer and Morgan Kuznia, children of Adam and Markelle Kuznia, and Tyler and Tanner Turn, children of Ricki and Vicki Turn, on the trailer.

The second place winners were #6, children of Lenny and DeAnn Lofstrom. Devin dressed like Uncle Sam on a bicycle, followed by Dustin and Damian dressed as farmers on their tractors.

The third place winners were #8, Krista Anderson, daughter of Darwin and Lori Boen, and Chelsea Boen, daughter of Paul and Jackie Boen. They rode a motor scooter in the parade. Congratulations to all who participated! They were all great.

There were 42 entrants in the regular parade and it was a chore to decide on winners. First place went to #6, Burger Anderson, who was driving a Model A coupe with five windows or maybe it was widows!. It is hard to decipher writing in the wind, but either way he sure was lucky and named #1.

Second place winner was a shiny 1931 Model A, driven by owner Winifred Jacobson and we know it was Helen telling him where to turn.

The third place winner was #41, Eldor Westman, driving horses who were pulling a farm wagon. Congratulations to the winners and to all the others participating.

There was music for all to enjoy at the gazebo during the intermissions with a great emcee and musician too, Arvin Sundby. Singers and players were Arvin and Joey Gust, Vi Moon and Gordon Ering of Newfolden, Mervin Strandberg of Strathcona, and Tina Garfva, Dion Larson, Don and Marlys Lofrooth, all local talent. Thanks to all.

At 5:00 a delicious dinner was served on the street. The main entree was roast, the other white meat, and it was absolutely great. There was an auction sale and pony rides for the kids and flea markets for the grown-ups.

When I messed up the computer parts of my typewriter I promised to get the main news item in the column today, and that was the birthday of a nine-year-old lady, Miss Aloura Donaldson, on June 20. When the vacation Bible School program was over, her father Jeff Donaldson surprised her with a card and flowers. Those who helped her celebrate were Jeff, Margaret and Sara Donaldson, Grandpa and Grandma Lafrooth, Grandpa Donaldson, Uncle Lowell Brent, Rachelle and Ethan Donaldson, Bethany Storoby, and Stanley and Ruby Swenson. On Tuesday Margaret and Sara took Aloura out for supper.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor,

I attended the forum on "Weathering the Farm Crisis Together" at Northland College on July 1 and was very disappointed in it.

I came there to learn some real help. Instead it was mostly what to do when a farmer has to leave the farm. We want to farm, not run to towns and cities and take jobs away from people who live there!

So who will farm? Many farms are operated by third and fourth generations. Should we lose that? Our grandparents and parents worked hard to build those farms. Should we lose that?

Despite the crisis, few farmers attended, the headline said. I'll tell you why. In talking to some farmers who weren't there, they said it's the same old thing. Why go there? Also, some had to work. Don't you think many are already working out, forced out. The forum was on a work day—Thursday, July 1. Maybe a Saturday would fit more people's schedule.

Why don't these ag people talk about the real problem.....price! Farmers are getting 1960 prices in 1999—who can take that?

Weather is one thing nobody can change, but if farmers received a fair price for what they sell, this crisis would be resolved fast.

Some people think food is high priced now, but those people have a surprise coming when the food will be raised by a few corporations instead of us small farmers. I'm hoping the ag forum people will get better informed.

Sincerely,
Frank Burda

Two Hartz Men Take Over Local Hartz Grocery

"The sale of the Hartz retail grocery store in Thief River Falls, effective Thursday, June 30, was announced late last week by the L. B. Hartz store system. The buyers are James Winjum and Arthur Christianson, veteran Hartz employees. Winjum will continue to serve as head supervisor of the Hartz store chain, while Christianson has taken over the management of the local store. He is a former president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

"Included in the purchase are the stock and fixtures of the store. The new owners have leased the present quarters at the corner of Horace avenue and Second street."

Lions Club Members Viewed Movie Film At Luncheon

"R. R. Henderson, member of the Lions club at Ontario, California, entertained the local Lions club Wednesday noon at its luncheon in the Rex cafe by showing colored motion pictures of Death Valley and other parts of California. The temperature in Death Valley reaches 120 degrees for days in succession. At a brief business session, Earl Severson, committee chairman, reported on the float entered by the club in the Jaycee Sports Carnival parade Sunday."

Supervised Play Field Day Is Set

"Climaxing the supervised summer playground activities in Thief River Falls, a field day will be held in the near future in Tindolph park, it was announced today by Quentin Jones, and Miss Sue Pritchard, supervisors. Little girls will participate in a doll parade, while older boys and girls will compete in swimming skill tests, penny diving and croquet. "S. M. Dainard, while driving through the country east of here last Saturday passed by an exceptionally fine field of barley belonging to Gunder Torgerson and brought samples to town which can be seen at the front office of the SPECTATOR. The stalks are over forty inches in length while the heads average about sixty kernels to the head. He also brought in samples of red clover which are equal to anything ever grown in the clover states.

"Editor George of the FERTILE JOURNAL pitched a good game of ball here on the Fourth. Mr. George is captain of the Fertile nine and under his rulings, which are strict, he has the finest aggregation of ball players, every one a gentleman, we have ever seen on or off the diamond. The best is none too good for the Fertile boys."

The Fourth Celebrated

"The morning of the Fourth opened rather cloudy, dampening the hopes of the celebration committee and the patriotic citizens who left no effort undone to have a rousing celebration. But, as the day advanced, the clouds rolled away and every indication of a day of jollification was in evidence.

"The cornet band went to the depot to welcome the Fertile ball team upon the arrival of the train. The line of procession moved up Main street and circled in front of the jugglers stand where the crowd centered to witness the performances.

"After dinner the ball game was looked forward to with great interest. T. Flaherty was the unanimous choice for umpire. The game was called at 1:30, Fertile to bat, but failed to score. St. Hilaire made two scores in the first. The playing was close up to the seventh inning when the score stood even. In the eighth inning St. Hilaire made five scores and the visitors two, making the score stand 9 to 12. The home team didn't go to bat the ninth inning, Fertile failing to tally. The best of feeling prevailed throughout the game. The Fertile boys made many pleasant remarks about the umpire, saying his decisions were just and spoke in high terms generally about how courteously they were treated by our citizens.

"The various races had a number of entries and all afforded much amusement, no irregularities occurring until the fat man's race was called. When standing ready for the word, 'go,' some failed to hear it and others were thinking only of coming in first and made the start and couldn't be called back. Then there was a fat man's mix-up, those having made the run feeling satisfied and those standing at the starting point clambering for the run. The matter was compromised by letting them run. The judges couldn't award prizes so another run was agreed upon and the difficulty settled.

"The last on the program was the free-for-all horse race, two best out of three heats, first prize won by Axel Rood and second by Johnnie Mitchell. The display of fireworks and the dance given by the band boys which was largely attended, finished up the celebration. Much credit is due to the committee for their efforts and having everything pass off successfully."

THIEF RIVER FALLS, RED LAKE COUNTY, MINNESOTA

THE FOURTH
As It Was Celebrated In Thief River Falls.

"The celebration of the Fourth of July in Thief River Falls this year was not what had been anticipated. The day was fine, but owing to the heavy rains of Monday evening the roads leading into the city were placed in poor condition and few farmers were in town to celebrate.

"The celebration was commenced in the morning by a parade, led by the Ogahmah band, and a very creditable showing was made. After the parade had traversed several of the streets, exercises were held on the grounds, back of R. Oen's hardware store. The Declaration of Independence was read by Wayne Richardson and the Rev. Harry Logan was orator of the day.

"In the afternoon the races, ball game, etc., were held. The following were the winners of the different events:

Men's foot race	Al Parenteau, first; Fred Fair, second
Handicapped foot race	Fred Fair, first; John Rogers, second
Three-legged race	Parenteau and Rogers, first; Fair and Benzie, second
Boys' race	Percy van Dyne, first; Silas Rockstad, second; Malcolm Eberhardt, third
Log rolling contest	Frank Barton, first; Dennis Lasarge, second
Horse race	Jarenson first; LaBree second

"In the evening a large display of fireworks was held and a large crowd attended the bowery dance given by Backe and Amundson."

How Do You Live Your Dash?

The following poem was passed along to us from someone who probably pulled it from the [illegible] This Week's [illegible] entitled

HOW DO YOU LIVE YOUR DASH?

I read of a man who stood to speak
At the funeral of a friend
He referred to the dates on her tombstone
From the beginning to the end
He noted that first came her date of birth
And spoke the following date with tears
But he said what mattered most of all
Was the dash between those years [illegible]

For that dash represents all the time
That she spent alive on earth
And now only those who loved her
Know what that little line is worth
For it matters not how much we own
The cars, the house, the cash
What matters is how we live and love
And how we spend our dash

So think about this long and hard.
Are there things you'd like to change?
You never know how much time is left
That still can be rearranged
If we could just slow down enough
To consider what's true and real,
And always try to understand
The way other people feel

And be less quick to anger,
And show appreciation more
And love the people in our lives
Like we've never loved before.
If we treat each other with respect,
And more often wear a smile
Remembering that this special dash
Might last only a little while

So when your eulogy is read,
With life's actions to rehash...
Would you be proud of the things they say
About how you spent your dash?

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

[illegible] worked hard to build those farms. Should we lose that?

Despite the crisis low farmers [illegible] the headline said. I'll tell you why. [illegible] some farmers who weren't there. They said it's the same old thing. Why go there? Also some had to work. Don't you think many are already working on [illegible] out. The forum was on a [illegible] Thursday, July [illegible]. Maybe a Saturday would be more people's schedule.

Why don't these people talk about the real problem — price? Farmers [illegible] 1940 prices in 1999 — who can take that?

Weather is one thing nobody can change, but if farmers received a fair price for what they sell, this crisis would be resolved first.

Some people think food is high priced now but those people have a surprise coming when the food will be raised by a few corporations instead of us small farmers. I'm hoping the forum people will get better informed.

Sincerely,

THE FOURTH

As It Was Celebrated In Thief River Falls.

"The celebration of the Fourth of July in Thief River Falls this year was not what had been anticipated. The day was fine, but owing to the heavy rains of Monday evening the roads leading into the city were placed in poor condition and few farmers were in town to celebrate.

The celebration was commenced in the morning by a parade led by the Ogalmah band, and a very creditable showing was made. After the parade had traversed several of the streets, exercises were held on the grounds back of R. Oen's hardware store. The Declaration of Independence was read by Wayne Richardson and the Rev. Harry Logan was orator of the day.

In the afternoon the races, ball game, etc., were held. The following were the winners of the different events:

Men's foot race	Al Parenteau, first; Fred Fair, second
Handicapped foot race	Fred Fair, first; John Rogers, second
Three legged race	Parenteau and Rogers, first; Fair and Benzie, second
Boys race	Percy Van Dyne, first; Silas Rockstad, second; Malcolm Eberhardt, third
Log rolling contest	Frank Barton, first; Dennis [illegible], second
Horse race	Jatenson, first; LaBree, second

"In the evening a large display of fireworks was held and a large crowd attended the bowery dance given by Bache and Amundson.

Local students learn from stock market experience

Business Economic Education Foundation (BEEF) and Thief River Falls Lincoln High School are working together to enhance the economic education of local students through the Minnesota Stock Market Game. The Stock Market Game is a classroom-based teaching tool designed to promote a better understanding of our economic system while stressing math, social studies and reading skills.

Thief River Falls High School Teacher Lynn Dyer is working with a carefully designed curriculum for student teams that compete in grade divisions 9-12. In the portfolio equity competition, teams invest a hypothetical $100,000 in common stocks over a 10-week period. Teams are issued weekly portfolio summaries showing current holdings, brokerage fees, margin interest and team rankings. Team standings are printed in the St. Paul Pioneer Press each week. At the conclusion of the game, the top three teams in both the elementary and secondary divisions are presented with awards at a ceremony in their honor.

Dyer said one of this year's six teams from Lincoln High School placed ninth out of 497 teams statewide. His top team, consisting of Levi Kraft, Aaron Lendobeja, Shane Peterson, Kyle Newton, and Mike Langland, finished with $196,790.27. The top team in the state, Esko, finished with $265,796, so the top teams were pretty close. Dyer's second top team finished 44th overall with $151,106.

Dyer's financial management class at Lincoln High School has been participating in the game for about eight years. Dyer said, that he could say he was most excited about the game this year because it was the closest to real trade.

This year was different because the school has a MacLab in the classroom (Dyer added thanks to the referendum), which is networked to the Internet. They have a television tuned to CNBC in the classroom all the time, and can buy and sell at the end of the day, which is in comparison to waiting for up to two days for the trade to take place.

This game, he said provides students an opportunity to learn about other places to invest money. It gets them on the internet, teaches them to use other research tools and develop those research skills. He also believes it helps their decision making and organizational skills. Each student works in a team of five students, he explained, so they have to learn to work with others, make decisions and sometimes agree to disagree.

It isn't just a big guessing game. Each team member is assigned certain tasks, such as captain, chart keeper, researcher, chief financial officer. Each group is required to keep track of stocks, chart the progress of the stocks, and among other things, to provide statements that justify each and every one of their purchases. Each justification statement includes such things as the name of the company, its stock identification code, cost, what the company makes, and reasons for purchasing the stock. Dyer said that also helps when the group decides to sell the stocks later. Students are also required to do some "technical reading" and perform other methods of analysis.

Before students begin participating in the game, they take field trips to local brokers. Dyer said each of the local brokers have been real great. The students talk with investors and learn a lot about the job, what's involved, and by learning a little about what's "hot" - possible investment strategies and opportunities.

Dyer points out that a drawback to the game is its "gambling" aspect. In his class he said he tells students that if they decide to invest in the stock market, that they should be involved in it for the long term. Ten weeks is a short period of time.

He also advises them to not buy the stock if they would not buy it themselves, but the game is such that they may take greater risks than under normal or "real" circumstances. The game does allow students to buy on margin, and some groups have taken great risks and have been heavily leveraged, which is something he would never advise a first time investor to do.

There have been some spectacular results. Dyer said students in his top group picked up on a tip from CNBC Market Watch and conducted research on the tip through Quicken.com on the internet. After investigating the stock tip "Books-a-million", the students purchased 7,500 shares of the stock on Wednesday before Thanksgiving. On Friday, the stock closed at $42 per share, up from $8 per share. The group's position in the game rocketed them to second in the state with a market value investment of $347,581. But Dyer pointed out, that the students had to sell shares in other stocks to come up with the money for the 7,500 shares. They chose to sell Yahoo, which had climbed from $114 per share to $145. At the end of the class Yahoo was at $220 per share.

Students also learned that what goes up can also go down. On the Monday following the spectacular increase, their "Books-a-million" stock dropped 24 points and the students could not buy or sell until the end of the day. They decided to hang on to the stock a little longer, but it continued to drop. By the end of the trading day on Tuesday, the students still managed to "see" a $10 per share increase.

Students may also participate in the investment research project contest as part of the game. In order to participate, students research a specific company and report about their findings. Students are encouraged to write a paper, make a video, and create a display or another creative project. The first place winner of both elementary and secondary divisions are recognized at the awards ceremony.

More than 25,000 Minnesota students will participate this year in the statewide program. BEEF has twice been honored for running the best Stock Market Game in the nation. In 1996, BEEF received the L. Massey Clarkson Jr. Award from the Securities Industries Foundation for Economic Education for exemplary quality and expansion of the game.

BEEF is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing Minnesota students with the practical knowledge needed for their future in our American and world economic systems. By partnering with educators, businesses and other non-profits, BEEF is able to provide educational programs that will prepare Minnesota youth and educators for the challenges of the 21st Century.

Because BEEF is a non-profit organization, funding partnerships are integral to the success of the program. More than $250,000 will be raised this year by businesses, financial institutions, foundations and service clubs.

Headwaters Bull Ride draws 120 entries, top bulls

Second phase of the 22nd Annual Headwaters Rodeo and Bull Ride at Park Rapids—the bull riding competition—will take place Friday and Saturday, July 9 and 10, at 6:30 p.m. at the Double J arena located one and one-half miles east of Park Rapids on Highway 34.

The PBR-sanctioned event drew 120 entries for the two days, causing the PBR to turn out 20 entrants and leave 50 different riders for each night of the bull ride. Six contractors will be providing top bulls for the two nights, including the top 10 from the big rodeo completed last weekend at Cody, WY.

A number of top riders are included in the list of participants, led by Jim Sharp of Stephenville, TX, a two-time world champion. Also on the list are Cody Custer, Mark Cuin, Brian Herman, Cory Navarre, Roy Doyle, Casey Gates and others.

Spectators can expect to see from 55 to 60 bull rides each night, according to Randy Jokela of Jokela ProWest Productions, sponsor of the Headwaters events.

Family Trivia

Herman Kiesow Sr. built a log cabin in Moylan township upon his arrival from Clarissa. It soon became a gathering place for neighborhood socializing and for holding Lutheran church services.

To better accommodate his growing family, Herman built a larger frame house in 1920. In 1990 that house burned to the ground in an arson-related fire.

Herman also designated a corner of his property for a family cemetery known as Jerusalem Cemetery and many of the original family members and their descendants are buried there.

Otto Kiesow was the first mailman from Germantown to Espelie township and walked a 10-mile route to deliver the mail. Otto also was the first in his neighborhood to buy a threshing machine and it was contracted out to other farmers in the area as a means of earning a living.

eXtreme Team coming to TRF Monday, July 12

YouthNet eXtreme will kick off a week of music and uplifting drama in Thief River Falls at 7 p.m. Monday, July 12. The team will be in concert at Lincoln High School auditorium nightly through Saturday, July 17, except for Thursday evening, when they will appear at the former Our Savior's Lutheran Church, 401 St. Paul Ave. South. Each evening's presentation will be new and different. While geared for teens and young adults, YouthNet has a wide age appeal, and no one is excluded from attending.

YouthNet eXtreme is a five-person ministry team focusing on reaching Generation X with the radical love of Jesus Christ. Twenty-five year old Brian Yaeger, director and team member of YouthNet says, "Generation X belongs in the spotlight, working for God." At first this was only an idea that Yaeger held. But he talked about his dream and YouthNet eXtreme, as it is now known, emerged as other people across the nation joined him in acting on this conviction. The results have been nothing less than spectacular.

The team is designed to create revival, inspire service and outreach, and empower local ministry in youth across North America. Yaeger, along with team members Kathy Caraig, age 20, Steven Cochrane, age 18, Brian Fowler, age 25, and Bernits Smith, age 26, bring multiple talents to their ministry. Their biggest passion, however, is letting local youth and youth leaders create their own event. "We'll help you with whatever you need," Yaeger affirms. "Youth can change the world; we're just here to help them get started."

The team, traveling in a custom-designed truck and matching trailer, is on an extended tour for the summer of 1999 through the 1999/2000 school year. They will travel to Canada and most states in the USA. Their luggage includes sumo wrestling suits, musical instruments, an incredible sound system, their Bibles, a velcro wall, and hearts for service. Besides their ministry through music, YouthNet eXtreme teachers, listens, performs dramas and hosts youth functions. They especially feel called to work with local youth and youth leaders to bring local young life to a real life in Christ.

The eXtreme team has already met with wonderful success. They take no credit for their success but are united in the belief that "It's all God."

The public is invited to experience a week uplifting positive values, positive choices and positive lifestyle. Admission is free and there will be door prizes.

Further information is available by calling 683-3251 or 681-1776.

Benefiting from his background in psychology and sociology, his practice grew in two specialties—family practice and personal injury law. He is now the senior partner in McCullough, Smith, Wright and Kempe, P.A. He is one of two attorneys in Minnesota and one of 100 nationwide who have been selected as a member of the American College of Family Trial Lawyers. McCullough has also been named by his colleagues as a Leading Attorney, a designation that is attributed to approximately five percent of practicing lawyers in each of his fields of concentration.

He and his wife Marlys raised two children and now live on a ranch in rural Stillwater where they raise primarily registered Charolais cattle. Their heifer Adalida was chosen as the national grand champion female in 1998. During this growth McCullough remained active with the St. Paul Winter Carnival, which he saw as a great opportunity to carry many positive messages about the city.

The event was started in 1886, which makes it the oldest known festival in the United States, when a writer in New York called St. Paul "the second Siberia, not fit for human habitation." That challenge was met by a parade and many other activities, including the birth of the king of winter, now known as King Boreas.

"The legend of the king was started in 1886," McCullough explained. "He's changed somewhat over time, but basically has the same job of keeping the festivities moving before Vulcanus Rex and the Vulcan Krewe defeat winter to close out the 10 days of the carnival."

Dethroned, the king becomes an ambassador for St. Paul, traveling extensively to promote the city, region and state.

"I will make approximately 300 appearances as King Boreas," he said. "Nearly 100 happen during the carnival, but the other 200 are at parades, coronations or festivals during the rest of the year. My job is to show them that we have fun in St. Paul."

He has fun on the job as well, and enjoys the times when he brings the Winter Carnival to those who cannot go out and join in the activities, like at nursing homes and hospitals. Part of his task is bestowing knighthood on people.

"I don't care if they're young or old, they like being knighted with the scepter," he commented. "When I look back, it all is like one of those daydreams I might have had sitting on the hill overlooking a field of cows—a king arriving with a full court, speaking to people and knighting subjects. That would have been my fairy tale."

This is one, however, that came true.

Double play pivot by Thief River Falls' Justin Skjarvan forced out Detroit Lakes' Jason Schram at second base, but didn't result in a twin killing during the fifth inning of an American Legion baseball doubleheader opener at Irv Wilson Field Thursday. Thief River Falls swept the Ninth District twinbill 7-6 and 10-8, with the first game going eight innings.

Moorhead out-scores Post 117 squad 19-10

Seven straight Moorhead hits produced a seven-run second inning Monday, lifting the Blues past Thief River Falls 19-10 in a Fourth of July holiday weekend Legion baseball match-up at Irv Wilson Field.

Moorhead banged out 17 base hits in beating Thief River Falls for the second time this summer. The Blues won 10-1 in the first meeting three weeks earlier at Matson Field.

"They hit the ball," pointed out Thief River Falls coach Mike Wienen. "We didn't play that bad, but they just hit the ball. There's just not a whole lot you can do when a team hits the ball like that."

Thief River Falls had a chance to add to the scoreboard numbers, but Post 117 stranded 17 base runners over the course of the game. "We manufactured some runs with some bunts and sacrifices," explained Wienen. "We were able to advance people on the bases, but we weren't able to score them."

The loss kept Thief River Falls from reaching the .500 level, dropping Post 117 to 8-10. All other Thief River Falls regular season match-ups are seven-inning doubleheaders, but the two meetings with Moorhead were single nine-inning affairs.

It was the start of a busy week for the Thief River Falls team that also featured doubleheaders Tuesday at Crookston and tonight (Wednesday) at home against East Grand Forks, along with an appearance at the Park Rapids Invitational beginning Friday. "It's going to be a tough week for us," acknowledge Wienen.

Post 117 Legion squad sweeps Detroit Lakes...

TRF is doubleheader winner

Thief River Falls found a way to score the tying and winning runs in the bottom of the eighth inning without the benefit of a base hit Thursday in a doubleheader-opening 7-6 American Legion baseball doubleheader win over Detroit Lakes.

Post 117 added a 10-8 second-game victory to complete the unlikely Ninth District twinbill sweep for an 8-9 team that had been beaten by the Lakers 12-2 the previous week and was coming off a pair of one-sided Tuesday losses at the hands of Roseau.

"It was a great night for our kids," said Thief River Falls coach Mike Wienen. "They really needed that. They played well. They did a lot of good things."

An inning-opening walk and Keith Blattenbauer's fourth hit of the doubleheader opener – a two-out, ground ball single into left field – put Detroit Lakes ahead 6-5 in the top of the eighth.

But in the bottom of the inning, No. 9 hitter Jeremy Lian reached base for the third time on a walk and Steve Wiseth put down a sacrifice bunt. The Lakers tried to throw out the lead runner on the play, which proved to be a poor decision since Lian was an easy safe call at second. It also allowed Wiseth – the winning run – to join him on the bases. Another sacrifice bunt, this time by Derek Berg, advanced both runners. An intentional walk issued to Jarod Reierson loaded the bases, setting up a force play around the infield.

The strategy backfired on Detroit Lakes when Andrew Solem was hit by a pitch that caromed off his helmet to force in the tying run, and Joey Pribula followed with a sacrifice fly to center field that produced the game-winning RBI.

A one-out, two-base error and a two-out triple into the right field corner by Blattenbauer plated the first run of the game in the Detroit Lakes half of the third inning.

Thief River Falls put together four hits in the bottom of the third to take a 3-1 lead. First two runs scored on a Berg double to right-center. A throwing error on a double play attempt plated the third run.

The scoring continued in the fourth when two Thief River Falls errors allowed Detroit Lakes to score four unearned runs. Those crossing the plate were put on base by an error and three walks. A wild pitch plated the first one; a single to left by Ben Kvidt tied it; an error put the Lakers ahead; and a hit batsman with the bases loaded made it 5-3.

Hitless scoring occurred in the Thief River Falls fourth when Lian was hit by a pitch and Wiseth reached base on an infield error. Lian advanced to third on a fly ball to right field by Berg and scored on a wild pitch.

A Wiseth single up the middle and a Reierson double to left set up a sixth inning RBI opportunity for Solem, who bounced a single through the left side for a 5-5 tie.

Detroit Lakes began extra innings by scoring in the eighth as Jake Grinaker drew a lead-off walk, advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Pete Huberty and scored when Blattenbauer completed a 4-for-5 game at the plate with a ground ball single into center field.

That put the pressure back on Thief River Falls, but the Post 117 players answered the challenge in their at-bat.

"Earlier in the year the kids might not have been able to come back like that," admitted Wienen. "But they have more confidence now. They went in with the feeling that they were going to win, and they found a way to do it."

Post 117 carried the momentum into the second game with a four-run first inning that featured a walk, a double by Reierson, an RBI single by Solem and a three-run home run off the bat of Pribula.

Nick Wilcox, the winning pitcher in relief, also connected for a three-run homer.

Post 117 is in the midst of a busy week tonight (Wednesday) with a 5 p.m. doubleheader at home against East Grand Forks. Thief River Falls will play in the Park Rapids Invitational Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Minnesota, North Dakota eye cooperative effort for Red River spring fishing

Officials in Minnesota and North Dakota are considering a spring conservation season to standardize the fishing season and creel limits in both states for angling on the Red River of the North, which forms the border between the two states.

In April of 1998, North Dakota changed the fishing season on the Red River to allow for year-round harvest of gamefish. Minnesota regulations do not currently allow harvest of certain fish species from the Red River between March 1 and the first Saturday in May each year.

The difference in regulations caused some confusion and controversy among resident anglers and enforcement officials; a situation which subsequently triggered discussions between fishery officials from both states to consider a standardized, year-round recreational fishing season on the Red River.

"We are interested in maintaining year-round angling while addressing conservation concerns," says Terry Steinwand, Chief of Fisheries for the North Dakota Game and Fish Department.

"We are concerned about the potential impact that increased use and additional harvest of walleye and northern pike could have," said Ron Payer, Chief of Fisheries for the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

In the past year, the two states have reviewed the advantages and disadvantages of year-round fishing. In order to provide greater recreational angling for both states, both sides of the river would be open to year-round fishing. To address the concerns of over-harvest, a spring conservation season is being considered that would run from March 1 to the first Saturday in May.

During the proposed conservation season, there would be a reduction in the daily creel limit of walleye or sauger to two fish, with no fish over 18 inches allowed in possession. After the first Saturday in May, the daily creel limit for walleye or sauger would increase to five per day, with no length restrictions. The same conservation season would apply to northern pike, with a creel limit of three fish per day, with no fish over 27 inches allowed. Rest of the year, no length limit would apply, but the creel limit would of three fish.

Channel catfish fishing would be allowed year-round with no change to current summer regulations on the Red River and its tributaries.

Daily limit for largemouth bass and smallmouth bass or a combination would be three fish for the Red River during the year-round season.

The season for muskellunge would be year-round, with a daily limit of one and a minimum length of 40 inches.

Proposed regulations could be in place for the year 2000 fishing season; with a proposed evaluation period of four years. Part of the evaluation process would be a review of information on angler use, catch rates, harvest rates, and angler demographics from year-long surveys to be conducted in 2000 and 2001. Regulations could then be modified or removed after the four years if necessary.

North Dakota Game and Fish Department and the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources will be hosting a series of public information meetings in August to discuss the possible change in regulations.

GREENBUSH RACE PARK

Wissota Late Models will make their only appearance of the 1999 season at the Greenbush Race Park Saturday. Racing that evening will also feature the rescheduled Mid-Season Championship for the five regular classes of cars at the track – an event that was postponed Friday due to the weather.

For the second consecutive week, and the third time this season, the weather won out at the track due to persistent precipitation that moved through the Greenbush area Friday. Seven heats were held prior to the first light rain before the program was put on hold for about an hour. When action resumed, the second modified heat was on the track for only one lap of green flag racing when the clouds opened again, ending the night's program.

Admission to Saturday's Late Model Special and Mid-Season Championship, will be $10 for adults and $5 for children. Gates open at 5 p.m., with racing scheduled to begin at 6:30. The Race Park is located one-half mile north of Greenbush on Minnesota County Road 7.

Water Safety Tips

As the weather heats up and vacation season begins, people head to Minnesota's beaches, lakes and pools. Everyone wants a little wet relief from soaring summer temperatures.

Unfortunately, as cool and refreshing as it may look, water can be a killer.

"I think people are anxious for some fun in the water," said Tim Smalley, DNR boat and water safety specialist. "June 12-13 was the first really perfect weekend we've had so far this summer. Folks have to remember that even though water is fun, it can be deadly to the careless or clueless or just plain unlucky."

The DNR offers several tips to help make it a safer summer in Minnesota.

- Take swimming lessons. Many local parks and recreation departments and the Red Cross offer swimming lessons, even for adults.
- Wear a life jacket when boating. Most boating-related drownings happen to people who have some swimming ability, but aren't wearing life vests at the time of the accident.
- Swim with a buddy. Even adults get into trouble in the water. If no one is there to help, drowning can be the outcome.
- Watch your children at the beach or anytime they are near the water. Children can slip away quickly. Don't let a moment's carelessness lead to a lifetime of regret. When your children are near the water, you should be near your children.
- Know how to rescue a drowning person without putting yourself at risk. Throw a floating object or extend something like a stick, towel or other item to the victim, so if they start to pull you in, you can release it to try another form of rescue. Only swim out if you are properly trained in lifesaving techniques.
- Call 911, which is made easier by the proliferation of cellular telephones.
- If a person has been totally submerged in water and then recovered, insist they seek medical attention. A small amount of inhaled impure water can cause severe lung infections and even death if untreated.

For more tips on boat and water safety, call the DNR toll free 1-888-MINNDNR.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
PENNINGTON COUNTY BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
MARCH 9, 1999 10:99 A.M.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Pennington County Courthouse in Thief River Falls, MN Tuesday, March 9, 1999 at 10:99 a.m. Members present: Bob Carlson, Don Jensen, Arden "Bud" Comstock, Oliver "Skip" Swanson and Charles Naplin. Members absent none.

As duly advertised the county board opened bids for CP 57-99-07 (seal coating). The following bids were opened by the county engineer and read aloud: Astech, St. Cloud, MN $132,323.86, Morris Sealcoat, Morris, MN $139,575.19; and Caldwell Asphalt Co, Hawick, MN $146,494.17.

As duly advertised the county board opened bids for CP 57-99-06 (truck, box, plow and wing with trade). The following bids were opened by the county engineer and read aloud: Lakeland Truck Center, South St. Paul, MN, $96,050.81; W.W. Wallwork, Inc., Fargo, ND, $78,148.00; and Boyer Ford Truck, Inc., Minneapolis, MN, $90,916.00.

The county engineers office will check all bids for accuracy and return with the results this afternoon at 1:45 p.m.

John LeMoine met with the county board to discuss the procedure to obtain a liquor license for a proposed liquor establishment at the NW corner of the intersection of Trunk Highway #59 and C.S.A.H. #3. The county attorney referred to the pertinent Minnesota statutes and provided Mr. LeMoine with the requirements. No further action was taken until such time Mr. LeMoine wants to proceed.

Jim Steenerson representing the Inter-County Community Council met with the county board requesting a resolution authorizing Inter-County Community Council the administration of the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency's Family Homeless Prevention and Assistance Program. The purpose of the program is to keep families in their homes during a time of crisis. The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Swanson and upon vote was unanimously carried.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the need for homeless prevention and assistance exists in Pennington County; and

WHEREAS, Inter-County Community Council desires to administer the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency's Family Homeless Prevention and Assistance Program in accordance with all applicable State and Federal regulations; and

WHEREAS, in order to administer the program, it is necessary for Inter-County Community Council to file a resolution of approval signed by the Pennington County Board of Commissioners with the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency; and

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that Inter-County Community Council is authorized to:

1. Submit a proposal to the Minnesota Housing Finance Agency for funds from the Family Homeless Prevention and Assistance Program to assist people in Pennington County;
2. Administer the Family Homeless Prevention and Assistance Program in Pennington County, according to guidelines and contingent upon funds being granted.

Jim Steenerson also discussed the possibility of using Community Service or Sentence to Serve personnel to build two houses in St. Hilaire. The lots are available but the major problem is that the State Department of Corrections wants them built and available for sale for $50,000.00. This has not been possible with the houses built under this program so far. Department of Corrections needs to raise their cap on the cost of the housing.

Howard Person met with the county board and stated that the next meeting with MN Pollution Control Agency and SWIB PENNCO has been changed to March 18, 1999 in Detroit Lakes. Howard also stated the SWIB PENNCO had agreed to repair the east solid waste building to the original state and to allow Lee's Sanitation space in the northeast corner of the county's property. SWIS PENNCO has signed an agreement stating the above conditions.

Howard Person and Commissioner Jensen then discussed the need for a resolution to allow for more than 25% of Pennington County's tillable acres to be enrolled into the CRP program. The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Naplin and upon vote was unanimously carried.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, agriculture has few other profitable options beyond CRP in the foreseeable future; and

WHEREAS 25% of the total tillable acres in Pennington County is not enough to allow farmers full and needed access to the CRP program; and

WHEREAS some form of financial relief to farmers in need this spring, and

WHEREAS acceptance of all qualifying bids in the 18th sign up will put the county's total tillable acres in the CRP program at or near 38.9 percent,

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners do hereby support and request that all CRP offers taken during the 18th sign up period, which qualify under federal guidelines, be accepted into the program.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Pennington County Board of Commissioners requests the Farm Service Agency to remove the 25% county cap, allowing full access by Pennington County farmers to the CRP program from said 18th sign up period.

Dr. Jay Leitch, Leon Heath, Charles Fritz and Dr. Denver Tolliver met with the county board to discuss what the county board would like to see in the Land Use Plan. Commissioner Jensen is the principle point of contact for Denver Tolliver and Associated for the purposes of discussing the Land Use Plan.

The county board then discussed with Leon Heath the need for a survey of the larger employers on the need for housing. Commissioner Swanson moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to request the Northwest Regional Development Commission do a survey of major employers in Pennington County regarding the need for housing. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Naplin discussed the problems with the dead animal pickup service. The rendering plant has cut the price it is paying from 2 cents per pound to .8 cents per pound. The trucker now has a load that he will lose $600.00 on if he hauls the load to Perkers Prairie. Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen that the Pennington County Board agrees to pay $120.99 or one-fifth of the $600.99 to reimburse the hauler to deliver the load of dead animals to the rendering plant if the other counties also agree to share in this cost. Motion unanimously carried.

Josh Abercrombie met with the county board regarding the Housing Rehabilitation Grant awarded to Pennington County for the six townships in the eastern end of the county. The award was for $470,000.99 and is estimated to fund 30 homes. After release of the funds we can start taking applications and the applicants will be done on a first come first serve basis. A committee will need to be established to review the applicants to see that they qualify. It was decided that one county commissioner and one township supervisor from each township would make up that committee.

Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to authorize the chairman to sign a letter on behalf of Pennington County written to Northwest Multi-County Housing Rehabilitation Association endorsing the Housing Preservation Grant application to provide additional housing rehabilitation funds for low income families. Motion unanimously carried.

The county engineer then met with the county board and made a recommendation to award Astech Corp. the bid for seal coating. Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to award the bid for CP 57-99-07 (seal coating) to Astech Corp. for the amount of $132,323.86 as the lowest and best bid received. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to table the bid on CP 57-99-06 (truck) until March 23, 1999. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to advertise for Pennington County Highway Department seasonal employees at the rate of $7.00 per hour. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Swanson moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to authorize the county engineer to grant employees a leave of absence without pay for short periods of time as per personnel policy. Motion unanimously carried.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Jensen and upon vote was unanimously carried.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, County State Aid Highway #24 deteriorated extremely during the spring of 1998; and

WHEREAS, reconstruction of the highway will require replacement of various waterway openings through approaches; and

WHEREAS, the approach off of County State Aid Highway #24 unto County Road #58 contains a waterway opening referred to as Bridge #L2454; and

WHEREAS, the structure consists of a structural steel plate with dimensions of 12'10" X 8'4" with sufficiency rating of 62.7; and

WHEREAS, it is anticipated that upon movement this structure will fail; and

WHEREAS, the replacement of the existing structure with a reinforced concrete pipe arch with dimensions of 3910 mm X 2460 mm, provides a waterway area equal to the existing structure, and estimated costs for replacement are $45,000.00.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, by the Board of Commissioners of Pennington County, that they direct the county engineer to install a new structure as proposed, and seek funding assistance through the Minnesota Department of Transportation through their Fund 29 Program.

Commissioner Swanson reviewed changes needed in the construction of the minimum security facility that included replacing entry doors with new aluminum single entry door with locks and carpet on vestibules. Total cost of changes is $3,708.00. Commissioner Comstock moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to authorize YHR to draft a change order to include a new door, lock cylinders, key switch, carpet and installation on vestibules for a total cost of $3,708.00. Motion unanimously carried.

The county board then had a brief discussion of the proposed legislation to transfer the court administrator's office to the State of Minnesota. No action was taken.

Commissioner Comstock moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to approve the following commissioner warrants for payment except the veterans service officer's reimbursement of expenses and the bill for chain saw repairs. Motion unanimously carried.

Wendy Mattson and Mitch Bomeman met with the county board to discuss the staff needed for the minimum security work release facility. It has been established that the county will need to hire 9 full-time jailers and 4 part-time jailers to properly staff the facility. Training for the jailers will take place the first two weeks in April ending April 16, 1999. The jailers will then go through one week on training in the facility and help get everything ready to open on April 26, 1999. The open house is scheduled for April 24 and 25. It was noted that this facility needed to run at a break even basis, as we do not want to increase our levy to cover the added expenses.

Commissioner Swanson moved, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to approve the hiring of eight full-time jailers at $8.85 per hour and four part-time jailers for $7.06 per hour. Motion unanimously carried.

Wendy then discussed the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension funding and placement of electronic fingerprint capture devices in sheriff's office. The device is called Livescan Technology. Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to approve the BCA proposal to place a Livescan electronic fingerprint capture device in the Pennington County sheriff's office at no cost to Pennington County. Motion unanimously carried.

Terry Bayne, chief deputy sheriff gave and update on the K-9 fund-raising. Donations in the amount of $9,730 have been pledged but this time. Mr. Bayne asked to order the cage for the car and permission to attend the training. He will continue to raise funds to pay the entire amount. Commissioner Comstock moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to authorize Terry Bayne to purchase the K-9 cage and attend the training. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Comstock moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to move four of the current part-time jailers into full-time positions at the medium maximum jail facility. Motion unanimously carried.

REGULAR BOARD MEETING
June 14, 1999
7:00 p.m.
S.D.S.C. Conference Room A

A regular board meeting of Independent School District #564 was held on Monday, June 14, 1999, at 7:00 p.m. in Conference Room A at the School District Service Center.

The following board members were present: Carl Clark, Barb Kalinoski, Jean Larson, Lyle Olson, Mike Spears, Randy Twistol, and Steve Young. Also present was Dr. Jerry Robicheau, superintendent of schools.

Chairperson Steve Young called the meeting to order and Clerk Jean Larson established that a quorum was present.

A motion was made by R. Twistol and seconded by B. Kalinoski to approve the agenda as amended. Motion carried unanimously.

Representatives of the junior class presented a request to the board to consider holding graduation in the year 2000 on the Sunday of Memorial Day weekend. Discussion was held and the students were asked to survey their classmates to see what day the majority of the students would like to see graduation held on. Superintendent Robicheau will work with the students to put the survey together and will get input from the Lincoln staff as to how holding graduation prior to the end of school would affect some of their classes.

A listing of the computer classes that are being offered to staff during the summer months was distributed. Also distributed was information regarding membership in the Minnesota Rural Education Association and a schedule of their fall area meetings. A form to nominate individuals for the Minnesota Academic Excellence Foundation Hero Award was made available to the board. Ballots for the Region I-ESV executive board election were available for completion.

The board approved a resolution to allow the junior class representatives to survey their class to select a date from those suggested by the Superintendent for graduation in the year 2000. The suggested dates will take into consideration extra-curricular schedules and other factors such as availability of the arena and input from staff and the after-graduation party organizers. A recommendation is to be brought to the board at their next meeting scheduled for June 28.

The board extended their congratulations to Nicole Kopari who repeated as champion in the girls State discus and shot put competitions and to Chelsea Haviland who finished fourth in the State in the 1600-meter run and eighth in the pole vault competitions. The board also congratulated the boys varsity tennis team who placed first in the region and second in the State for the Minnesota State Tennis Academic Award. Team members include Andy Janisch, Tom Fogarty, Matt Winjum, Josh Cahalan, Derin Bjerknes, Allen Bolar, Bailey Nordin, Matt Lutovsky, Jonathan Lofgren, Joe Broten, Roy Unbehaun, Matt Dimich and Jason Swenson. Their coach is Troy Hanestad. The board recognized the following for recently completing their high school graduation requirements through the Area Learning Center: Jed Brazier of Karlstad; Austin Eggerud, Crystal Ringling and Lana Rodahl of Thief River Falls; and Mayme McCorkle and James Stuart of Salol. The board thanked Dave Strand for donating $199.99 to the Challenger playground equipment fund.

Randy Twistol reported on behalf of the Northwest Service Co-op Board of Directors noting that the Co-op is working with Alicia Haviland and her adolescent eating disorder project. Randy also informed the board that Rob Blankenfeld, who works with the city and county on cooperative purchasing and projects, has resigned.

Barb Kalinoski reported on behalf of the Multi-Events Center Joint Powers Board indicating they met on June 1 and noted that an art selection and dedication committees are being formed. Dedication of the center is planned for next spring. Barb indicated that resurfacing of the track has been postponed and that reseeding of the football field is in process. A question had been raised regarding ISD #564's financial contribution to the project. That question has been cleared up and it has been noted that the district has fulfilled its financial commitment to the project.

Business Manager Harry Nelson reviewed the recommendation to renew Workers' Comp. Insurance through the Northwest Service Co-op pool indicating this is the third year of a three-year commitment. The district's total premium is $63,300.00. Harry also reviewed the recommendation to deed the St. Hilaire fire hall property to the City of St. Hilaire. Harry indicated that the request to purchase two new vans would replace two 1990 model vans and would leave the district with two 1997 vans in addition to the two new ones.

Superintendent Jerry Robicheau indicated that the performance assessments on the agenda for approval would put a comprehensive program into place for everyone in the district. Mr. Robicheau also reported that the principals and staff in the buildings are actively interviewing for the open positions in the district. As we begin preparing goals for the upcoming school year and beyond, Supt. Robicheau reviewed some of the issues we need to consider as we prepare students to begin the new century. These issues include performance standards, curriculum, instruction, assessment, technology, time, learning environment, school-community relations, governance, teacher leadership and district leadership.

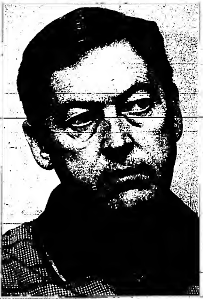
Sen. Rod Grams listens to concerns of area farmers



Senator Rod Grams listened intently as area residents commented on the area farm crisis at a meeting Monday morning at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. Sen. Grams also led a meeting in Roseau later on Monday.

Sen. Rod Grams visited Thief River Falls and Roseau Monday, July 12, to listen to the concerns and problems facing farmers. Groms said their stories would help him in his efforts to find solutions to the agricultural crisis.

Groms heard plenty to take back to Washington, DC, at the morning meeting held at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

There was plenty of support for a disaster declaration, as requested by Minnesota Governor Jesse Ventura. Grams said it would have been nice for his office to have received advance notice of the request from Ventura's office, but he supports the declaration.

Farmers, implement dealers, government officials and businessmen from Pennington, Polk, Marshall and Red Lake counties encouraged Grams to support the request.

He was told by many that the disaster goes beyond the farmers and is hitting main street.

Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser asked Groms to please remember city and county government. Social Services and other services provided by local government are being strained to the limit, he said.

Groms said North Dakota received the disaster declaration but what it received goes out of the norm of rules and regulations. Nevertheless he supports the request and said it may open the gate for similar action for Minnesota.

The disaster facing agriculture and rural communities goes beyond any single event, such as flooding. Farmers were quick to point out a number of problems facing them including capital gains tax, estate tax, the alternative minimum tax, CRP acreage caps, not bringing enough for loan deficiency payments, foreign government ag support, cross border trade agreements, and the purchase of rural property by government agencies. They are also faced with a year in which many have not been able to get a crop in the ground because of wet weather.

Michelle Benton of Kays, Benton, Safranski and Co., certified public accountants, said the tax consequences are horrible for farmers trying to get out of farm-

Watershed board oks river dredging project

Thursday, Red Lake Watershed board of directors reviewed cost estimates for the Thief River Falls reservoir dredging project, and gave its approval for the project to proceed.

Ron Lindberg, public works director for the City of Thief River Falls, presented the final cost estimates to the board. The summary indicated that the project cost is expected to be around $1,100,000. Details ironed out from the summary involved what costs will be matched by the state, and what costs will not be matched. The state will contribute $550,000 toward the project. The remaining cost for the project will come from the city $300,000, and the Red Lake Watershed District board, $250,000. Lindberg was careful to note that much of the city's cost is in the form of donations, and there won't be any assessments.

The scope of the project has been limited by available funding. Currently, the project scope includes dredging of the Red Lake River from roughly Finsbury Park to the Third Street bridge. The contractor is required to leave a 15-foot buffer on either side of the river. Part of the project eliminated due to a lake of funding included a stretch of the river from Third Street to the dam, and a section of the Thief River just north of the Eighth Street bridge. Additionally, property owners may request to have a 40-foot stretch dredged up to their property. Property owners will, however, be billed for dredging up to their property.

Questions still being considered involve whether it is possible to add to the project if donations for the additional cost can be obtained. Lindberg explained that an additional $40,000 could complete the balance of the proposed project from the Third Street bridge to the dam. A fund-raising effort is underway to secure funds to expand the project.

In giving its okay to proceed, the Red Lake Watershed District board said in its resolution that no additional funding was requested, but it would consider any requests at a later date, if necessary.

Brent Johnson, project engineer of Houston Engineering, indicated that dredging will probably begin in late July. A contractor has been working on an impoundment area north of Northland Community and Technical College. The impoundment area is nearly complete.

The dredging project is expected to take two summer construction seasons to complete.

TRF phone calls to Plummer require no long distance toll

Beginning last Friday, July 9, Thief River Falls telephone customers are able to call customers in the Plummer exchange without a long distance charge. Calls may be made by simply dialing the seven-digit number.

While there is no long-distance charge per call, there is an increase in the monthly phone bill of Thief River Falls customers. (Plummer exchange customers also incurred an additional charge which was explained prior to a vote on the extended area service.)

In Thief River Falls the increase is 17 cents per month for residential one-party service, 42 cents per month for business one-party and public access lines, and 44 cents per month for trunk lines.

Thief River Falls customers are reminded that if they have speed calling, automatic dialing equipment or call forwarding systems, their phone equipment must be reprogrammed from long-distance to seven-digit dialing for Plummer.

Those who subscribe to a long distance volume discount plan should inquire from their long-distance carrier if the change will affect their calling plan. For those who have measured or message service, local usage rates will apply.

Persons who have questions may direct them to the number listed on their telephone bill or to the business office at the number shown below: Residence, 1-800-244-1111; small business, 1-800-603-6000; large business or government and education, 1-800-777-9594; and federal service, 1-800-879-2818.

Persons may also write to the Public Utilities Commission, Attn: Plummer, Brooks, Oklee, Red Lake Falls, St. Hilaire and Thief River Falls EAS, 121 East 7th Place, Suite 350, St. Paul, MN 55101-2147.

98th Pennington County Fair to offer six-day run

So filled with activity that it will take six days to pack it all in, the 98th annual Pennington County Fair will be presented Tuesday through Sunday, July 20-25, at the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls.

Rogers Bros. Funland carnival will be on the midway again and has promised the county fair association that it will have more of the large thrill rides than it offered a year ago and will also have a merry-go-round this year. The carnival will be open Tuesday beginning at 6 p.m. and on Wednesday starting at 12 noon.

An entertainment Grand Pass good for all grandstand events is available in advance for $20 for adults and $15 for children 12 years of age and younger. Sen. Rod Grams listens to concerns of area farmers

Worren Affeldt, Polk county commissioner and past president of the Minnesota Wheat Growers Association, was among those commenting during a meeting with U.S. Sen. Rod Grams Monday at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls.

ing. She said many are faced with either going deeper in debt or getting out of farming. Because of the tax consequences of the later, she described the problem as "trading one noose for another."

One area resident pointed out a two-tier problem that many farmers, now in their 50s and 60s face. Many have little in social security and have put everything they had into farming. Their retirement plans hinge upon the value of their land and whether they can rent or sell it. Many are deeply in debt and there is little or nothing to encourage young farmers to get into the business.

Grams told the audience which was estimated at over 75 during two separate meetings, that he had the same concerns and was supporting an agriculture bill that would reduce capital gains tax by a minimum of five percent and would get rid of the estate taxes.

Another area resident noted that CRP rates are artificially forcing rent prices higher, making it difficult for farmers to rent property to farm.

Another farmer asked that some flexibility be built into the CRP program, allowing for shorter periods, such as three or five years, instead of 10 year periods.

A county commissioner noted that Minnesota DNR and U.S. Fish and Wildlife are buying up a lot of land in the area. He said he didn't have anything against a local resident selling the land; but, if government buys the land it should pay the full tax on the land just like everyone else.

Grams agreed that seventeen cents on the dollar in lieu of taxes is just not enough.

The commissioner further explained that when government buys land and as the population tends downward, it shifts the tax burden on fewer and fewer people.

Grams said he agrees that government owns too much land already. He said he's very against this, and thinks government should be reversing this trend. He agreed that there is a need for national parks, et cetera, but "it's getting out of hand and too expensive."

A number of individuals expressed concern about cross border agreements and trade issues.

Grams explained that some of the problems American farmers are facing are due to the subsidy programs in other countries, but doesn't feel that's the answer for America. "More government is not what we need," Grams said. He said he would rather see farmers get a good price off the field. He said "it's hard to prop up something when the market won't."

Cecil Anderson, implement dealer in Thief River Falls for 28 years, said the public thinks nothing of the minimum wage that private business is forced to pay. Why can't we guarantee farmers a minimum wage? he asked.

Paul Nelson, chief executive officer for Hartz Foods, thanked Sen. Grams for visiting Northwestern Minnesota. It's been a long time since a senator has visited this area, he said. Nelson said the farm crisis is killing small town America. "There's no money," he said, "and no reason for people to stay."

This is a much bigger issue than for farmers, he said. He too agreed that we don't need another government program. Consumers will have to pay, he said.

Grams thanked those who came to the meetings and encouraged them to send their letters of support. In their letters, he encouraged them to describe their situation and how the agricultural crisis affects them: Sen. Rod Grams, 261 Dirksen Senate Office Building, Washington, DC 20510; phone (202) 224-3244; or <grams@grams.senate.gov>.

Hans Kandel, Red Lake county extension educator, made a point in speaking with U.S. Sen. Rod Grams at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls Monday.

Ben Kleinwachter of Strandquist, member of the Marshall county board of commissioners, testified during the meeting conducted by U.S. Sen. Rod Grams with area governmental and agency officials Monday in Thief River Falls.

U.S. Senator Rod Grams explains government involvement in the farm crisis at a meeting Monday in Thief River Falls.

Don Loesile of Warren, a past president of the National Wheat Growers Association, commented at the meeting with Sen. Rod Grams in Thief River Falls Monday. Seated is Sharon Bring of Newfolden, a Marshall county commissioner.

Five from northwest among 83 teacher of the year nominees

Five teachers from northwest Minnesota are among 83 nominees for Minnesota Teacher of the Year selection in 1999, according to the sponsoring Education Minnesota organization.

Included are Betsy Saurdiff, Goodridge/Grygla; Linda Ueland, Marshall County Central at Newfolden; Donald Hazeman, Red Lake; Charlotte Hass, Roseau; and Kathleen Duchscher, Thief River Falls.

During the coming months a panel of 20 community leaders and educators will review nomination materials submitted on behalf of the candidates and select a group of Teachers of Excellence (semi-finalists). From this group a list of Honor Roll Teachers (finalists) and the Teacher of the Year will be selected.

All nominees will be honored and the Teacher of the Year announced at a banquet Sunday, October 17, in Bloomington.

98th Pennington County fair to offer six-day run

Wednesday, July 21, according to Jerry Erickson of Thief River Falls, race director.

Classes from Micro Mini to Open and skill levels from beginner to advanced are offered and a prize of $1,200 is up for grabs in the Dash for Cash.

Professional wrestling makes its county fair debut in Thief River Falls on Thursday night of the fair with midget wrestlers billed in the spotlight of the main event. Other wrestlers on the card include AWA legend Buck "Rock'n'Roll" Zumhofe, The Serbian Assassin, Jesse Ventura look-alike J. R. Carson, "Sexy" Ace Steel, "Dapper" Danny Dominion and "Scrap Iron" Adam Pierce, along with others. The wrestlers will be available for autographs before and after the matches.

Friday and Saturday night bull rides promise a lot of high quality action as $25,000 in added prize money is expected to draw some top competitors from the Professional Bull Riding Association (PBR).

The Pennington county fair bull ride, named Thunder on Hooves for the first time this year, is growing in recognition among professional bull riders and the arena in front of the grandstand will be filled with top athletes of both the four-legged and two-legged variety both nights.

Closing out the grandstand events will be the demolition derby late Sunday afternoon. This show has been a popular attraction for many years with large crowds hootin' and hollerin' for their favorite drivers.

The county fair also offers a lot of free entertainment at the bandshell, beginning with Gospel Night from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesday, July 20. Appearing in half-hour segments will be the Trochmann Family, Straight from the Heart, Trinity Trio (Mike Sorteberg, Jay Forney and Rick Erickson) and the Beito Family.

Wednesday at the bandshell a "Battle of the Bands" is scheduled from 5 to 9 p.m. Groups interested in entering this competition may contact Joel Kezar at Kezar Music.

Regular schedule of entertainment begins at 2 p.m. Thursday with Franco the Magician opening the bandshell program. Other groups which will alternate hourly through Sunday include the Maras Sisters and Jacob, Marv Nissel Band and the area band "Saddle Tramp."

On Sunday the bandshell will feature a local talent contest beginning at 1 p.m. with two age divisions for contestants through 14 years of age and 15 and older. First prize of $100 and second prize of $50 is available in each division. Contestants will be awarded points in four categories—talent and ability, stage presence, material originality and talent presentation—and the top point award winner will be eligible for the state fair amateur talent show.

Contestants are encouraged to register in advance with Diane Lee at her American Family Insurance office across from Hugo's or at either KKAQ or KTRF radio studios. They should also be at the bandshell by noon to draw for positions. Keyboard, drums and tape and CD player will be available for accompaniment. Katie Christensen, Miss Thief River Falls, will assist with the program and perform her vocal talent while judges are reaching their decision.

Support for the free entertainment in the bandshell comes primarily from the raffle conducted by the fair board. Tickets at $10 each are available from fair board members. Prizes to be awarded include an Arctic Cat 4-wheeler, Arctic Cat Z120 snowmobile, riding lawn mower from Sears, mini tiller from Hardware Hank, Weed Eater from Evergreen Implement, mountain bike, homemade queen size quilt, one year's supply of Pepsi, five awards of $100 in cash and five awards of $50 in cash.

Professional chainsaw sculptor Denny Saunders of Omaha, NE, will present four shows per day Friday, Saturday and Sunday in the area of the fairgrounds between the log building and the fair board office. His creations will be auctioned to the public Sunday at 3:30 p.m. prior to the 4-H livestock auction.

Parking on the fairgrounds this year will be conducted by the local Take-Down Club youth wrestling organization.

Shuttle bus service will be provided from 3 to 10 p.m. Wednesday through Friday and 3 to 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday. Buses will run on the hour from the parking lot at Northland Community and Technical College, the parking lot south of McDonalds on Highway 59 southeast, the Heritage Community Center and Hugo's supermarket. Passengers will be dropped off and picked up at the front doors of the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center on the fairgrounds.

Fair board president Mike Soneberg and past president Floyd Erickson said that the county fair association will severely miss the assistance and presence of board members Kermit Finstad and Mitch Swanson who died earlier this year. Both were very much involved with the fair planning and operation and donated a good deal of their time to the organization.

Stock and Hodny join in university writing project

Connie Stock, English and Theater Arts teacher at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls and Lova Hodny, first grade teacher at Viking elementary school in the Marshall County Central school system, are among 18 fellows selected to participate in the Red River Valley Writing Project which began June 28 and will end July 22 at the University of North Dakota in Grand Forks.

Summer fellows for the project come from 13 different area communities and represent nearly every grade level and range of disciplines.

Dan Sheridan of UND is director of the project. Nancy Devine of Grand Forks Central high school and Judy Sheridan of East Grand Forks senior high school are co-directors.

The Red River Valley Writing Project is a new site of the National Writing Project (NWP), a professional development program devoted to teaching writing. NWP is a nationwide program, federally funded since 1990, that works to improve student writing abilities by improving the teaching and learning of writing in the nation's schools, provide professional development programs for classroom teachers and expand the professional roles of teachers.

For the Red River Valley Writing Project, $20,000 in federal funds was matched by local area commitments, primarily from UND. These funds pay stipends, conduct the summer institute and begin to establish a network of teachers who will do in-service work during the school year.

Begun 26 years ago at the University of California at Berkeley as the Bay Area Writing Project, the NWP operates on a teachers teaching teachers model. During the institute, area teachers who excel in the teaching of writing come to the UND campus to share their practice with each other and to write together. The hoped-for result is a community of committed teacher/writers who can then help the professional development of their colleagues in regional schools.

There are over 160 such sites around the country, most of them on college campuses. Activities are open to teachers in all subject areas on all grade levels from kindergarten through college.

For more information, contact Dan Sheridan at 701-777-4162.

UMC Chancellor's list includes several from NW Minnesota

Several students from northwest Minnesota were on the Chancellor's list for the spring quarter, according to Chancellor Donald Sargeant. To qualify, students must complete 12 or more hours of college credit while attaining a perfect 4.0 grade point average.

Display at Pioneer Village focuses on drum and bugle corps

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

While the world seems to change at an ever increasingly rapid pace, some things never change. Dedication, determination and desire have been and will always be the components of a winning team.

In 1973, a group of young women put Thief River Falls on the map as they marched their way to a second place finish in a national competition in New Orleans.

The group was the TRFinettes, a 72-member, all-girl drum and bugle corps.

Anyone living in Thief River Falls prior to 1975 would most likely remember the TRFinettes and its predecessor groups, the "Bridgeman Half Pints" and "Bridgeman Bridgettes."

The Half Pints were organized in 1949. Sponsored by Bridgeman Creameries, the young drum and baton unit became a popular attraction at parades and events throughout the area. Uniforms featured plaid kilts and were made by the participants' mothers.

Later, as they grew, the Half Pints became known as the Bridgeman Bridgettes, adding more adolescent females to what was still a drum and baton unit.

In 1970, valve bugles, working flags and a rifle line were added to the corps, and the group changed its name to TRFinettes. Additional instructors were hired to arrange and teach new music, and the kilted uniforms were replaced with gold blouses, bright green tunics and plumed hats. Sponsors included a number of Thief River Falls organizations.

More changes were experienced in 1973 as the uniforms' Sherwood Forest appearance gave way to green and black outfits that sported a more military look. With additional directors helping with marching, maneuvering and musical arrangement and selection, the young women gained recognition for their precision step as they competed in cities and towns in Minnesota, Wisconsin and Canada.

The summer of 1973 included trips to the Twin Cities where the TRFinettes place third in a VFW contest and first in an American Legion competition. The excitement did not end there, however. Topping off that summer's events was a trip to New Orleans and the opportunity to compete nationally.

Preparing the adolescent women for a national competition required hours and hours of practice, and financing the trip to New Orleans demanded tireless fund raising efforts.

Members of the 1973 TRFinettes included Marsha Adamson, Kathy Bottem, Kathy Berg, Nancy Vagle, Rhonda Lee, Pam Engelstad, Jacki Lindquist, Renne Bedard, Kathy Omdahl, Kathy Liden, Charlene LaValley, Mary Engelstad, Lori Peterson, Sue Shumway, Darlene Eliason, Nancy Looker, Sue Peterson, Kari Warner, Sandy Foster, Kathi Myrobl, Lori Molstad, Laurie Bottem, Carol Watson, Patti Sampson, Cindy Kjensrud, Janet Peterson, Kristi Jorgenson, Susan Svean, Pam Bursud and LeAnn Gibson.

Also Roberta Reopelle, Kim Wold, Paula DeLap, Chris Irvine, Cindy Restad, Tammy Bucholz, Mary Johnson, Cindy Berard, Kathy Munt, Marsha Swanson, Cheryl Wassink, Beth Nichols, Pam Sinding, Gerry Liden, Brenda Laidley, Mary LeMoine, Marci Madunich, Kathy Hanson, Kim Joppru, Sue Ann Goddard, Val Wold and Jodi Bergland.

Also Shari Anniot, Lisa Noreen, Cindy Poissant, Patti Erickson, Tracy Rodahl, Michelle Stoltman, Linda Mattson, Cheri Idso, Mary Jo Helland, Marchelle Cuppett, Nancy Opdahl, Kari Kennitz, Carla Reed and Cheryl Hanson.

The adults who accompanied the 72 young women included Gail Bergland, director; Mike Lehrer, music consultant; Vernon Lee, manager; Bill Dee, event facilitator; Polly Reed, communications; and Sherryll Irvine, nurse. Other chaperones were Dorothy Wold, Gloria Lee, Darlene and Irv Swanson, Barb and Clayton Restad, Avis and Perry Olen, and Ardis and Ralph Foster.

With the sponsorship of the VFW and the support of the entire community, an excited group of girls, corps personnel and chaperones left Thief River Falls in two charter buses early in the morning on August 16, 1973, embarking on an adventure of a lifetime.

In addition to the regular duties of a chaperone, Polly Reed was responsible for keeping a written account of the trip. She also called KTRF radio each day, providing parents and an interested community with news of the trip.

Beginning with a description of a beautiful summer morning and the prayer offered by Reverend Paul Biegner before the travelers left on their journey, Polly's carefully written journal details the places, people and experiences encountered by the corps and its entourage as it made its way to New Orleans and back home again on August 26.

Because the girls had spent so much time together and knew each other so well, Polly compared them to bantering siblings.

She detailed the picturesque and often historic scenery along the route, sometimes in poetic form. Mention was made of the varying weather conditions, and the various schools and community centers where the group spent its nights were depicted.

While perusing the journal, one has to laugh when imaging the chaos as nine chaperones, three of them men, attempted to wash, dry, sort and fold the clothing of 86 people at a laundry.

Rain or shine, the girls took the opportunity to practice at every stop, often to the delight of the townsfolk who gathered to watch them.

The activities of the dedicated chaperones were noted also, as Polly described late-night costume and equipment preparations.

Finally, Polly's journal is filled with the many emotions experienced by the girls and adults before, during and after the competition and especially as members of the Thief River Falls community opened their arms to the tired but elated group as they returned home on August 26.

Polly Reed and her family moved to Thief River Falls in 1970. Of her involvement in the TRFinettes she says, "It was a great way to get to know people." Also, her daughter, Carla Reed Hruby, was among the corps' members.

Her narrative of the New Orleans trip was originally published on September 25, 1973 and a copy was given to each of the girls who made the trip.

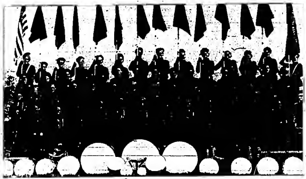
In December of 1998, Polly rewrote "The August of 1973" to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the TRFinettes' participation in a national competition and to raise funds for Pioneer Village, the only place, to Polly's knowledge, to give space to the history and activities of the TRFinettes.

A display case in the Inga Geving Museum at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village features photographs, trophies, uniforms and other memorobilia related to the drum and bugle corps of the 50's, 60's and 70's.

Copies of "The Summer of 1973" can be purchased for $3.50 at Pioneer Village or by contacting Polly Reed at (218) 681-4618. All proceeds from its sale will be given to the Pennington County Historical Society for the maintenance of Pioneer Village. Additional available memorobilia includes TRFinette postcards, emblems and decals.

Polly ended her original story with "Good luck, TRFies. You've earned it!" She was speaking to the future drum and bugle corps members who would never be as the TRFinettes dissolved only two years later in 1975. Lack of participation is said to be the reason for the dissolution as Thief River Falls' young women marched on to other interests.

Polly's nostalgic story is interesting reading for anyone and will especially bring back memories for those who participated in the TRFinettes drum and bugle corps as they tell their own children and grandchildren about their adventures. As Polly says, "They were great times!"



Dressed in green and black military-style uniforms, the TRFinettes used bright flags, rifles, drums and bugles as they performed in numerous parades and events. This 1973 drum and bugle corps traveled to New Orleans in August of 1973 where they participated in a national competition. Polly Reed, one of the group's chaperones, documented the event and published it, first in 1973 and again in 1978. Copies of the publication can be purchased from Reed or at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village. Proceeds from the sale of the booklet will be donated to the Pennington County Historical Society for the maintenance of the village where a display case in the Inga Geving Museum features the TRFinettes and Bridgeman Half Pints and Bridgettes.

SPEAKING OF . . .

...Ah, Yes, Gardening

I always admired the pretty gardens in town as I drove past houses on my way here and there, never realizing what work went into them. After trying to do a bit of gardening myself this year, I have now developed a great respect for those who produce those pretty gardens that I see.

How do they do it? I have planted two little patches of flowers, not counting the one little hole where a tree had been that wouldn't grow grass no matter what I did. I put some impatiens in the hole and guess what? The grass is now growing like crazy. My son said it was because I am watering it, but I don't think so – I think it is just being contrary.

It must take years for people to create those pretty gardens in town. After one year of it, I realize I can't do it all at one time. I bet I could spend the next 10 years at it and it still wouldn't look like those I've seen. I don't know if I can keep at it for 10 more years – I'm exhausted – but more about that later.

Anyway, I have two little patches and they seem to be taking up all of my time, and my patches don't look anything like the beautiful gardens I see around town, either. They look pretty puny in comparison, and – I have weeds – in fact, I believe I am cultivating weeds. I planted so many seeds that I am not sure if something is a weed or not, so I've just been letting some of them grow. Sooner or later I'll recognize a weed, won't I?

Speaking of planting a lot of different things – I did. I tried to keep one annual garden and decided to try to make a new little perennial bed. Never mind that the perennial one looks like a grave in my back yard – I figured if it grew I would enlarge it next year and make it less grave-shaped. Well, it's growing, so I plan to make it bigger.

I've been reading up on this perennial stuff, and I've decided to use some really handy things to fill out my addition. I'm keeping track of some nice "weeds" I've seen, like daisies and bluebells, and I'm going to go out and get some of those for my bed. My books also say to beg from friends and neighbors, so if anyone has some extra perennials they don't want, let me know. I could use them.

I tried to do everything right, the way the books said, and put little popsicle stick labels in where I planted, but now they seem to be lost in all the foliage, so I don't know what I am growing. Nothing looks like it did on the seed packets. Seed packets should show the size of things. Everything I have seems to have much smaller flowers than the packets showed. The only thing I recognize are the two poppies that have popped out this weekend (I was so excited to see them that it made my heart go pitter-pat).

Gardening is hard work – watering and feeding and trying to pull out the obvious weeds. One has to keep at it every day or the flowers don't grow. I thought gardening would be relaxing. It isn't. Fighting the heat and mosquitoes and other bugs is enough to tire anyone out, but especially me, since I'm not too fond of any of them. I don't care to perspire, either, and this gardening business seems to involve plenty of all of those things.

First of all, I go out to do a little gardening, planning to spend maybe 15 minutes or so at it and then get on with the rest of my work inside the house. Three hours later, I am still at it. I am perspiring in places I didn't know I could perspire and perspiration (or old-fashioned "sweat") is running down my face and into my eyes. My face is bright red, except for around my mouth, where it is white and scary-looking, my hands and most of the rest of me are dirty with real dirt that you can see, and I have mosquito bites all over. Last weekend I got bit on an ear and my forehead. My ear is still red and large and my forehead is swollen right down to my eye. Maybe it was a bee.

I finally quit and headed for the shower, exhausted, dirty and sweaty, of course. Why can't I spend just a little time gardening and quit when I get hot and tired and bitten up, then start again after I have rested? That seems to be impossible because, even if I just spend a short time gardening, I need a shower. If I ran back and forth in and out of the shower all day, I would turn into a prune. It seems like once I get gardening I have to keep it up until I'm done.

Another thing about gardening – it's mighty expensive. I don't dare add up how much I've spent on gardening things this year. And I tried to keep expenses down by starting seeds indoors instead of buying plants. Needless to say, I didn't get very many seedlings, being a novice at this stuff, so I had to buy more seeds to put into the ground. Then I had to buy plants to put in the gardens so they wouldn't look like nothing was planted there, and some potted plants to hang around so I'd be sure to have some flowers to look at.

Of course I had to get some decent potting soil and vermiculite when I was trying to plant my seeds indoors, and then top soil for the beds, and fertilizer, and then I needed tools to work the soil, a hose to water the seeds, some garden gloves so I wouldn't get blisters, and a little mat for my knees. I bought fencing to contain everything and then hung it up because I decided to let everything be unconfined and easier to mow around once it started to grow. Like I said, I don't even want to know how much I spent.

But now that I actually have a few flowers growing, I can see how this gardening stuff might be addictive. Even if it is exhausting, it was quite fun to have my heart go pitter-pat when the poppies popped. I think I'll try again next year – and plant lots of poppies.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

Nothing ruins my day like a call from a telemarketer.

I answer every phone call at home, full of hope that it is somebody I love, the governor asking for advice, or perhaps Publisher's Clearinghouse. But my hopes fade fast when the person on the other end massacres my name, which is quite a trick.

I correct their mispronunciation, and concede that they have reached the person for whom their are calling.

Unembarrassed by their slaughter of my name, they sweetly ask, "How are you doing today?"

The gall. Somebody who can't pronounce my name can't possibly give a hoot how I'm doing.

So, I tell them what they don't want to know.

"Well, the swelling's gone down a little," I say, trying my best to sound pitiful.

That throws them off. According to their script, I was supposed to say "I'm doing fine, thank you." Now, they don't know what to say. Many just hang up. Others say, "I will call you back at a more convenient time."

As if there is ever a convenient time to be pestered by a stranger who wants money.

Why isn't telemarketing illegal? Are phone salesmen defended by the Bill of Rights? Did the Supreme Court decide sometime back that telemarketers have a right to disrupt domestic tranquility at their whim?

I don't think so. The problem is, there is no organization defending the righ of law-abiding citizens to take uninterrupted naps.

To me, the right to spend an evening unadulterated by obnoxious intrusions is as precious as anything in the Constitution. Uninterrupted naps are essential to my pursuit of happiness.

But whenever some brave legislator proposes to ban telemarketers, telemarketing firms hire expensive lobbyists to get the bill stuffed in a dark hole somewhere. Nobody is there to defend the rights of nappers and others who don't want to answer phone calls from people selling things.

The phone company has services which screen out all calls but those coming from numbers you have approved ahead of time. But what if the local radio station needs to call to tell me that I am a big winner? What about Publisher's Clearinghouse? I don't want to cut out all surprises from my life.

Instead, I think somebody should publish the home phone numbers of the executives of companies who employ telemarketers. Then, a bunch of us could call those scoundrels during prime nap time and sweetly ask them how they are doing today.

PARENTING TIPS

Children, Fruits and Vegetables

This is the time of year when we have many fresh fruits and vegetables available to use. Unfortunately this season passes all too quickly in northern Minnesota. Not only are these fruits and vegetables good to eat and good for us physically, but this is also a perfect opportunity for learning!

The young child is naturally curious. He wants to learn first hand. By that we mean he wants to touch, taste, smell, look and listen. Whenever possible give your child the opportunity to examine foods before and after you cut them up and cook them. Let him or her be involved, within reason, in the whole process.

Your child can learn many science, math and language skills through food. Here are some possibilities:

Science

- Observation: at each step check color, feel, taste, smell.
- Note changes, similarities and differences.

Math

- More or less.
- Bigger or smaller.
- Counting.

Language

- Encourage your child's comments.
- Let him or her describe what they see, taste, etc.
- Help them develop language, to describe.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Name the different foods: zucchini squash, nectarine, cucumber, plum, etc. Talk about their colors, shapes and sizes.

Prairie Songbird Program July 18 at Rydell National Wildlife Refuge

What kind of people get up at 4:30 a.m. to battle mosquitoes and dew-laden, hip-high grass that can completely soak your pant legs in a matter of minutes? And WHY would they willingly do this? The answer: people with a passion for birds. Join Jill Dechant on Sunday, July 18th at Rydell National Wildlife Refuge to learn about research being conducted on impacts of habitat changes on grassland nesting birds in Polk County. More specifically, she is examining the effects that habitat fragmentation of prairie areas and features of the surrounding landscape have on the density and nesting success of grassland birds. Jill will share some preliminary observations from the research at 2 p.m. at the Rydell Refuge.

Jill Dechant is an ecologist with the United States Geological Survey (USGS), Northern Prairie Wildlife Research Center, in Jamestown, North Dakota. The three-year study is a collaborative effort among the USGS, the University of Minnesota in Crookston, and the State University of New York in Syracuse. Of the tallgrass prairie that was present at the time white people first arrived on the continent, only one percent remains today. Fragments of native prairie areas located in northwestern Minnesota were chosen for the study because of their high quality and uniqueness.

Jill will present slides of the prairie areas and the species of songbirds that she and a dedicated field crew of six people have been studying. Equipment and methods for finding and monitoring nests, banding songbirds, and counting birds will be demonstrated. The importance of prairie habitat to grassland birds such as Savannah Sparrows, Le Conte's Sparrows, Bobolinks, Sedge Wrens, Upland Sandpipers, and Greater Prairie-Chickens will be discussed.

The program promises to be very informative and a great opportunity to learn more about our valuable prairie landscape. All are welcome to come to this free program at 2 p.m., Sunday, July 18th at the Rydell Refuge Visitors Center. The Refuge is open on Sunday afternoons from 1 to 5 p.m. for visitors to hike the trails and look over the exhibits at the Visitors Center.

This is a joint program of the Maple Lake Improvement District, the Union Lake Sarah Improvement District, and Friends of the Rydell Refuge Association. To get to the Rydell Refuge go 3 miles east of Mentor or 3 miles west of Erskine on U.S. Highway 2 and turn south on Polk County 210. Follow 210 about 2.5 miles south to the large entrance sign and main gate of the Refuge. If arriving from the south, turn north off of Polk County 41 onto Polk County 210 and go about 3.5 miles north and turn left at the Refuge entrance sign. For more information call Wayne Goeken at 218-574-2622.

SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. I heard that the amount of money that a person on disability can earn has increased. Is this true?

A. Let's back up for a moment and state that whenever a person receiving disability benefits from Social Security returns to work, it is a requirement that they report this work to the Social Security Administration. Unlike retirement or survivor benefits, for those receiving Social Security disability there is not a given amount that can be earned during the year before checks must be adjusted.

Since receiving disability is a strong indicator that the person is unable to work, all earnings can be important. With that understanding, there is a dollar amount of gross earnings per month that the agency uses as a general guideline to help determine if earnings are of a substantial level. Effective July 1, that guideline did increase from $500 to $700 per month. While not a stand-alone figure, this amount is useful in determining if a person's employment over time indicates an ability to return to work despite an impairment after an interim trial work period.

For more information about returning to work while receiving Social Security disability call the national toll-free number at 1-800-772-1213 and request publication 05-10095, "Social Security - Working While Disabled, How We Can Help."

Q. I was eligible for Medicare Part B (Medical) some years ago but refused it and only have Part A (Hospital). Now my situation has changed, and I want to sign up for Part B. How do I do this?

A. Someone who does not sign up for the medical (Part B) portion of Medicare during his or her initial opportunity must wait for the annual general enrollment period, between January 1 and March 31 of each year.

Although you will sign up during that time, the insurance coverage does not begin until the following July. Also, your premium will be higher than it would have been had you had signed up when you were first eligible.

Stumpf reminds farmers to apply for farm rebate

State Sen. LeRoy Stumpf (DFL - Thief River Falls) reminded farmers to apply for the agriculture relief payment if they have not already done so. The Minnesota Department of Revenue began mailing agriculture property tax rebate checks on July 1.

The agriculture tax rebate is one part of the agricultural relief package passed by the 1999 Minnesota Legislature to help financially-strapped farmers. The tax relief package included $70 million in direct payments to farmers, which came from the state's budget surplus.

Rural legislators also won a permanent agricultural property tax cut worth $53 million to the state's farmers. While agricultural land owners will notice the lower tax rates later in the year, the purpose of Stumpf's announcement recently was to make sure area farmers are aware that this direct aid is available to them now.

"The Legislature passed the relief package in April, and the Department of Revenue began processing the rebate forms in late May," Stumpf said. "The individual checks are now being cut and sent out to farmers. This is direct relief for farmers who have been struggling lately. I know that the checks can't arrive soon enough."

Payments of up to $5,600 per farm are authorized, at a rate of $4 per acre. The payments are based on acres that a farmer has in production, whether the land is rented or owned. The state will be using information collected by the federal Farm Service Agency to verify acres in production.

Livestock producers operating on less than 160 acres may instead choose to receive a payment equal to their first-half property taxes, up to the $5,600 cap. Hobby farmers operating less than 40 acres are not eligible for the rebate.

"The rebate options are spelled out on the application forms," Stumpf noted. "Farmers must apply for the rebate by October 1st or the end of the year, depending on the relief option they choose."

"I urge farmers to apply for their rebates now," said Stumpf. "The rebate checks will certainly help some farmers with cash flow problems. It may seem like a drop in the bucket for those who are really struggling, but this help from the state will be just what some farm families need right now -- a shot in the arm."

Option A, the refund available for livestock farmers that operate on 160 acres, requires an AG-2 form. The application is due by December 31, 1999. Option B, the per-acre payment for crop farmers, requires a letter from the Farm Services Agency and is due by October 1, 1999.

All information is available from either the Department of Revenue, local county extension offices, county auditor offices and Farm Service Agency offices. The Department of Revenue can be contacted toll-free at 1-800-652-9094. Forms will also be available online at <http://www.taxes.state.mn.us>.

Stumpf also encouraged farmers who might have any questions to contact his office for assistance.

Post 117 faces busy season-ending schedule...

TRF Legion 1-2 at tournament

A pair of seven-run innings cost Thief River Falls a chance to play for the title in the Park Rapids Invitational American Legion baseball tournament over the weekend. Post 117 lost to New London-Spicer 12-6 and beat Park Rapids 7-4 Friday, then fell to Pine City 9-7 Saturday.

New London-Spicer came up with a seven-run second inning and led 10-1 before Thief River Falls rallied in the late stages of the first round match-up.

After falling behind host Park Rapids 4-0 in Round 2, Thief River Falls pitcher Joey Pribula threw five shutout innings, giving Post 117 an opportunity to put together a come-from-behind effort.

Against Pine City, Thief River Falls gave up seven first inning runs and couldn't make up the deficit, although a four-run seventh made it close.

"In the two games we lost, we gave up a bunch of runs in a couple of big innings," noted Thief River Falls coach Mike Wienen. "We had two bad innings in the tournament where our pitchers had trouble throwing strikes. They put guys on base, and the other team would come up with the key hit to drive them in."

Tournament results dropped Thief River Falls below .500 for the year at 12-13. The trip allowed Post 117 to face three opponents not appearing on the regular season schedule.

"Overall, we didn't play that bad," said Wienen. "Our defense was okay, and our pitchers, outside of the those two innings, did a pretty good job. But our hitting wasn't as good as it has been, which was kind of surprising because we've been hitting the ball real well lately."

A Monday Thief River Falls vs. Red Lake Falls doubleheader was scratched from the schedule upon the request of Red Lake Falls officials. Several Thief River Falls players will compete tonight (Wednesday) in the Tony Sipe League all-star game at Irv Wilson Field, then Post 117 will play six doubleheaders in a seven-day span to close out the regular season.

The stacked up twinbills will be played Thursday vs. Warroad, Friday at Ashby, Saturday vs. Perham, Monday vs. Crookston, Tuesday at Roseau, and Wednesday, July 21, at Warroad in a make-up from a July 2 postponement. Outside of the 12-noon outing against Perham, each doubleheader will feature a 5 p.m. start.

South District tournament, scheduled to be held at Roseau, will begin Wednesday, July 28.

Paul Cronk of Thief River Falls boated this trophy-size small mouth bass while fishing June 11 on Rainy Lake, about 20 miles east of International Falls. He caught it in five feet of water on a quarter-ounce chartreuse stringer jig tipped with a leech. He tied the anchor line on to the fish because he though it was too heavy for the steel stringer.

DNR NEWS

Grand Rapids Lake Infested

Minnesota Department of Natural Resources has confirmed the presence of Eurasian watermilfoil in Lake McKinney, a small recreation lake just north of Grand Rapids in Itasca County. This is the first time a lake in the area has been found to be infested with this harmful aquatic exotic plant. According to Wendy Crawell, DNR Eurasian Watermilfoil Program coordinator, it appears that the lake has been infested for some time.

"We surveyed the lake and found dense mats of milfoil in many areas of the lake, and around the entire shoreline," Crawell said. "It means that milfoil has probably been growing there for several years."

A survey of three other lakes near Lake McKinney found no evidence of milfoil.

DNR planned to treat the waterbody with an aquatic herbicide.

"It is unlikely that we will be able to completely eradicate milfoil from the lake," Crowell said. "However, we should be able to significantly reduce the abundance of milfoil in this lake, and reduce to potential for spread to other lakes in the area."

The public access will be marked with "infested waters" signs immediately. The DNR will begin stationing watercraft inspectors at the access to help ensure that boaters leaving the lake are not inadvertently transporting Eurasian watermilfoil.

Andrew Solem has taken on the role of closer for the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball pitching staff. The Post 117 starter at third base, Solem is used as a hard-throw late-inning relief pitcher by coach Mike Wienen. He is shown here working against East Grand Forks in the first game of a Wednesday doubleheader at Irv Wilson Field. Post 117 will host Warroad Thursday to begin a stretch of six doubleheaders in a seven-day span to close out the 1999 regular season schedule.

GREENBUSH RACE PARK

by Bob Thilgren

Greenbush Race Park entertained the Northern Late Model Racing Association and held its Mid-Season Championship Saturday.

The weather shaped into a beautiful night for racing, and with 79 cars in the pits, the fans were in for an exciting night. Only four caution flags flew the entire evening. Once again, track officials did an excellent job preparing the 3/8th mile oval for the evening action.

Fourteen Late Models made the trip to Greenbush for the special night of racing. They put on an exciting 25-lap main feature. Steve Anderson of Grand Forks, ND led the first five laps, but he was constantly pressured by the next five cars as he cruised the track at an average lap speed of just under 85 mph. Troy Schill of Grand Forks was running fourth when he dove to the inside of Turn 2, passed three cars, and went on to lead the next 20 laps and pick up the win. Tom Corcoran of East Grand Forks was second, with Dale Skytland of Edmore, ND third.

Three different drivers led the 20-lap Modified feature. Nolan Olmstead of Badger started on the poll and led the first three laps before Shannon Gust of Strathcona took the lead on Lap 4. Six laps later both Gust and Olmstead had trouble at the same time as a caution flag flew for a three-car pile-up elsewhere on the track. Gust went into the tire change area leading the race, but came back on the track in 12th place. Olmstead took his car directly to the trailer. With the two early front-runners out, Dale Holtan of Newfolden took the lead for the final 11 laps to win the Modified Mid-Season title. Ryan Corbett of Grand Forks, ND, who started 13th, would finish in second, with Greg Ferris of Emo, ON, in third.

Gordie Lancaster of Bemidji would race flag-to-flag for what appeared to be the victory in the Super Stock class. However, Lancaster would later be stripped of the win due to an unknown track violation. Dean Forst of Thief River Falls finished on Lancaster's back bumper to claim the win, with Bob Shafer of Bemidji in second and Darrin Foley of Reynolds, ND in third. Foley had an excellent run after starting in 13th place.

Super Sport feature provided some of the finest racing seen at the Greenbush Race Park this season. Dave Meyer of Thief River Falls led the first 12 of the 15-lap final before giving way to eventual winner Roger Fiola of Ste. Anne, MB. Fiola and Rod Peterson of Thief River Falls diced back and forth over 12 laps of action before Fiola hit pay dirt to pass not only Peterson, but also Meyer for the win. Meyer would finish a strong second, with Peterson third. The 16-car feature ran flag-to-flag, with a lot of good passing and wheel-to-wheel action.

Outlaw Streets had their best car count of the season for the Mid-Season title race. Jade Fredrickson of Drayton, ND would start on the outside of the front row and lead the 10-car race flag-to-flag for his second feature win of the season at the track. Division points leader Richard Jacobson of Wannaska was second, with Corey Omdahl of Salol finishing third.

After an unimpressive heat event, Rick Bates of Badger put the coal to the fire in the Mini-Sprints feature, winning the 15-lap event from outside the front row. Bates would be clocked at an average lap speed of just over 81 1/2 miles per hour to win the Mid-Season title. Robbie Peterson of Middle River started fifth and quickly moved into second, but was unable to close the gap on Bates. Corey Olson of Roseau had another impressive outing. Olson, who continues to improve week after week, raced his No. 2 car to a third place finish.

Greenbush Race Park will hold a regular night of action, featuring its five-class program, Friday, July 16, starting at 7 p.m. The full-service complex is located one-half mile north of Greenbush. For additional track information call 218-782-2295.

On the way to the location, the individual described was observed driving a vehicle, and was known by the officer, not to have a license. The officer stopped the vehicle and the subject got out of the car and was holding something in his hand. Allegedly, the subject would not drop what he was holding and later during a short struggle, swallowed what he was holding. After being booked at the law enforcement center, the subject was said to have told officers he had swallowed 20 to 25 ritalin pills, a schedule II controlled substance, which requires a prescription. The subject, identified by police as 21-year-old Juan Gabriel Barrios, St. Hilaire, was taken to Northwest Medical Center. He has been charged with controlled substance crime in the fifth degree.

He was in custody as of Friday, July 9, and had made an appearance in court.

On July 11 at 5:39 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a domestic incident. Upon investigation, Patricia Joy Dsowski, 44, Thief River Falls, was cited for fifth degree assault.

Margaret Grisanti, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1996 Chevrolet Blazer east, and Annette Joy Swanson, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1992 Oldsmobile van south on Pennington Avenue, when Grisanti entered the intersection and the vehicles collided. Grisanti observed a car in front of the Swanson vehicle turn into the parking lot and thought Swanson was going to do the same when she entered the intersection. Police estimated damages at $1,500 to the Grisanti vehicle, and $7,000 to the Swanson vehicle.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Old Mill State Park programs set for July 18

Old Mill State Park will hold three interpretive programs on Sunday, July 18, at the park.

Beginning at 10:30 a.m. on Sunday, July 18, at the beach parking lot, a wildflower walk will be held. During this excursion onto the prairie, view some of the flower species in bloom at this time of the year.

At 1:30 p.m. solargraphics, a children's activity, will be offered. Using natural objects, participants will create their own piece of art from shadows.

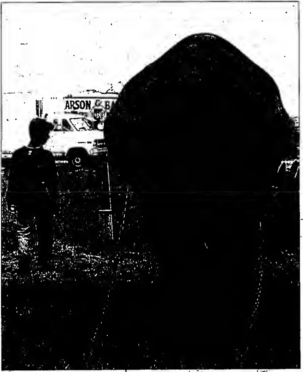
From 3 to 4 p.m. visitors will be able to find out what life was like around the turn of the century at the Larson Mill and Cabin. Participants will also learn about the steam-powered mill for which Old Mill State Park is named, and the park naturalist will be on hand to answer questions.

All programs are free and open to the public, however, a vehicle permit is required to enter the park. For more information call 218-437-8174.

Plans available for building "safe room" in homes

Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has plans available for people who would like to build a tornado "safe room" in their homes. Rooms are designed to provide protection against winds of up to 250 miles per hour and projectiles traveling at 100 miles an hour and to remain standing if the house is severely damaged.

For construction plans and a 25-page illustrated FEMA publication entitled "Taking Shelter from the Storm: Building a Safe Room Inside Your House is available by calling toll-free 1-888-565-3896. Internet users may access the FEMA website at www.fema.gov then click on "Mitigation" and "Tornado Safe Rooms."



A Carson and Barnes Circus employee directs an elephant to the big top which was being set up for performances at the fairgrounds in Thief River Falls on Thursday. The large number of elephants, camels, horses and other animals attracted quite a few spectators. The Carson and Barnes Circus is the largest traditional big top circus touring the nation today.

Health laws will impact lives of many in Minn.

Changes could benefit thousands

Thousands of Minnesotans will benefit from new health care laws set that took effect on July 1, according to the Minnesota Hospital and Healthcare Partnership (MHHP).

Among the initiatives that will take effect July 1 is funding for the Rural Hospital Improvement Grant program that will enhance the care provided by hospitals in rural Minnesota.

Rural Grants

MHHP's rural hospital improvement grant program was one of the first health care funding measures agreed to by legislators. Rising health care costs and decreases in federal government reimbursements have changed the way health care is delivered in rural Minnesota. Beginning July 1, $2.8 million will be available to rural hospitals for capital improvement programs, such as upgrading and remodeling of hospitals and for the purchase of new equipment. The legislature also moved to expand the number of hospitals eligible to receive up to $300,000 each in grants.

"This program allows hospitals in rural Minnesota to undertake remodeling projects that otherwise would not be possible — projects such as new emergency rooms and updated outpatient surgical centers," said Bruce Rueben, president, MHHP.

Hospitals in rural Minnesota, through the grant program, can bring their facilities up-to-date through new construction and the purchase of more advanced equipment, such as telemedicine technology that can link physicians in one community with patients in another.

Other Major Health Care Changes

Other major health care laws that take effect on July 1 include:

- Charity care aid — The House and Senate passed a provision that allows $10 million in charity care aid to hospitals that provide more than the average amount of uncompensated care. Hospitals throughout the state often provide health care services to people without insurance who lack the ability to pay.
- Medical Education Endowment Fund — In addition to $377 million from the one-time tobacco settlement for this endowment, the legislature appropriated $5 million for medical education beginning July 1. Up to 5 percent of the interest earned from the fund is to be appropriated for medical education activities in Minnesota.
- Job skills partnership program — The bill established a health care and human services worker training and retention program to alleviate worker shortages confronting certain areas of the state. It will provide grants ($1.5 million for the biennium) to health care facilities working alone or in consortium with colleges and universities. The program targets qualifying individuals for jobs in the health care sector.

"Minnesota's hospitals are vital partners in their communities and take pride in providing the highest quality health care. These new laws enable that partnership to flourish and grow for years to come," Rueben said.

Giving assistance to several of the participants in the media workshop conducted this week at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls is Instructor Kris Sorenson (center) of Minneapolis. The workshop on Vision vs. Technology attracted 22 educators from a number of schools in northwestern Minnesota. Among the participants were (from left) Betsy Theden, Sandy Flegsted, Roseau; Polly Peterson, Warren; Rebecca Ferr (back to camera), Greenbush/Middle River; Robert Johnson, Tri-County at Karlstad; and Mary Beth (Betsy) Humble-Theden, Fisher.

22 from area attend media arts workshop at Lincoln

A media arts workshop entitled Vision vs. Technology 1999 attracted 22 educators from throughout the area July 5-9 at the Lincoln high school media center in Thief River Falls.

Instructor for the program was Kris Sorenson of the Minnesota Media Project in Minneapolis. Funding was provided by the Perpich Center for Arts Education, the Arts Council of the Northwest Regional Commission and fees paid by the participants.

Organized and arranged by Alice Hofstad, media center director at Lincoln, the workshop was an outreach activity of the Northern Expressions School of the Arts—the magnet arts school at Lincoln—a partner school with the Perpich Center for Arts Education.

Kris Sorenson led the group in learning how to use the Adobe Photoshop computer software or digital imaging using digital cameras, scanners and color printers. With this introduction and direction, workshop participants worked on individual projects in the Lincoln media center. Some of the project work completed at the workshop will be on display later this month at the Thief River Falls public library.

Sorenson said the workshop here had attendance greater than at most of the greater Minnesota workshops she conducts and she complimented Mrs. Hofstad for her organization and arrangements.

Recruitment brochure for the workshop said it would "build participants' critical understanding of the image-making process, build visual literacy and digital imaging skills and vocabulary and increase practical knowledge of image-based software and hardware. "Participants will produce digitally manipulated artwork during the course and will learn practical art making exercises for classroom use," the brochure stated.

It didn't say the process would also be fun, but participants became so involved in what they could do that the six-hour days seemed for most to pass too quickly.

"Some of the people didn't take a lunch break and you had to practically tear them away from the computers and shove them out of the door at the end of the day," Hofstad said, adding that she wasn't complaining; it was a pleasant problem because of the interest shown. "We said we would be here until 9 p.m. Thursday (class sessions were 9 a.m.-12 noon and 1 to 4 p.m.), but that was it."

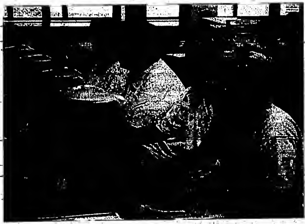
Participants and the schools where they teach included:

Marilyn Adams and David Peterson, Lincoln in Thief River Falls; Mary Almquist and Mary Follett, Franklin in Thief River Falls; Corrine Anderson, Dawn Bentley and Frankie Scolzo, Clearbrook; Debbie Aune and Rebecca Farr, Greenbush-Middle River; Pat Dunning, Marshall County Central at Newfolden; and Sandy Flagstad, Roseau;

Also Evelyn Glenn and Charlie Lindberg, Kittson Central; Debra Haugen, Grygla; Mary Beth (Betsy) Humble-Thaden, Fisher; Robert Johnson, Tri-County at Karlstad and moving to Brainerd; Vickie Kolden, Oklee; Barb Langer and Linda Simmons, East Grand Forks Sacred Heart; Polly Peterson, Warren; Mary Ellen Salveson, Win-E-Mac at Erskine; and Jackie Skaurud, Norman County East at Twin Valley.

Enthusiasm for the workshop was indicated by the fact that despite the distance involved for participant travel, all of them had perfect attendance for the five-days.

Instructor for the "Vision vs. Technology" media arts workshop conducted last week at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls was Kris Sorenson of the Minnesota Media Project. The workshop was funded in part by grants through the Perpich Center for Arts Education and Northwest Regional Development Commission's Arts Council.



Media workshop entitled "Vision vs. Technology: A Practical Course in Digital Photography and Design" was conducted last week at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls with 22 educators from throughout the area attending. Among the participants learning the use of computers for digitally manipulated artwork were (from left) Vickie Kolden, Oklee schools; Pat Dunning, Marshall County Central at Newfolden; Mary Follett and Mary Almquist, Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls. Some of the works created by the participants will be on display soon at the Thief River Falls public library.

When Is Wilderness Not A Wilderness? When The Wind Blows!

We used to hear quite a bit about the Boundary Waters Canoe Area (BWCA) and its designation and treatment as a "wilderness" area. There is a certain segment of the population which believes very strongly in the "wilderness" concept—that places should be set aside to allow nature to take its course without interference from humans. Mostly, these are areas quite a distance from where this certain segment of the population lives.

This certain segment of the population, often referred to as environmentalist, opposes the use of motorized devices as being intrusive in these designated "wilderness" areas but thinks it is OK if they and their friends and families paddle and walk and and climb and fish and cook and pitch their tents with hundreds, even thousands, of other like-minded and able-bodied paddlers, walkers, climbers, fishers, cooks and tent pitchers. This is "communing with nature," this is finding "solitude," this is the "wilderness experience."

These people like their "wilderness" raw. They want it pristine and unspoiled....except when they want access to use it for themselves. They will accept no compromise; a wilderness should test the basic instincts, abilities and physical capabilities and perseverance of real men and women. No motor driven assistance here. This is the last bastion for humans to face nature head on, mano en mano, come what may.

Until the wind blows.

Even the best of tents and/or sleeping bags offers little protection from a falling tree or a lightning strike or a high wind itself.

So last week when storms hit the "wilderness" of the BWCA and the wind did bad things to trees and people under and around them, the ban on motorized equipment became moot. Injured environmentalist type people were spotted by airplane and airlifted by helicopter rather than left to "rough it" and "experience nature" as victims as well as visitors.

This is humanitarian, of course. We don't, nor should we, abandon people who need help. We do as much as we can, as quickly as we can, in any practical way that we can to protect life and relieve suffering and repair injuries. Even environmentalist type people can understand and appreciate that effort, especially those who lost their battle with nature and needed help. It just makes good sense to react to an emergency and set aside the rules to accomplish what is practical.

On portages where environmentalist types battled to have motorized transport equipment banned, chainsaws were welcomed to clear the trails so people could get back to civilization; again, a practical breaking of the "wilderness" rules. Other than an early morning lawnmower, what makes a more irritating, intrusive noise than a chainsaw?

Practicality, however, seems to end along with the emergency. Millions of trees were said to have been toppled on thousands of acres in the BWCA. By any application of reason and common sense, every economically feasible effort should be made to salvage what will otherwise be a net loss of lumber. Don't bet that common sense will be allowed to prevail.

While standing and growing, the trees added to the scenery and serenity of the area. Now toppled and twisted, positioned to rot and decay on the ground or turn to tinder if suspended, they offer nothing but danger.

We have already read one statement from an official involved with the BWCA who indicated the trees would be left where they fell. After all, nature did it so it must be OK. Those fallen trees will dry over time and provide the fuel for future fires that will be impossible to control, further endangering the paddlers, walkers, climbers, fishers, cooks and tent pitchers who inhabit the area each summer.

How much better it would be if timber companies in the area would be allowed to harvest what they could of the downed timber rather than letting it go to waste and become a future fire hazard. How ironic it is that the environmentalist who cries over every newspaper that isn't recycled will fight to the death to keep loggers from salvaging BWCA trees.

Federal Tax Cut? Let's Pay Our Debts First

Advocating a big tax cut may be politically smart but doesn't seem to be too wise from an economic standpoint. Republicans and Democrats have been sparring lately in Washington about how big a cut is warranted. Republicans want to give up to $800 billion in cuts while President Clinton leans toward a $250 billion figure. We disagree with both champs.

While everyone agrees that taxes are high and it would be nice to have them reduced, the fact remains that our government has overspent its means and incurred debt which is extremely costly to the American people. Prudent people pay their debts to eliminate interest costs before they start giving their money away. Why do people lose sight of that fact when they are elected to government office?

It should also be kept in mind that the "surplus" which the Administration and Congress are talking about is speculative and long range. It is not at hand for immediate use. If and when it does actually materialize in a tangible way, it should be immediately applied to federal debt reduction in its entirety. And coupled with this resolve should not be a tax reduction but a freeze on increased spending.

Spend no more, eliminate federal debt and the tax problems will resolve themselves.

Thanks For Listening, Senator Grams

In response to a question asked by someone attending the meeting with Sen. Rod Grams in Thief River Falls Monday, we were trying to recall the last time a real, live U.S. Senator from Minnesota was in Thief River Falls for anything but a campaign stop. Perhaps the visit was less than memorable, but we couldn't come up with an answer.

At any rate, Monday's visit by Sen. Grams was appreciated. The meeting afforded the type of interchange that is common when political office holders meet with their constituents about major problems. The elected official listens politely and intently, affirms that the situation is understood, agrees that something has to be done, and assures the constituents that legislation is either being prepared or has been introduced that would deal with the problem. Then he or she thanks the public for its valuable input and goes back to his or her office knowing full well that he or she can't do a whole heck of a lot about making the problem go away.

We are sure that, if he could, Sen. Grams would change some laws and regulations that are burdensome and/or costly to farmers and those who want to get out of farming. And we are sure he is understanding of and sympathetic to the plight of farm families in this area who haven't had a decent crop in five years and poor prices for what little they could harvest. But from a practical standpoint, he probably doesn't have much more to offer than a sympathetic ear.

However little he can actually do, it was good of him to come to town and listen and to discuss the situation. The area thanks him for thinking about us.

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

Bud and Marie Steffen, Kaye Tamwalt, Joan Gehrls, Jane Kasprowicz, Tracy Folland, and Judy and Lois Kleinvachter motored to Steinbach, Manitoba on Saturday evening to celebrate Judy's birthday and enjoy a delicious meal.

Polly Stevenson of California returned home after spending three weeks with her sister Betsy Thompson, a trip she takes each summer. It's a great time for Isaac to chauffeur them around.

The weather in northwest Minnesota gave us a reprieve from rain for two whole days, but today they say more rain will be here this week. With county fairs going on, it makes for poor attendance and little fun. The wind that came along with the rain storms, surely made plenty clean-up work wherever it went - downed trees and branches up to 8 inches were broken off. It also gave many ladies the latest hair-dos, not too hard to do since it looks like they had just stuck their finger in a light socket or failed to comb it for a week.

I did get a laugh when I watched a crow trying to retrieve something out of a garbage can near the car wash, when the wind was in high gear. She hooked her claws on the edge and when she tried to pick it up the wind tipped her head first into the can. After a couple of failures, though she had used all the rules of an airline pilot, flaps down and tail down, she took a look at the dumpster and then "as the crow flies" took a direct course to her home.

The Strandquist Seniors met on Thursday at the center and Helen Jacobson served the lunch. They will meet again on the 15th and I hope to get there then. They have quilts and rugs that they are working on.

The folks from Strandquist surely did put on the best programs and parades that I have seen for a long time. Strandquist knows by now what it is like when you have to get in the car and drive several miles for a quart of milk. They now are trying to get sewers and storm drains put in, something they wished had been done many years ago, so they could have saved their town. We wish them all sorts of good luck in their endeavors. Small towns people should appreciate those who in years past and now are trying to serve them in various ways, and shop first at home. I find many things here at a better bargain than in larger places.

Hjalmor and Mertys Vig and Elsie Lefrooth were dinner guests of Louella Sjostrand on Sunday at Irene's Cafe.

Morris and Hazel Anderson and Jim and Christy Wetterlund took one of the "Tours on a Tankful" as advertised on the TV and had a great time over the weekend.

Case of County Eggs Ends Up At Camp Lejeune N.C.

"Pfc. Kenton Anderson, Thief River Falls soldier, stationed at Camp Lejeune, North Carolina, recently was surprised to notice in a case of eggs received at camp an egg candling slip filled out February 1 at the St. Hilaire Co-operative creamery. Anderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Thorstad of this city."

June Employment In City Is 2.2 Pct. Below Total For June 1948

"June employment in Thief River Falls failed to continue the upward trend that started last April, the local employment office revealed in its report for the past month. A better than 30 percent gain in construction was counteracted by a heavy drop in government employment, due to the closing of city schools for the summer.

"Employment in this area is now 2.2 percent less than a year ago. Construction employment is at its peak at the present time, but it is, however, considerably below last year's top level of 364 workers, employed in August. Construction employment was exceptionally high in 1948, because of extensive street and highway work."

Moderate Temperatures Prevail Here This Week

"Pleasant summer weather with moderate temperatures and with no rain prevailed in this locality during the past week. Maximum temperatures since Saturday ranged from 73 to 80, with minimums varying from 53 to 57. The spell of dry weather enabled farmers to get in the hay that had deteriorated during the preceding spell of rainy weather."

Soo Line To Put In Second Siding In Old Mill Yard

"The Soo Line plans to start work during the coming week on a major improvement project in Thief River Falls, it was announced today by E. A. Hamerski, division superintendent. The project consists of the construction of a second siding, approximately one-quarter of a mile in length, in the former mill yard to serve the new municipal water treatment plant now under construction, as well as new industries that may plan to locate here.

"The siding will cross Pennington avenue near the south end of the mill yard, and will proceed north and west to a point near the east end of the First street bridge."

SAWING LUMBER
In the Thief River Falls Lumber Company's Mill.

"Lumber is now being sawed in the Thief River Falls Lumber company's mill. One band saw and the band re-saw were started up Monday night and have been running day and night since. The band saw on the north side of the mill starts sawing today.

"The mill is a model one, and was constructed in a remarkably short time, a little over 60 days, after specifications drawn by D. J. Murray of Wausau, Wisconsin. The foundations are as substantial as rock, and the mill is equipped with all of the latest improved machinery, thus insuring the manufacture of lumber at the lowest possible price. It is an institution in which every citizen of Thief River Falls should take a pardonable pride. Giving employment to nearly 300 men, it will be the most prominent factor in the development of our city, and everyone should speak well of it when occasion requires.

"The building of the mill has been under the direct supervision of George W. Lake, and to him is due much credit. Earl M. Rogers, one of the brightest young lumber manufacturers in the state, will have charge of the mill this season."

Moe Reunion

Approximately 85 descendants of Anna and Soren Moe gathered at the Nazareth Church in Holt for an afternoon and evening of visiting and getting reacquainted. They were served a delicious supper by a circle of the Nazareth ELCW. A business meeting, choir rehearsal and games followed the meal.

On Sunday, worship services were held at the Salersdal Church. The prelude was a flute solo by Sean Owen of Columbus, Ohio. Eileen Larson Johnson of Issaqua, WA, led the service. Organist and pianist was Randy Moe and Karen Dalager directed the choir. Everett and Arlette Kampellen sang a vocal duet and an original poem "Reflections at Salersdal" was read by Jeanie Rasmussen of Lake Park. There were scripture readings and hymns by the audience throughout the service. An inspirational message was brought by Rev. Bruce Dalager of Grand Forks. The benediction was read in unison and the closing hymn was "On Our Way Rejoicing." Iona Tuure and Orville Larson served as ushers. The noon meal, at the Best Western, was served poolside. Registered guests were from Washington, California, Ohio, North Dakota, Iowa, North Carolina, Georgia and Minnesota.

Ruth Hanson and Jean Maldment visited with Hulda Stock at Valley Home on Wednesday.

Carmen and Larry Gustafson joined other family members at a get-together at the John Gustafson home on Sunday afternoon.

Bernice Trochmann, Myrtle Solberg and Ida Rupprecht were Sunday afternoon visitors at the home of Helen Sorenson.

Alicia Bakken visited on Friday evening with her grandparents, Ruth and Lowell Hanson.

Harvey and Karen Meehl of Royalton, Barbara Champ of Riverdale, GA, Kim Champ and daughter Misty of Minneapolis, Linda and Todd Meehl and Savannah, Nichole, Amanda and John, and Carmen Britz of Buckman, Duane Sheets of Bemidji, and Jerome and Shirley Kvidt of Grand Forks, were here for the weekend to visit Doris Kaushagen and to attend the reception on Saturday for Bill and Kristi Kaushagen at the Joan and Dean Kaushagen home.

Russell and Cheryll Hince hosted a birthday dinner party in honor of Michelle on Sunday with guests Michelle and Lonnie Longton and Kevin and Ashley, Dean and Joy Torkelson and Amanda and Allison, all of Plummer, Mrs. Lillian Hince, and Shawn Hince, to help Michelle celebrate her birthday. "Happy Birthday, Michelle!"

Fred and Dolores Berberich were among those who visited Mrs. Nellie Perreault to wish her "Happy Birthday" on Saturday.

On Thursday Mrs. Pearl Laniel accompanied Mrs. Ella Mae Desrosiers of Red Lake Falls and were dinner guests at the Golden Link Senior Center in Crookston and visited with Mrs. Dolores Myerchin. Afterwards they toured the homestead of Ella Mae's grandparents. Sad to say there was nothing but a grain field with a few trees where she was born and grew up. The buildings were still there and someone was living there. Where I was born there wasn't even a tree, but also grain fields as a lot of other farms when we lived in the area of Russia Township. Nothing showed where the school was that I attended at Greenview. There was a farm where I lived in the early 1930's - did have a nice new home and buildings, yard well kept up - that really made me feel better. Then we drove back to Crookston and visited where our grandparents lived on Washington Avenue. I had a lot of good memories there and also the home was well kept up, as there are a lot of nice residences built along all of Washington Avenue. When I was a child there, there were a lot of weeds and open spaces and then I also saw the steeple of St. Ann's Catholic Church behind Happy Joe's along Highway 2 East. I was baptized and made my First Communion and was Confirmed at St. Ann's Church - and now it's all gone also - what a change life is. On the way home we had dinner at Ella Mae's, which her daughter Mary had prepared in Red Lake Falls.

On Wednesday morning coffee and rolls were served in honor of Father Richards as a farewell. It was to be his last service here at St. Joseph's Church in Brooks for the time being.

Harvey and Mary Riendeau received news that their niece, Mrs. Janice Logan of Las Vegas, NV passed away. She was the daughter of the late Ralph and Mrs. Albina Grandbois of Milwaukee, WI.

Darby and Denise Zentner were Friday to Sunday guests of her parents Darryl and Dolores Grimm and attended her 10th class reunion of the Oklee school.

Art and Gloria Fossum returned home on Tuesday from a visit to Sheridan WY where they visited with son Jim and Chris Fossum and family. Joining them were Rich and Nancy Fossum and family of Chippewa Falls, WI, Mike Fossum and daughter Erin of Portland, OR, and Robert and Nancy Fossum and family of Pocatello, ID. How nice to have the whole family together for the July 4th holiday.

Dinner guests of Wednesday of Art and Avis Frolland were nieces Dolores and Bill Tannahill of Las Cruces, NM, and Margie Miner of Grand Forks. Another niece, Idella Samuelson of Thief River Falls, came in the afternoon to visit with the cousins.

In covering the celebration in Strandquist last Saturday, I missed what to me was one of the best parts - that of the singing and playing by Reuben Haugen of Newfolden. Perhaps that was the song "All Worn Out," and it was really meant for old timers. His name wasn't on the list that I was given and I thought he was one of those named until I received a note this week from a friend in Newfolden who noted the omission. Thanks for the letter as I wasn't the only one who enjoyed Mr. Haugen and those songs.

Loni Sarkalotic and Minerva Kraulik of Virginia and David, Phoela and Karen Thompson visited Peter and Pearl Thompson on Monday afternoon and also with Becky, Michelle and Jake Johnson.

On Sunday, LaVerne and Bev Rasmussen of Frazee visited Isaac and Betsy Thompson and the Roy Vagles home. They had been on their farm north of Strandquist to see about a grain bin that was destroyed in last week's storm. Imagine their surprise when they discovered the big quonset had taken a trip and was in a field a mile away. Funny but those who had been there before hadn't noticed that it was missing!

On Thursday evening the W.M.s met at Betsy Thompson's home for a meeting and dinner. Those who enjoyed her hospitality were Lois Freeman, Coleen Pandleton, Pearl Thompson, Cathy Thompson, Elsie Lofrooth and Myrtle Vagle.

Tuesday evening, Greg and Austin Lofrooth came to visit and show Grandma Elsie that Austin could walk by himself. You better get a gate for the basement stairs now, once they get on their feet, they are too fast for you to catch him.

Elmer Helmstrom and Evelyn Albaugh visited Judy Kleinvachter this week.

Danny and Marlys and grandson Austin had dinner at Elsie's on Wednesday and Denny returned to Winnipeg Thursday morning.

Pearl Thompson, Becky and Jeremy Johnson visited Elsie Lofrooth on Wednesday.

Roy has been on the go since before six this morning and I thought he was going to rest for a while, and what do you know, he's up watering the houseplants.

Sara Donaldson was here with the news about her birthday party that had been forgotten last week. She had celebrated together with her cousin, Ethan.

TRF Arts Council presents The King & I August 3-7

Thief River Falls Community Arts Council will present Rodgers and Hammerstein's classic musical "The King & I" on August 3-7 at 7 p.m. and August 8 at 2 p.m. at the Northland Community and Technical College Theater in Thief River Falls. Tickets at $7.50 each may be purchased at Budget ahead of time or one hour prior to the show each night at the college theater's box office.

"The King & I" is based on Margaret Langdon's book "Anna and the King of Siam" which was based on the writings of Anna Leonowens. Langdon's book had earlier inspired the non-musical version of "Anna and the King of Siam" which starred Irene Dunne and Rex Harrison. This story has also inspired a recently released animated version. A dramatic version with Jodie Foster is scheduled for release this fall. The musical tells the story of a 28-year-old English schoolteacher, Anna Leonowens, who comes to Siam with her young son to teach English to the children of the King of Siam. The King is struggling to bring Siam into the new century and, in so doing, is facing his own internal struggles with the teachings of his upbringing and that of the new world. The struggles between Anna and the King center around the clash of their cultures and a struggle for power by both characters. In the end, Anna realized that the King was truly a man who tried to be a good and admirable King and that their friendship is enduring—even after death.

Portraying the King in this production is Al Rogalla, Dennie Barrett plays Anna Leonowens, Jane Anderson portrays Lady Thiang, Wayne Ruhlf plays the Kralahome, Joanna Swantek is Tuptim, David Christensen is Lun Tha, Ben Carlson plays Louis Leonowens, Prince Chululongkorn is portrayed by Peter Hoks, Capt. Orton is played by Val Heffner, Dane Jensen is the Interpreter Phra Alack, Jessica Rider is Princess Ying Yaowalak, Sir Edward Ramsey is played by Philip Hoks, and the wives are played by Jan Petersen, Karen Jensen, Connie Morris, Laura Schmitz, Heather Vedbraaten, and Lori Ann Wolseth; the dancers are played by Edie Brandli, Brenda Hansen, Lynne Hanson, Sarah Kopecky and Amanda Noreen; Lani Haymond, Kay Steiger, and Sarah Willis are the Amazon guards; the child princes are portrayed by Keaton Joppru, Dane Jensen, and Tyson Panek; the child princesses are played by Traci Adamson, Mallory Asp, Chesnay Dobias, Kyle Genereux, Bethany Geske, Mauri Gonsorowski, Ellen Heschke, Laura Heschke, Rachael Johnson, Lindsay Johnson, Michelle Noreen, Brittani Panek, Samantha Rader, Alyssa Rogalla, Lauren Rogalla, Bailey Sorvig, Maddy Sorvig, Cassandra Teie, Corey Thorstad, Kelly Thorstad, and Melissa Zimmer; and the priests are played by David Christensen and Philip Hoks.

The artistic director for "The King and I" is Heidi Hoks. Diane Johnson is directing the orchestra and the vocalists with Catherine Hagen as accompanist; Laurie K. Hinn serves as technical director and Kay Teeters-Asp is both costumer and choreographer.

Summary judgment requested in Ditch 83 suit against DNR

Faced with a lawsuit scheduled for trial on or about September 22, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has filed a request for an order of summary judgment with the Ninth District Court in Thief River Falls. Hearing on that request has been set for July 30 in the district courtroom here.

Red Lake Watershed District filed suit against the DNR February 11, 1999, in Ninth District Court in Thief River Falls. In dispute is responsibility for payment by the DNR for a share of the cost of cleaning State Ditch 83, known generally as the Thief River, northeast of Thief River Falls.

At issue is application of state laws which appear to be at cross purposes. The watershed district claims rights to determine benefits and assess costs under state drainage law which grants these rights.

Minnesota DNR has claimed it is not obligated to pay an assessed share of the project costs under other law which grants the Commissioner of Natural Resources the right to authorize assessment on the state's consolidated conservation (con-con) lands.

State Ditch 83 was created by court order of Judge Andrew Grindeland dated May 24, 1910, at the request of petitioners. Its cost was estimated to be $125,000 and the benefits to be $174,595. The order showed 81,521.91 acres to be benefited by the project.

On March 16, 1976, Judge Warren Saetre issued an order transferring management of State Ditch 83 from the previous ditch authority to the Red Lake Watershed District.

On October 9, 1986, the board of managers of the Red Lake Watershed District accepted the viewers' report which redetermined benefits in the State Ditch 83 drainage system. The order noted that the acreage directly benefited is 37,988.72 acres and the total benefits $671,248.35.

Determination was also made by the viewers and the board that a number of county and judicial ditches drain into State Ditch 83 and derive benefit therefrom. Total acres benefited on these county and judicial ditches was placed at 570,752 acres, of which 280,853 acres are state and federal lands.

Listed as ditches benefiting from State Ditch 83 were county ditches 28, 2, 33, 46 and 20 and Judicial Ditches 23, 12, 34, 11 and 21. Total benefits for this area were placed at $2,021,594.35.

Red Lake Watershed District accepted a petition for repair of State Ditch 83 on June 11, 1997. The petition requested removal of trees, silt and debris from the ditch and up over the top of the spoil, cutting of the bottom back down to the original grade and sloping the sides of the ditch to a 4-1 grade on about 14 miles of channel from Section 34 of Excel township to Section 16 of East Valley township, all in Marshall county.

The petition met with opposition from some landowners in the area and others who objected to changing the nature of a channel which, over nearly 90 years, had reverted to the appearance of a river. Other opponents of the cleaning project expressed concern of increased danger of downstream flooding.

Over the winter of 1997-98, a contractor hired by the watershed district conducted spot clearing and snagging to remove trees and snags from the channel and leaning trees from the channel banks. The work was done at selected locations along the channel.

According to records in the Red Lake Watershed District office, project expenditures to date total

High scoring bull riders registered to ride here this week

Fifteen of the top 50 bull riders in the Professional Bull Riders Association (PBR) are scheduled to ride at Thunder on Hooves during the Pennington County Fair Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m.

Heading the list is third place rider Gilbert Carrillo of Stephenville, TX, who has PBR winnings through July 15 of $79,363, less than $3,000 behind second place rider Terry Don West. Running away with the event this year is Cody Hart who has already earned $184,677.

Also riding here will be Gilbert's twin brother Adam, who has jumped into 10th place in the standings with earnings of $48,432.

Among other riders registered to compete here and their PBR placing as of July 15 are Jaron Nunnamaker, Fortuna, CA, 11; Jesse Schellhamer, Ford, KS, 14; Cody Custer, Wickenburgh, AZ, 15; Donald Owens, Choctaw, OK, 20; Tater Porter, Kenansville, FL, 24; and Royd Doyal, Pittsburg, TX, 29.

Also Clint Green, Richton, MS, 40; Aaron Semas, Auburn, CA, 41; Brock Mortensen, Mackay, ID, 42; Jim Sharp, Stephenville, TX, 44; Barry Gullo Jr., Oklahoma City, OK, 47; and Paeen Thygerson, Duncan, AZ, 50.

There are 40 different riders scheduled each night of Thunder on Hooves with the top eight each night making a second ride. The popular kids' mutton bustin' will also be a part of the entertainment.

Steve Tomac of St. Anthony, ND, will be barrelman for the Thunder on Hooves bull ride at the Pennington County Fair Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m. In his spare time, when not ranching or clowning, Tomac is a North Dakota State Senator. He says the objective in all cases is to "stay ahead of the bull."

Timing is everything for barrelman Steve Tomac

Steve Tomac of St. Anthony, ND, doesn't take his barrelman role at bull rides any less seriously than he does one of his other jobs—that of being a North Dakota State Senator. He just seems to have a lot more fun in the rodeo arena than the political arena.

"The objective in both is to keep ahead of the bull," he said of his senate and barrelman jobs. "And the timing I use as a clown has helped me in politics, because timing is everything."

Tomac will be in the barrel and entertain during chute changes at the Thunder on Hooves bull ride Friday and Saturday at 7 p.m. at the Pennington County Fair. The Professional Bull Riders Association (PBR)-sanctioned event will draw some of the top riders to compete for a share of the total purse of nearly $40,000.

Now 45 years of age, Senator Steve is the second oldest of Bob and Betty Tomac's 18 children—nine boys and nine girls. He grew up on a ranch in North Dakota, although the address was Watauga, SD, the nearest town. In the Sioux language, watauga means muddy water.

"The first thing I wanted when I went to college was my own pair of blue jeans," he said. "I had such a quest for independence. Needless to say, our supper table was a riot."

Steve graduated from North Dakota State University in Fargo in 1976 with a bachelor's degree in agricultural economics and communications. He went to work for the Bank of North Dakota, then became vice president of another bank.

Later he was named director of marketing for the North Dakota Department of Agriculture. In 1982 he was named executive director of the North Dakota Wheat Growers Association—the same year he bought a 1,500-acre farm and ranch just southwest of Bismarck, ND, where he grows wheat and runs cattle. He also runs an agricultural consulting and ranch appraisal business.

"I function by crisis and get it all done," he said.

Expansion plans made for River Road Casino

Seeking to bridge the gap between the Red lake band and residents of Pennington county, representatives of the Red Lake tribal board discussed expansion plans for the River Road Casino during a meeting Monday with the Pennington County Board of Commissioners and the Thief River Falls City Council.

Red Lake band of Chippewa operate the Red River Casino located about seven miles south of Thief River Falls. About six years ago, the band proposed locating the casino in Thief River Falls at what was then the former Red Owl building. Public opposition pretty much defeated that proposition. Shortly after that, the band discovered that it had about 7.8 acres of trust land south of Thief River Falls (the current site of the casino).

Since its beginning, the casino has provided a gradual increase in revenue. Bobby Whitefeather, chairman of the band, said that it has been a goal as a Nation, to make the band self-sustaining so that members do not have to worry about jobs, food or shelter. Whitefeather said gaming is not the cure-all, but hopefully it will generate a revenue stream to address the problems.

Currently, the band is in a position to expand the casino. Whitefeather said the tribal board agrees that they are going to do something, but not to what degree. They are taking a very careful and deliberate look at expansion plans. The plans could include expanded food service, lodging, a race track, a water park, and possibly a golf course. Whitefeather said there are

Road in front of Challenger to be paved

County State Aid 8 (located in front of Challenger school) is expected to be paved this summer.

Pennington County Board of Commissioners awarded the contract for paving the entire stretch of road from Pennington Avenue (County road 17) to Highway 59 to Northern Paving of Crookston. With a bid of $198,593, Northern Paving submitted the lowest of four bids on the project. The bid also came under the engineer's estimate of $260,238.50. The project is being financed with the use of county state aid construction funds.

Bid specifications call for the project to be completed before school starts.

Low-interest sustainable ag loans available

With more and more farmers looking for ways to increase their profitability, the Minnesota Department of Agriculture has announced the availability of low-interest loans that can be used for processing equipment for value-added agricultural products.

Loan funds are available for purchases and projects that help make Minnesota farms more economically, environmentally and socially sustainable. Individual farmers are eligible for loans of up to $15,000 with a 6 percent interest rate. Joint projects, involving several farmers, are eligible for loans of up to $75,000, with a $15,000 limit for each participant.

Ag Commissioner Gene Hugoson praised the loan program and its borrowers. By participating in the pragram, he said, farmers are helping themselves and the environment.

"This program helps scores of Minnesota farmers improve their profitability through the application of innovative sustainable practices," Commissioner Hugoson said. "With more than $2.5 million loans to 250 farmers since the program begun, the payback record is outstanding. This shows me that these are true success stories, and farmers can meet both their economic and environmental goals at the same time."

Eligible purchase may include innovative items such as value-added processing equipment, production items such as hoop houses, fencing for rotational grazing systems, or equipment for alternative weed and soil management.

The loan program is accepting applications until September 1, 1999. A technical review panel will evaluate the applications based on potential to increase farm profitability and benefits to the environment.

For an application or additional information call Wayne Monsen, Loan and Grant Coordinator at 651-282-2261, or write: Sustainable Agriculture Program, Minnesota Department of Agriculture, 90 West Plato Boulevard, St. Paul, MN 55107, or e-mail Wayne.Monsen@state.mn.us.

Once again, 4-Hers will shine at the Pennington Co. Fair

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

If things are a bit hectic in the Helgeland household these days, it's only because it's county fair time.

Eighteen-year-old Bryanna Helgeland and her 15-year-old sister, Chelsey, are busy preparing for entry day, and chaos in anticipation of the Pennington County Fair is a long-standing family tradition.

Bryanna and Chelsey are members of the Smiley 4-H Club. The girls' older sisters, Lesley and Jocelyn, were members of the club as was their dad, Bud. Their mom, Linda, grew up with 4-H, too, as a member of the Silverton club.

The history of 4-H clubs in America goes back to the late 1800's when educators in several states developed programs to teach useful skills to farm children.

In 1896, a naturalist at Cornell University began to publish informational leaflets to be used by country schools in forming nature clubs. In the early 1900's, corn, canning and poultry clubs in several southern and midwestern states stressed learning by doing.

It was a school superintendent in Ohio who began one of the first organizations similar to today's local 4-H clubs. Meetings were held regularly, and members worked on projects dealing with corn, flowers and soil testing.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture encouraged the formation of such clubs in states across the country, and southern land-grant colleges joined the department in sponsoring the clubs.

In 1914, the Smith-Lever Act established the Cooperative Extension Service. The act also granted federal funds to states to organize boys' and girls' agricultural clubs, and each state soon set up a club department. Gradually, boys and girls began joining the same clubs as they do today.

In the early 1920's, agricultural clubs throughout the United States adopted the 4-H Club name and emblem, a clover with four white H's on its leaves, that had been used in Iowa since about 1910.

Today, nations around the world have 4-H clubs or other similar organizations, and while some have not adopted all parts of the program, all join in helping young people develop useful skills and become productive citizens.

With funds contributed by federal, state and county governments, county extension service agents organize 4-H programs across the country and provide leader training. The Department of Agriculture and state universities provide educational materials to club members and help organize state and national 4-H events.

Established in 1976, the National 4-H Council supports the organization's work on a nationwide basis. The non-profit council is supported by the contributions of corporations, foundation and individuals and helps to arrange activities and events, operates public information services and develops educational materials including project handbooks and leaders' guides.

Although much about the 4-H program remains constant, there have been changes throughout the years to accommodate changing demographics. Today, only a small percentage of 4-H members actually live on farms with the remainder living in cities, towns, suburbs and rural areas.

Linda Helgeland is Smiley 4-H Club's key leader, and Sharon Larson is the club's assistant leader. When discussing the projects available for today's 4-H youth, Linda says, "It's not just cows and cookin' anymore." In fact, if a youth's area of interest doesn't fit into to one of the organization's numerous project categories, the youngster can pursue the subject as a "self-determined" project.

Membership criteria has changed also. Until they are eligible to become 4-H members at the age of nine, children from kindergarten age may participate in the Cloverbud program. Membership is also now available to youth for one year after graduating from high school.

Like most 4-H clubs, the Smiley club meets once a month. With about 20 members, the club meets at the Smiley hall during the warm months and in town during the winter.

Bryanna and Chelsey Helgeland have been attending 4-H meetings for as long as they can remember, accompanying their older sisters and mom before they were old enough to be members themselves.

Bryanna's projects this year include Florida white rabbits, cats, home landscaping and youth leadership. She graduated from Lincoln High School last month and plans to attend Northland Community and Technical College this fall. At Lincoln, she was active in the school's concert choir, and she enjoys playing softball. Bryanna currently serves as Smiley 4-H Club's president and is the reporter for Leaders Council.

Chelsey will be a freshman at Lincoln this fall and participates in choir, volleyball, basketball and track. Her current 4-H projects include English angora rabbits, horseless, youth leadership and clothing in both the constructed and purchased garment categories. She is presently the Smiley club's reporter.

Bryanna and Chelsey are two of about 250 Pennington county 4-H members from 10 clubs who are hustling to get their projects ready for this week's fair.

On Monday, Chelsey was almost done with her projects, but her sister still had a lot to do, and the girls' mom thinks that Bryanna's procrastination might have something to do with the fact that Smiley club members have already won trips to the state fair, having won the Share the Fun competition earlier this year.

In actuality, Bryanna might just be one of those who does her best work when she's under pressure.

Many of us can remember the excitement of going down to the wire with projects as we prepared for the county fair, the relief when making the entry deadline and the anticipation of the judges' decisions.

Although they have evolved through the years, worthwhile and interesting 4-H projects are a mainstay of the county fair and remain as constant as the organization's emblem.

The white clover with H's on its four leaves is still displayed on a green field with the H's representing heads, hearts, hands and health, and 4-H members continue to pledge their heads to clearer thinking, hearts to greater loyalty, hands to larger service and health to better living for the club, community, country and world.

This Florida White rabbit is among the 4-H projects Bryanna Helgeland is busy preparing for this week's Pennington County Fair. Her other projects include a cat, home landscaping and youth leadership. Bryanna is currently the president of the Smiley 4-H Club.

As her mom, Linda, looks on, Chelsey Helgeland adds some finishing stitches to the jacketed dress she made for her constructed garment project for the Pennington County Fair. Chelsey is a member of the Smiley 4-H Club, and Linda is one of the club's leaders. Chelsey will also have purchased garment, rabbit, horseless and youth leadership projects at this week's fair.

This flower bed and sign are new additions to the west side of the Pennington county fairgrounds this year. Trees were planted in 1990 to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the Smiley 4-H Club, and as its Community Pride project this year, the club added the flower bed and sign. The Smiley 4-H Club was established in 1940 and is one of 10 4-H clubs in Pennington county.

LSS expands respite program to include Pennington county

Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota will use grant funds it has been awarded to expand its Respite and Caregiver Support program to include Pennington county.

The grant is from federal funds through the Older American Act, administered by the Minnesota Board on Aging, Northwest Area Agency on Aging in Region 1.

For several years the program has been serving families in Polk, Norman and Marshall counties. Services are provided to families who care for loved ones who are chronically ill, frail, elderly or disabled.

Through the program, volunteer respite care services provide short term relief for caregivers while they take a break. Non-medical, in-home services are available for persons age 60 and older in their homes with the role of the volunteer to act as a friendly visitor, making sure that everything remains safe and secure while the caregiver is absent.

The best caregivers are healthy caregivers, and many times individuals don't realize that they are worn out from caring for others, ignoring their own well-being. Respite care provides caregivers with the opportunity to relax, spend time with friends or participate in an activity. The person who receives respite care can also benefit from seeing and being around others while the caregiver takes a break.

A discussion group will also be available to Pennington county caregivers with speakers providing education and support. All caregivers are welcome to attend an organizational meeting for the discussion group which will be held on Tuesday, August 17 at 10 a.m. at Trinity Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls.

Currently, efforts are being made to identify caregivers in need of assistance and recruit volunteers to provide respite care. Referrals from public and private agencies, churches and the general public are vital to the success of the program.

Tara Giese, LSS respite care coordinator is available to speak to any interested groups, individuals or congregations about the Respite and Caregiver Support program. To make a referral or for more information, call 1-800-317-4845.

This workshop is being offered to area men and women who are experiencing such transitions in their lives. The topics and activities will help clarify the change going on, the choices one might make, and some of the options available.

The program includes: "Choices for Change - What Holds Us Back?", "What's My Style - Myers Briggs Instrument", "Lighten Up with Lena - Value of Humor in Our Lives", "Creative Job Search", and "Checking Out Options". Various individuals and agencies will serve as presenters, including University of Minnesota Extension Service, Rural Life Outreach, Minnesota Workforce Center, Northland Community and Technical College, and the University of Minnesota, Crookston.

First day's sessions will be held at the C'Mon Inn, Thief River Falls; the second day will be at Northland Community and Technical Colleges. Deer Park Garden club met July 13

Deer Park Garden club's annual tour on July 13 began at the hillside farm home of Evelyn Myrum, rural Clearbrook, where tall spruce trees provided a beautiful backdrop for Evelyn's floral border beds.

From there the group traveled to the rural Bagley retreat of Curtis and Jane Ronnings. The Ronnings had saved materials from the past and gave them new life in the 13 flower beds that filled a large portion of their lawn. Club members enjoyed coffee and a snack from the Ronnings' veranda.

Walker Brook Valley provided a view of Kenneth and Ruth Foldoe's rural Shevlin home where the flower gardens were complemented by a pond and waterfall.

The last stop for club members was "Farm by the Lake," a spiritual, family and environmental center, and the gardeners visited the log cabin call "Chicken House Retreat."

Following the tour, club members returned to the Myrum home where a late afternoon luncheon was served.

The next meeting of the Deer Park Garden club will be held at 7 p.m. on August 10 at the rural Goodridge home of Henry and Deloris Bendickson.

Toy Storage

It is hard to know just how many games, puzzles, crayons, blocks, dolls and other toys a child manages to play with in a day. But one thing you can be sure of is that someone has to pick up those toys, over and over and over again! Wouldn't it be nice if your children picked up their own toys? After all it would teach them so much about responsibility and independence plus saving us a lot of time. So the question is: how can we encourage children to pick up their toys? One way is to make sure that toy storage is convenient for them.

Rather than using one large toy box, where everything is all mixed up and thrown together, use small containers so that similar things can be stored together. This method not only teaches children about organization, but actually makes the toys more inviting to play with. Inexpensive containers to use include ice cream pails, rubber dishpans, coffee cans or sturdy cardboard boxes. You could even glue a picture on each to show the child what goes inside.

Other good storage includes baskets, lower dresser drawers and sturdy shelves at the bottom of a closet or bookcase. Choose storage places your child can reach if you want them to use the places. Remember children will not become responsible and pick up their toys just because you have good storage. But good storage, help and encouragement from parents will do a lot to promote responsible children.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Help your child learn about sorting and position words as you pick up toys together. For example, say, "put the cars in the bucket," "put the blocks on the shelf," etc.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

Nobody cares, but statistics released recently confirm that traffic fatalities in Minnesota have gone way up since the speed limit was raised on freeways and many other roads.

It is clear that higher speeds kill. Nobody has successfully proven otherwise. But, because you can't pin the blame for any one accident on the higher speed limits, no relatives of the deceased are likely to lobby for a return to fifty-five.

I have always enjoyed driving fifty-five miles per hour, at least on two-lane roads. Driving sixty-five unnerves me, and at the end of a trip on a two-lane 65-mile-per-hour road, I see double and feel drained.

I savor the solitude of driving. I often slow down as I approach my destination, just to prolong the time spent away from the phone, away from problems, away from the press of people who want things out of me. When else can one listen to music without the threat of interruption by a telemarketer?

As for these people who pull right up to my bumper, then zoom by me as if I am a relic of the last century - what is their rush? None of them look as if they are bleeding, choking, or in labor.

To me, rushed drivers look like beady-eyed gerbils running on one of those spinning wheels. Are they late for an appointment or work? Well, they should have left home earlier. Do they hate wasting time on the road? Well, they should buy some books-on-tape.

It is particularly comic when calcified retired couples zoom by me in their Eldorados. C'mon grandma and grandpa, take a pill! Isn't slowing down what retirement is all about?

At bottom, most hurry is mere conceit. People are desperate for a sense of importance, and being rushed is one way of looking important.

I am convinced that many people not-so-subconsciously leave home late just to get the thrill of rushing to their destination and arriving in a breathless condition. Hurry adds drama to their otherwise dull and meaningless lives.

No delusion is more sacred to humans than the belief that their daily routines are hugely important, full of drama, filled with suspense, and vital to the universe.

If more people could appreciate how vain hurry is, how inconsequential are our daily worries, how silly it is to get bent out of shape over getting to Wal-Mart before the sale ends, more people would be content to slip in a good tape, relax, and keep the needle on fifty-five.

Here is a case where a little philosophy could save a few lives.

Loon Program at Rydell Refuge on Sunday, July 25

Loons, one word says it all, conjuring up images of lake country and northern Minnesota. Hearing the yodeling or laughing call of the loon captures the magic of Minnesota summers. Learn more about the fascinating natural history and legend of this oldest bird known to man at a program presented by Bruce Lenning on Sunday, July 25th at 2 p.m. at the Rydell Refuge Visitors Center. Bruce, with the MN DNR Nongame Wildlife Program in Bemidji, will provide a slide presentation about the common loon in Minnesota including facts about the Minnesota state bird, its migration patterns, natural history, and research results from our area. Tips will also be provided on conservation measures that individuals can take to help provide habitat and improve nesting success of the loon.

The loon became Minnesota's official state bird in 1961, after several attempts to have official status placed on the American goldfinch failed. School children polled at the time overwhelmingly supported the scarlet tanager but the loon eventually prevailed as the symbol for Minnesota's north country setting. Minnesota has the largest population of loons in the lower 48 states. Loons are excellent swimmers with powerful legs located more to the rear of the body than most ducks which conversely makes for poor land mobility. In fact, origin of the word "loon" is traced to the Scandinavian "loom" or English "lumme", meaning a lummox or awkward person which is true of the bird's land locomotion.

Do loons mate for life? How long do loons live? How deep do they dive? Why are their eyes red? What do their different calls mean? How large are their territories? How many chicks do they usually have each year? Why do the chicks sit on the parents back when young? Find out the answers to these questions and more at the loon program at the Rydell Refuge, Sunday, July 25th at 2 p.m. Come and share your favorite loon story.

This program is free and open to the public. Program co-sponsors are the Maple Lake Improvement District, Union Lake Sarah Improvement District and the Friends of the Rydell Refuge Assn. To get to the Rydell Refuge go 3 miles east of Mentor or 3 miles west of Erskine on U.S. Hwy. 2 and turn south on Polk Co. 210 about 2.5 miles to the Refuge entrance sign and main gate. If arriving from the south, turn north off of Polk Co. 41 onto Polk Co. 210 and go about 3.5 miles north and turn left at the Refuge entrance sign. For more information contact the Rydell Refuge at (218) 687-2229 or Wayne Gocken at (218) 574-2622.

Canola and alternative crop tours set

The canola and field peas are past blooming and in the pod set stage. This is a good time to look at different varieties and crop production aspects. This year there will be an opportunity to attend canola and field pea tours on Tuesday, July 27. This first tour will start at 2 p.m. on the Landsverk Farm along U.S. Highway 2 (between McIntosh and Fosston.)

The second tour will start at 6:30 p.m. at one of the Monte Casavan canola fields. From Red Lake Falls use County road 13. About one and one-half miles west past the junction with County road 9 (on County road 13) you will see a big sign showing that the canola plot is one and one-half miles north on the gravel road. The trial plots were planted by the University of Minnesota alternative crops team and many of the commercially available canola is planted side by side to get yield and oil content data.

At the same site a dormant canola trial was seeded last fall. Dr. Erv Delke, Extension Agronomist from the University of Minnesota, will lead the tour. More than 100 canola varieties and hybrids were planted with four replications at each location.

Canola is an edible oilseed crop developed in the 1970s. It is a cool season broadleaf plant from the mustard family and is well adapted to northwestern Minnesota's growing conditions. It needs cool weather during its flowering stage. Usually canola can be grown successfully where spring wheat can be grown, but the crop must be planted early before planting wheat. A field pea and alternative crop trial will also be shown during the tour.

For more information about any of the field tours please call the extension office in Red Lake Falls at 1-800-770-1244 or 218-253-2897.

Small grain plot tours to be conducted

A wheat and barley tour will be conducted on Friday, July 23, at 9 a.m. on the Swenson Farm, a few miles south of Oklee on Highway 92. Dr. Jochum Wiersma, a small grain specialist from the Northwest Experiment Station will lead the tour. He has planted the same wheat and barley varieties at 15 locations throughout the Red River Valley from Ottertail County to the Canadian border.

The objective of this field tour is to provide producers a chance to see 21 hard red spring wheat, one hard white spring wheat, and six barley varieties side by side. At the end of the season the plots will be harvested and yield, protein, and test weight will be determined for each individual variety. The results will be published during the late fall. Zach Fore, cropping system specialist, will show some of his trial plots. He will address some of the water management issues relevant to cropping systems.

If you have any plant samples of wheat or barley with disease or other symptoms, please bring them along so Dr. Wiersma can identify the problem and discuss possible control measures. All interested producers are invited to participate in the tour. A second wheat tour will take place on Monday, July 26, starting at 9 a.m., west of St. Hilaire. The plot is located on Highway 3 about four miles west of the Steiger Road turn.

Gilbert and Adam Carrillo of Stephenville, Texas, twins who rank third and 10th respectively in the Professional Bull Riders Association standings, will compete at Thunder on Hooves in Thief River Falls this week during the Pennington County Fair.

Carrillo twins will bring twice the experience to Thunder on Hooves

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

Twin brothers Adam and Gilbert Carrillo are only 27 years old, but between the two of them have more than 28 years of bull riding and 16 years of professional bull riding experience. The Carrillos will be in Thief River Falls this week hoping for a big chunk of the $25,000 in added money for the Thunder on Hooves bull ride at the Pennington County Fair.

It's the money that is the attraction, Adam Carrillo said in a telephone interview from his home in Stephenville, TX. He was among the 18 bull riders who formed the Professional Bull Riding Association (PBR) a few years ago and has helped guide it to be what he calls "the greatest corporation ever formed by cowboys."

The PBR has attracted major sponsors and created major events which provide lots of cash which is up for grabs by the competitors. Former qualifiers for the National Finals Rodeo while competing in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association (PRCA), the Carrillos now concentrate their efforts in the PBR.

While Gilbert has enjoyed greater success this season by riding 17 of the 39 bulls he has attempted for 43.6 percent and total earnings of $79,363 as of June 29, Adam is having a good year as well—especially coming off a season when a broken arm and a case of Lyme disease limited his performance.

Adam recently won back-to-back championships in Bud Light Cup bull rides at Tanica, Mississippi and Louisville, Kentucky. He scored 94 1/2 points in winning the latter event, being the first person this year to ride "JIT," a former NFR fighting bull owned by Harper and Kimberland Rodeo Company.

"He is a good bull but I got the job done," Adam said matter of factly.

The Carrillo brothers started riding bulls when they were 13 years old and earned their professional cards in 1992. Through 1998 Adam had PBR earnings of $92,936 and Gilbert had earned $239,466 by riding in PBR sanctioned events. The brothers are five feet, five inches tall and weigh 130 pounds. Both attended Odessa College in Texas.

At the end of June, Gilbert Carrillo was in fifth place in the PBR Bud Light Cup standings with 3,570 points. Adam was in 25th place with 1,931.5 points, but his wins in Mississippi and Kentucky will boost those standings.

In the rare times when they are not riding bulls (they will each get on 100 to 150 bulls a year), the Carrillos buy and sell real estate and dabble in other businesses. Adam is married and he and his wife Heidi have a 15-month-old daughter Haden. Gilbert is single.

Both of the brothers have qualified for the PBR finals five times (1994-1998) and each has been a National Finals Rodeo qualifier twice—Adam in 1993 and 1995 and Gilbert in 1992 and 1998. Both have been Texas high school rodeo bull riding champions and Gilbert was the national high school champion in 1990. Adam won the 1987 world AJRA bull riding championship and Gilbert was the reserve champion.

In 1992 Gilbert was the PRCA Resistol Rookie of the Year and in 1994 Adam won the Brazilian Invitational Bull Riding competition.

"I rode in Thief River Falls the first year of the PBR bull rides there," Adam said. "We're looking forward to coming back again, although I remember that first year the ground was like asphalt!"

And when you come right down to it, the ground is one of the hardest things about riding bulls.

Bergeson Gardens blooming and open for public viewing

Bergeson Gardens, located on the grounds of Bergeson Nursery three miles south and five miles east of Fertile, is expected to be in peak bloom from late July through Labor Day. Admission is free and the public is invited to view the gardens.

"We have added over 200 roses, as well as many new annual and perennial beds," Eric Bergeson said. "We have repeated some successful ideas from the past and come up with some new ones as well. New sections are added each year and the gardens now cover about four acres."

Bergeson said the family had thought it would have to charge an admission to cover the added expense, but that won't be necessary. "We just want everybody to come out and see what's new," he said.

Printed guides are available for visitors and specific plants are labeled. Families and groups should feel free to bring picnic lunches. Garden viewing hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. Pop, juice and ice cream snacks are available during regular business hours.

Plan fishing and outdoors program at Lake Bronson

Youngsters who want to have fun while learning about fishing and the outdoors are invited to participate in a nature program Monday, August 9, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Lake Bronson State Park.

Part of the MinnAqua program of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR), the event is sponsored by Lake Bronson State Park, the DNR and local partners. It will include fishing from shore, pond study, practice casting, boat and water safety and other practical outdoor activities.

There will be a series of mini-stations where children can take part in activities provided by DNR conservation officers, forestry, wildlife, parks and fisheries experts. The free event is intended for children from eight to 14 years of age.

Fishing rods and tackle will be provided. Participants should provide their own lunch. The park concession stand will be open. Parents must sign a consent form for their children to participate.

In Kittson county, forms may be picked up at Sunny Day Cafe, Karlstad; Java Cafe, Lancaster; Lakeside Sporting Goods, Lake Bronson; The Cafe, Kennedy; Hallock public library; Lake Bronson State Park; and the Kittson county extension office.

Forms can be brought by participants the day of the event. Children from any location can attend provided they have a permission form signed by a parent.

Titled A River Runs Through It, the event is intended to provide aquatic education on ecology, natural resource management and conservation. The events in northwest Minnesota are considered unique because children get to learn from DNR staff with expertise in everything from what lives in the bottom of a lake to what birds fly high in the sky.

There is no registration fee for the program but a state park vehicle permit is required to enter the park. For further information, contact the park office at 218-754-2200.

TRF 14-year-olds head to state

Beating East Grand Forks two game to one in a 2-out-of-3 game weekend series produced a Babe Ruth state baseball tournament for the Thief River Falls 14-year-olds.

While most area towns field teams in the 14-15-year-old portion of the Lake Agassiz District tournament, Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks were the only communities putting together rosters of just 14-year-olds this summer.

That set up the state tournament-qualifying showdown that began with a 9-3 Thief River Falls win Friday and a 9-5 East Grand Forks victory Saturday to tie the series and force a title game Sunday, won by Thief River Falls 9-3. The home team won each game of the series.

Josh Langlie was the winning pitcher and also came up big offensively in Thief River Falls' Game 1 win with an inside-the-park home run and a triple. Ben Weigelt also had a pair of first-game hits, including a double.

Thief River Falls errors led to eight unearned runs in the second game when Jon Walrath was tagged with the pitching loss.

Ryan Swanson was the winning pitcher in the series tie-breaker when key hits included an RBI single by Kjell Johnsrud, and a run-producing double off the fence by Ben Worker.

Other members of the Thief River Falls team include Stephen Rundell, Reid Sjaaheim, Eric Leister, Ryan Forney, Mitch Pribula, Travis Klinkhammer, Dusty Gagner, Dane Kjono, and Mike Carpenter.

Double-elimination Babe Ruth state tournament for 14-year-olds will be played this weekend at Golden Valley. The Scott Vedbraaten coached Thief River Falls squad will draw a first round bye.

In the other Lake Agassiz District tournaments, the Thief River Falls 13-year-olds were 0-2 in games played at Northland Community and Technical College, while the Thief River Falls 15-year-olds went 1-2 at Warroad. Titles went to the Red Lake Falls 13-year-olds, and the East Grand Forks 14-15-year-olds.

Post 117 ends home season

There was a lot of racket Monday as workers prepared the grounds for this week's Pennington County Fair. But the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team made plenty of noise, too, with a first-game offense that produced a 12-2 five-inning win over Crookston at Irv Wilson Field.

Post 117 has been solid offensively most of the summer. And that trend continued in the first half of the final home appearance of the 1999 season when a six-run fifth capped an 11-hit attack that produced an early 10-run rule ending.

Crookston pitcher J.J. Scheving quieted the Thief River Falls offense in Game 2, leading to a 4-2 win for the visitors and a twinbill split.

The winners didn't waste any time getting started. As the earth movers reshaped the area behind the diamond into a moto-cross course that will be part of the fair, Thief River Falls bats were banging out Game 1 first inning hits – like a lead-off single by Jeff Rislov and a two-run home run over the left field fence by Derek Berg, the next batter.

Crookston got one run back in the top of the second on a one-out single to left by Adam Hanson and a two-out RBI single to the same spot by Brian Abeld.

But a walk, an error on a pick-off play and an outfield error on a pop-up plated the first of three Thief River Falls second inning runs. Rislov did even more damage with a two-run home run to right-center for a 5-0 lead.

A high fly ball by Andrew Solem hit the fence in right field for a one-out double in the third inning. He moved up a base on base hit by Joey Pribula and scored on a bloop single into short left field by Josh Jensen.

Thief River Falls pitcher Brett Johnson, who just rejoined the team after a lengthy absence to participate in summer hockey programs, gave up just the one run and two hits over the first four innings. The second Crookston run was unearned in the fifth when an inning-opening error, stolen base and two-out single to left-center by Ryan Fredricks made it 6-2.

The Thief River Falls offense, aided by a pair of Crookston errors and a wild pitch, doubled the home team run total in the bottom of the inning to end the game. A walk issued to Pribula was followed by a perfectly-executed hit-and-run that went for an RBI double by Jensen to start it. Nick Wilcox walked and Johnson dropped a single into short left field that had an error tacked on to it for a run. Rislov then drove a single into left-center field for a pair of runs. A stolen base and a single by Berg made it 11-2. Berg took a couple of extra bases on an error on

Jeff Rislov rounded third base and accepted a congratulatory handshake from Thief River Falls head coach Mike Wienen after hitting a two-run second inning home run against Crookston in the first half of a Monday American Legion baseball doubleheader at Irv Wilson Field. Rislov, who had six doubles in a 6-for-7 twinbill against Perham Saturday, came back with a 3-for-4, 4-RBI effort in the opener against Crookston as Post 117 rolled to a 12-2 five-inning win.

Saturday Legion baseball twinbill...

TRF, Perham play two high-scoring contests

It was American Legion baseball, but scores in the Saturday afternoon Thief River Falls vs. Perham doubleheader at Irv Wilson Field looked more like men's slow pitch softball results – a 15-10 Perham win in Game 1 and a 16-12 Thief River Falls victory in Game 2.

"It was an interesting day," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Mike Wienen. "Both teams hit the ball real well. Overall, things went pretty well for us."

The Thief River Falls offense included a 6-for-7 afternoon for Jeff Rislov, who hit three doubles in both games. Teammate Andrew Solem hit three home runs during the day, including a pair of three-run shots in the opener.

VFW baseball squad starts District 9 play

District 9 tournament play awaits the Thief River Falls VFW baseball team beginning Friday at Moorhead.

The seven-team, double-elimination event will advance its winner to the state tournament two weeks later at the same site.

Bemidji is the tournament's No. 1 seed, followed by No. 2 Perham; 3. Moorhead; 4. Detroit Lakes; 5. Thief River Falls; 6. East Grand Forks; and No. 7 Fergus Falls. That will produce a Thief River Falls vs. Detroit Lakes first round match-up Friday at 2:30 p.m.

Thief River Falls finished the regular season with an 11-13 record against District 9 opponents by splitting a Thursday doubleheader against Moorhead when the Chris Mills-coached squad bounced back from a 3-2 first-game loss to win the second game 6-4.

It was the third twinbill split of the week for the Thief River Falls 16-year-olds, who won 19-8, then lost 7-2 Monday against Perham and won the second half of a Tuesday match-up with Detroit Lakes 11-3 after losing the first game 7-6 in nine innings.

Northwest Team Shoot is won by TRF Sunday

A Thief River Falls delegation won the title Sunday at the 1999 Northwest Team Shoot hosted by the Greenbush Trap Club.

Thief River Falls won the event by shooting a 949, followed by Greenbush at 943, Red Lake Falls 937, Roseau 931, Bemidji 912, Erskine 901, Crookston 899, and Warroad 886.

Representing the Thief River Trap Club were Karl Bjorkman, Peter Tri, Pat Fischer, Kevin Erickson, Kurt Dupree, Dan Narverud, Steve Narverud, Mark Mattson, Dave Dupree, and Pat Molstad.

Tri and Darryl Cymboluk of Red Lake Falls both shot a 100-straight to lead the individual scores. It was the first time a 100 had been recorded in the 15-year history of the event. Cymbaluk beat Tri in a tie-breaking shoot-off. Fran Johnson was third.

Boating Reminders

At least 80 percent of fatal boating accident victims would have survived had those victims been wearing life jackets. So say the state conservation officers of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

"It happens time and time again," said DNR Conservation Officer Jason Jensen. "We find the boat drifting empty on the lake, and among the fishing gear on the bottom of the boat is an unworn life jacket. The victim probably thought that since he was a good swimmer, he didn't need to wear the life jacket when he was boating in good weather."

According to DNR records, most boating accident victims are males, are in their 30s, and have some swimming ability. The boats are small (16 feet or less) with motors 40 horsepower or less.

"I think what surprises people the most about fatal boating accidents is that they aren't fiery high-speed collisions between boats," Jensen said. "It's a simple capsizing or fall overboard. The person stands up to move around in the boat, loses balance, and topples into the water."

Jensen said that as the victim's head goes under water, the sudden shock of entering the water causes the victim to gasp and aspirate water into lungs. If the victim isn't wearing a life jacket, drowning is the most common outcome.

Lack of enough life jackets or flotation devices is among the most common boating law citations written by conservation officers. "I don't think people mean to be unsafe," Jensen said, but in the excitement to get out on the water to fish or ski or just cruise, they forget to make sure there are enough life jackets of the proper size and type in the boat."

Minnesota life jacket law changed a couple of years ago. A boater's flotation seat cushion used to fulfill legal requirements. Now each person in a boat must have a U.S. Coast Guard approved type I, II, III or V wearable life jacket on board. For boats 16 feet and longer, there must also be one type IV boater's flotation seat cushion for the boat. A life jacket must be the proper size for the intended person and readily accessible.

"Readily accessible means that they have to be easy to reach in time of an emergency," Jensen noted. "A life vest that is zipped into a case or still in the plastic wrapper is not considered accessible in the eyes of the law."

And it's much smarter to be wearing a life jacket rather than just shoving it under the boat seat. DNR officials say that putting on a life jacket when faced with an imminent boat accident would be like trying to put on a seatbelt in the split second before a car crash.

"Boating accidents happen without warning so you have to be wearing a life jacket all the time to be safe," Jensen said.

"You could fill a warehouse with the life jackets that were hanging unused on the back of a boat seat because the boater thought he would have some warning before an accident."

According to the DNR the other big problem in boating safety is alcohol. Boating while intoxicated has been unlawful for years, yet there are still, on average, 200 arrests for that offense every year.

"People who would never think of drinking and driving a car will grab a cooler full of beer and empty it in the course of an afternoon's boat outing," said Conservation Officer Jeff Birchem, who is stationed in the Warroad area. "I guess they don't understand that drinking and operating a boat can be more dangerous than driving a car, and sometimes they wind up hurting themselves and others around them."

According to studies done by the U.S. Coast Guard, alcohol levels as low as .035 (about one-third Minnesota's legal alcohol limit), combined with stress factors in the boating environment, can cause serious lapses in judgment, vision and balance. On average alcohol is involved in about 50 percent of all fatal boating accidents.

"If people would only wear their life jackets and avoid alcohol when they are boating, Minnesota waters would be considerably safer and there would be many more people alive at the end of the summer," Birchem said.

the play, and trotted home with the game-ending run on a wild pitch.

Scoring in Game 2 began with a two-run second inning triple by Thief River Falls' Jarod Reierson.

Crookston tied it in the sixth on RBI singles by Dominick Hammer and Adam Hanson, then won it with a pair of seventh inning runs.

A hit batsman and an error on a sacrifice bunt put the two Crookston runners who scored in the final inning on base. A double by Jeremy Yaeger broke the tie and a sacrifice fly by Scheving added an insurance run.

"Our offense was really solid in the first game, and Brett Johnson threw well," offered Thief River Falls coach Mike Wienen. "In the second game, we had to play baseball, and we just didn't make the plays when we needed to. Scheving pretty much shut us down. He's the best pitcher in the area, next to Josh Olson (Roseau)."

Pribula also pitched a strong game in the nightcap, going six innings before giving way to Solem. "The pitching by Johnson and Pribula was the most satisfying part of the night," said Wienen.

A Tuesday doubleheader at Roseau and single game tonight (Wednesday) at Warroad will finish the regular season for Thief River Falls. Ninth District tournament play starts Wednesday at Roseau.

GREENBUSH RACE PARK

by Bob Hultgren

Another fantastic night of racing Friday at the Greenbush Race Park. Despite cloudy and cool conditions, fans were treated to a hot time on the track.

What do you do if you are leading a race, and coming out of the final corner you are spun out by the car behind you? Well, if you're Roger Fiola, you slap your car in reverse and cross the line backwards. That's exactly what Fiola, of St. Anne, MB, did on Friday during the Super Sport Feature. Fiola fought his way to the front, then was spun out on the last lap by fellow Manitoba racer Dan Gregoire. Fiola would be given the win, but actually crossed the line fourth going backwards. Amber Holton of Newfolden had her best outing of the season with a second place finish. Dave Meyer of Thief River Falls led much of the race, but would finish third.

In the Mini-Sprint Feature, Robbi Peterson of Middle River jumped out to a good-sized lead and appeared to be running away with the win. However, with five laps to go, Peterson sat on the back straight-away with mechanical problems. Rick Bates of Badger was running fifth at the time, and quickly started to pass the three cars ahead of him to win the race. It was Bates' third feature win of the year. Chad Olson of Badger had his best showing while finishing second.

Jade Fredrickson of Drayton, ND may be the new man to beat in the Outlaw Street Class. Fredrickson led flag-to-flag from his outside front row starting position and raced to his second consecutive feature win. Cory Omdahl of Salol finished a strong third, with class points leader Richard Jacobson of Wannaska in third.

Joey Pederson started tenth in the 14-car Wissota Super Stock final, and that turned out to be a good spot for the Warren driver, who moved his way to the front for the win. Bob Shafer of Bemidji started and finished second, with Dan Morberg of Mentor racing from the pole to finish third. Class points leader Dean Forst of Thief River Falls finished fourth.

The 1999 season has been either feast or famine for Shannon Gust of Strathcona. On Friday, Gust feasted, going flag to flag for the Wissota Modified win. It was Gust's second feature win of the year at the Greenbush Race Park. In two other races, he was the leader when, in the first instance, he blew his motor, and just a week ago had to leave the track with a flat. Gust led all the way, but didn't pull away. Greg Ferris of Emo, ON spent all 20 laps on Gust's back bumper, but was unable to make a pass. Ferris finished second, with points leader Nolan Olmstead of Badger finishing third.

None of the points leaders in the five classes were able to post a win during Friday's program. That tightened the points chase up even closer with only five races remaining on the schedule.

There will be no racing this weekend at the Greenbush track. Remaining dates include a regular race July 30, the Elliot Baker Memorial Modified Special Aug. 6, a regular race Aug. 13, the track championship Aug. 20, and the season finale Aug. 27.

The Greenbush Race Park, located one-half mile north of Greenbush on County Road 7, is a 3/8-mile facility with modern concessions, beer garden and bathrooms. Admission is $8 for adults and $4 for children ages 6-12. Children ages 5-under are admitted free of charge.

Summary judgement requested in Ditch 83 suit against DNR

$201,716.45. More than half of this expense ($104,328) is in engineering fees. Total project cost if completed as requested by the petitioners is estimated at $2.02 million. Based on the benefits determined in 1986 by the watershed district, state and federal governments would share to a large extent in the costs of the project.

In its case against the DNR, the watershed district has requested a declaratory judgement declaring whether the state is required to pay maintenance or repair assessments levied or to be levied on benefited consolidated conservation lands located within the State Ditch 83 drainage system.

It claims that the DNR did not appeal the findings of fact and order in 1986 and paid its redetermined ditch tax assessments from 1986 to 1992, at which time it stopped paying any ditch assessments associated with State Ditch 83.

The watershed district also claims that under state statute, the DNR "may not exercise its authority in any way which will interfere with the operation of ditches or drainage systems existing in any game preserve area, or consolidated conservation land, unless the Commissioner first acquires that right by purchase or condemnation."

"In refusing to pay assessments and in asserting its right to interfere with drainage repairs, the Department of Natural Resources relies upon authority granted to the Commissioner of Conservation in 1949," the watershed district states. "However, the authority granted the Commissioner upon which the Department of Natural Resources relies was subsequently repealed by the legislature."

In its motion for summary judgment, the DNR states that "the Commissioner has not consented to or joined in the petition for the repair of State Ditch 83 and has not consented to or filed a certificate or statement authorizing the assessment of con-con lands for repair costs."

Also in the motion, the DNR summarizes its view of how state ownership of the con-con lands came about. Assessments for large scale drainage projects in several northwestern Minnesota counties were unable to be paid by the landowners in the late 1920s and the land was forfeited to the counties for non-payment of taxes. The counties were unable to re-sell the land and "the State was compelled to intervene by paying the unpaid taxes in order to prevent default and preserve the counties' and State's general credit." More than 1.5 million acres were included in these consolidated conservation lands.

The State's payment eventually exceeded $4 million after paying off additional bonds in 1931 and 1933.

When the hearing was scheduled to consider the repair of State Ditch 83 in 1998, Deputy Commissioner of Natural Resources Ron Nargang sent a letter to the district, along with a recent letter from the Attorney General's office, noting that the Commissioner must approve assessment for this project, the DNR contends. The district proceeded to issue the repair order on June 11, 1998 "before it had any discussions, much less resolution, concerning the assessments of State con-con lands," the DNR says.

DNR officials and the watershed district met on July 23, 1998, but the district offered no explanation as to how the proposed repair of State Ditch 83 would benefit the con-con lands, the DNR states in its summary judgment request.

"The district insisted that the benefits to the con-con lands had been set in its 1986 redetermination of benefits done under the drainage code (Minnesota Statutes, Chapter 103E) and that the State had no basis for objecting to any assessments based upon that proceeding. DNR staff maintained that the benefits could only be established by the Commissioner's approval pursuant to Minnesota Statutes 84A.55, subdivision 9."

District Judge Dennis Murphy of Thief River Falls will rule on the DNR request for summary judgment. If he determines that the controversy is only a matter of law, he will issue the summary judgment which in effect dismisses the case. If he determines there are questions of fact, he will reject the request and the case will go to trial as scheduled.

During the 80 days the legislature is in session, Tomac stays in Bismarck although his ranch is only 30 minutes from the Capitol. It's easier to concentrate, he said, and if he went home he would find a hundred other things to do.

Popular with rodeo fans is Tomac's little red fire truck named "Smokey." Tomac has a quick wit and the ability to turn a situation into something funny. He usually gets along well with rodeo announcers who set up some of his stories.

On the other hand, some parts of the business aren't so funny. Ten years ago a ton of beef on the hoof smacked him into an arena wall in Missoula, MT, cracking four vertebrae and bruising a kidney. He had to check himself out of the hospital that night so he could drive 800 miles to meet his contract at the next rodeo.

Apparently he applies the same sense of responsibility to his duties in the Senate, where he has served since 1990 after two terms in the House of Representatives. The voters keep returning him to office each election.

Pet Dunning was one of many volunteers from the community to participate in Pioneer Days at Pioneer Village in Thief River Falls. She is pictured above going over some art instructions in Little Oak school #65 in Pioneer Village. During Pioneer Days, children learned, through the presentation of nine different activities or presentations, what it was like for children during pioneer days. Pioneer Days is sponsored by the Thief River Falls Parks and Recreation department in cooperation with the Pennington County Historical Society, which operates Pioneer Village.

Expansion plans made for River Road Casino

a lot of unknowns. The tribal board has employed a company to conduct a feasibility study, a company to look at the company conducting the feasibility study, and are looking at their own numbers to determine what the market could bear.

Part of the reason the tribal representatives were visiting with public officials Monday was to discuss future plans. The other reason was to attempt to bridge the gap that was created when the public opposed the casino being located in Thief River Falls.

Whitefeather said the reservation is looking to become a part of the community -- join the Chamber of Commerce, Jaycees or whatever, he said.

Whether the community realizes it or not, the reservation is already participating in the community. About 25 percent of the workforce at the casino live in the community of Thief River Falls. The reservation also has an investment in SwisCorp.

If the expansion plans are realized, more employees of the casino will likely reside in the community of Thief River Falls.

Marv Hanson, gaming manager, said that if the casino does expand it will mean a lot for this community,— mostly positive.

The Red Lake Reservation and the community of Thief River Falls have some common problems.

Whitefeather said one of their major problems right now is housing.

Local officials expressed an interest in working with tribal authorities.

Jean Heinrichs, city council representative, and Bud Comstock, county commissioner, apologized if representatives of the tribal board were offended by the opposition to locating the casino in Thief River Falls six years ago.

Delton Shultz, county engineer, expressed an interest in renewing discussions regarding a passing lane near the casino. It's a safety issue that seems to have been lost in the shuffle.

Many of the local officials at the meeting noted that they have had a long relationship with the tribal board, and said they hope the relationship will continue to improve.

Bergeson Gardens blooming and open for public viewing

Bergeson Gardens, located on the grounds of Bergeson Nursery three miles south and five miles east of Fertile, is expected to be in peak bloom from late July through Labor Day. Admission is free and the public is invited to view the gardens.

"We have added over 200 roses, as well as many new annual and perennial beds," Eric Bergeson said. "We have repeated some successful ideas from the past and come up with some new ones as well. New sections are added each year and the gardens now cover about four acres."

Bergeson said the family had thought it would have to charge an admission to cover the added expense, but that won't be necessary. "We just want everybody to come out and see what's new," he said.

Printed guides are available for visitors and specific plants are labeled. Families and groups should feel free to bring picnic lunches. Garden viewing hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. Pop, juice and ice cream snacks are available during regular business hours.

Lake Bronson park activities Friday, Saturday

Activities for children and adults are planned for Lake Bronson State Park Friday and Saturday, July 23 and 24.

On Friday at 4 p.m. children of all ages are invited to meet at the beach house for a scavenger hunt.

An interpretive program entitled Bat Facts will be presented for all ages at 8 p.m. at the picnic shelter. At 9:30 p.m. a night hike is planned to familiarize hikers with the sights and sounds of the park after sunset. Hikers are advised to "bring your insect repellent and night eyes and meet at the tower."

On Saturday the children's activity will be Fabulous Frogs and Toads at 2 p.m. at the beach. Young people will learn about amphibians from tadpole to adult and make a frog to take home.

A boat tour and kids' fishing event is planned for 4 p.m. Children should bring their fishing rod and try their luck at catching a fish. Bait will be provided. Space is limited and those interested should register at the park office between 9 a.m. and 12 noon. The activity will last from one to two hours.

At 8 p.m. a wildflower hike will be held to view some of the flower species in bloom at this time of the year. Meet at the tower to begin the hike.

All programs are free and open to the public, but a vehicle permit is required to enter the park. Permits are for sale at the park entrance.

Two vehicle crash near St. Hilaire

There were no injuries in a two vehicle accident near St. Hilaire Thursday, according to the Minnesota State Patrol.

The State Patrol received a report of the accident at Highway 32 and St. Hilaire at 1:36 p.m. on Thursday, July 15. According to the accident report, Joel Sorvig, St. Hilaire, was driving a 1994 Ford pickup south on Highway 32 and was attempting a right turn, when a 1987 Oldsmobile driven by Jennifer Knott, Red Lake Falls, which was also traveling south, collided with the Sorvig vehicle. There were no injuries. There was extensive damage to the Knott vehicle, and minor damage to the Sorvig pickup.

Sigdah sentenced in criminal vehicular homicide case

Timothy Sigdahl, 18, Red Lake Falls, was sentenced in Red Lake County court last week on a charge of criminal vehicular homicide.

The charge stems from an incident in November 1998 during which Davis Gustafson of Aneta, ND, fell from the roof of a vehicle driven by Sigdahl. Gustafson died from the injuries.

A prison sentence of 48 months to the State Commissioner of Corrections was stayed for a period of 10 years. Sigdahl was placed on supervised probation on condition that he pay restitution to the victim reparation's fund upon notification of the amount. He was then ordered to serve 12 months at Northwest Regional Corrections Center in Crookston with credit for time served. He was ordered to undergo chemical and psychological evaluations and comply with the recommendations. The fine was waived, but he was ordered to pay a surcharge of $50.

Law enforcement respond to a variety of incidents

Law enforcement officials in Thief River Falls and Pennington county responded to a variety of calls during the past week.

Pursuit. On July 19 at 2:30 p.m. a police officer stopped a motorcycle rider who wasn't wearing proper eyewear. The driver was cited for driving after revocation and no proof of insurance. During a background check, the officer learned the driver was wanted on a warrant out of Marshall county for contempt of court. The driver then fled on foot. He was caught a couple of blocks later. Aaron Kirk Oberg, 25, Argyle, faces additional charges of escape from custody, and obstruction of legal process.

Dismissed. On July 15 the Pennington County Attorney's office dismissed charges, without prejudice, of assault in the fifth degree, tampering with a witness in the first degree, and terroristic threats, against Richard Shane Paulson, 40, Thief River Falls. The charges stem from an incident reported to law enforcement in June.

Accidents. On July 13 at 11:01 p.m. police received a report of an accident on First Street in front of Brooks Avenue. John Timothy Bulger, Thief River Falls, was driving a car east on First Street when his vehicle collided with a parked trailer with a tractor on it. A passenger in the Bulger vehicle was taken to Northwest Medical Center. Police expect that the Bulger vehicle will be considered a total loss. They also estimated $8,000 damage to the trailer owned by Ripley's Inc. of Erhard.

On July 13 at 7:39 p.m. police received a report of an accident at Third and Arnold. Daniel Dennis Austad, Thief River Falls, was driving a Blazer north on Arnold, and Curtis Eugene Brandt, Thief River Falls, was driving a car east on Third Street, when the vehicles collided in the intersection. Austad had stopped at a stop sign before entering the intersection, but didn't see the Brandt vehicle. Police estimated damages at $1,500 to the Austad vehicle, and $2,500 to the Brandt vehicle.

Assaults. On July 14 at 10:10 p.m. a corrections officer was assaulted by an inmate. A charge of felony fourth degree assault is pending against Myron Dean Sunram, 22, Thief River Falls.

On July 17 at 4:34 a.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a domestic incident at a residence in North township. A woman alleged she had been beaten up. She had marks on her neck, a bruise on the side of her head, and she complained of abdominal pain. She was taken to Northwest Medical Center. Eric Sean Minto, 27, Thief River Falls, was charged with fifth degree assault.

Disorderly conduct. On July 17 at 11:53 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report of two individuals causing a disturbance at an establishment in Goodridge. One man had allegedly caused damage to a door with a pipe. Charges are pending against a Redlake man. Gary Allen Neadeau, 34, Minneapolis, was arrested and cited for disorderly conduct. He was also wanted on a warrant out of Beltrami county.

Public nuisance. On July 18 at 1:55 a.m. police received a loud music complaint from a residence in the 1200 block of Riverdale Drive. Cited for public nuisance was 43-year-old Dennis Ray Blazewjewski, Thief River Falls.

Driving while intoxicated. Following a traffic stop on July 17, charges are pending against Gregory Lee Wojciewshowski, Thief River Falls, for driving while intoxicated.

On July 17 at 5:54 police made a traffic stop. A charge of driving while intoxicated is pending against 37-year-old Dawn Lynnette Olson, Thief River Falls.

Consumption. On July 18 at 1:35 a.m. an officer performed a traffic stop. The driver, Michael Lee Sax, 19, Grygla, was alleged to have been drinking and now faces a charge of consumption—under age/driver.

Hit and run. On July 16 at 6:57 a.m. police received a report that an unknown vehicle had backed into a 1998 Ford Contour parked in the 800 block of North Arnold by Pamela Ruth Pederson, Thief River Falls. Police estimated damage to the vehicle at $2,500.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

Sen. Stumpf to circulate petition for ag assistance

Over the next several weeks, Sen. LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls will circulate a petition demanding agricultural and disaster assistance for struggling farmers.

The petition will insist that Congress pass legislation to help farmers in northwest Minnesota who have been hit by bad weather this year, and by crop disease and poor commodity prices over the past several years.

"Farm families have been asking politely for a decent crop insurance system and other necessary help for long enough," Sen. Stumpf said. "It's time for farmers to demand action from the federal government."

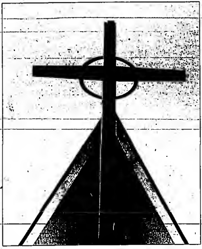
The Minnesota Legislature this year provided $70 million in direct farm aid payments and another $50 million for permanent agricultural property tax cuts, but Stumpf doesn't believe that this is enough.

"We at the State of Minnesota have done our part," he said. "It's time for the federal government to act. This is a national problem, but we in northwest Minnesota are at the forefront. Only Congress can provide the assistance we need."

Sen. Stumpf said that he has been at several public meetings, hearings and events in communities throughout northwest Minnesota this spring and summer, and that farmers are beginning to lose hope.

"The farmers I've talked to are saying the same thing as the local bankers, accountants, seed dealers, implement dealers, store owners and everyone else: we can't take much more of this," the senator said. "We have to start being more aggressive if we want to get anything accomplished."

Stumpf said he plans to have the petitions available at county fairs, town festivals and other public events throughout the summer.



Lightning struck the cross at Redeemer Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls last week. The damage was discovered the morning of Wednesday, July 14. From this side of the cross only a small portion of the top of the cross appears damaged, but on the opposite side is a large crack that goes quite a way down the cross.

POW, Missing recognition day set

The bravery, suffering and profound devotion to duty of our POWs and MIAs have earned them a preeminent place in the hearts of all Americans. Former Prisoners of War, families of MIAs, veterans and the public are invited to attend this recognition service.

MDA to offer free water testing at clinic in Polk Co.

Minnesota Department of Agriculture, along with the Minnesota Department of Health's Well Management Unit, the Polk Soil and Water Conservation District, and the University of Minnesota Extension Service - Polk County will conduct a clinic next month to test drinking water, livestock watering systems and irrigation wells for nitrates in Polk county and surrounding counties.

The clinic will be held on Tuesday, August 3, at the Rydell National Wildlife Refuge located between Erskine and Mentor from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. The event is part of a statewide series of water-testing clinics being offered throughout 1999.

Nitrates are the most common contaminants in Minnesota's groundwater, and a significant number of the state's wells have high nitrate levels. With that in mind, MDA Commissioner Gene Hugoson urges people to take advantage of the free clinics.

"We strongly recommend that people take advantage of this service because studies indicate somewhere between five percent and 25 percent of the private wells in greater Minnesota have nitrate levels above the federal drinking water standard," Commissioner Hugoson said. "Nitrates can be a major problem when they are consumed by infants because they can cause suffocation due to a condition known as 'blue baby' syndrome."

In 1998, 156 clinics were held in 63 counties across the state. Clinics have been offered at county fairs, University of Minnesota Agricultural Experiment Station field days, and as separate events.

In order to participate in the testing, homeowners must bring at least one-half cup of water in either a Whirl-Pak plastic bag or a Ziploc-type bag. In order to get a representative sample, allow the water to run 5 to 10 minutes before filling the bag. Homeowner with water treatment equipment should take two water samples — one before and one after the treatment process. Homeowners with just a water softener need only take one sample, either before or after the water passes through the water softener.

Samples should be taken no more than 24 hours before the testing, and they must be refrigerated. Samples should be cool when arriving at the clinic. To ensure accuracy, homeowners should mark the bags with their name, phone number and a well identification number if more than one well is sampled.

If they wish, homeowners may remain anonymous. In that case they should simply choose another easily recognized number to put on the well samples. It is not necessary to provide information about the wells from which water is taken.

Samples are analyzed on the spot — the process usually takes less than five minutes — and results are given directly to the homeowner. If the nitrate level in a sample is elevated, MDA/MDH staff can refer the homeowner to certified labs that will retest the water.

MDA/MDH staff will also distribute information to the homeowner describing ways to correct nitrate problems. Minnesota Extension Service bulletins about fertilizer Best Management Practices will be available, as well as information on manure management and crediting nitrate in irrigation water.

The MDA/MDH's nitrate-testing clinics are presented in cooperation with County Extension Educators, Soil and Water Conservation Districts and local organizations.

"We were very pleased with the attendance and public interest in past clinics," Commissioner Hugoson said. "In some cases, as many as 500 people brought in water samples for testing. Many people asked that the clinics continue so they can feel more confident that the water they are drinking is safe."

For more information on the clinics, contact Jerry Floren, Soil Scientist, 651-297-7082.

Mar-Kit Landfill receives first of two grants for facility

Rep. Jim Tunheim (DFL-Kennedy) has announced that the Mar-Kit Landfill of Marshall and Kittson counties will receive a $300,273 grant for the first phase of construction of its new waste recycling facility.

The Solid Waste Processing Facilities Capital Assistance Program (CAP) grant will be the first of two grants totaling $1 million targeted for the project, and will allow the Mar-Kit Landfill to proceed with the project rather than wait for a single $1 million grant.

In past years, Mar-Kit would have been forced to choose between partial funding, or a year's delay because not all the funds needed for the project were available and CAP rules allowed only one grant per project.

However, this past legislative session Rep. Tunheim authored legislation that will allow a project to receive two grants as long as the combined amount doesn't exceed the amount of the original grant.

"It will provide a needed service to not only Marshall and Kittson counties, but Koochiching, Lake of the Woods, Red Lake and Roseau counties," as well, said Rep. Tunheim.

The recycling facility, which will be built at Mar-Kit Landfill near Hallock, will remove recyclables and hazardous household materials from collected garbage before the waste is buried in the landfill, thus reducing the amount of waste buried in the landfill.

When the weather in northwest Minnesota gave us a couple of nice sunny days, we thought we were about to get the summer that we had dreamed of last winter when we were without electricity. Instead we are promised more rain for this week. The warm days brought out day lilies into full bloom, but they don't seem to like a lot of water poured down their lovely throats and only last a few days. I was hoping they would have lasted until next Saturday when we will be celebrating the 25th anniversary of the Karlstad Nursing Home with them.

The Strandquist Seniors met on Thursday with all members present and three visitors, Gula Stromgren and two little girls that Evelyn Kline was babysitting and had taken them with her to the meeting. The Seniors tied more rugs, for which they are becoming known to have to sell. It is their way of financing some of their outings. This Thursday they will be playing Bingo, just for fun. Delphine Brall served the lunch last week.

Thanks to Pastor Eric Hestin for the Parish Post, the monthly newsletter from Salem and Bethesda Lutheran Churches. They let me know some news from Strandquist. But the "Big News" this week was that Pastor and his wife are the happy parents of Thor Hestin, a beautiful baby boy!!! Congratulations!!!

Visitors at Eddie and Marcy Nelson's home for a week were Marcy's sister, Vicky Cordero and her friend Ed Norton of Chicago. On Monday, Marcy, Vicky and Ed Norton visited their brother Sidney Young and Claire at Bagley. On Tuesday Patti Wolnarowicz, Nick, Lance and Tron visited the Nelsons and their company and enjoyed a "cook-out."

Anna Thompson, wife of the late Norris Thompson, and their daughter Amy of Davenport, IA arrived for a couple days visit and were houseguests of Alice Thompson in Karlstad. On Friday, they joined Alice and Marilyn Johnson for dinner at Elsie Lofrooth's home. In the afternoon, Elsie had open house for relatives and friends. Those who took advantage of their brief stay were Peter and Pearl Thompson, Hazel Anderson, Gloria Renstrom, Geneva Nordin, Bessie Thompson, Myrtle Vagle, Marlys Lofrooth, and Greg and Austin Lofrooth. We all enjoyed seeing them and in the late afternoon they went to see Ole and Walter Thompson, Mary and Donna Renstrom, and Bessie Thompson at the nursing home.

I have to make a correction for Sara Donaldson, a cute little Miss a couple blocks from here. The Donaldsons have two daughters with birthdays this month. I thought Sara had brought a few she had forgotten the week before as the guest list was almost the same, but last week it had been Alaura's day. Sara had hers on the 8th and Alaura on the 9th. Her daddy, Jeff, surprised her too, with flowers, and her mom had taken them out to dinner. Her supper guests were Jeff, Margaret, Alaura and Sara Donaldson, Vance and Adrienne Lofrooth, Loyal, Taylor and Emily Lofrooth, Lisa Allison and Edwin, Vance Jr., Kelly, Amanda and Jessica Lofrooth, great grandma Elsie Lofrooth, Ruby and Stanley Swanson, Brent, Rochelle and Ethan Donaldson, grandpa Donaldson, and Doreen Nelson. Happy belated greetings, Sara!!!

Jonathan Thompson and his children, Kevin, eight and Kimberly, three years of age, of San Diego, CA spent two weeks fixing the roof on his quonset and visiting at the home of his parents, David and Phaola Thompsons. Supper guests at David's were LaVonne and Brent Johnson, Karen Thompson, and Peter and Pearl Thompson. Jonathan and children returned to San Diego on Monday.

Elphie Adils went to visit her daughter, Linda in Argyle, on Sunday and also with Toni Kasprowicz.

'Nannie' (Stennes) Entner and son, Ronnie and Eleanor Stennes of Seattle, WA, Oscar and Edna Mossestab, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Paulson of Thief River Falls, and Pete and Doreen Anderson of Drayton visited Shirley Lofrooth last week.

On Saturday, LeRoy and Pearl Lundell who recently returned from Europe where they spent about a month touring around, came from Minnetonka to show us the pictures and letters our fathers had written early in this century. That called for a real Cumpa Kalas at Isaac and Betty Thompson's home. Jim and Cindy Wetterlund of Grand Forks also recently returned from the Scandinavian countries where they too had collected so much from all the relatives who are living there. There were 15 who enjoyed the Cumpas that Betty had prepared. LeRoy had helped her 'cause he had done the grinding of the potatoes. It surely was fun and hopes are to get together soon to finish transposing the old letters.

On Saturday afternoon, Anna and Amy Thompson of Davenport accompanied Marlys Lofrooth to Winnipeg to the race tracks to watch Donnie Lofrooth's horse run. The horse won, so they all had their pictures taken in the "Winner's Circle."

The Hustle Muscle (top photo) is a restored SD45 (SD stands for "Special Duty" meaning that it had six axles for extra pulling power, when most engines normally had four), 3600-horsepower Great Northern engine from 1966, which now is owned by the Great Northern Railway Historical Society and housed in Duluth. There it is used on regular runs from Duluth up the North Shore Drive by the Lake Superior Museum of Transportation on weekends. An interesting comparison was drawn to a brand new SD70, 4400-horse-power engine (bottom photo), just built this year and set up on the track next to the Hustle Muscle. The new engine sported the newest paint scheme of orange, green and yellow. The cab was obviously very comfortable and efficient with air conditioning and computers to run the train, whereas the Hustle Muscle controls were the older style of dials and gauges. Both of these were on display at the 1999 annual convention of the Great Northern Railway Historical Society July 11-14 at Grand Forks.

Great Northern history group has convention

The "Red River," a diesel-powered passenger train traveled daily from Grand Forks to the Twin Cities and back from June 25, 1950 to May 28, 1960. Many things about this train, also known as #512, were unique, with its five cars, including a railway post office/baggage car, three 60-seat passenger coaches and a coffee shop/dinette/parlor/observation car. It left Grand Forks at 7:30 a.m. and traveled 320 miles to St. Paul, arriving at 2 p.m., then left St. Paul at 5:30 p.m. and arrived back at Grand Forks at 11:59 p.m.

At about the same time, the Great Northern depot at Thief River Falls was served by a series of locals, made up of a mail car and one passenger coach in the early 1950's and later becoming entirely a freight train, which left Warroad daily and made a run to Crookston and then returned.

The "Red River" train which served Grand Forks in those past years provided the theme for the 1999 annual convention of the Great Northern Railway Historical Society, which was held this year from July 11-14 at Grand Forks.

The convention was started on Sunday with a community open house, sponsored by the Burlington Northern Santa Fe Railway. There were tours of several different kinds of railroad cars, as well as a display of model railroading put on by the Thief River Falls Model Railroad Club.

Charles Naplin, president of that group, Chuck Kimbrough, Charles Schwartz, Richard Sculthorp, Bill Becker, James Kubanick, James Fick and Ann Kimbrough, helped set up the model display and spent time answering questions and showing off the 20 by 24-foot three main line HO model train display. (HO means that everything is in the scale of 1/87.) The impressive display included an Old West town (set up by Charles Naplin) with a mining train (by Charles Kimbrough), a highrise building with moving elevators (by Charles Kimbrough), and a pastoral scene with a hobo camp under a bridge (by Charles Schwartz). The yard areas were set up by James Fick. A circus shown in the model display was recently donated to the club by Mrs. Eric Hoard, in memory of her husband and will be maintained by the club in his memory.

On Monday afternoon a presentation about the North Dakota Mill and Elevator was given by Michael Strohel, explaining the use of trains for hauling grain freight. Today about 12 to 30 cars a day are loaded at Grand Forks, while in the past there were more cars, but they were smaller capacity, at 40 tons, compared to the 130-ton cars of today.

A special slide presentation was given by Dr. Jim Larson on the "Red River" with an explanation of the speed at which it traveled, 75 to 80 mph, compared with other trains at an average of 60 mph.

Later Ed Nygaard gave a presentation on his building of an HO model of the E-7 #512, the "Red River."

On Tuesday a bus tour was taken by those attending the convention, who came from all over the United States, to see the track to Devils Lake and, while there, visit the Great Northern Hotel. Bill Becker of Thief River Falls, a CP Rail engineer, who is a member of seven different railroad historical societies, took this trip and says that his favorite part was a presentation about a famous collision of two Empire Builder trains at Michigan, ND, on August 9, 1945, in which 34 GIs were killed.

Later in the day, some of the Grand Forks BNSF facilities were toured as well. The Grand Forks roundhouse, which was built in 1908, was originally constructed with 20 stalls and an 80-foot turntable that was so finely balanced that it could be turned by hand with an engine sitting on it. Later 19 more stalls were added and the turntable was replaced with one that was 110 feet in length. This turntable is still in use, powered by an electric motor today.

The convention concluded on Wednesday with a tour of Grand Forks and a banquet. Next year's convention will take place on the West Coast.

Errors Plague Sierra Club Timber Report

The following article written by Marshall Helmberger first appeared in the Timberjay Newspapers and was reprinted in a recent issue of Timberline, a publication for the forest industries of Minnesota.

The Sierra Club has a problem on its hands—one largely of its own making. The group made a big splash last week with the release of a report on timber harvesting in northern Minnesota. The report included maps derived from satellite images and commentary that suggested the region's forests were being severely overharvested.

But some of the harvest numbers in the report, especially for county-managed lands, appear to be significantly inflated, in some cases by a factor of four, and affected counties aren't happy about it. Koochiching county board members have discussed the issue twice in the past 10 days and are weighing possible legal action. The St. Louis county board also discussed the issue this week and instructed the land department to develop an official response.

The Sierra Club has been slow to address the concerns, ostensibly because the consultant who developed the figures is currently on vacation and no one else at the organization appears terribly familiar with the numbers. The problem appears to stem from the fact that the Sierra Club never requested harvest figures from the counties but rather deduced them by subtracting known state and federal numbers from total harvests. Exactly where the apparent miscalculations occurred is difficult to say until the Sierra Club provides more information—something which probably won't happen until later this month.

When asked why the organization didn't simply request the county harvest figures directly, a club spokesperson said that as a volunteer organization, the club simply didn't have the resources to engage in such in-depth research. That explanation simply won't wash. I requested the latest harvest figures from St. Louis county this week and had them sitting on my fax machine 10 minutes later. Most county land departments are perfectly up-to-date on their data collection and can give precise figures on harvest levels with nothing more than a single phone call. There's no need for guesswork.

Getting the right numbers isn't a luxury, it's a necessity when a group is planning to make such a public campaign. Releasing numbers and making serious statements based on them requires due diligence in determining their accuracy. It's not only county land departments whose reputations are at stake—it's the Sierra Club's reputation that is now most in jeopardy.

There appear to be other problems as well. The maps released as part of the report are somewhat misleading. They may accurately reflect forest disturbances that have taken place in the past 15-20 years in the region, but not all of those disturbances are related to logging. Indeed, the 1992 Mother's Day fire south of Tower shows up quite clearly on the map as cutover land. While it's true that the land was largely denuded, fire is a natural process, one that the Sierra Club advocates using as a means of forest disturbance.

Of course, the area burned in that fire is now regenerating. Nearby land that was burned in a fire 24 years ago is now a young and thick jack-pine forest. All of which demonstrates that our forests do, in fact, regenerate, whether from fire or logging. Many of the areas identified in the Sierra Club's maps as cutover probably wouldn't be recognized as such by observers on the ground. Ten years later, in most cases, young forests are clearly re-established in most of these areas.

All of which is not to say that we may not face problems ahead. The Sierra Club's warning of the pending shortage of mature aspen is hardly disputed by the DNR or the timber industry. While the DNR anticipates filling that gap with birch, maple, stand thinnings and hybrid aspen, the inventory data is somewhat questionable on that score. No agency has the kind of detailed inventory data to say exactly how we'll make up or the gap in aspen supply, while at the same time meeting still greater demands for wood as additional [plant] expansions go on line.

Nor do we know how the anticipated changes in the source of the state's timber supply will affect loggers, especially in our area. The current focus of timber harvesting has been in the northeastern counties, but as the shortage of mature aspen begins to arrive, it is likely to shift to counties on the edges of the state's forested zone, where harvests have not reached the levels experienced in our region. And while hybrid aspen planted in northwestern Minnesota may help mills fill the gap, it is unclear how they will help loggers in our area pay their bills.

But while the Sierra Club raised its valid economic concerns in the report, its efforts to eliminate logging in the region's national forests will only exacerbate economic disruptions in our region as the supply of aspen is further restricted.

The issue should not be logging versus no logging. It should be about maintaining sound forestry practices and sustainable levels of harvest, while ensuring protection of the habitat for all our native wildlife.

As Helmberger points out in his preceding article, the shift in aspen harvest is indeed toward the edges of the forested zone of Minnesota. One can scarcely miss seeing the many trucks loaded with aspen logs making their way through the Thief River Falls area in the past year or so. For the most part the logs on these trucks are overmature, marked by rotten heartwood, and unfit for any timber use other than chipboard or firewood.

Our hope would be that the areas from which these trees have been harvested will be allowed to regenerate into new aspen stands, although we know that will not always be the case. Despite the adverse farm economy, there continue to be landowners who prefer to remove trees and convert the land to agriculture. That is their right, of course, but it further alters the landscape in this area which, in just the last three or four decades, has lost much of its wooded nature.

Thelma Dahl and Rose Sellid spent the 4th of July weekend at the Bert Gjevik home near Park Rapids and experienced a portion of the storm that hit that area.

On Tuesday, July 1, Raymond Drotts drove to Buffalo, MN where he was a guest of his niece, Lois Ross and family. On Friday, he accompanied Lois and her son Matt to Minneapolis where they got his sister, Ruth Drotts, and continued their trip to Botonia, IL to be with their brother, Hans Drotts, who is a resident at Homstad Covenant Retirement Home. On Saturday evening a special dinner was served to honor Hans on his 90th birthday with 21 family members present including his daughter, Ruby and husband from Rockford, IL, and son, Lester from Elgin, IL. His daughter Rhoda was on a business trip to Norway, but her family were present for the enjoyable gathering. On Sunday they attended the chapel worship services at Homestad at which Lois sang a special hymn for her Dad, 'His Eye is on the Sparrow.' Monday morning, time to head back to 'cool Minnesota.' Too hot in Chicago! With Lois, a good city driver, they had a wonderful trip back where they took Ruth to her place. Raymond was again an overnight guest at Rose's home in Buffalo. Tuesday morning, he left for Viking with the thought "It's good to be back home again" but he enjoyed every minute of travel and being with family members.

On Wednesday morning, LaRoy and Ruth Susted met at the Best Western in Thief River Falls for food, fun and fellowship with friends, Bernard and Blanche Engevik of Julian, California and Olga Engevik of Thief River Falls.

Last Thursday night Allen Swenson treated his grandchildren, Chris and Alyssa, and Liz Swenson to a dinner at Pizza Hut. The grandchildren are from Utah and are spending the summer at grandmother Judy Bruggaman's home.

The Pennington County Homemakers' Group, which includes the Rosewood Homemakers, took their annual tour which was to Frost Fire Theatre at Walhalla, ND with a stop at the Pembina State Museum. That is a worthwhile place and the theatre production was great.

On Tuesday afternoon, Thelma Dahl, Millie Wornes and Liz Swenson drove out to Thelma's garden and stopped at the Bert Kron farm for cookies and lemonade and a visit. Elmer and Clarice Rooker also stopped in and we had such a nice time enjoying the site of so many happy occasions in years past when we were all neighbors.

Tuesday afternoon, Ruth Tostrup was a caller and coffee guest at Ruth Sustad's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Ranum attended the Stuart Sistad funeral at Grygla on Monday.

Hal and Ardelle Anderson spent the last week at Breezy Point Resort near Brainerd and enjoyed having the family spend time with them there.

Hal and Ardelle Anderson visited with Dale Anderson at the Good Samaritan Home in Warren on Sunday, where he is recuperating after surgery.

Kenneth Anderson came up two weeks ago to take his mother, Ethel back with him to his home at Wausau, Wisconsin. He brought her back to Viking when he came up for his school reunion at Newfolden High School this weekend. Kenneth returned to Wisconsin on July 11.

Record Attendance At Eagles Picnic Sunday

"Encouraged by ideal weather, a record attendance was registered Sunday at the annual picnic of the Thief River Falls Eagles aerie at Squaw Point, several neighboring aeries also being represented. An informal program of musical numbers was presented, in addition to which horseshoe games and races were held, with pony rides for the little folks. In the evening a softball game was played by teams representing the Thief River Falls and Crookston aeries, the locals winning by a score of 14 to 6."

Station KTRF Allotted Channel For Television

"Radio Station KTRF, Thief River Falls, is one of a group of more than 35 stations in Minnesota that have been allotted television broadcast channels under a tentative proposal of the federal communications commission, which announced that a public hearing will be held August 29, on the proposed expansion program. At present, only two Twin Cities stations, KSTP and WTCN, are broadcasting television in Minnesota."

Part Of First Street Bridge Material Has Arrived

"The work of assembling materials for use in construction of the new First Street Bridge continued during the past week. Among the items received were a carload of cement, reinforcing steel for the piers and abutments and part of the piling which will be required on the project."

Mother Nature Whets Her Whims

"White fruit grows on an albino Juneberry bush on the Hull farm near Fergus Falls. A strawberry from John H. Ross' one-acre bed at Alexandria weighs two ounces and measures nine inches in circumference. Men and beavers are battling over a culvert near Bovey; the busy broadtails want a dam at the upper end and traffic wants a safe highway; a dozen times or more the dam has been torn out, each time within 24 hours the culvert is blocked again."

"Will Sorsoliel informed us yesterday that he had a thirty acre field tilled with grasshoppers that were just hatching out. As yet they are doing but little damage, but no telling what they will do in the next three or four weeks. The eggs were laid in an old field that had been cultivated for years.

"The reports that have been circulated at Crookston and other towns to the effect that black diphtheria is spreading at St. Hilaire have no foundation whatever. There are four cases in town of the mild form of diphtheria but not of the black kind. Both houses have been quarantined and every precaution taken for spreading the disease."

The Selects Won Both Games

"The baseball tournament held here Sunday was a grand success judging from the number of people that arrived on the special train to witness the ball games. The St. Hilaire cornet band was at the station to meet the large delegation sent from Crookston and Wylie who arrived at 10:30. The next train from Thief River Falls arrived at 11:30 and the one from Red Lake Falls at 1:20. Over a thousand people from outside town took advantage of the fine day to see the national game played.

"Two games were played but neither one was a first class exhibition of ball playing, sorry to say, as no doubt a great many were sadly disappointed. The Thief River Falls team failed to appear on account of their battery being disabled, so it was arranged for Red Lake Falls and St. Hilaire to play the first game and the winners to play the Crookston nine. We have here what is considered a pretty strong team, but from the very start the team was not itself and allowed the Selects to have their own way to the tune of 1 to 21 in a seven inning game. Starting out the game was quite spirited and running very evenly, but finally they found the pitcher of the 'Jolly Rovers' and at the end of the fifth, the game stood 4 to 11 in favor of Red Lake Falls. A great many errors were made in both games but the audience rather appreciated them as it left an opening for the rooters which was never overlooked. It took three hours and fifteen minutes to play the two games. It is to be hoped better ball will be played in the future."

Notes:

"The Selects as a rule are good batters and especially so with Lachapelle.

"It was decidedly an off day for the home nine as none of them played ball.

"Red Lake Falls had the Fertile battery and its second baseman. They played good ball.

"The grand stand was filled in less than ten minutes. It should have been built four times as large.

"A great many spectators were perched on the wire fence around the grounds and remained there until the weight got too heavy and broke down."

SCHOOL MATTERS
The Elections Held Last Saturday Evening.

"Last Saturday evening the school elections for both the independent districts in the city were held. Hans Nelson was re-elected treasurer of the district on the west side, and the sum of $2,200 was voted for the hiring of teachers, together with $125 for incidental expenses. It was also voted to hire another teacher and the old school house will be used.

"At the meeting on the east side, Joseph Jerome was elected clerk and Gilbert Gilbertson was re-elected treasurer. It was voted to have the wages of teachers the same as last year, as the district is not in very good financial standing. This probably means that the district cannot secure the services of a male teacher. Mr. Todd, who was the principal last year, announces that he will not accept the position, and it does not seem probable that any other man would take the school at $45 per month.

"What should be done, and the sooner the better, is the uniting of the two districts into one independent district. This would be the means of securing better grades and the results would be more satisfactory."

Residential Antidisplacement and Relocation Assistance Plan under Section 104(d) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as Amended

A. Pennington County will replace all occupied and vacant occupiable low/moderate-income dwelling units demolished or converted to a use other than a low/moderate-income housing in connection with an activity assisted with funds provided under the Housing and Community Act of 1974, as amended, as described in 24 CFR 570.606 and 24 CFR, Part 42.

All replacement housing will be provided within three years after the commencement of the demolition or conversion. Before entering into a contract committing the County to provide funds for an activity that will directly result in such demolition or conversion, the County will make public and submit to the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development the following information in writing:

1. A description of the proposed assisted activity;
2. The location on a map and the number of dwelling units by size (number of bedrooms) that will be demolished or converted to a use other than low/moderate-income dwelling units as a direct result of the assisted activities;
3. A time schedule for the commencement and completion of the demolition or conversion;
4. The location on a map and a number of dwelling units by size (number of bedrooms) that will be provided as replacement dwelling units. If such data are not available at the time of the general submission, the County will identify the general location on an area map and the approximate number of dwelling units by size and provide information identifying the specific location and number of dwelling units by size as soon as it is available;
5. The source of funding and a time schedule for the provision of replacement dwelling units;
6. The basis for concluding that each replacement dwelling unit will remain a low/moderate-income dwelling unit for at least 10 years from the date of initial occupancy;
7. Information demonstrating that any proposed replacement of dwelling units with smaller dwelling units (e.g., a 2-bedroom unit with two 1-bedroom units) is consistent with the housing needs of low and moderate-income households in the County.

The County may request the Minnesota Department of Trade and Economic Development to recommend that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to approve an exception to required replacement housing if there is an adequate local supply of vacant low/moderate-income dwelling units in standard condition. Exceptions will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis as described in 24 CFR Part 570.488 (c) (1) (B).

B. The County will provide relocation assistance, as described in 24 CFR 570.488 (c) (2), to any lower-income person displaced by the demolition of any dwelling unit or the conversion of a low/moderate-income dwelling unit to another use in connection with an assisted activity.

C. Consistent with the goals and objectives of the activities assisted under the Act, the County will take the following steps to minimize the displacement of persons from their homes:

1. Providing information and referral services to individuals who may be required to temporarily leave their home.
2. Planning utility shut-offs for times most convenient to residents.
3. Schedule utility construction and equipment storage to be completed as quickly as possible and at times most convenient to residents.

D. Definitions for the purposes of this plan are as follows:

A "low/moderate-income dwelling unit" is a unit with a market rental, including utility costs, that does not exceed the applicable fair market rent for existing housing and moderate rehabilitation, as established under the Section 8 existing housing program.

A "vacant occupied dwelling unit" is a vacant unit that is in standard condition; or in substandard condition, suitable for rehabilitation; or in dilapidated condition and occupied less than a year from the date of the grantee agreement.

An "occupiable dwelling unit" is a unit that is in standard condition or has been raised to a standard condition from a substandard condition, suitable for rehabilitation.

A "standard condition dwelling unit" is a well-built unit with adequate space for persons living there. There are no major defects in the structure and only minor maintenance is required. Such dwelling will have the following characteristics: reliable roofs; sound walls and foundations; adequate and stable floors, walls and ceilings; surfaces and woodwork that are not seriously damaged nor have paint deterioration; sound windows and doors; adequate heating, plumbing, and electrical systems which don't present safety hazards; adequate insulation for local climatic conditions; and is in compliance with local building and housing codes.

A "substandard condition dwelling unit, suitable for rehabilitation" will show a lot of deferred maintenance with permanent damage to structural items. Conditions contributing to substandard dwelling, include but are not limited to, sagging, cracked, rotting, or leaking roofs, walls, foundations, ceilings, floors, doors, and windows; deteriorated surfaces and woodwork; unreliable heating, plumbing, or electrical systems which present safety hazards or inadequate insulation. The cost of rehabilitating the unit to a standard condition should not exceed the market value of the dwelling.

Fourth and Fifth grade students at Challenger Elementary school will be able to enjoy new playground equipment this fall. Volunteers helped erect the equipment on Saturday. This was phase one of a multi-phase project to provide playground equipment for the children at the school.

Playground equipment for Kindergarten and First grade students at Challenger Elementary school in Thief River Falls were erected by volunteers Saturday. This equipment is "age appropriate" and utilizes steps, slides and equipment to climb on.

During the construction of playground equipment at Challenger Elementary school in Thief River Falls Saturday, volunteers provided day care for children of the volunteers who attended the event. Over 120 people volunteered to help with the project. Organizers had expected that it would take two days to erect the playground equipment at the two sites on school property, but it took only one 12-hour day. This phase of the project included equipment for the Kindergarten and First grade playground, and for the Fourth and Fifth grade playground.

Medical Center board accepts 387 membership applications

Board of directors of Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls accepted 387 applications for membership at its meeting Monday evening, July 26—a number that will approximately double the membership of Northwest Medical Center Association.

Members approved by the board on Monday will be eligible to vote at the annual meeting of the association on Monday, September 13. Association membership costs $10 per person ($5 for those age 60 and older) and is good for three years.

The exceptional interest in membership is attributed in large extent to 100 applications for membership received in one packet about July 16 and accompanied by a check for $1,000 from Dakota Clinic Ltd. of Thief River Falls, and to reaction following that receipt.

Following receipt of the 100 membership applications and check from Dakota Clinic, a legal opinion was sought in regard to the acceptability of the applications under bylaws of the medical center association.

On July 20, attorney Kurt Marben advised the medical center board that: "Article III of the By-Laws for Northwest Medical Center specifies the qualifications for membership in the corporation. One of the qualifications is that the member be a natural person and not a corporation, partnership or other association. The by-laws also require the payment of a membership fee of $10.

"It is my opinion that the intent of the hospital's by-laws is to avoid any involvement by a corporation in the membership process. It is my opinion that the by-laws contemplate payment of the application fee by the applicant.

"It is my recommendation," Marben wrote, "that you write a letter to the applicants and ask them to submit their individual check in payment of the membership fee to the hospital. You should inform each applicant that this check must be received by the hospital no later than July 26, 1999, for their application to be considered."

Spyhalski wrote and mailed the letter to the applicants Wednesday, July 21, including a copy of the attorney's letter. By Friday, nearly all of the applicants had sent in a personal check to cover the membership fee.

"As a matter of course we send two notices to each member of the association whose membership will be expiring," noted Dick Spyhalski, president and chief executive officer of Northwest Medical Center. "Some of the applications approved by the board Monday evening were renewals from those members.

"Also included are the applications received initially with the Dakota Clinic check and for which personal checks were later timely received," Spyhalski said. "Applications from approximately 120 employees of Northwest Medical Center and their spouses are included in the total, and the other new member applications were received from other members of the community."

Spyhalski said employees of Northwest Medical Center were informed of the initial receipt of 100 applications by word of mouth and advised of membership availability in the association. He said no memo was put out to employees and there was no payment nor reimbursement of application fees by the medical center.

Nominations for election to the medical center association's board of directors will be received until August 1. The hospital board has nominated incumbents Karen Kirkeby and Lyle Hanson to succeed themselves on the board. Bob Carlson and Dr. Robert Dicken have been nominated by the petition process outlined in the association's by-laws.

Dr. Jim Langland, a member of the staff of Dakota Clinic Ltd. and medical center chief of staff, told the Times late Tuesday morning that the Dakota Clinic medical staff and other clinic employees feel that more can be accomplished in making Thief River Falls a regional medical center if the hospital and clinic are working together. He said the medical staff is convinced that this can take place only at the board level.

At the present time, he said, Northwest Medical Center is the only hospital among a number of others in the area from Detroit Lakes to Roseau, Crookston and Grand Forks that does not have from one to four physicians on its board of directors. Several previous physician board members have resigned, he said.

Dr. Langland expressed concern that the meetings of the medical center board are conducted in secret and frequently in executive session where non-board members are excluded—including himself as chief of the medical staff. He said his proposal to the board Monday evening that an open forum be held to provide public interchange with board candidates was "taken under advisement" rather than acted upon.

"We want to have a better working relationship with the hospital," he said, "but we have been unable to accomplish that in the past. We don't see it happening in the future without effective board representation. I think it is important we have a greater dialog in the next few weeks prior to the board election."

Kittson Sheriff says murder case solvable

Kittson County Sheriff Ray Hunt issued a news release on the one-year anniversary of the disappearance of 16-year-old Julie Holmquist. Holmquist's body was discovered on August 20, 1998.

"As the Julie Holmquist abduction and murder investigation approaches one year, Kittson County Sheriff Ray Hunt remains confident the case is solvable.

"From the first days of the investigation, a large task force was formed. Comprised of agents from the Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Kittson County sheriff's office and officers from various law enforcement agencies throughout Northwest Minnesota, the state and across the nation.

"To date, 1141 leads have been received, many of those have been followed up and some are still very active. The case continues on a full-time basis with investigators following those leads all over the area, the United States and Canada. Although the pace of new leads has slowed down somewhat over the past year, new leads are still coming in every week.

"Leads and evidence continue to be evaluated and re-evaluated. New information is learned about the case each time this evidence is examined. It is an on-going process that will not stop until the person responsible for Julie's death is apprehended.

"Sheriff Hunt would like to remind the public that any information, no matter how insignificant it may seem, should be brought to the Sheriff's office. Even the most insignificant-seeming information will help investigators to further narrow the focus of the case, and eventually cause the apprehension of the persons responsible for Julie's death.

"'I urge the community to remain alert and to call us with any information, even if you may not think it is important,' Sheriff Hunt stated. 'Look at bits of information as pieces to a puzzle. The puzzle is not complete until even the smallest piece is in place.'

'The investigation continues to be a top priority for all of the law enforcement agencies involved. The investigation will continue to be a priority until the person responsible is apprehended and is no longer a threat to any child anywhere.

"'You have been generous with your calls,' Sheriff Hunt said pointing to the great number of leads already received. 'To date, well over a thousand leads have been received from you. Many of your suspicions have led investigators to even more information.'

"'Again, no matter how insignificant it may appear to you, information that you possess may be critical to solving this case,' Sheriff Hunt stated. 'Please continue to support the law enforcement agencies working on the case by calling us. Do not assume someone else has already given us the information. We need to hear from you and why you suspect a certain individual may be involved in this case. If anyone has any information they can call us at 218-843-3535.'

"'This case is solvable,' Sheriff Hunt said. 'We ask for your continued support by providing us with the information we seek that will help us solve it. We also ask your continued and on-going support and prayers for Julie's family.'

"'With the overwhelming community involvement we are experiencing in this case, the person or persons responsible for Julie's death should not be feeling too comfortable,' Sheriff Huot concluded."

Plans are still being reviewed for the new American Legion building across from the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center. Post 117, however, conducted a groundbreaking ceremony Monday, July 26. They expect to be in the building sometime next November. The building will of wood frame and steel siding. The earth work has been let on the project and is expected to begin soon.

Not all the helicopter rides at the Pennington County Fair were of the motorized variety. A loose bull rope and a spinning bull left this rider praying for an eight-second whistle and looking for a soft spot to land as he "hung out" with a rowdy crowd at Thunder on Hooves. Many more bull riding and mutton bustin' photos are in today's issue of the Times.

Weather gods smile on 98th Pennington Fair

by Marvin Lundin
Thief River Falls Times Editor

No, that wasn't a smirk, it was a genuine smile that the weather gods showed for the 98th annual edition of the Pennington County Fair in Thief River Falls. The six-day exposition certainly had some less than perfect weather, but given the nature of the current summer, no one involved with the fair presentation was complaining very much.

Weather is always a big part of the county fair story, since it has a major affect on attendance and participation. For the fair which started on Tuesday, July 20 and ended Sunday night, July 25, temperatures were hot but rain showers were timely from a fair board perspective. All of the grandstand performances went off as scheduled with reasonably good crowds on hand.

Heat and high humidity held down crowds for afternoon carnival rides but rain that did fall was for the most part not a problem for fair activities. Horse show riders and spectators did get wet a couple of times, but others on the grounds seemed able to be able to find shade in the hot weather and shelter from the showers.

Total exhibits were down slightly from a year ago, but last year had the highest exhibit total for a number of years. Premium payments totaled $11,034.75 this year, including $1,737 in the 4-H club department and $9,297.75 in open class.

Attendance at grandstand events was difficult to determine because nearly 750 Grand Passes—which permitted attendance at all five grandstand events of the fair—were sold in advance and no count could be kept on how many were used each night, according to Ray Safranski, secretary of the county fair board.

At the moto-cross cycle races Wednesday evening, 695 tickets were sold at the gate and total attendance was estimated in excess of 1,400. At the professional wrestling show Thursday evening, there were 175 tickets sold at the gate and a total crowd estimated at 600 to 700 people.

Thunder on Hooves PBA-sanctioned bull ride on Friday and Saturday must have had nearly all Grand Pass holders in attendance each night because the stands were filled and responsive. Individual ticket sales at the gate for the bull ride were 445 on Friday night and 473 on Saturday night.

Demolition derby on Sunday at 4:30 p.m. had its usual large crowd with 757 individual tickets sold at the gate that afternoon. Drawing for prizes in the annual fair board raffle took place following the demo derby Sunday. Winners are listed in a separate story in today's issue of The Times.

Bull ride on Saturday night turned out to be the better of the two. On Friday only eight of the 40 riders made a qualifying eight-second ride to advance to the short go—a second ride for total points

Dedication brings King & I to stage of NCTC Theater

To make any event occur, many people are needed behind the scenes. The same is true in the production of a musical — especially a community musical. While over 50 people will be performing onstage for the upcoming Thief River Falls Community Arts Council's production of "The King & I" (performances to be held August 3-7 at 7 p.m., at 2 p.m. on August 8 at Northland Community and Technical College), many more have contributed their time, talents and advice to the project. So how do they do it?

Our own local professional, Heidi Hoks, was chosen to take on the undaunting role of coordinating the many schedules and directing this 50-plus member cast. Even before audition dates were announced, she was scanning prop and set magazines, researching the musical and its characters, and consulting with the costume designer, musical director, and choreographer to help herself imagine just how this production was going to unfold. Heidi's knack for detail and timing pays off as we watch each character emerge and witness 50-plus cast members work together as a team in order to present this community with the best that they have to offer, which, in fact, is stunning. Heidi's more recent credits include directing the last two Thief River Falls Community Arts Council's musicals, Meridith Wilson's "The Music Man" and Rodger's and Hammerstein's, "The Sound of Music." Along with these are her roles as the deceitful villainess Miss Hanagan in "Annie", as the flighty and forgetful Sister Mary Amnesia in That's Entertainment's production of "Nunsense" and "Nunsense II", and as May East in their murder mystery dinner theatre production.

Beloved Thief River Falls music instructor and vocalist Diane Johnson conducts the orchestra and vocal numbers. With an orchestra of 10 musicians, she creates beautiful music from a complicated score. To complicate matters even more is finding convenient times to practice during the summer for all those individuals. "They have been extremely dedicated," she says with pride. "And I'm so proud of what they are doing musically."

Her orchestra includes accompanist Catherine Hagen, Marilyn Wigness, Anthony Wold, Nathan LaRoque, Derek Druse, Bonnie Hallett, Hannah Kelly, Sam Kezar, Mike Gilbertson and Luke Torgerson. She also notes she is proud of all the vocalists. Vocalists in this show have learned to incorporate a dialect into their music as well as the music itself. The timing in the pieces have been intriguing to both vocalists and instrumentalists. The "Small House of Uncle Thomas" sequence has been a particular challenge to all, but is, as Diane notes with satisfaction, coming together beautifully.

Also coming together beautifully for the "Small House of Uncle Thomas" sequence is the choreography. Choreographer for the show, Key Teeters-Asp, is working with five dancers, and has found them to be creative and inventive. As Key notes, "I think these young women have done a remarkable job of adapting their movement to the Asian dance style. The set pieces we were planning to use looked awkward within this graceful picture they were creating, though."

The solution— the stage will be bare to highlight the dancers and their dance. She notes the dance costumes are incredible. "They more than make up for the lost set pieces," she says. "I think the audience is also going to enjoy the streamers and the special effects that flow with the dance movement." Key is also working on an incredible polka for the familiar and much loved song "Shall We Dance." Key says, "In this number, I want Anna's dress to glide

Seniors honored at Pennington County Fair Friday
Olga Engevik and Bill Dee named Outstanding Senior Citizens for 1999

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

Olga Engevik and Bill Dee were honored as the county's Outstanding Senior Citizens for 1999 at the Pennington County Fair during a program at the curling club building on Friday afternoon.

The program, sponsored by the Pennington County Fair Board and emceed by Norma Hanson and Cliff Larson, included entertainment by Art Heinze and presentations by state Senator LeRoy Stumpf, county commissioner Bob Carlson, fair board chairman Mike Sorteberg and Deanna Parenteau of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP).

The event also included drawings for a number of door prizes donated by several businesses, organizations and individuals and refreshments provided by Land O'Lakes and the fair board.

Outstanding seniors must be at least 70 years of age, and after reviewing nominations, a selection committee chooses the individuals to be honored based on their contributions to the community. Ideally, one man and one woman are selected each year to represent the county at the Minnesota State Fair, and it was noted by Cliff Larson that Pennington county has had three state winners in the last four years.

The following story describes some of Olga Engevik's contributions to the community, and Bill Dee will be featured on Page 4 of the Community Focus section of next week's Times.

Olga Engevik
"A Very Special Senior"

"Olga is a very special volunteer who enjoys being with people and at age 87 still has the will to do for others. . ." wrote Bev Rupprecht when nominating Olga Engevik for this year's Outstanding Senior Citizen award.

Bev is the director of volunteer services at Northwest Medical Center where Olga volunteers in the coffee shop on a regular basis.

Olga will be 88 on Friday (July 30) and has been "doing for others" for most of her life as an educator, wife and mother and community volunteer.

She was born in Warren and, after completing her education at Bemidji State University, moved to Gatzke where she taught in rural schools for a number of years before marrying Ervin Engevik.

Her career was put on hold during the years when her four children were small and later resumed at the Grygla school where she taught sixth grade.

After she retired and Ervin died in 1967, Olga remained on the farm for several years and then moved to Thief River Falls in August of 1980.

Her daughter and son-in-law, Marjorie and Glenn Espe, live in Thief River Falls, and Marjorie is a teacher at Greenbush.

Olga's daughter, Carol Jo Kelsey, resides in St. Paul and is the head of the educational department at Memorial Hospital in Robbinsdale, and daughter Katherine Ebbighausen is a corporate secretary who lives in Burnsville. Olga's son, David, died from heart disease at the early age of 40.

Along with her daughters and "three special sons-in-law," Olga has 18 grandchildren and her sixth great-grandchild is due any day and could arrive on the day of her 88th birthday.

When Olga moved to Thief River Falls joining a church was one of her first priorities, and in 1981, she became a member of Zion Lutheran Church where she organized and directed a musical group of seniors aptly called the "Silvertones" from 1983 until 1990.

She has also been the chair and co-chair of Zion's Leisure Fellowship group, was co-chair of the church's library for a number of years and was part of Zion's "Stephen Ministry," an evangelistic outreach group. Throughout her life, church activities have played an important role.

During the 1980's, Olga shared her teaching skills as a volunteer at Northrop School two days a week, tutoring students in reading and math.

For a time, she served as treasurer of the Northwest Senior Federation and was secretary of the board that founded and built the Heritage Community Center. She describes those years as "a great time" and praises the men who "wanted the best of everything" and persevered in getting the center built.

Believing that the Heritage Community Center is a great asset to the community, Olga has been active there and has directed its Heritage Choir for approximately seven years. While the choir takes the summer months off, it practices on Wednesday mornings nine months out of the year and performs at center functions, local nursing homes and various community events. Last year, the group traveled to Karlstad where they were asked to perform at the nursing home.

With an appreciation for her heritage and life experiences, Olga has also volunteered at Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village, and during special events at the village, she can be counted on to spend some time in the old school house or one of the other buildings, reminiscing and sharing her experiences with others.

In 1983, she began offering her services at the hospital where she has accumulated approximately 1,600 volunteer hours. For most of that time, she has enjoyed working in the hospital's coffee shop on Tuesdays, serving beverages and treats and spreading a little cheer to visitors, families of patients and staff members.

Olga was also named Pennington County Senior Citizen of the Year in 1991.

While in recent years macular degeneration and hearing loss have added challenges to Olga's life, the impairments have not slowed her down.

She continues to maintain her comfortable home on the north end of town, and because she is no longer able to drive, she takes the bus and sometimes walks to her destination. She continues to enjoy literature, now with the books on tape she is able to rent from a Faribault library.

Olga especially appreciates time spent with family and is presently enjoying the company of her sister from Duluth who visited in June and returned to attend the program in Olga's honor at the fair.

Despite the heat, Olga took in much of the Pennington County Fair, enjoying the various musical programs, food and general atmosphere, and she plans to represent Pennington county at the Minnesota State Fair on September 2.

When accepting her award on Friday, Olga did so with eloquence, thanking those who had nominated her and remembering all of the others she feels are also worthy of the award.

With regard to her volunteer activities, Olga says, "I just love it." She thoroughly enjoys and realizes the importance of helping others and staying busy.

Olga serves as an example to others, young and old, as she's adapted to limitations and continued to positively share her talents with others. She is, as Bev Rupprecht said when nominating her for Pennington County's 1999 Outstanding Senior Citizen award, "a very special senior."

Olga Engevik was named one of the county's Outstanding Senior Citizens for 1999 and was honored for her contributions during a program at the Pennington County Fair on Friday, July 23. Bill Dee was also named an outstanding senior and will be featured in next weeks Community Focus section of The Times.

Among the findings at the Steiger home located 3-1/2 miles south on Highway 59 are a large variety of trees that are challenging to grow in our plant hardiness zone, including black walnut, catalpa and kiwi vine.

The new farm yard of David and Betty Peterson is located three miles east of Thief River Falls on Highway 1, one mile north and a half mile east and features a large variety of flowers.

Ted and Darlene Koropatnicki's home is located 10 miles east of Thief River Falls on Highway 1 and two and one-half miles south. Their meticulously manicured yard includes well-placed trees, shrubs and flower beds and features numerous ornaments and accent pieces.

Those participating in the tour will receive a bonus as they will have the opportunity to visit Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village at no additional charge. Two master gardeners have taken the village on as a project, developing flower beds and trying to get some vintage plants started which will complement the village's old buildings.

Native plantings of flowers, grasses and trees by Tom Schafer and Al Buhl will be featured at Challenger elementary school.

Assisting the hosts and answering garden questions at each stop will be two master gardeners.

Proceeds of the tour will be donated to the gardening projects at Challenger elementary school. In case of rain, the tour will be rescheduled for Sunday, August 8.

Miller and Housey wed July 3

Trinity Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls was the site of the July 3 nuptials of Sandra Dee Miller and Jared Wade Housey. Reverend John Wollenzien officiated at the 4 p.m. ceremony.

Parents of the couple are LaVonne Miller of St. Hilaire, DeWayne Miller of Fertile and Ray and Barb Housey of Thief River Falls.

Katie Toren, friend of the couple, was the soloist, and Dee Wollenzien was the organist.

The bride selected a white satin gown adorned with lace and beads. Her veil was held by a beaded tiara. She carried a round bouquet of burgundy and white roses complemented by greens and a tail of ivy.

Holly Miller of Thief River Falls served as her sister's maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Lorie Zhlewski, Katie Toren and Erica Barth. All are friends of the couple from Thief River Falls.

Wearing sleeveless burgundy silk gowns, the bride's attendants each carried three burgundy roses accented with greenery.

Wearing a white lace gown and carrying a smaller version of the bridesmaids' bouquets was flower girl Neasha Stene, the bride's niece from Detroit Lakes.

The bride's friend, Melissa Zblewski, was her personal attendant.

Nathan Housey of Crosby, brother of the groom, was the bestman. Groomsmen were Dustin Miller of Thief River Falls, brother of the bride; Joey Vettleson of Thief River Falls, friend of the couple; and Travis Housey of Erskine, brother of the groom. The groom's nephew, Brandon Housey of Thief River Falls, was the ring bearer.

The men of the bridal party were attired in black tuxedos with burgundy vests and ties. Their boutonnieres were burgundy roses.

Ushering the guests were Scott Stene of Detroit Lakes, brother of the bride; Darcy Miller of Fertile, brother of the bride; Jeff Lannoye of Thief River Falls, friend of the couple; and Scott Danielson of Thief River Falls, friend of the couple. The ushers wore black tuxedos with black vests and ties and single rose boutonnieres.

The corsages of the bridal couple's mothers consisted of burgundy and white roses with greenery accents. The fathers of the bride and groom wore black tuxedos with burgundy vests and ties, and their boutonniere were made of burgundy and white roses.

Honored guests included Alvin and Lucille Housey of Isabella, grandparents of the groom; Arnell Johnson of Thief River Falls, grandfather of the groom; and Elsie Olson of Roseau, great-grandmother of the groom.

The groom's aunt and uncle, Kathy and Al Salvorson, hosted the reception, and the groom's aunt, Diane Johnson, attended the guest book.

The cake was cut by the bride's sponsors, Donna Solie and Peggy Hanson, and her aunts, Darlene and Hilda Stene, served coffee. Pouring the punch was Terri Stene, sister-in-law of the bride.

The gift table was attended by the groom's cousins, Jacob and Tyler Johnson and Adam Johnson. Friends and relatives from both sides of the family served as waitresses.

The couple is at home at Lot 69, Riverview Trailer Court, Thief River Falls. Sandra is a 1998 graduate of Lincoln High School, and Jared is a 1993 graduate of Lincoln High School and a 1997 graduate of Central Lakes College in Staples. He is currently employed by Aaschy Metal Works.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

After a recent agonizingly slow fast-food experience, I wondered: Of all the things they teach kids in school, why don't they teach them how to work?

It used to be that kids learned to work on the farm. But how many people farm any more, even out here? The chances of children picking up work habits from the television aren't high.

As I waited for my combo meal, I watched the three teenie-boppers preparing it flirt, giggle, push each other, and generally carry on as if I were on another planet. Finally they shoved a tray toward me as if I had leprosy, and turned back to the more important business of giggling.

As the economy booms, workers are scarce, and fast-food joints are having to dip into the middle schools to find their burger flippers. Many of these kids have other things on their mind than customer service.

What would be wrong with teaching them how to behave at work? It wouldn't take long.

Teenage workers should know that customers are human. All people, no matter how old and grizzled, would enjoy a smile from a young face. Kindly older folks are a dime a dozen, but a personable teenager will charm most anybody.

Kids should be taught that not a dime of money goes into their pocket that didn't come out of the pocket of a paying customer, so it is in their interest to treat customers with kindness and respect.

They should know that skipping work doesn't mean that you are naughty and have to go to the principal. It means that you are making life miserable for your fellow workers who have to cover.

We older generations shouldn't get too self-righteous. How many of us enjoyed working during our teen years? As I recall, I hated every minute I was forced spend away from the all-important social group.

So, probably most of us could have benefitted from a little instruction on basic work habits at an early age. Be on time. Smile. Be attentive. Listen. Hustle.

Children should have a childhood. It is not right for a thirteen-year-old to be putting in long hours at a job at the same time he or she is going to school.

But if kids decide to flip burgers at the local fast-food joint for extra cash, they may as well be taught how to do it right. Instruction in work habits will pay off far more than any memorized algebra equation or lesson in frog anatomy.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

(Bear in mind that this column was written for the July 21 Times, shortly after the Kennedy plane went missing. At the time I wrote this neither the plane nor the bodies had been found. The situation has changed, but my feelings about the coverage have not. If anything, they have intensified. – SL)

...The Sad Story

Did anybody watch anything other than coverage of the Kennedy tragedy this weekend? Even if we wanted to do so, there wasn't much else on any of the channels. At first I watched as avidly as anyone else, hoping for a miraculous rescue. When hope of a miracle was gone, I continued to watch anyway, hoping for the discovery of an identifiable portion of the plane to give some closure. Then I just continued to watch because it was there and I couldn't stop.

At first, seeing all of the old pictures of Camelot was fine, just a part of the whole story. It brought back memories of the Kennedy administration, when the White House was full of youth and vigor and good taste and manners. I remember it. Later the images were stained, but at the time the pictures were taken, things were wonderful. Then the pictures and stories of old times became too much. Seeing them once or twice was fine, but seeing them over and over made them trite and I didn't want them to become that.

Worse than the repetition of Camelot pictures, however, were the interviews. Fine to hear from friends and co-workers, fine to hear from those who actually knew Kennedy and/or his wife and sister-in-law, fine to hear from experts on airplanes and ocean searches and all of the other things that we who were watching didn't know much about.

But was it necessary to interview people who went to grade school with Kennedy, or his former teachers, or his barber or authors of books about Kennedys? Did we need to hear the opinions of people simply because they live on Martha's Vineyard or lived three blocks away from John in New York City or because they came from somewhere to lay flowers in front of the apartment? And whatever were they doing interviewing psychiatrists? Why did I see the same talking faces speaking foolishness no matter how many channels I scanned? Some of those speaking so knowledgeably about the Kennedys hadn't even met them. What did they know?

How many times did you see the guy who was at the airport when Kennedy took off? I think I saw him at least a dozen times. The first few times I heard him interviewed, he was just a guy who had a plane at the airport and he had seen Kennedy that night. By Monday evening, he had become an expert on the Kennedys and on flying and he was wearing a spiffy suit and tie and had gotten a haircut, too. Did you see him?

I saw all the regular people standing around being sad and I could understand and empathize with their sadness, but was it necessary for the reporters to interview them just to ask how they were feeling, as if we didn't know? I bet most of those who were interviewed would just as soon have been left alone to feel sad in private. If it were me, I'd have spit on the microphone.

Yes, television has gotten out of control. In their effort to capture the viewing public, they seem to overstep the bounds of common decency. When I saw the pictures of Ethel Kennedy after a sail, wading through hordes of reporters with their microphones and cameras in her face, I thought it was too much. And then one of the vultures just had to ask her, "How are you feeling?" Was it any wonder that she didn't answer? It was just one of many stupid questions asked by reporters.

From what I've seen, there are reporters from all of the major and minor networks camped out near the homes of every member of the Kennedy family. They "report in" on a regular basis – with nothing to say except that they haven't seen whichever member of the family they are stalking and that the curtains in the house are still drawn and that the lights are on or off. It appears that they are enjoying themselves, however. And it appears that they aren't even aware that a sad situation has taken place. They appear to be more concerned with making the perfect impression in front of a camera.

I guess I am just as much a fool as anyone else, though, because I was sitting there like a true voyeur watching it all. But I would much rather have seen more of the ocean and the beach and listened to reports from the experts who knew what they were talking about. No matter what drivel was showing on television, however, the tragedy of it made us all feel sad this weekend and maybe for a long time in the future.

Question of the Month

Why don't you have movies every week and could you get new movies? During the summer, the library has Movie Mondays in which a movie is shown every Monday for a few weeks. To get the public performance rights, we have to rent these movies. We have not been running movies weekly for awhile now because of the expense of renting the movies with those public performance rights. We do so during the summer because we have more children around. We do have some special movie days or nights periodically during the year for special events, also.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q. How old are people getting Social Security?

A. People of all ages, including young children, receive Social Security benefits.

Beneficiary age distribution varies with the type of benefits, but for those receiving retirement or survivor benefits the age distribution as of December 1997 was: 84 percent age 65 or older, 8 percent ages 62-64, 3 percent ages 18-61, and 4 percent under the age of 18. For disability benefits, the age distribution is .4 percent ages 65 and older, 11 percent ages 62-64, 67 percent ages 18-61 and 22 percent under the age of 18.

Combining these three programs, over three million children under the age of 18 and students ages 18 and 19 received benefits in December of 1997 with about half of them as children of deceased workers.

This December 1997 data reflects the nature of the programs. Older people are more likely to be getting retirement or survivor benefits while those on disability are younger and more likely to have family members who are eligible.

The average age of a disabled beneficiary is declining. In 1960, the average age of a disabled worker was 57.2 years. By 1980, this figure had declined to 53.2 years, and in 1997, the average age of a disabled beneficiary had further declined to 50.3 years of age.

When discussing changes to the Social Security programs these demographics should be part of the discussion. Social Security provides funds across the generations for retirement, survivor and disability benefits including benefits to eligible family members.

Social Security should be included in current financial planning, not just future retirement. For more information, check the agency website at www.ssa.gov

Did you know? The Health Care Financing Administration (HCFA) now has an internet website at www.medicare.gov. Information on the site includes the Medicare & You handbook and bulletin, lists of resources for beneficiaries and people who work with beneficiaries as well as general information about Medicare and detailed comparisons of the benefits and costs of plans available in communities.

PARENTING TIPS

Quality Time With a Toddler

The toddler: a most delightful creature! To him the world is a place to be discovered and conquered. He is constantly going from one thing to the next, never staying with one activity for any period of time. It has been said that a professional athlete could not keep up, movement for movement, with a toddler for an entire day without collapsing in exhaustion.

So if your toddler is constantly on the move, how can you, a busy parent, manage to share some moments of quality time? One thing is certain: you will have to do it when your toddler can "work you in."

The key to quality times with a toddler is to find just the right moment. Don't wait until he/she is tired or whiny. Find a time when you aren't distracted. Family routines will provide natural times for certain activities, for example, reading at bedtime, or singing in the car on the way home from day care. Bath time provides another time for quality interaction with your toddler. Any time is quality time as long as both you and your toddler are having fun. Be willing to have many short interactions throughout the day. Follow your toddler's cues as to what he/she wants to do.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Try a little game of "show me your nose, show me your tummy, show me your toes." As long as both you and your child are having fun, it is "quality time," plus you are helping to develop the child's language.

Old Mill sets activities for Sunday, Aug. 1

Interpretive programs at Old Mill State Park on Sunday, August 1, will include Turtle Talk, a children's activity, and a step back in time at the Larson Mill and cabin.

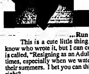
From 1 to 2 p.m. an interpretive program will be held at the Larson Mill and cabin. Participants will take a step back in time and learn what life was like around the turn of the century and about the steam-powered mill for which Old Mill State Park is named. The park naturalist will be on hand to answer questions.



SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...Run Away, Little Ladybug

This is a cute little thing that has been making the rounds. I don't know who wrote it, but I can certainly understand what they are saying. It is called, "Resigning as an Adult," something we all would like to do sometimes, especially when we watch our children and grandchildren enjoying their summers. I bet you can think of a few things you could add to the list, right?

I am hereby officially tendering my resignation as an adult. I have decided I would like to accept the responsibilities of an eight-year-old again.

I want to return to a time when life was simple. When all I knew were colors, multiplication tables and nursery rhymes, but that didn't bother me because I didn't know what I didn't know and I didn't care.

All I knew was to be happy because I was blissfully unaware of all the things that should make me worried or upset.

I want to sail sticks across a mud puddle and make ripples on the pond with rocks.

I want to believe that marriages last and love is forever, that only evil people lie and cheat, and that those who try the hardest always win and that everyone gets a turn at bat.

I want to go to McDonald's and think that it's a four star restaurant.

I want to think M&Ms are better than money, because you can eat them.

I want to lie under a big oak tree and run a lemonade stand with my friends on a hot summer day.

I want to think the world is fair, that everyone is honest and good.

I want to believe that anything is possible.

I want my biggest worry to be the broadcast order of Saturday morning cartoons.

I want to be oblivious to the complexities of life and be overly excited by the little things again.

I want to live simple again. I don't want my day to consist of computer crashes, mountains of paperwork, depressing news, how to survive more days in the month than there is money in the bank, doctor bills, gossip, illness, the loss of loved ones or figuring out how to survive for more days than I have money for.

I want to believe in the power of smiles, hugs, a kind word, truth, justice, peace, dreams, the power of imagination, mankind and making angels in the snow.

I want to believe that the president and all politicians are honest, that to succeed in business requires nothing more than hard work and integrity, that my religion is the only right one, and that my neighborhood, town, state and country are the best places possible in the world.

So...there's my checkbook and my car keys, my credit card bills and my 401K statements. I am officially resigning from adulthood. And if you want to discuss this further, you'll have to catch me first, cuz...

Weaver advises governor to appeal denial

Commissioner Charlie Weaver of the Minnesota Department of Public Safety has recommended to Gov. Jesse Ventura that he appeal the Federal Emergency Management Agency's denial of disaster assistance for northwest Minnesota.

Gov. Ventura had requested a Presidential disaster declaration as a result of the ice storms, flooding and heavy rains that struck the area from March 1 through May 30. Counties affected were Kittson, Marshall, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake and Roseau.

Denial of the request was received by the governor's office on July 15.

Weaver said his concern about the ruling stems from the fact that North Dakota has already received a disaster declaration for the same events—in counties just across the state line.

"We're disappointed that the counties in Minnesota were not declared eligible for federal assistance like their neighbors in North Dakota," Weaver said. "The current federal guidelines look at disasters on a state-by-state basis instead of evaluating the entire area affected by the disaster. We know that disasters don't stop at the township, city, county or state line."

The state had requested over $3 million in disaster assistance to include costs of repairing roads and bridges, removing debris and constructing and fortifying dikes and levees in the six northwestern counties.

NFO believes Merger adds to Uncertainty

National Farmers Organization has stated that the U.S. Department of Justice has created more uncertainty in the minds of America's grain producers by allowing Cargill, Inc. to acquire Continental Grain Company's Commodity Marketing Group.

But, the Department will require Cargill to divest grain and soybean facilities in several states in order to complete the deal, which, the department says, was anti-competitive in its original form.

"We are pleased that the Justice Department at least sought information and studied the impact of the merger, rather than simply approving the deal," said Gene Paul, National Farmers president. "However, we still question whether concentration concerns have been completely addressed. Farmers are still concerned other major buyers will be allowed to purchase the Cargill divestitures, which will in no way alleviate market concentration."

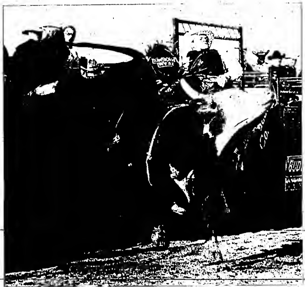
To the rescue of a bull rider who was still hung up in the wrap of his rope come Eric Olson (right) and Colby Gines, bullfighters at Thunder on Hooves in Thief River Falls. The rider has slipped behind the bull in the above photo and Gines attempts to reach over the bull's back and release the rope. He took a shoulder in the chest but was able to free the rider.



Total effort by both bull and rider is evident in this photo from Thunder on Hooves Friday night at the Pennington County Fair. Only eight of 40 riders rode their bulls in the long go Friday and only one of them—Barry Gulio Jr. of Oklahoma City, rode one more in the short go.

Help was on the way in the form of bullfighter Colby Gines as this bull took aim at the closest part of a fallen rider's anatomy at the Thunder on Hooves bull ride at the Pennington County Fair. Gines drew the bull's attention to himself, allowing the rider to safely reach the fence.

National Anthem prior to the Thunder on Hooves bull ride Friday and Saturday evenings at the Pennington County Fair was sung by Katie Christensen, Miss Thief River Falls.

Staying on top while the bull looked for a new direction to try was a challenge for this rider during Thunder on Hooves at the Pennington County Fair.

Concentrating intently, this youngster strived to break a tie during the Pedal Pull at the Pennington County Fair on Sunday. The instrumental music for The King & I has been challenging for the orchestra of the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council production, but they have risen to the challenge beautifully and the audience will be thrilled by their talent, says Orchestra Director Diane Johnson. The show will be presented August 3-7 at 7 p.m. and August 8 at 2 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College in Thief River Falls. Tickets are now on sale at Budget. A few of the orchestra members are pictured above. through the air and people to remember the song in which she let down her guard so that she and the King can truly enjoy each other as individuals."

Key also heads costuming for the show and she and Marge Lavalier have been working round the clock to make sure everyone has authentic costuming that looks good on them. Between purchasing material and sewing, renting some pieces and borrowing other pieces, this crew has had the daunting responsibility of costuming over 50 cast members on a limited budget. Help has come to them from a variety of individuals, including the owner of a local fabric store, who located Thai costume patterns on the Web for them. To accommodate the small number of cast members in the dance sequence, masks are being utilized and they are indeed unique. Also unique are the headpieces for the dancers and wives for this sequence. Plastic forms were painted and decorated to make a lightweight headdress that would withstand multiple performances.

Set construction and technical effects are being coordinated by Laurie K. Hinn, and assisted by Selena Joy. Laurie is a professional theater director from Grand Forks who has directed 10 shows in the past year. Her two most recent productions were the first two productions for the Arts Council this summer — "Arsenic and Old Lace", and the "Glass Menagerie". Laurie notes she is very "into" coordination of scenery and lights to set the mood of the show. "Color is extremely important to a show," she states and adds that her vision for "The King & I" set and lights will be to make the show as regal and beautiful as possible. Lighting specialist Jim Rock from Grand Forks has been contracted by the Arts Council to work with Laurie to achieve special lighting effects. Laurie also has a number of different individuals working on her crews including Philip Hoks as stage manager, Stacy Kleinwachter on backstage crew and sets, Marsha Lubitz, Philip Hoks, and Peter Hoks on sets and Jim Hoks and Barb Mills on floral designs.

Props for "The King & I" have not been of the garden variety, but that is no problem for props coordinator Stephanie Dagen. Stephanie will be in charge of items as varied as delicate fans and parasols, a styrofoam cutout of an elephant, fierce Chinese swords, and a bull whip. Stephanie got involved in theater two years ago when she was cast as a nun in "The Sound of Music" and then as a pick-a-little lady in "Music Man". She is excited about working with props and has tried to make each of these props as special as possible for the production. Working with her in securing and painting props have been Karen Jensen, Philip Hoks, and Peter Hoks. Painting has also been done by Miriah Johnson, Marsha Lubitz, and Stacey Kleinwachter.

With the large number of children in this cast, provisions had to be made for supervision of them when they were not on stage. Parents of children in the show signed up to do this. Coordinating all those parent volunteers is Jan Peterson. Whether juggling ever-changing schedules or dealing with a problem that has just come up, Jan is unflappable and ever-ready with a smile.

Advertising a show of this size is not an easy task, but publicity chair Jan Strandhe views it as a challenge. It has been interesting to stretch her streamlined budget into paid ads, promotional events including the All American Festival parade, the Miss TRF pageant and the gazebo presentation; posters and so on. She notes it is all worth it to bring theater to the community.

Box office is also a major responsibility behind the scenes and coordinating that are Thief River Falls Community Arts Council board members. Handling the box office includes more than organizing the sale of tickets, both at the door and the pre-sale tickets. There are ushers booked for each performance to take tickets, hand out the printed programs, and take each member of the audience to their seat. The house manager is in charge of the lobby doors and lights and is in communication with the show director backstage. As another added feature to the summer theatre experience, they have been offering a little reception of soft drinks and cookies following the show, usually served by some of the performers. The audience then has a chance to congratulate them and to visit with friends.

The Arts Council themselves have put in a great number of hours behind the scenes getting ready for this and the other two shows this summer. They began by working out an agreement with Northland Community and Technical College for use of the facility. They also have worked with securing directors and staff, producing programs and setting up the receptions. As Arts Council president, Jane Anderson has worked diligently to create an air of professionalism to our theatre experience. She has created a beautiful lobby display for viewing enjoyment, utilizing the glass display cases as well as the wall area, and picture boards of scenes from this summer's productions.

"The King & I" will be presented August 3-7 at 7 p.m. and August 8 at 2 p.m. at Northland Community and Technical College. Tickets for the show may be obtained at Budget in downtown Thief River Falls or at the door of the college theater box office one hour prior to the showtime.

Anne (Denee Barrett) teaches the King (Al Rogelle) how to dance in the "Shall We Dance" sequence from The King & I, the Thief River Falls Community Arts Council production to be presented August 3-7 at 7 p.m. and August 9 at 2 p.m. at the Northland Community and Technical College theater. Key Teeters-Asp, choreographer for the show, also choreographed the "Small House of Uncle Thomas" Asian ballet sequence. Tickets for The King & I are now on sale at Budget.

money. And only Barry Gullo Jr. of Oklahoma City, OK, rode a second bull. He scored 84 points in the long go and 90 in the short go for an aggregate of 174 and appeared to be in good shape going into Saturday night.

But Saturday's bulls and riders put on a spectacular show. Eighteen of 41 riders rode their first bull of the night and it took 82 points to qualify among eight riders for the short go. Five of those eight riders made scoring rides, including a 92 by Cole Mewbourne of Canton, Texas and a 90 by Royd Doyal of Pittsburg, Texas.

Doyal put his 90 point ride on top of an 88 point ride in the long go for the top aggregate score of 178. He claimed $12,941.28 in total prize money, including $3,009.60 for the top score of 88 in the long go and $9,931.68 for the top aggregate score.

Jesse Bowman of Niton Junction, Alberta, Canada, was second high money winner with $5,417.28 for 175 points in the aggregate and $1,504.80 in a three-way tie for the second high score in the long go with an 86. His total was $6,922.08.

Third high money winner was Cole Mewbourne with a tie for third in the aggregate with 175 points and total money of $5,417.28. He put his high score of 92 in the short go with an 83 in the long go for the 175 total.

Barry Gullo Jr., Friday night's leader, fell to fourth place money of $2,708.64 with a total score of 174.

Jason Hunsaker of Fairburn, SD and Wade Barry of Carter, SD were fifth high money earners at $2,558.16 despite making only one qualified ride. Their 86-point rides in the long go Saturday were worth $1,504.80 each and were good enough for eighth place in the aggregate for another $1,053.36 each.

Dusty LaBeth of Stanley, Kansas, was in seventh place with 170 total points on rides of 84 and 86 and earnings of $2,106.72. Eighth place went to the only other rider to ride two bulls, Jordie Campbell of Bindless, Alberta. He scored 168 points with an 82 and 86 and took home $1,504.80.

Also in the money were Tater Porter of [illegible], with an 84-point ride Friday for $601.92 and Pacen Thygerson of Duncan, Arizona, whose 83-point ride Friday was worth $300.96.

Total payout with 84 riders paying their entry fees and $25,000 in added money was $37,619.99. That included $7,523.99 in the long go and $30,096 in the aggregate.

4-H market livestock auction was held Sunday afternoon with nine steers, three sheep, two hogs, four chickens and one rabbit sold. Chainsaw carvings made during the fair were also sold at auction prior to the livestock sale.

1999 Demo Derby at fair draws crowd

The grandstand was filled with people excited about this year's Demolition Derby. A heavy rain that afternoon (July 25) didn't dampen spirits at all. In fact, those attending the event, which was held on the final day of the Pennington County Fair, seemed to enjoy it all the more even if it meant getting splattered with mud.

Winners of the Demolition Derby included:

Feature Event: 1) Chris Hlucny of Greenbush, 2) Cory Bugge, and 3) Jason Langseth.

Grand Slam: 1) Jamie Salvie, 2) Jerry Richot, and 3) Jared Eidelbes.

Legion baseball tournament starts Thursday...

Ninth District title up for grabs

There was a time when picking the winner of the Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament was a no-brainer. Moorhead dominated. The only guesswork was to come up with a championship foe for the Blues, who won 20 titles in a 28-year span from 1967 to 1994.

During that reign, Moorhead won the tournament 11 times in 15 years (1969-83), 10 times in 12 years (72-83), 9 times in 10 years (1974-83), and six straight (1974-79).

As the No. 1 seed out of the South, Moorhead will once again be one of the favorites when the 1999 Ninth District Division I tournament begins Thursday at Gilbertson Field in Roseau. But the Blues may have a challenge on their hands as they try to regain the top spot that has eluded them that past four years – the longest non-championship reign for Moorhead since the titles started coming on a regular basis in 1967.

Every one in this year's eight-team field has made a state tournament trip over the last 15 years – Fergus Falls in 1998; Detroit Lakes in 1996 and 1997; Roseau in 1995; Moorhead in 1986-87-88-90-91-93-94; Thief River Falls in 1992; Perham in 1989; East Grand Forks in 1985; and Crookston in 1984.

The tournament switched from one to two classes in 1983, with the two winners meeting in a state tournament-qualifying playoff. Perham followed that route in 1989 when the Class A winners knocked off the AA Blues in the finals. The two classes now go their separate ways – Division I and Division II.

A North-South alignment is used to draw up the first round pairings in the double-elimination Ninth District Division I tournament. Based upon regular season results, Roseau will be the No. 1 seed in the North, followed by East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls and Crookston. Moorhead is followed in the South standings by Detroit Lakes, Fergus Falls and Perham.

Thursday's opening day match-ups will find Crookston taking on Moorhead at 11 a.m.; East Grand Forks vs. Fergus Falls at 1:30 p.m.; Thief River Falls vs. Detroit Lakes at 4 p.m.; and Roseau vs. Perham at 6:30 p.m.

Play in the winners and losers bracket will continue through the weekend. Finals are planned Sunday at 6 p.m. A second game in the championship match-up, if needed, would be played Monday at 6:30 p.m.

Thief River Falls will take a 15-17 record into tournament play. Post 117 is 7-13 against Ninth District foes. The Mike Wienen-coached team went 0-5 against Roseau, 0-2 vs. Moorhead, 1-3 vs. East Grand Forks, 1-1 vs. Perham, 2-1 vs. Detroit Lakes, and 3-1 vs. Crookston. Thief River Falls and Fergus Falls did not meet this summer.

Ninth District Division I

- First round Thursday, July 29 - Crookston vs. Moorhead 11 a.m.; East Grand Forks vs. Fergus Falls 1:30 p.m.; Thief River Falls vs. Detroit Lakes 4 p.m.; Roseau vs. Perham 6:30 p.m.
- Second round Friday, July 30 - (loser's bracket) Moorhead or Crookston vs. East Grand Forks or Fergus Falls 11 a.m.; Detroit Lakes or Thief River Falls vs. Roseau or Perham 1:30 p.m.; (winner's bracket) Moorhead or Crookston vs. East Grand Forks or Fergus Falls 4 p.m.; Detroit Lakes or Thief River Falls vs. Roseau or Perham 6:30 p.m.
- Saturday, July 31 - games at 12:01 p.m., 2:30 p.m., 5 p.m.
- Sunday, Aug. 1 - games at 12:01 p.m., 2:30 p.m., 6 p.m. (finals)
- Monday, Aug. 2 - if needed, 6:30 p.m. (championship)

Detroit Lakes, EGF beat TRF VFW

Detroit Lakes and East Grand Forks beat Thief River Falls in the 1999 District 9 VFW baseball tournament at Moorhead over the weekend.

The Chris Mills-coached Thief River Falls 16-year-olds lost to Detroit Lakes 9-6 in the first round of the double-elimination tournament Friday, and fell to East Grand Forks 6-2 Saturday in the loser-out portion of the seven-team state tournament-qualifying event at Matson Field.

"We didn't hit the ball," reported Mills. "Our pitching and our defense was okay, but we just didn't hit."

Top-seeded Bemidji was gunning for its eighth straight title. Perham was the No. 2 seed, followed by Moorhead, Detroit Lakes, Thief River Falls, East Grand Forks, and Fergus Falls.

Winner will move on to the VFW state tournament Aug. 5-8 at Moorhead.

Hunting season dates announced

Minnesota hunting and trapping seasons for this fall have been announced by the Department of Natural Resources. Good populations of many popular game species will await hunters in most areas of the state, according to DNR Commissioner Allen Garber.

"Excellent habitat conditions, careful hunting management, and two consecutive mild winters have really boosted wildlife populations, many of which were hit hard by the severe winter conditions of 1995-96 and 1996-97," Garber said.

Hunters have good reason for optimism for this fall, Garber said, given today's healthy wildlife populations and the overwhelming support for constitutional initiatives demonstrated by voters last year.

But Garber raised a note of caution about the future: "I am deeply concerned as we close out the 1900s that we have not yet been successful in shoring up the crumbling foundation of Minnesota's wildlife management programs that supports the bounty we are enjoying today."

Supporting wildlife management and supplying the data needed to develop and defend management and hunting decisions requires continuing investments in management, inventory and research, as well as the professional staff needed to carry them out, Garber said. "I will be working with Governor Ventura and the Legislature prior to the 2000 legislative session to develop a plan to assure that adequate financial resources are available to support important fish and wildlife habitat and population management needs for both the short and long term," Garber said.

Despite these looming problems, Garber said there's much good news. "Antlerless permits are back throughout most of the forest, as deer populations there have rebounded even more quickly than we had hoped," Garber said. "Forest deer populations responded rapidly to the combination of antlerless deer harvest management, good habitat conditions, and consecutive mild winters."

Among other positives for hunters this fall, ruffed grouse continue to be at or near a peak in their 10-year population cycle; bear and wild turkey populations are at all-time highs; and locally breeding mallards and giant Canada geese are abundant. In addition, populations of Eastern Prairie Canada geese that nest near Hudson's Bay and migrate through western Minnesota have rebounded this year. This may allow for some easing of restrictions on the regular goose season in important western Minnesota goose hunting areas such as Lac qui Parle, if a new approach to harvest management of this population is approved.

Pheasants have been hurt by loss of Conservation Reserve Program cover, lowland flooding, and direct mortality from the blizzards and severe winters two years ago, but consecutive mild winters and a good nesting season are expected to hasten the recovery that began last year, Garber said.

More details about waterfowl and upland game populations will be available in late summer, when summer wildlife production surveys have been completed.

Garber advised Minnesota hunters to be aware of a few new regulation changes for 1999. The most significant include:

* Many deer permit area boundaries in Zones 1 and 2 have been changed to improve population management.

* Antlerless permits are available in many formerly bucks-only permit areas in Zones 1 and 2.

* Permit areas 448 and 449 in southwestern Minnesota near Marshall and Ivanhoe will be bucks-only for all hunters, including the archery and muzzleloader seasons.

* Five-county northwestern Minnesota two-deer area (one by firearms and one by archery) was not reauthorized by the Legislature and has been discontinued.

* Elk season in northwestern Minnesota is closed.

* Moose season remains closed in the northwest.

* Combined limit of four fisher and pine marten may now include up to four pine marten, but still may include no more than two fisher.

* Bobcat season has been lengthened.

* White bears continue to be protected from hunting.

* Early September Canada goose season has been expanded to increase harvest of locally breeding geese that are creating increasing damage and nuisance problems.

* Federal waterfowl baiting laws have changed, and nontoxic shot is now a requirement for all hunters using shotguns on federal waterfowl production areas or federal wildlife refuges.

Deer

Deer populations in most areas are recovering quickly from the effects of the two back-to-back severe winters of 1996 and 1997. Management of antlerless deer harvest, back-to-back mild winters, and good habitat conditions have resulted in the recovery of deer populations in forested areas, a recovery rate that exceeded the expectations of most wildlife managers. Even so, several more years will be required before herds are fully recovered in some areas.

Firearms deer season will open Nov. 6, archery deer Sept. 18, and muzzleloader deer Nov. 27. Regulations and licenses with permit applications will be available in early August.

Antlerless Deer Permits

Application deadline for antlerless and special hunt permits will be Sept. 9. A total of 177,380 antlerless deer hunting permits will be available this fall, a 26 percent increase from last year and the highest number offered since 1995. The higher permit quotas for 1999 reflect the continued recovery of deer herds that were decimated by consecutive severe winters in 1995-96 and 1996-97. Permit increases were greatest in northern Minnesota.

In Zone 1 (northeast), quotas were increased from 6,280 in 1998 to 23,415 (273 percent) this year. In Zone 1, bucks-only permit areas will be limited to the Leech Lake Indian Reservation and areas along Lake Superior.

In Zone 2 (a transition band from the northern Twin Cities area to Lake of the Woods), permit numbers increased 34 percent. In Zone 2, only the Roseau River State Wildlife Management Area, the Agassiz National Wildlife Refuge, and the Northwest Angle will have the bucks-only restrictions this year. In Permit Area 211 (north of Red Lake) a limited number of youth-only antlerless permits will be available to youth under age 16, by application drawing. All other hunters in this permit area, including archery and muzzleloader hunters, will be restricted to bucks only.

In agricultural areas of Minnesota, permit quotas also generally increased, except for some areas in the southwest and south-central parts of the state where deer populations are depressed due to high antlerless harvest levels in recent years.

In Zone 3 (southeast), quotas were increased 11 percent. Deer populations in many areas of southeastern Minnesota remain higher than wildlife managers would like. The higher quotas are intended to keep the pressure on deer populations in those areas.

Quotas in Zone 4 (extreme western and southwestern parts of the state) increased 7 percent. For the first time, bucks-only restrictions have been put in place for hunters in parts of Zone 4 in extreme southwestern Minnesota near Marshall. Recent restrictions in antlerless permit quotas in this area have failed to reduce antlerless deer harvest, in large part due to unregulated harvest of antlerless deer by youth hunters under age 16 and by hunters with disabilities who are allowed to take antlerless deer without an antlerless permit. DNR wildlife managers believe that a bucks-only restriction for all hunters (including youth and disabled hunters, archers and muzzleloaders) is the only way to ensure that adequate numbers of antlerless

Chelsea Haviland is headed to Orlando, Florida to compete in the 1999 National Junior Diving Championships Aug. 2-8. Haviland, who will be a sophomore at Lincoln High School this fall, qualified for the national competition on both the one and three-meter boards in zone competition completed over the weekend in the Milwaukee, WI area.

■ TRF diver to compete in Florida

by Sports Editor Mike Lundgren

Orlando will be the next stop for Thief River Falls diver Chelsea Haviland, who will be in Florida for the 1999 Summer Junior Olympics Diving Championships Aug. 2-8.

Haviland, who will be a sophomore this fall at Lincoln High School, qualified for her third national trip through the Region 6 and Zone C meets the past two weekends.

The 15-year-old Haviland won on both the one and three-meter boards at the regional level in the Twin Cities, moving her on to the zone competition in the Milwaukee area, where she placed second on the three-meter and fifth on the one-meter board in the 14-15-year-old age group. There was a field of 30 divers – qualifiers from 26 different states in each event. Top seven finishers on the three-meter and top six on the one-meter board earned spots in the national meet.

Earlier this year, Haviland advanced to the Winter Junior Olympics National Diving Championships in St. Louis, MO. She was a Summer Junior Olympics National Diving Championships qualifier in Austin, TX as a 13-year-old.

National-level coaches have made inquires about Haviland moving to a different part of the country to become a "full-time" diver, but that option has been put on hold according to the multi-sports standout. "I'm enjoying what I'm doing," said Haviland, who, as a high school freshman, won the Class A state swim meet diving title; broke into the basketball starting line-up; and was a Class AA state track meet place finisher in both the 1600 meter run (fourth) and pole vault (eighth).

GREENBUSH RACE PARK

by Bob Hultgren

Greenbush Race Park will return to its regular schedule Friday at 7 p.m. The track took a mid-season break last week.

Competition should be excellent as racers in all five classes vie for the year-end points championship.

Biggest point spread is in the Wissota Modifieds, where Nolan Olmstead of Badger maintains a 12-point lead over the second place car of Dave Riopelle of Argyle.

Merrick Hietala of Badger leads the Mini-Sprint points race by 11. The Super Sport Class is led by Roger Fiola of Ste. Anne, MB, who has a six-point edge over Thief River Falls drivers Rod Peterson and Dave Meyer.

Outlaw Street Class is led by Richard Jacobson of Wannaska, with Jade Fredrickson, coming off two consecutive feature wins, just seven points back in second place.

Only five Friday races remain on the 1999 schedule – a regular race night July 30; the Elliot Baker Modified Memorial Race Aug. 6; a regular race night Aug. 13; the track championship Aug. 20; and the season finale Aug. 27.

The Greenbush Race Park is located one-half mile north of Greenbush on County Road 7.

Keegan Hemre, son of Perry and Cheryl Hemre of Thief River Falls, caught this 22-inch, 4-pound walleye Sunday, July 18, while fishing on the Red Lake River.

Thirty-one boys and girls ages 7-15 were on hand Monday to put the finishing touches to a five-week youth golf program at the Thief River Golf Club. A few holes of golf and a lunch wrapped up the instructional program. Those on hand also received a participation certificate, a tee-shirt and a golf ball. Close to 50 golfers took part in the program this summer. The lessons, presented on an age-group basis, were given each Monday morning. Instructors were, back row from left, Eric Berber, Curt Berber and Art Welter. The Thief River Falls youth golf program was sponsored by Marge and Lowell Swenson.

Antlerless Deer Permits by Zone

Information includes location, number of antlerless permits 1998; number of antlerless permits 1999; percentage of change from 1998:

• Zone 1 (northeast) - 6,280; 23,415; +273%
• Zone 2 (Twin Cities to Lake of the Woods) - 34,925; 46,725; +34%
• Zone 3 (southeast) - 26,200; 28,975; +11%
• Zone 4 (south-central, southwest, west) - 72,875; 78,265; +7%
• Totals - 140,280; 177,380; +26%

Bucks-only, Youth-only Permits

Bucks-only hunting will continue in effect this fall in permit areas in the Roseau, Agassiz and Northwest Angle areas, and in some parts of the Arrowhead region. Also, for the first time, there will be bucks-only hunting for all hunters in two agricultural permit areas in the Marshall area (permit areas 448 and 449). In these bucks-only areas, all hunters, including archers and muzzleloaders, will be limited to bucks-only.

In permit area 211, south of Warroad, some youth-only antlerless permits will be available, but all other hunters are restricted to legal bucks. In that area, resident hunters under the age of 16 who apply for and receive a special youth-only antlerless permit will be allowed to take antlerless deer during the firearms season. Party hunting is not allowed for youth-only permits - the youth must shoot and tag the antlerless deer.

As in the past, hunters who are exempt from the antlerless permit requirement to take antlerless deer (youth hunters, disabled hunters with permits to shoot from motor vehicles, military personnel on leave, and veterans with 100 percent service-related disabilities) may not take antlerless deer in bucks-only (zero-quota) permit areas, except by youth-only permits as described above. Applications for regular antlerless permits will not be accepted for bucks-only permit areas, but hunters will retain any existing preference in the drawing system if they do not apply for permits.

Intensive Harvest Permits

Intensive harvest permits allow hunters to take up to three antlerless deer in addition to one deer each on a regular license and a management permit in areas with high deer populations. This year, intensive harvest permits will be authorized only in permit areas 228 and 337 in the Twin Cities metropolitan area, and in several special hunts.

Special Hunts

There is a total of 35 special hunts planned for parks and other areas where hunting is not normally allowed, except as necessary to manage deer populations. The application deadline for most firearms, muzzleloader and archery special hunts is Sept. 9. Exceptions are the Camp Ripley archery hunts (applications must be received by Aug. 20), and the New Ulm archery hunt (applications must be postmarked by Aug. 28).

Miscellaneous Deer Changes

• Many permit area boundaries in Zones 1 and 2 have been adjusted to simplify regulations and improve deer population management. Hunters should check the map in the hunting regulations handbook carefully before submitting applications.

• Northwestern Minnesota two-deer area (Marshall, Kittson, Roseau, Lake of the Woods and Pennington counties), where hunters were allowed to tag one deer with their regular firearms license and another with their regular archery license, was not reauthorized by the Legislature and has been discontinued.

• There are five special hunts scheduled for hunters with disabilities. These hunts allow assistants to accompany hunters in the field to help with various aspects of the hunt. The hunts are sponsored by nonprofit organizations that select hunters and help conduct the hunts. Information on locations of the hunts and application instructions will be included in the regulations, or by calling 1-888-MINNDNR.

Moose, Bear, Elk

Details of the moose and bear seasons were announced previously. A moose hunt will be held in northeastern Minnesota again this fall, but, as previously announced, the moose season will be closed for 2000 in response to budget constraints.

Moose hunting opportunity and revenue will remain essentially unchanged, because the state will issue about twice as many permits half as often, which will require much less administrative and staff time, Garber said. Moose numbers in northwest Minnesota remain low, and the season there remains closed.

There will be no elk hunt in 1999 because the small northwestern Minnesota population is within the goal range.

Wild Turkeys

Fall wild turkey hunting information was announced earlier. Spring wild turkey hunting applications for the 2000 season will be available in November. The application deadline is Dec. 3.

Woodcock

Restrictive federal frameworks on hunting of American woodcock continue in response to a long-term population decline. In 1999, woodcock season does not open until the second weekend of the small game season. The Minnesota woodcock season is Sept. 25 - Nov. 8, with a daily bag limit of three.

Pheasant and Gray Partridge

Surveys to assess population trends of pheasants, gray partridge, and other upland wildlife throughout the agricultural areas of Minnesota are not conducted until August. Information from 15 Conservation Reserve Program study areas in southern Minnesota indicated an increase in pheasants seen this spring, but wet nesting conditions may reduce production in some areas. In west-central Minnesota, where pheasant flocks were hard-hit by blizzards in 1996, special crowing count routes indicated birds persisting in good habitat areas, but very low numbers of birds even in good habitats in the northern parts of the pheasant range.

Gray (Hungarian) Partridge

Warm spring and early summer in most areas has provided good overall nesting conditions so far, but wet conditions have likely affected production in some areas. A better indication of fall pheasant and gray partridge numbers will be available after the completion of roadside counts in late August.

Pheasant season will be Oct. 16 - Dec. 19. Gray partridge season will be Sept. 18 - Dec. 31.

Ruffed Grouse

"Ruffed grouse are probably at or near the peak of their 10-year cycle, although wet nesting conditions and recent severe storms may have affected production in some areas," Garber said. Drumming counts of male ruffed grouse last spring were down slightly, which is the first decline in six years. The average number of drums heard per stop was 1.7, down 6 percent from last year's 1.8.

Biggest increase in drumming came in the northwestern zone, where the number of drums was up 35 percent (an average of 2.3 drums per stop). The central hardwoods zone increased 8 percent (1.3 drums per stop). These gains were offset by a decline in the northern zone of 22 percent (2.1 drums per stop). Drumming counts in the northeast and southeast zones were stable, at 1.2 drums per stop and 0.5 drums per stop respectively.

Ruffed grouse season will be Sept. 18 - Dec. 31.

Sharp-tailed Grouse

Sharp-tailed grouse counts increased over their entire range for the fourth consecutive year. The number of male grouse observed on their mating grounds increased 15 percent in the bird's northwest range and 19 percent in the east-central region.

"Sharp-tailed grouse need open brushlands," Garber said. "The recent rebound is attributable to increased prescribed burning, shearing, and other cooperative brushland management made possible by increased funding for brushland management. We hope we can continue that management and the upswing in sharptail populations."

Sharp-tailed grouse season will be Sept. 18 - Nov. 30.

Other Game

Mild winter and warm weather have led to higher survival of squirrels, rabbits and hares in many areas, suggesting a good fall hunting season may be in store for these species. Snowshoe hares exhibit an approximate 10-year population cycle, similar to ruffed grouse, and appear to be continuing the increasing phase of their cycle.

More information on upland game populations will be available following completion of August counts. Rabbit, hare and squirrel seasons will be Sept. 18 - Feb. 29.

Furbearers

Populations of most species of furbearers continue to do well. Fur prices are down and that has led to some reduction in trapping efforts.

There are a couple of furbearer regulation changes for 1999.

Fisher and pine marten combined limit of four has been changed to allow up to four pine marten per trapper, but continues to allow no more than two fisher. The bobcat season has been lengthened, following a one-year reduction to compensate for high bobcat harvests in 1997. The bobcat hunting and trapping season will be Dec. 4 - Jan. 9.

Ducks and Geese

Early September Canada goose hunting season will be expanded this year by adding an extra week throughout most of Minnesota, and by opening the Northwest Zone for the first time. The season will be from Sept. 4-22, except in the Northwest Zone where it will be from Sept. 4-15.

This year, hunting over water will again be allowed in the West Zone (including the Lac qui Parle and West-Central zones), beginning on the second Saturday of the season (Sept. 11) and extending through Sept. 22.

The daily bag limit will be five geese per day in most of the state, with two geese per day allowed in the southeast and the northwest. These changes are intended to increase the harvest of locally breeding giant Canada geese by timing the harvest before the migrant Eastern Prairie Population geese arrive in Minnesota from Canada.

Based on duck population status and the duck regulations packages proposed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the duck season this fall should be similar to last year's 60-day, six-duck daily bag limit season, with a tentative opening date of Oct. 2. Additional bag restrictions on scaup are expected.

General goose opener is also expected to be Oct. 2, except in the West-central and Lac qui Parle zones, where the season will open later in October. A special youth waterfowl hunting day is also tentatively planned for Sept. 18.

General waterfowl season dates and bag limits will not be finalized until the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announces the federal framework within which states must select their regulations. Framework includes the earliest opening date, bag limits, and the maximum numbers of days allowed for hunting.

Breeding duck populations this spring were similar to last year in Minnesota. May pond numbers in Minnesota increased 24 percent compared with 1998, and were 22 percent above the long-term average. Total May duck populations and blue-winged teal were unchanged. Mallard breeding population in Minnesota this spring was estimated at approximately 316,000, a decline of 14 percent. Mallards have been above 300,000 since 1992, and remain 56 percent above average since the current waterfowl survey began in 1968. Blue-winged teal numbers were similar to 1998, but are 28 percent below the long-term average. Continentally, blue-winged teal have been at or near record population levels the past few years. Most North American duck species remain at high population levels this year.

Canada geese observed on the Minnesota survey were unchanged compared with 1998, and are nearly 200 percent above the long-term average.

Breeding population surveys for the Eastern Prairie Population of Canada geese, that breed in northern Manitoba and migrate through western Minnesota, showed a 68 percent increase, from 161,000 last year to 270,000 this year. Minnesota harvests more birds from the Eastern Prairie Population of geese than any other single state or province.

"We hope the improvement in the Eastern Prairie Population and a new approach to harvest management in the flyway, if approved, will allow us to offer expanded regular season goose hunting opportunities in western Minnesota," Garber said.

Status of North American waterfowl populations will be discussed by the Mississippi Flyway Council, an organization of waterfowl biologists and administrators representing 14 states and three Canadian provinces, at its late-July meeting. This group will develop recommendations on waterfowl hunting regulations to be presented to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in early August in Washington, D.C.

NFO advocates new Soil Bank as prices plummet

As U.S. grain prices plummet to near 25 year lows and producers struggle to cope, a major farm organization has unveiled a longer-term grain recovery plan.

National Farmers Organization, an advocate of the family farmer for more than 40 years, is recommending reinstitution of the Soil Bank concept. "The Soil Bank concept would achieve much of what current farm legislation hasn't," said National Farmers president Gene Paul. "By using this annual planted acreage reduction method, Congress could reduce some of the burdensome grain stocks that are causing low prices, while at the same time helping the environment."

National Farmers suggests Congress ask producers to place 25 percent of their year 2000 planted grain and oilseed acreage in the Soil Bank in conjunction with 1999 market loss payment receipt.

Not only would the bank reduce world grain stocks, but the concept would also reduce producer expenses. And, Congress would spend no more implementing the Soil Bank concept than they would pay market loss payments.

Congress plans to appropriate billions of dollars this fall for market loss payments and an overall farm bailout. Many on Capitol Hill are now questioning whether the landmark 1996 farm bill, "Freedom to Farm" is really working.

Good Economy Reduces Urgency For Tax Relief

"As tax relief bills begin to take shape in Congress, many observers have suggested that the public outcry against high taxes is missing," states Thomas J. Donohue, president and CEO of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. " In fact, in an era of economic prosperity, many taxpayers do not feel the same sense of urgency for relief as they have in times past."

What Donohue says makes a lot of sense. For the most part taxpayers don't look at their income taxes as part of their income anyway, since they are withheld by employers and paid to the government for them. As long as the paycheck comes on a regular basis—even in its tax-reduced form—the percentage of pay for Uncle Sam isn't a major concern.

Other taxes also seem acceptable when employment is high and economic times are good. It isn't the amount of money that is earned in exchange for labor or services that people count, it is the net amount that remains after taxes are paid. The average person believes he or she really has no control over the tax bite taken and doesn't concern himself or herself about it.

But people should be concerned, Donohue says, because there is good reason for concern. Today, the government's claim on our national income is the highest it has been since 1944—more than a fifth of the economy's output. According to the Tax Foundation, taxes at all levels consume nearly 38 percent of the average dual-income family's income—an average of $10,296 for every American man, woman and child.

"Medieval serfs, by comparison, had to give the lord of the manor only one-third of their output," remarks Daniel Mitchell, Senior Fellow with the Heritage Foundation.

"Yet the pro-tax refrain never ceases," Donohue says. "Once upon a time, we heard that federal taxes couldn't be cut because it would increase the deficit. Today, we hear that we can't cut taxes because we have a surplus! 'There are pressing public needs that we can now afford to meet, thanks to better economic times,' writes Robert Kuttyner, co-editor of the American Prospect. Translation? More government."

Donohue says that the mounting deficits of the 1980s and early 1990s were unfortunate and unwise but they did act as a restraining influence on growth of new government programs. With a projected surplus now at hand, the brakes are off for new programs.

The Chamber of Commerce executive has his ideas of what the country should do.

"A large chunk of the budget surplus is due to the fact that Social Security and Medicare are, right now, taking in more than they are spending, a situation that will soon end in the next century. So first, let's use two-thirds of the budget surplus to shore up these entitlements—put the money away in a 'lock-box' to be used only on those programs.

"Then," Donohue adds, "let's use the rest of the budget surplus for pro-growth initiatives and simplifying the tax code. These include: Repeal of the estate and gift tax, repeal of the corporote alternative minimum tax, a reduction in marginal income tax rates and a further reduction in corporate and individual capital gains taxes."

Donohue says it is "unthinkable" that our taxes are at the highest level in 55 years, yet we are actually considering leaving a huge surplus in Washington to give us more government.

"In fact," he says, "right now is the ideal time to cut taxes, because we can afford it and still shore up Social Security and Medicare at the same time. And we can't forget that tax relief is the surest way to keep the boom times rolling on."

We continue to believe that any surplus in tax receipts, beyond what is required for current obligations, should be applied to paying down the national debt and reducing the nation's interest costs. We don't see how a prudent government can do otherwise. But Donohue makes a good point when he states:

"Finally, we have to consider what is right for America and compatible with our beliefs in liberty as a people. Is a country that forces its citizens to pay more in taxes than they pay for food and housing—even in peacetime and in the face of mounting federal surpluses—a truly free country?"

It is a question that bears reflection.

County Fair No. 98....Another One Bites The Dust

Counting on down toward a Centennial Pennington County Fair in 2001, the 98th annual event is now history—swallowed up by the crest of a summer heat wave that broke only when the fair was ended.

Fair directors and fair workers and fairgoers all sweltered through the six-day event which started Tuesday evening and continued through Sunday night. Crowds were good at grandstand shows and the carnival and exhibits held their own in most areas. In contrast to a number of other county fairs where livestock has become almost a novelty, the fair in Thief River Falls has a loyal group of exhibitors which should receive a lot of credit for fitting and showing cattle, sheep, swine, goats, poultry, rabbits and tons of horses.

It should be recognized that a good fair doesn't happen by accident. The volunteer workers for the most part take their responsibilities very seriously and pride themselves in how well their departments run and how satisfied their exhibitors are. They meet on a daily basis during the fair to review any questions or potential problems, to make suggestions for improvements and to coordinate what needs to be done. For a number of workers, their vacation time is donated to fair operation, and they have made this sacrifice year after year.

There are many businesses, we are sure, which would love to have the loyalty and dedication of employees that the county fair has in its directors, department heads and volunteers. As long as the county fair is able to maintain that interest and loyalty, it will continue to be a summer tradition that people of all ages enjoy and patronize. If there is anything it could use that would make it better, it would be more people spending more time enjoying themselves there. Fair workers like to see people having a good time due to their efforts.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor:

As I sit here, writing my thank-you letters for the awards I received at our county fair this past week, I began to think of all of the things you at The Times have done for me—all of the years you have filled your paper with wonderful pictures from the county fair.

Just recently, talking with 4-Hers from other counties, I mentioned all of the pictures you have taken and articles written supporting our Pennington county 4-H program. Not all papers are so supportive.

How can I thank you for the past 11 years of my 4-H career. My last fair as a 4-H member is over and it is time to move on. I will move on with every article and picture clipping that I have saved from The Times. You have made our Pennington county 4-H program important and successful.

Marv and Dave have always had a very positive attitude when being overrun by youth waiting for pictures. Every year the smiles and fun comments make the wait worthwhile.

So, how do I thank you enough? A smile and a hug would never cover it. I think a standing ovation is more like it. I hope you at The Times continue to help keep our program going. The memories will be cherished not only by me, but by anyone and everyone who has been involved in this program.

Thank you,
Sanny Carlson

To The Editor:

We just returned from a one-week trip through the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness (BWCAW) and read your July 14 editorial. You may count us among the segment of the population that is grateful that our country has set aside this portion of God's Creation to be free of development and remain as He made it.

We concluded that your opinions likely resulted from unfamiliarity with the BWCAW and the joys and benefits of wilderness canoeing. We invite you to join us on a BWCAW canoe trip so that your future editorials may be more informed and accurate.

Sincerely,
Mike Langland, Jim Langland,

Auto Thrill Drivers To Perform At Fair Monday Night

"What happens when the irresistible force meets the immovable object? The All-American Thrill Drivers will attempt to find out at the Pennington county fair in Thief River Falls on Monday evening, August 1, as they send speeding automobiles into barriers of steel, brick and flame. Long noted as the originators of hair-raising thrill features, the All-Americans added to the first wall crash of a car into boards by first saturating the lumber with gasoline and sending unprotected cars through the inferno.

"Soon one wall wasn't enough and a complete house was built, set afire, and the machines driven completely through the flaming structure. This year the thrill group will give fair patrons even more excitement as they stack heavy steel oil drums into a pyramid on the raceway, send a car completely around the track to get the maximum speed, and leap the car off a high elevated platform into the solid wall of steel. No reinforcement of any kind is used on the automobiles and spectators may inspect the massive wrecks at the conclusion of the thrill performance at the fair."

Turkey Flocks In County Inspected By Dr. Billings

"Dr. W. A. Billings, extension veterinarian from the University Farm, along with County Agent Frank A. Hobbs, visited turkey farms throughout Pennington county last week. Dr. Billings, who has attained national fame through his confinement plan in reducing blackhead diseases in poultry flocks, advised the turkey growers to minimize the feed cost as the price outlook was rather uncertain. The turkey flocks that were visited were doing well, with only a few reporting more than 10 percent loss. A good many of the old-time turkey raisers in Pennington county that discontinued their turkeys last year are again in the turkey business with an increase in numbers throughout the county estimated at 40 to 50 percent."

First Street Bridge Closed To Auto Traffic Today

"The old First Street bridge shortly to be replaced by a new structure will be closed to automobile traffic starting today, it was announced by Stanley Michalski, foreman for the Minneapolis Bridge company on the construction project. Driving of piles for the new span is scheduled to start early next week. Pedestrians may continue to use the old bridge for the time being."

Red Lake Falls And Local Band To Perform At Fair

"Music lovers will be treated to two band concerts during the Pennington county fair next week. The Red Lake Falls band will play Monday evening in front of the bandstand from 7 to 8 o'clock preceding the All-American Thrill Drivers show. The Thief River Falls Legion municipal band will present a concert Wednesday evening from 7 to 8 and Thursday evening at the same hour."

THE NEWS, JOHN W. EASTMAN, PUBLISHER JULY 27, 1899

CAN'T BUILD
No New Court House for Red Lake County.

"The RED LAKE FALLS GAZETTE last week printed a statement to the effect that the county commissioners had decided to build a $5,000 court house at Red Lake Falls. This is untrue. The county has not the required amount on hand and the commissioners found that they could not legally issue bonds for the amount. It is well."

LIGHT UP
Or Fix Up the Roads: That's the Question.

"A gentleman was in the city the first of the week who wishes to secure a franchise for putting up an electric light plant in Thief River Falls. A rate of $120 per year for each light is asked, which is surely enough. The matter has been discussed by our business men quite thoroughly and it is believed that we had better wait a few years before putting in the lights and expend our surplus money in fixing up the roads leading into the city, which is a very wise thing."

Strandquist News

F. Myrtle Vagle • 436-2133

The weather in northwest Minnesota was not as severe here as was predicted and we do feel badly for the folks around Red Lake Falls, where they were completely hailed out with hailstones as large as baseballs. Today is bright and sunny and it looks like a week of perfect summer is on the agenda for us. That puts a spring in Roy's step and he's already out getting the lawns in shape.

Farming and the work outdoors is something he can't seem to retire from and his bean patch is something to behold. The bean tendrils have reached the top of his 8-ft. netting fence and is trying to reach the shop roof. He thinks it won't be long before he will be able to stand in the shade and harvest beans in a natural "brush arbor" formed by climbing beans.

The Strandquist Seniors met on Thursday with all members and two visitors who were Bonita Kasmierczak, and Iris Berggren's sister, Eilene Johnson from Washington. They had a potluck lunch after they played Bingo. Evelyn Kujava won the blackout. Five members went to Thief River Falls on Friday where they had dinner at Dee's Restaurant and went shopping. Next Tuesday they plan to take the bus to Grand Forks.

Clarence Lindstrom of Phoenix, AZ, is spending ten days as a guest at Morris and Marcelyn Lindstrom's home and visiting in the area with other families and friends.

Lois Kleinvachter returned home on Thursday evening after spending ten days in Missouri with Barb Woodruff.

Douglas, Karleen and Parker Holmstrom of Farmington and Dean Holmstrom visited with Elsie Lefrooth awhile on Saturday forenoon. Elsie went with them to spend a couple of hours at Dean and JoAnne's home before they joined over 100 others for the Holmstrom reunion picnic at the Florian Park.

Bud and Marie Steffen and Judy Kleinvachter met Bob Berggren, and Jens and Claudia Berggren, Jessie, Kail and Cheyenne at Roseau on Tuesday evening where they enjoyed a nice dinner.

Visitors at Morris and Marcelyn Lindstrom's home the past week were Ted and Lori Johnson, Jaimee, and Andy of Osage, and Dr. Paul Ditmanson, Danny, Brad, and Katie of Bemidji. The children spent a few days with grandpa and grandma while their mom, Diane, is recuperating from knee surgery.

Judy Kleinvachter, Kay Turnwall, June Kasprowicz, and Joan Gehrls enjoyed lunch at Hendy Farme Wednesday noon to celebrate Joan and June's birthdays.

Elsie Lefrooth and Myrtle Vagle enjoyed the big 80th birthday celebration for Judy Kleinvachter at the Center in Strandquist on Sunday afternoon. We joined so many relatives and friends that it would take the whole page to tell it. Those from far away were Bob Berggren and Jens of Mason City, Iowa, James Kleinvachter of Sauk Center, Brian Kasprowicz of St. Paul, Terry and Vicki Holmstrom of Seattle, and Carol Thompson of Red Lake Falls.

An enjoyable dinner was served and Judy had received a large bouquet of long stemmed roses and baby's breath. We had a great time visiting friends that we knew many years ago. In the evening, other visitors at Judy's home were Gary, Barb and Barry of Prior Lakes, Larina Berggren of Detroit Lakes, and Bud and Marie Steffen of Argyle.

Judy Kleinvachter had coffee and goodies with Teresa Olsted on Wednesday morning.

Gary Vagle of Delaware, Dan and LaVonne Vagle of Colorado Springs and Rodney and Ruth Anne Vagle of the Twin Cities have been visiting their mother, Agnes Vagle at Karlstad.

Richard and Robert Thompson have been visiting their sister, Barb Woodruff in St. Charles, Missouri, the past week.

Evan and Bea Grahn of Bradenton, Florida were Saturday morning coffee guests at the Virgil Hjelle home. They also conducted services at the Viking Covenant Church on Sunday, and are visiting friends and relatives in the Roseau and Viking areas.

Ardelle Anderson visited with Dale Anderson in Warren and spent Wednesday and Thursday at the Jon Melby home at Badger.

Sally Ranum, Ardelle Anderson and Arlene Henson were among those from Viking Covenant Church who attended Christian Women's meeting last Tuesday night in Thief River Falls.

Darrel and Shirley Swenson and grandson, Ross, stopped in at Liz Swenson's home on Sunday afternoon and treated her to some fresh walleye.

Wedding

Renae Tervo, daughter of Albert and Evelyn Tervo, was married to Robert Vaules on Saturday, July 3, at Long Lake, MN. Her parents attended and said it was a very pretty outdoor wedding, and the reception held at the Radison Hotel was grand. The happy couple are making their home in Minnetonka. Congratulations, and the best of wishes!

Hazel Ollila, Emile Pederson, Sharon Iverson, and Darwin Norman of Red Lake Falls attended the funeral for Katie Luxenburg at Argyle last week.

The Esther Circle of Immanuel met on Wednesday afternoon at the church with Rosemary Eskell leading the Bible study, and Ramona Heden serving as hostess.

Hazel Ollila returned from Sacramento, CA, late Wednesday where she had flown to visit her brother, Floyd and his wife, Fay Peterson. She went with them to San Jose to attend the wedding of niece, Kim Petersen to John McGuire, at the Santa Clara Mission. Hazel's brother, Ritz of Seattle, came also, and they all enjoyed being together.

On Hazel's return flight from Sacramento, she happened to meet Gloria Froseth Borm at the Minneapolis Airport. She sent greetings to her friends in Plummer, where she had lived and worked at the school as a secretary for several years. She was with her husband, Jerry, and a granddaughter, daughter of son Blair. The Borms now live in Minnetonka.

Wevel Sorenson attended the visitation for Alvin Kompen of Goodridge and also the visitation for Vernon Wickstrom of Grygla, at Green Funeral Home on Thursday. Later she visited at the home of Gene Prestegaard.

Assisting Pastor Johnson in a worship service last Thursday at Hillcrest, were Amelia Eskell, Jean Mett, and Clare Hesse and granddaughter, Michelle Olson.

LaVerne Kappedal had the misfortune of suffering a broken arm and bruised eye from a fall, and was hospitalized for three days in Winnipeg last week. He is at home now and recovering nicely.

Barbie and Mike Konickson hosted a supper on Thursday night for Merle and Noreen Johnson, Joey and Johnnie Johnson, Carol and Jerry Gererdy, Kevin and Lisa Gererdy, Tammie and Josh Gererdy, and Charles and Ronnie Gererdy. They all enjoyed a delicious fish fry.

Carol and Jerry and guests, Merle and Noreen Johnson and their grandsons, Joey and Johnnie, attended the Red Lake County Fair at Oklee, and then went on to the Clearwater State Park near Itasca where they met Mr. and Mrs. Harold Neilson of St. Paul. They were camping in the park and they all had supper together.

Lloyd and Wevell Sorenson, and Tony and Virginia Weber of Trail, attended the Thoreldson family reunion on Saturday at Cross Lake.

Goodwin and Lucille Kvaseger spent the weekend in the Twin Cities as guests of her sister, Bernice Larson of Minnetonka. They also visited with daughter, Janet and Charlie Hebert and girls, and saw the girls in a play.

County Fair

Another fun-filled Red Lake County Fair has just been enjoyed by all. A variety of booths and exhibits filled the school gym and were very interesting. President Kathy Juneau of the Red Lake County Economic Development Corporation announces the winners of their booth as follows: gift certificates were won by Betty Solie of Fertile - $20.00; Ardell Olson of Oklee - $10.00; and Ron Weiss of Red Lake Falls - $10.00. Working the booth this year were Linda Mickelson, Barbara Harmoning, Ray Lessard, and Kathy Juneau.

Senior Day at the Fair

A large number of Plummer senior citizens attended the Red Lake County Fair on Friday. It was a pleasure to see the Outstanding Senior Citizens Award going to Pauline and Bill Pureth of Red Lake Falls. They are most deserving. The sixth grade essay winners on My Best Over-80 Friend" were Grace Johnson and Andy Swenson, who read their essays and will advance to the State Fair. Music by the Srekke boys provided a special treat! Many door prizes were awarded and I believe they were all donated by Red Lake Falls folks. Many thanks! Many of our youth received prizes and ribbons in their 4-H exhibits, also. Good weather was a great factor, and it was a successful fair.

Grandma
by Andy Swenson
(son of Mike and Nancy Swenson)

My Grandma Betty was sixty-five when I was born. She was the best, and I admire her.

When I would go to her house, right away she would ask what I'd been doing. She always liked doing things with me and the rest of the family. I remember going snowmobiling, sledding, tobogganing, and dancing with her. Also going fishing with her on the Thief River. Even when her arthritis was bad, she would just have fun.

Grandma was always thinking of others. Every trip her and my Grandpa would go on she would bring something back for all of us. One time she brought back potato chips back from a factory. Even when she got cancer she was thinking of others.

Almost every time I'd go there we would play bingo. Also every time I would go there she would be working on a new craft. She would drop everything she was doing to talk to me, and do something with me.

At Christmas she would make a craft for everyone. Grandma would decorate the Christmas tree with homemade ornaments. She would never let you leave without some kind of food. She would never come to our house without bringing something to eat.

During deer hunting, she would always find something for us to do.

Every year we would travel to Rolleg on Labor Day weekend. We would go on my Grandpa and Grandpa's R.V. We would go on rides and watch the parade all day. Then we would go eat the food that my Grandma had made back at the R.V. When my brother got stung by wasps at Rolleg she made a paste to draw out the sting.

She was always helping people by going to the nursing home, calling people to see how they were doing, and sending get-well cards.

Even on the last day before she died she was thinking of others. She had to see my new bike, and I showed it to her through the window. Grandma Betty gave me one of her last smiles I'd ever see again.

My Best Over-80 Friend
By Grace Johnson
(daughter of Larry Johnson & Gemma Oress)

My Grandma Mary is my best over-80 friend. Even though she's 85, she still throws wood in her stove, rides horses, and drives a car. All winter long, even though she had a heater, she throws wood in a big stove in her basement. I've tried to help her, but she says I'm not quite strong enough. My Grandma's funny too. Like sometimes she misunderstands me when I tell her a name, or she forgets what day it is. But that's okay, I love her just the same. All the pets we have are mixed up. Like, our dog's a girl, but she always calls her a boy. Her cat, Rose, follows her everywhere. When I go over to her house after school, sometimes I find the cat sitting on her lap, both of them asleep. Sometimes Grandma cooks for us. Once we had pudding, but Grandma accidentally put baking powder in it. Once we had cottage cheese, and Grandma added Plastic Wrap.

I remember when I was five, I used to sleep overnight at her house. She and I would play games, and watch TV until 10:00! I always got to stay up late at Grandma's. Her favorite show was Wild Discovery. Then we'd go downstairs to her room and read. Then at about 10:30, we'd turn off the light and pray together. Grandma always taught me new prayers. She'd pray the rosary, and I'd listen because I didn't know it. Then in the morning, we'd get up at 7:00! Then we'd put together a puzzle. All the puzzles we put together were pretty big, so we put them on frames. sometimes I got to help frame them. If we didn't have a frame, we'd go to Thief River Falls. Even though she doesn't drive that far anymore, she's still my best over-80 friend.

Personnel items occupy school board

Vern Isaacson, 30-year teacher, joins ranks of recent retirees

Extra-curricular assignments were approved by the school board Monday night, and the school board approved another resignation.

The resignation of Vern Isaacson as science teacher at Lincoln High school was accepted by the school board Monday night. Isaacson has been a science teacher with the district for 30 years.

Superintendent Jerry Robicheau said that at the beginning of the next school year there will have been 31 changes in licensed staff. That's out of a total of 160 licensed staff in the district.

Robicheau said that this is indicative of the times this district is in. The district, he said, is fast approaching a 25 to 30 percent change in staff on a yearly basis. He expects this to continue for the next three to five years.

As alarming as that might be, Robicheau said the school district is in a fine position to attract quality individuals. He added that the licensed staff they have hired are excellent.

"Staff changes are also indicative of a much larger issue that's occurring throughout the United States — an increasingly mobile workforce, and a workforce generally returning to where they grew up."

Robicheau remains confident about the changes, and encouraged by the number and quality of applicants applying for the positions.

Robicheau said the district is searching for a principal to fill the position vacated by Terry Soine, principal of Lincoln High School. He noted that nationally, there are fewer people who want administrative positions, so it is difficult to fill those positions. In the meantime an interim leadership team will be created.

A request for leave without pay was approved for Päivi Young, German teacher. Young plans to pursue an advanced degree in educational administration.

The school board recognized the following: a $500 donation from the Communication Workers of America donated to the Challenger Playground Equipment Fund.

The school board approved the following personnel items from the Consent Agenda: the resignation of Val Bakken as school psychologist/counselor at Franklin; the resignation of Patricia Peterson as special ed teacher at Challenger; the resignation of Kelly Derosier as administrative support person at Franklin; the resignation of Kim Langan as family advocacy assistant in the district; the resignation of Dawn Stram as cleaner in the district; the resignation of Melissa Rux as cleaner in the district; the resignation of Terri Ueland as head cross country coach; the resignation of Caara Holmstrom as assistant track coach; the transfer of Esther Gallagher from Challenger building secretary to Franklin school secretary; the employment of Carla Hruby as summer hearing teacher at Challenger; the employment of Pamela Bagnall as Summer TMH pupil program support assistant; the employment of David Christianson as band teacher long-term substitute at Lincoln; the employment of Larry Langevin as technical/physical science teacher at Lincoln; the employment of Darlene McCauley as home economics teacher at Lincoln; the employment of Rebecca Winters as English/language arts teacher at Lincoln; the employment of Kristin Buckley as band teacher at Franklin; the employment of Mark Lee as industrial arts teacher; the employment of Crystal Skoglund as phy ed/health teacher at Franklin; the employment of Bernice McKeever as EBD teacher; the employment of Karla Swanson as special education teacher at Franklin; the employment of John Rutten as Challenger elementary school assistant principal; the employment of Paula Praska as .5 FTE fifth grade teacher at Challenger; the employment of Kathy Barry as EBD pupil program support assistant at Franklin;

Also, the board approved the following extra-curricular assignments for the 1999-2000 school year: Darcy Reese as high school musical/trip advisor, Roxi Nicholson as ticket seller, Connie Stock as high school spring play, Art Welter as FMS knowledge bowl advisor, Scott Bomholdt as high school stage manager, Audrey Burda as high school concessions advisor, Lynn Dyer as high school business club advisor, Rosaline Groven for high school ushers, Alice Hofstad for high school photo club, Angie Hoglo for high school Knowledge bowl, Patti Johnson for high school Envirothon, Patti Johnson for high school science fair, Brenda Leier for FMS spelling bee advisor, Sheryl Novacek as 12th grade advisor, Brenda Olson as high school math league advisor, Regina Olson as National Honor Society advisor, Regina Olson as 10th grade advisor, Darcy Reese as director of the high school Swingsations, Elise Row as FMS yearbook advisor, Lisa Semanko as high school student senate advisor, Lisa Sisler as FMS science fair advisor, Bob Stenson as FMS student senate advisor, Bob Stenson as FMS school store advisor, Connie Stock as high school one-act play, Connie Stock as high school speech advisor, Tina Diaz, as FMS speech coach, Sharon Fugleberg as ticket seller, Bill Stock as fall weight room supervisor, Jenny Hanestad as FMS fall weight room supervisor, Connie Stock as high school fall play, Scott Brekke as high school assistant football coach, Glenn Chiodo as high school assistant football coach, Charlie Cornell as high school assistant football

Painting unveiled at depot ceremony

Many people are expected to attend the greatly anticipated unveiling of a commissioned painting at the Historic Soo Line Depot at 2:30 p.m. on Friday, August 6.

Larry Fisher, widely acknowledged as one of the finest railway nostalgia artists, was commissioned by volunteers to create a painting utilizing the Soo Line Depot and Locomotive 1024 pulling the Winnipeger, a passenger train. Fisher, a native of Harvey, ND, is himself a Soo Line "son".

"Not in my wildest dreams did I expect this to happen," said Don Stewart, community development director. Stewart explained that while he was recuperating at home one day he was flipping through a couple of railroad nostalgia books and took note of a couple of paintings. Both were painted by Fisher. A short time later, JoAnn Protz of Mesa, AZ, and Jean Dickinson of Williamstown, VT, came into his office while in Thief River Falls for a class reunion and were so pleased with the renovation of the depot that they wanted to do something for the depot. (Both are daughters of fathers who worked for the Soo Line.) While discussing a number of possible projects, he mentioned his idea about an artist's commission. "They liked that idea right away," Stewart said.

Stewart warned them that it could be a very expensive project, but that didn't stop them. Within a short period of time they obtained donations and pledges from over 100 people and totaling over $7,600.

Following his conversation with Dickinson and Protz, Stewart got in contact with Larry Fisher's publisher. After discussing the idea with him he sent a bunch of information about the railroad depot, and several pictures.

Stewart said that when he saw the final product, a 48- by 30-inch acrylic painting that Fisher had created, he said it was exactly as he had envisioned it. It was as if he had taken a picture from his thoughts, he said.

The original painting will be unveiled in the ceremony Friday and will hang in the city council chambers because of its value. The frame for the print was donated by Pine to Prairie Art Gallery Custom Framing. A print from the original will be on display in a more public area of the depot.

A total of 500 limited prints, signed and numbered, are also available. The city will be selling the first 200 prints, and has four each of the artist's and publisher's proofs. (The proofs are considered more valuable than the numbered prints.) The city also has an option to buy any or all of the remaining 300 prints. People who contributed $500 or more will receive a free print out of the first 200. People who donated $100 will be able

Four director nominees to seek hospital board

Four nominees for two three-year terms on the board of directors of Northwest Medical Center Association will be on the ballot when the annual meeting of the association is conducted Monday, September 13, at the Best Western Inn of Thief River Falls.

Two of the nominees have been nominated by the medical center board and two by petition under provision outlined in the association by-laws. The nomination process for this year's annual meeting is now closed.

Biographical sketches of the four candidates will be made available prior to the association's annual meeting, according to Richard A. Spyhalski, chief executive officer.

Nominated by the medical center board were incumbents Lyle D. Hanson, who was appointed May 24 to fill the unexpired term of Charles R. Richards, and Karen Kirkeby. Nominated by petition were Robert (Bob) Carlson and Robert Dicken, M.D.

Spyhalski said that the time and agenda for the annual meeting have not yet been determined by the board of directors, but will be announced to the media and in a mailing to the association membership during the week of August 30.

Dredging of reservoir will begin this week

Dredging of the reservoir in Thief River Falls is expected to begin this week. On Thursday, J.F. Brennan Co. plans to have the pipe lines assembled, and to unload the dredging equipment at the Third Street bridge.

Allan Page of J.F. Brennan of LaCross, WI, said the operation should not affect use of the river by boaters or fishermen. He did ask that people use caution on the river. The pipeline will be marked with a buoy every 200 feet or so. He said that because of the type of material used for the pipe, there will be times when the pipeline will be seen on the surface of the water. He explained that because of the material used in the pipeline, when water is being pumped through the pipeline it will float, but sink when slurry is being pumped through the pipeline.

"There's a Coast Guard saying that's applicable here," Page said, — "If you do not understand what you see, slow down."

Dredging will begin near the Eighth Street bridge. The area included in the two-year project, extends from the Third Street bridge, up the Red Lake river to Finsbury Park along the main channel with a 15 foot buffer on either side of the river. Local officials are still attempting to raise funds to expand the project area to include a portion of the Thief River north of the Eighth Street bridge.

Sediment will be pumped to a containment area north of Northland Community and Technical College.

Page said the dredge will be operated by a two-man team five days a week, 24 hours per day. It may expand to six days a week as fall approaches.

He said that the dredging equipment will not muddy up the river nor affect fishing. Everyone will be able to use the river as they always have, but he asks that they use caution and be aware of where the dredging machine and pipes are.

Media Arts program gives students wide experience

Media Arts program in the Northern Expressions School of the Arts—the magnet arts program at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls—isn't one of the highly visible arts areas but provides its students with a wide variety of experiences in photography, multimedia, computer graphic arts and video production.

In the school year completed this spring, Instructor Alice Hofstad had five students complete the program. They were seniors Jessica Harstad, Erin Delmore, Stephanie Tveiten, April Schmit and Jessica T. Nelson.

The program is offered as a one-year or two-year option. Students in the first year are given an introduction to the basics of all four study areas. Those who opt for the second year may select an area of concentration. The second year students in the 1998-99 school year concentrated in photography. Early in the year a project plan was determined to assist the students in what they wanted to accomplish for the year.

Hofstad said that photography is a good basis for the other three areas of study in her program.

"In photography students learn good photographic design and composition as well as the basics of operating single lens reflex (SLR) cameras, creative use of adjustable camera controls and the application and use of wide angle and telephoto lenses," she said.

"Students also use the darkroom to develop their film and learn how to make prints of good contrast and exposure and free from blemishes. They also get to experiment with some special effects such as sepia toning and using calendar masks."

Students begin the year working with black-and-white photography and then move on to video work. From there they progress to the computer and digital programs.

"Photography seems to be the key element to much of what the students do in the program, so it's a logical area in which to start," Hofstad said. "The basics of composition are emphasized throughout the year in everything the students do; whether it is in taking or printing a photo, making a video or creating an advertisement, digital image or a brochure. Photography provides the basis for that study of composition."

In video production students learn to use a video camera and editing system. They make personal videos using photographs to tell a story and add narration and music. As their familiarity with equipment and skills increase, they plan, script, storyboard, shoot and edit videos for a variety of purposes.

Media Arts students have made videos for the Thief River Falls Education Foundation, promotion of the magnet arts program, School District 564 and various needs around Lincoln high school.

In multi-media students learn new uses for the computer. This has Search nets LSD stash at TRF residence Wed.

Law Enforcement officials in Thief River Falls seized the largest amount of LSD they have ever found during the execution of a search warrant at a residence on Dewey Avenue last week.

Shane Scott Stone, 27, Thief River Falls, faces felony charges of controlled substance crime in the third and fourth degree following an investigation by the Paul Bunyan Task Force. The task force executed the search warrant at a residence on Dewey Avenue on Wednesday, July 28, with the assistance of the Bureau of Criminal Apprehension, Thief River Falls Police department, the Pennington County Sheriff's department and the department's new canine unit. During the search, officials seized drug paraphernalia, and 40 units of LSD. Officials were surprised at the amount of LSD found, and pleased with the performance of Magnum, the sheriff's department's new canine officer.

Drugs. On July 27 at 10:58 p.m. police were called regarding loud noise at Northland Village. Upon checking, officers heard loud noise and then smelled marijuana coming from an apartment. They called the canine unit and Magnum found drug paraphernalia in the apartment. A charge of possessing drug paraphernalia is pending against 20-year-old Courtney Lee Cole, Thief River Falls.

Consumption. On July 28 at 1:54 a.m. a local parent reported that a son and his friend had been drinking alcohol. Charges are pending for consumption of alcohol against two 14-year-old males of Thief River Falls.

On July 31 at 11:19 p.m. following a complaint of underage drinkers in the 500 block of West First Street, charges are pending for consumption under age against the following: 18-year-old William Joseph Puppe, Thief River Falls; 18-year-old Cassandra Mae Hamilton of St. Hilaire; 18-year-old Jennifer Jean King of Holma; 18-year-old Darren Craig Torkelson of Thief River Falls; two 17-year-old females, a 16-year-old female, and a 17-year-old male.

On August 2 at 10:22 p.m. police stopped a vehicle for a broken light. The officer alleged that he smelled alcohol from the occupants. A charge of furnishing alcohol to a person under age is pending against 21-year-old Dorian Aris Myers, Thief River Falls. Dustin James Bierch, 18, Ramsey, was cited for consumption while driving.

Driving while intoxicated. On July 27 at 7:07 p.m. police received complaints about a vehicle being driven in an erratic manner, including one report that it jumped the railroad tracks. Upon investigation, 21-year-old Lee Ann Gast of Newfolden, was cited for driving while intoxicated.

On August 3 at 3:19 a.m. following a traffic stop, a charge of driving while intoxicated is pending against 45-year-old Patricia Kay Heschke, Thief River Falls.

Thefts. On July 29 at 2:51 a.m. the sheriff's department received a report from a resident of Reiner township that someone had broken into a vehicle and had taken a portable CD player, 40 to 50 CDs in a case, and a chainsaw in a case. The total theft loss was estimated at $730. There was also damage to the mailbox.

On July 29 at 11:58 a.m. the police department received a report that someone had taken a 1987 Mercury four-door, silver in color. The license number was 744 JGU. It was taken from a location in Riverview trailer court, and was valued at $200.

Accidents. On July 29 at 2:24 p.m. police received a report of an accident at the entrance to an alley between the Post Office and the Watershed District office on First Street. Jayme Curtis Wilson, Thief River Falls, had just turned into the alley driving a 1997 Chevrolet pickup, when the pickup collided with a 1988 Chevrolet Blazer traveling west on First Street and being driven by Angie Lynn Johnson of Red Lake Falls. Wilson was cited for failure to yield. Police estimated damages at $1,000 to the Wilson vehicle, and $1,500 to the Johnson vehicle.

On July 29 at 9:09 a.m. police received a report of an accident in the 200 block of North Kendall. Justin Dean Crabtree, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1987 Mercury Sable, west on Mussey, and Clarence John Roland, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1997 Chevrolet Lumina north on Kendall when the vehicles collided in the intersection. Roland had minor cuts and abrasions. Police estimated damages at $3,000 to the Crabtree vehicle, and $2,500 to the Roland vehicle.

On July 31 at 11:48 p.m. the sheriff's department received a report of a one-vehicle roll over on County road 75, one-half mile south of County 21. Chad Mitchell Borneman, Thief River Falls, was driving a 1988 Jeep south on County road 75, slid on a corner, over corrected and the vehicle went into the north ditch. One passenger, Cory Geescott Loeffler, Thief River Falls, was thrown from the vehicle. He had facial cuts and bruises. Another passenger, Brandon Narlock of Thief River Falls, was reported to have a fractured skull and cheekbone and was taken to Northwest Medical Center and transferred to Altru Hospital in Grand Forks where he was listed in satisfactory condition (Monday August 2). Borneman had facial cuts and injuries. The Jeep was considered a total loss.

Disorderly conduct. On July 30 at 3:42 p.m. police received a report of a disturbance at a local motel. An individual allegedly became unruly and scuffled with officers who were investigating the complaint. Anthony Clyde Brenna, Jr., 47, Thief River Falls, was cited for disorderly conduct.

These reports include names of individuals charged, arrested or cited with various crimes and offenses by police, the sheriff's department or other law enforcement officials. Depending upon the circumstances of a case, charges can be, and sometimes are, changed or dropped by law enforcement officials or attorneys even before the case reaches court. Readers should also realize that under the American system of jurisprudence, individuals charged with crimes are innocent until proven guilty of those crimes in a court of law.

NCTC student receives $500 scholarship

The Minnesota Chiefs of Police Education Foundation declared Steve Rehorst, a former Northland Community and Technical College student a winner. Rehorst was one of 10 students awarded a $500 scholarship. The awards were announced last week by a committee of police chiefs delegated with the task of sifting through many quality applications. The foundation selects scholarship recipients based on their academic achievement and successful completion of a law enforcement program, their behavior, attitude and commitment to the profession — all of which Steve Rehorst has clearly demonstrated.

"Mr. Rehorst showed remarkable abilities and will most certainly be an asset to the law enforcement profession," said Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser. "I am very proud to support such a qualified candidate."

"Public service of peace and justice is a lifelong commitment. Students deserve our support as do our citizens deserve the finest police officers," said Chairman Craig Anderson.

Thief River Falls Police Department and Minnesota Chiefs of Police Educational Foundation congratulates Rehorst and all the enthusiastic and determined law enforcement students.

Rehorst has completed a two-year degree at Northland Community and Technical College, has taken his skills test, and plans to attend Moorhead State University this fall after taking his police officer's examination.

Two accidents reported to State Patrol Sunday

Two accidents in the Thief River Falls area were reported to the Minnesota State Patrol Sunday evening. Both accidents resulted in moderate to extensive damage, but no injuries.

At 7:17 p.m. on August 1, the State Patrol received a report of an accident at Highway 59 and Sixth Street. According to the accident report, Edward Vandestreek, East Grand Forks, was driving a pickup east on Highway 59 and attempting to turn left onto Sixth Street when a 1987 Dodge Diplomat driven by Irwin Orville Underbakke of Argyle, collided with the rear of Vandestreek's pickup. Neither were injured. There was moderate damage to the Vandestreek vehicle, but extensive damage to the Underbakke vehicle.

At 8:51 p.m. on Sunday, August 1, the State Patrol received a report of an accident on Highway 59 near the frontage road in front of Kmart. Daylin Kelly Holthusen, Thief River Falls, was driving a car south on Highway 59, when a car driven by Craig Donn Harstad of Viking exited the frontage road and made a left turn onto Highway 59. There was extensive damage to both vehicles, but no injuries.

Steve Rehorst (right), a graduate of Northland Community and Technical College law enforcement program, was named one of 10 students statewide awarded a Minnesota Chiefs of Police Education Foundation scholarship. The scholarship was presented to Rehorst by Thief River Falls Police Chief Ken Froschheiser.

"Main Street guy" Bill Dee one of this year's honored seniors

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

"Tireless worker" were words used by Dale Wennberg when nominating Bill Dee for this year's Pennington County Senior Citizen of the Year award.

While Wennberg was referring to Bill's contributions as a board member of the Pennington County Historical Society, the phrase might also be appropriate when describing Dee's every day life. After all, the 75-year-old's idea of retiring is "cutting back" to a 40-hour work week.

At this point, retirement doesn't seem to appeal to him, and he says of others who have left their careers, "Those guys seem to go home, sit down in a chair, and you never hear from them again."

Bill came to Thief River Falls in 1967. He managed and eventually became a co-owner of the Ben Franklin store. He also spent a number of years with Woolworth and then managed Florence's Cafe for eight years.

"I've been a main street guy for quite a while," Bill says. Today he can be found wearing a red vest at Ace Hardware five days a week. As the commercials promise, "Ace is the place with the helpful hardware man," and Bill says he "gives people a bad time, and they come back."

While he enjoys helping customers solve their problems at the store, he says, "I am gonna retire one of these days." However, you can be sure that he won't be one of those guys who goes home and stays there.

Bill's wife, Doris, continues to work, too. As the "pie lady," she is responsible for the delicious pastries served at Handy Farms, and at home, Bill says, "She sews and sews and sews." Doris makes bridesmaids' gowns and the like, and, understandably, there are times when it's best that he stays out of her way.

The couple raised three sons and three daughters who now reside as nearby as Moorhead and as far away as England. They also have nine grandchildren. Recently Bill and Doris celebrated their 51st wedding anniversary in Florida where they were joined by four of their children and several of the grandkids.

Through the years, Bill has been involved in numerous community activities.

For a number of years he helped with the TRFinettes. As a young Boy Scout in Faribault he had performed with a drum and bugle corps, and in Thief River Falls, he enjoyed assisting with the corps of young women.

He, like others, has fond memories of the 1973 TRFinette group which competed in the national contest in New Orleans. As the corps' public relations chair, he was involved in fund-raising efforts and spent six months lining up accommodations for the group as it made its way to and from New Orleans.

Bill was also instrumental in organizing the United Fund campaign in Thief River Falls and was actively involved in youth sports programs as his children grew up.

As an avid stamp collector for 35 years, Bill was crushed when someone stole "the good stuff" from his extensive collection. He didn't have the heart to get back into it and turned his attention instead to collecting Prowler yearbooks.

One of his first finds at an auction sale was a 1938 Prowler, and making it special was the fact that that was the year Thief River Falls competed against and beat his hometown of Faribault in the championship game of the state basketball tournament.

Bill's collection of yearbooks also led him to an interest in the Pennington County Historical Society (PCHS) and Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village. Deciding that the village "could use a shot in the arm," he joined its board of directors seven years ago.

"It was funny," Bill says. "I joined the board one week, and the next week I was its president." For the past three years, he has served as treasurer.

Things are much different today than they were seven years ago when, according to Bill, the PCHS had $39 in its checking account and an outstanding bank loan.

"Year by year, we've built it up," Bills says, and as membership has increased so has the revenue. As treasurer, he says, "It's nice to have some money to take care of."

Bill also credits many of the society's successes to the work of its other board members and its interim director, Carol Bagge.

He notes that the PCHS Pioneer Family, selected by the board of directors and honored as part of the the American Festival, has been enormously successful in bringing people to the village during the past two years.

When nominating Bill for the Pennington County Senior Citizen of the Year, fellow PCHS board member Dale Wennberg singled him out as a tireless worker who spends hours arranging and caring for the farm implements and vintage automobiles that occupy the Engelstad Building as well as helping out in a host of other ways.

Along with Olga Engevik, Bill was honored as one of the county's Senior Citizens of the Year at a program at the recent Pennington County Fair.

Bill humbly accepted the award, giving credit to the many other seniors who donate numerous volunteer hours to community concerns.

Along with the plaque from the Pennington County Board of Commissioners and other presentations made at the program, the honored seniors should have received certificates from Governor Ventura, and it was pointed out that none of the counties had, at that time, received the certificates from the state office.

The fact that the state's colorful leader was a few days late didn't bother Bill as Governor Ventura had done him a personal favor only a few weeks ago.

Bill's scoutmaster from Faribault is a gentleman by the name of John C. Wells who now lives in Sun City West, Arizona, and he's the man Bill says has inspired him throughout his life. At Christmas time, Bill sent Mr. Wells a Jesse Ventura sweatshirt. The older gentleman was enthralled with the garment which he told Bill "made him a hit" with his friends.

Realizing that John Wells' 90th birthday was coming up in June and noting his interest in Governor Ventura, Bill wrote to the Governor and requested an autographed photograph for his friend. Ventura didn't disappoint Bill, responding with two signed photographs and a letter of greeting to Mr. Wells.

Bill extended his birthday surprise for his older friend further. Fifteen of the 32 scouts who were in the Faribault troop survive, and Bill contacted each one, asking him to send a card or letter to Mr. Wells on his birthday. To Bill's delight and surely that of Mr. Wells, each responded to his request.

With regard to the certificates due Bill and Olga from the Governor's office, they arrived a few days after the fair.

Both of this year's honored seniors plan to represent Pennington county at the Minnesota State Fair at a program on September 2.

In the meanwhile, Bill Dee can be found at Ace Hardware or, on his days off, Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village, full of great stories and giving folks the kind of "bad time" that they're anxious to come back for.

Bill Dee of Thief River Falls was honored as one of the county's Senior Citizens of the Year at the 1999 Pennington County Fair recently. Dale Wennberg, who nominated Dee, cited him as a tireless worker in his efforts for the Pennington County Historical Society and Peder Engelstad Pioneer Village.

Dedication of MEC track, field postponed

During a Multi-Events Center Joint Powers Board meeting Thursday, July 29, it was announced that dedication of the Multi-Events Center track and field has been postponed. Officials feel the field is unprepared for play and there are cracks in the track that need to be addressed.

Good news was also received by the board Thursday, when the city reported receiving a $150,000 state matching grant for the softball and baseball fields located northeast of the football field; and, Rick Nelson reported that they will submit a $1 million grant request to the Minnesota Amateur Sports Commission. Those funds would be used for amateur sports, including soccer fields and tennis courts.

Dedication of the Multi-Events Center had been tentatively scheduled for September 25. Difficulties growing grass, an uneven playing field, and cracks in the track all contributed to the decision to postpone dedication.

Problems growing grass are less worrisome than cracks in the new track. In looking into the problems, Roger Pocta, private consultant, said soil borings were taken and tests performed on the track. The study determined there were a number of factors that could explain the differential cracks – weather conditions during construction, thickness of the base aggregate, and grading on the outside of the track which led to ponding of water. Eventually, moisture seeped into the base aggregate.

Pocta said that unfortunately, there is no one thing they can do to solve the problem. He recommended that marks be painted on the track at several locations and elevations taken during the months of March, April and May. This will tell them where the heaving is taking place and how much heaving is taking place. Second, he recommended that grading be performed on the outside of the track to reduce ponding. The third recommendation was that a vibrator be used on the track to consolidate the loose aggregate. Once the underlying problems are addressed, the track surface can be repaired by milling out the tracks, putting a fabric over the cracks and patching the surface.

It was clear to board members that the track will not be used next spring, and the polyeurathane should not be placed over the surface. Upon further discussion, the board decided to take these recommended steps, and in addition, place drain tiles along the outside of the track this summer.

Drain tiles had been included in the original plans but because it was thought that a lift station would be needed to effectively remove the water from the site, it was dropped from the plans. The board was told Thursday, that a lift station would not be needed at the site. Officials are still trying to determine the cost of the effort to repair the track.

The board was also reassured that steps were being taken to replant and maintain grass at the site.

Swimming pool. Dr. Orley Gunderson, chairman of the Joint Powers board, said that he had received an inquiry about the swimming pool. Gunderson said an individual was worried about the design of the pool. The board has not approved a design for the pool, and is still accepting donations for it.

Whitefeather to chair Indian Affairs Council

Bobby Whitefeather, chairman of the tribal council of the Red Lake Band of Chippewa Indians, has been elected chairman of the Minnesota Indian Affairs council to succeed Dallas Ross.

Whitefeather's selection, which took place at the quarterly meeting of the council's board July 20, will become official when the full council ratifies the board action at its meeting in October. He has previously served as the state council's vice chairman.

Prior to becoming the Red Lake Band's chairman, Whitefeather served on the tribal council since 1986, first as tribal treasurer and then as tribal secretary. A veteran of military service during the Vietnam War, he majored in business administration and minored in accounting while attending Bemidji State University.

Norman Deschampe, chairman of the Grand Portage Band of Chippewa, was elected vice chairman to succeed Whitefeather. Loretta Gagnon, a member of the Turtle Mountain Band of Ojibwe of North Dakota, was reelected secretary—a position she has held since 1989. Doris Isham, chairwoman of the Bois Forte Tribal Council, was elected treasurer.

The Minnesota Indian Affairs Council was established in 1963 by the Minnesota legislature to serve as the official liaison between the State of Minnesota and the 11 tribal governments within the state.

The council advises state government on issues pertaining to the state's Indian population and plays a central role in the development of state legislation designed to improve and enhance the state's Indian communities. Its central mission is to protect the sovereignty of Minnesota's 11 tribes and to ensure the well-being of American Indians throughout the state of Minnesota.

The chairs of the 11 tribes and two at-large members who represent American Indian tribal members who are not from Minnesota-based tribes oversee the activities of the council. The council has an executive director and staff in offices located in Bemidji and St. Paul.

The cake was cut by Debbie Bertelsen, aunt of the bride, and Leanna Bengston, aunt of the groom.

Shari Long, sister of the groom, was the flower hostess, and the gift table was attended by Maria Alby, sister-in-law of the couple, and Tracy Jordet, friend of the bride.

Liza Phelps recognized in economics program

Liza Phelps, a student at Lincoln high school and Adawn McLean, her vocational agriculture teacher, were recently honored for their outstanding achievement in the statewide economics program called Commodity Challenge.

Phelps and McLean attended the Commodity Challenge Celebration, a two-day event in the Twin Cities sponsored by Cargill, Inc. The program is a project of the Minnesota Council on Economic Education, a statewide partnership of business, labor and education dedicated to promoting economic literacy in Minnesota.

Commodity Challenge encourages students to apply economic theory to the real world. Each student selects a commodity, researches it and makes paper trades on the future markets over a five-week period. He or she then writes an essay describing the process and what has been learned. Winners are chosen on the learning the student experienced, as reflected in the essay. Top honors this year were won by Sara Lentz of Maple River high school in Mapleton for her project on coffee.

More than 1,300 students from throughout Minnesota participated in the challenge during the 1998-1999 academic year. Each participating teacher was invited to bring outstanding students to the celebration, held June 28-29. The event included an awards luncheon; tours of Cargill's headquarters, a General Mills processing facility and the State Capitol; a meeting with Lt. Gov. Mae Schunk; a mock trading session on the floor of the Minneapolis Grain Exchange; and social events.

Claudia Parliament, director of the Minnesota Council on Economic Education and a University of Minnesota faculty member, said the council has long recognized the need to improve economic understanding.

"We offer teacher workshops, student contests and a wide selection of innovative lessons to make the study of economics relevant, appealing and exciting," Parliament said.

In 1998 the council served over 4,300 Minnesota educators, potentially affecting 280,000 students. More than 2,300 students took part in Economic Challenge, Commodity Challenge and other programs with direct student participation. Also last year, the Minnesota Legislature selected the Minnesota council to help K-12 educators improve the economic literacy of Minnesota students.

PARENTING TIPS
Rainy Day Activities

During the summer when children can play outside they seem to just "entertain themselves." There is so much to do that interests them and stimulates them. But what about those days when the weather turns cold or rainy or even when it's too hot to be outside. After being able to play outside, the inside activities no longer seem to be interesting. Therefore you may have to be creative and come up with some ideas to get them started.

Following are some ideas you might try. For some of these you will have to plan ahead and gather materials before you need them.

- Craft Box: Fill a box with any leftover items your child could use to glue or make something with, such as yarn, fabric scraps, buttons, pipe cleaners, Christmas or birthday cards, egg cartons etc.
- Play "dress up" with clothes, hats and shoes gathered for this purpose.
- Let your kids wash and dry all their water-proof toys.
- Make a kitchen "sand box" with corn meal, oatmeal or macaroni.
- Cook or bake something.
- Have kids help make a new batch of play dough. Get out the utensils, cookie cutters etc.
- Make a tent or playhouse with a blanket or tablecloth over a card table.
- After a rain, if you can stand the mess and the weather is warm, walk outside in the mud barefoot.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Talk to your child about the rain, the mud, the puddles. Look for rainbows, etc. Look for birds and talk about how they take a bath in the puddles after the rain.

An addition to the hot air engine building is also under way. Last year, 114 unique and intricate engines were on display and in operation.

New equipment in the play areas will provide children with added variety, and the women's activity building will offer a number of arts and crafts and demonstrations, including fry bread and homemade lefse.

Water in Old Mill Park pool being treated

Clearing the water in the swimming pool at Old Mill State Park is of prime importance to the park staff, according to Mary Broten, park manager.

"Old Mill State Park's sand bottom swimming pool's resource management has been accelerated this last year," Broten said. "The pool was treated by dredging and by treating the sand with an iron-based product last fall.

"This summer the pool was chlorinated in June and July. The algae has been hard to stop in this hot weather, even with the chlorine, resulting in water that looks cloudy and green. The pool does not, however, contain the type of organisms that will cause swimmer's itch."

Broten said the pool was treated with copper-sulfate (an algacide) on Tuesday, August 3, and will be treated with Aquashade (a food grade blue coloring) on Friday, August 6. The copper sulfate will be used on a regular schedule throughout August to remove algae growth.

Aquashade also will be in use to filter the sunlight entering the water and inhibit algae growth.

"If Old Mill State Park's swimming pool water looks blue to you, those additives are the reason," the park manager said.

The pool fills with flowing well water that bubbles up from the sand bottom of the pool like a spring. The historic pool is unique in that it provides a natural environment for swimming and exploring native aquatic life, Broten added.

Constructed in the early 1940s by the Works Progress Administration (WPA), the pool is on the National Historic Registry.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...You Can't Fight City Hall – On Your Own

I know from experience that you can't fight city hall by yourself. After listening to the radio reports and reading the Watch story on last week's city council meeting, I felt bad for Jim Burkholder. He has evidently been against the Greenwood Street Bridge from the beginning, and, from what I read and heard, again voiced his objections at the council meeting. But where were his friends and neighbors who are also against the bridge?

It appears that Mr. Burkholder stood alone at the council meeting and, as we all know, you can't fight city hall by yourself.

In a short explanation of the situation, a recent study has shown that 4,000 people would use a bridge on Greenwood Street every day. The council is considering the construction of such a bridge. Mr. Burkholder is one of many people who live on Greenwood Street and he is against the bridge for several reasons, one of which is that the traffic such a bridge would generate would destroy the peace of that area.

To get a bit off the subject, I've been around that area quite often, and I certainly agree with Mr. Burkholder that it is a peaceful, nice place to live. I agree with him that it would definitely make Greenwood Street a lot less peaceful if 4,000 vehicles, including trucks, were to make Greenwood Street a throughway. And I think he was a brave man to come forward and speak his piece. Take a drive to the west end of Greenwood some time and see for yourself.

Again a bit off the subject, Councilman Milt Burstad stated that the council has heard, in the past weeks since the survey was done, from 30 representatives of Greenwood Street who are against the project. Then he stated that the council hasn't heard from the other 3,970 people who might use the bridge on a daily basis. Being a little slow on the uptake, I didn't understand at all what Councilman Burstad was saying. Do all 4,000 proposed users of the bridge live on Greenwood? I don't think so. Why would people who would use the bridge be against it? They wouldn't. What does that statement have to do with whether or not residents of Greenwood Street want the bridge? I don't know.

Notwithstanding my statements about the peace of the street, and Mr. Burstad's statement that appears to lump users and residents of the area together, what I want to know is where the heck were the residents of Greenwood who are against the bridge while Mr. Burkholder was standing up for them? There must be more than 30 people living on that very long street and why didn't they come to the meeting to say their piece? If they didn't want to talk, they could just sit there and nod or shake their heads while Mr. Burkholder explained things, and even that would have been better than not showing at all.

City council meetings are open to the public. They are held in a very nice room in the Depot city office building and there are chairs aplenty. No one has to go "to the front of the room" to speak their piece like they did in grade school. They can sit where they are or stand up if they want to make their point a bit clearer, but it is entirely up to them.

When I've gone to meetings, I've found the council members are all very nice about listening to every viewpoint and try to explain things before and after the meeting, as well as while the meeting is taking place. They don't bite heads off anyone and they aren't nasty and mean. They are trying hard to do their job, BUT THEY CAN'T DO IT WITHOUT INPUT FROM THE CITIZENS.

If you simply cannot manage to go to a meeting, there are a couple of other ways to make your feelings on a particular subject known. Again from experience, when my neighbors and I fought a situation in our neighborhood, we used letters and we used the telephone as well as personal appearances at the council meeting to state our feelings.

Your councilmen and women are listed on the bottom of the insert with your monthly electric bill, along with their telephone numbers. Cut it out and save it. Call them all, but especially make sure you speak to the councilperson representing your district and the council members-at-large. They are the ones who will be able to best speak for you. That is their job. If you can't reach them easily, vote them out of office next election. They are your representatives.

And the other way to make sure your council members know how you feel is to write a letter. All you do is write the letter, copy one for each of the members, and bring it down to the depot. The council members each have a letterbox in the depot, and the secretary there will see that each of the members gets his or her letter. See how easy it is?

So get yourself together and do something about your city government. You can put your two cents worth into the council meetings whether you agree or disagree with the stands on an issue, and it is important that you do state your feelings. If you don't make your concerns known, don't bother to gripe about it. You don't have the right to do so. You lost the right when you stayed silent.

Human rights rep will visit in Moorhead

A Spanish-speaking representative of the Minnesota Department of Human Rights will be at the Clay county family service center at 715 11th Street North in Moorhead from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. August 11 and 9 a.m. to noon August 12.

Persons who have questions about the Minnesota Human Rights Act or who believe they may have been discriminated against in violation of the act can visit the representative for information and assistance. To schedule an appointment, call Vicki Oliva at 651-296-5678. The Human Rights Department will review potential claims of discrimination to see if a formal charge can be made.

Technical assistance is available to any employer, landlord, school, business or organization needing information about the act or the operation of the department.

It also forbids reprisal against a person who brings a discrimination complaint, participates in an investigation or associates with a person who is in a protected class.

Down On The Farm

Eric Bergeson

We enter the bittersweet dog days of summer. The birds sound a bit tired, and crickets have replaced frogs as the noisemakers outside the window at night. Last week, the grain fields turned from green to tan almost overnight.

These late-summer sounds, the crickets, the constant whir of the house fan, drone of a Twins game on the radio, bring back powerful memories of childhood.

About this time of summer during childhood, the county fair had pulled out of town, PeeWee baseball was over, and the first back-to-school fliers reared their ugly heads in the mailbox.

The Twins were usually 25 games out by August, but I often stayed up until 1 a.m. to hear the end of some meaningless game on the West Coast. I didn't want to miss a single hit by Rod Carew.

One vital sound is gone from the nostalgic summer mix: The clunkety-clunk of my uncle Orville's old baler as he baled the alfalfa on our farm. In those long summers between grades in elementary school, there was nothing I enjoyed more than to run alongside the baler and watch the show.

That was before round balers. Round balers make no real sound and are a bore to watch. They move too fast to follow on foot.

But those old clackety-clack balers, with thousands of moving parts, were a symphony of bangs, clicks, and thumps. The gadgets which cut the bale, tied the twine, and kicked the bale out the back mesmerized me, and I could run along side the baler for hours without getting tired.

Cousin Tom drove the old tractor while Uncle Orville grabbed the fresh bales with his shiny steel bale-hook, and stacked them in stooks, pyramids made up of ten bales each, on the little trailer in back. The heavy smell of fresh alfalfa was intoxicating.

I jogged alongside, two windrows over, until the sun set and Tom turned on the tractor's lights. Then I knew it was time to run home, eat some cereal, and get to bed.

While lying in bed in the cool basement, I could hear the faint thump-thump of Uncle Orville's baler as it crawled around the field. The rhythm lulled me to sleep.

When a city cousin came to our farm for a visit, his first question was, "When are the bulldozers going to come so they can build houses here?" In his mind, all woods and fields were doomed to development.

Thank goodness, the bulldozers never came. For that reason, the countryside was not only a great place to grow up, but is still a pretty good place to be, round balers or square.

Q&A SOCIAL SECURITY

Provided by the Social Security District Office in Grand Forks, ND

Q: I called the Social Security toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, and made an appointment with them to file for retirement. Should I also call my local office?

A: No as that would rather defest the purpose of using the toll-free number. The national number is in operation with regular SSA personnel between the hours of 7 a.m. and 7 p.m., local time, all across the country. During the rest of the day it has an automated attendant system through which information can be requested. The national toll-free phone system is set up to handle volume calls while most local offices are oot. Use the national system for all usual SSA business unless you are working with a particular local representative on a specific issue and need to speak to that person. The people there have access to exactly the same computer system in use at all other SSA facilities and can complete most actions for people receiving Social Security or Supplemental Security Income (SSI). They can also answer the majority of questions about the program that a person may have. If a representative at a national phone center cannot complete an action, a message is sent to the callers local office. When you made your appointment through the SSA national system it was entered on the computer database accessible to all SSA offices. Also a paper copy would print in the local office which will then contact you to complete the application at the scheduled time.

Q: I have power of attorney for my aunt to handle her business affairs but Social Security said a release signed by my aunt was needed before they would tell me anything. Why?

A: The agency does not accept power of attorney appointments. It is preferred to work directly with someone able to handle their own affairs, which includes by phone or mail as well as in person. When we have a client who is unable to direct their own affairs then a representative payee would be chosen for them. A representative payee is the agency designation for someone receiving benefits on behalf of another. The payee is required to keep records of how the benefits were used. If there is some particular task that you are helping your aunt with you should get a written release from her saying what the task is and that we have her permission to work with you.

Rydell Refuge Open House Sunday, Aug. 8

Historical performance, horse drawn wagon tours, wildlife displays, interpretive hike, ice cream social and stories of fond memories of the "good old days" are just some of the attractions to be featured at the 4th Annual Rydell Refuge Open House on Sunday, August 8. All are welcome to visit the Refuge during the Open House from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

A special feature of the open house this year is the historical portrayal of Antoine Gingras, a 19th century fur trader in the Red River Valley. Performed by Virgil Benoit of Red Lake Falls, Gingras will tell stories about the oxcart fur trading era with "views from the oxcart." Gingras was born in 1821, the son of a French-Canadian voyageur father and Metis mother. He helped found the current day community of Walhalla, ND. Gingras will share visions of the beauty of the unsettled lands and the joys and dangers of life in frontier territory. Benoit's performance of Gingras will be part of the 2 p.m. program.

Representatives of the Refuge and the Friends Association will also provide an overview of improvements that have been made at the Refuge over the past year and other developments ahead. Following the program will be an ice cream social at 3 p.m. with ice cream and other refreshments served. Door prize drawings will be held hourly. A variety of displays and maps will be featured in the Visitors Center.

The ever popular horse drawn wagon rides will tour new areas of the Refuge that haven't been covered in past years. Rides will begin at noon and continue throughout the afternoon. A self-guided interpretive hiking route will feature some of the new trails at the Refuge. Visitors can hike any of the Refuge trails in search of wildlife and maybe catch a glimpse of the Refuge's resident trumpeter swans, fox and deer.

These activities are all free and open to the public. To get to the Rydell Refuge go 3 miles east of Mentor or 3 miles west of Erskine on U.S. Highway 2 and turn south on Polk County 210. TRF Dakota Clinic gets architecture and design award

Dakota Clinic Regional Health and Surgery Center in Thief River Falls is one of seven facilities recently named to the "1999 Architecture and Design Honor Roll" by Minnesota Physician magazine.

The honor roll recognizes "the redesign, remodeling or new construction of medical facilities with an eye on efficient use of space, and cost-effective, patient centered care and a dedication to accommodating state-of-the-art technology."

Other factors cited were "how lighting, color and decor affect healing. Elements of design include easy access to multiple types of treatment, privacy feature and avoidance of administrative clutter and commotion. The end results are professional appearance and inviting patient-focused accommodations."

The center is a 50,825 square foot facility that includes the Dakota Clinic, diagnostic center, physical therapy center, ambulatory surgery center, retail pharmacy and Northwest Eye Center. Designed by R. L. Engebretsen P.A. of Fargo, ND and Hammel, Green and Abrahamson Inc. of Minneapolis, it opened Aug. 17, 1998 and is owned by the physicians of the Dakota Clinic.

Sen. Moe receives Legislator of the Year recognition

Senate Majority Leader Roger Moe of Erskine was given the Legislator of the Year Award by the Minnesota Smoke-Free Coalition at its annual meeting recently in St. Paul, in recognition of "his work in assuring passage of legislation which will dedicate a portion of the state's $6.1 billion tobacco settlement to efforts to reduce youth tobacco use in the state.

Dr. Anne Joseph, president of the coalition, said the decision was made to give only a Senate award this year "because of Senator Moe's extraordinary work as Majority Leader in gaining passage of the measure setting up a lasting endowment for youth tobacco prevention."

The Legislature established a trust fund using $590 million of the settlement for long-term tobacco prevention efforts and public health. Once fully funded, the fund will make $20 million available annually for statewide tobacco prevention efforts and another $5 million for local tobacco prevention efforts.

Courage Day Camp finishes two-week run in Lion's Park

Courage Day Camp at Lion's Park in Thief River Falls completed its two-week run July 22 under the direction of Jamie Kalsnes.

Sixteen youngsters from five through 13 years of age with a variety of physical, learning disability or sensory handicaps took part in the camp this year, participating in many activities arranged and conducted by the director and counselors.

Counselors working with the youngsters at the camp sponsored by Courage Center through the United Way were Eeva Young, Matt Gustafson, Tara Peterson and Abby Northup.

Activities during the camping sessions included a beach party and swimming, crafts, bowling, safety training, visits to the police and fire departments and area food shelf, singing at the C&NC unit of Northwest Medical Center, fishing, taking a pontoon boat ride on the Red Lake river, going to the Dairy Queen and playing kickball at Hartz Park and making a trip to Courage North at Bemidji for crafts and other activities.

Concluding event was an awards night which included parents of campers as guests.

Director Kalsnes said that much of the success of the camp was due to the donations of one kind or another provided by a number of local business places and organizations, and she expressed her thanks and those of the campers and counselors for their generosity.

The director specifically thanked Taco John's, McDonald's, Kmart, Pamida, SuperValu, Hardee's, Subway, Danny's Pizza, Thrifty White Drug, Pepsi-Cola Bottling Company, Pizza Hut, Hartz Foods and Pennington Main;

Also Family Bowl, Universal Screenprint, Janeen Kalsnes, Paul Johnson, Mike Ramsheck (DNR), Jim and Mary (EMS), law enforcement center, fire department, C&NC, food shelf, Alicia and Kristin (lifeguards), Rogers Bros. Funland, Gary's Bakery, Dairy Queen, Valley Home, Courage Center, Zion Lutheran church, Roberta Kalsnes, Caren Lanscette and Redeemer Lutheran church.

"I also want to thank the counselors for all of their help and the campers themselves for being willing participants in all of the activities," director Kalsnes said. "I think we all learned a lot from each other through this camping experience as well as having a lot of fun together."

Peterson proposes federal 23% replacement sales tax

Seventh District Congressman Collin Peterson of Detroit Lakes joined Republican Congressman John Linder of Georgia Wednesday in introducing "Fair Tax" legislation in the U.S. House of Representatives.

Peterson said the bill would abolish all of the current federal tax code and replace it with a federal retail sales tax of 23 percent on all new goods and services.

"This is the best and most well thought out idea that I've seen to simplify the tax system, and I think it would do good things for the people and the economy," he said. "It is fair, easy to understand, easy to administer and it will eliminate the hassle of dealing with the IRS."

The bill would repeal the individual income tax, capital gains taxes, corporate income tax, all payroll taxes including Social Security and Medicare, the self-employment tax and all estate and gift taxes.

"Before I came to Congress I made my living as a CPA, and I can tell you that no one really understands the current tax system," the Congressman said. "And every time Congress has acted to 'simplify' the system, they have only made it worse. Under the Fair Tax system, people will get to keep every penny of their paycheck. People will have more control over their own money, and their own choices about how they want to use it."

Social Security and Medicare benefits would remain the same, and the trust fund reserves would continue to receive the same amount of money as they do now. The source of the trust fund revenue would simply be a sales tax instead of payroll tax revenue, Peterson said.

"It will be especially good for American agriculture because exports and business inputs would not be taxed," he said. "In fact, it could solve our balance of trade problems because our exports will not have taxes built into their prices. And, it will be good for the family farmers who want their children to inherit the farm because there will be no inheritance tax.

"I think that when people learn more about this idea, they will get behind it. I know it will take time to make this kind of change in the tax system, but I think the time is right to be making this kind of proposal because Americans are fed up with what we have now."

The Fair Tax proposal has been created with assistance from Americans for Fair Taxation and has been endorsed by National Small Business United and the National Taxpayers Union.

Media arts program gives students wide experience

included hyperstudio projects and web page design.

"It seems a natural progression and uses the other things we've learned," Hofstad said. "In web page design we don't get into the computer programming as such, but rather concentrate on making the page design and content including text and images."

In computer graphic design the students work with scanners and digital cameras as well as utilizing Adobe Photoshop and Adobe Pagemaker software. They begin with learning how to do simple things to images such as color correction, sharpening, burning and cropping. Then they move on to the more challenging, creative and complex tasks of combining images to create photographs, advertisements and collages.

Using the Pagemaker software, students create illustrated brochures and graduation announcements—a popular project. Students also can choose Illustrator software to add special touches to their projects.

"As much as possible, we try to give students experience that not only familiarizes them with use of equipment and allows creativity in design but which will help them as they go on to college or working in the area of media arts," Mrs. Hofstad said.

"Students learn the responsibility of working independently in the class as well as the importance of collaborating with one another on projects, much as they would in a college setting or a work environment. They are given deadlines which help them realize the need for good time management."

Students also have an opportunity to see what is happening beyond their own program. During the 1998-99 school year students took several field trips. They visited Bemidji State University's industrial technology department and broadcasting department and television station KAWE. They toured the Grand Forks Herald and WDAZ-TV studios in Grand Forks.

In Fargo and Moorhead the students were shown the communications department at Moorhead State University, the graphic arts program at Northwest Technical College in Moorhead, television studio KVLY and Media Productions, a commercial business which does commercials and teleconferencing.

Second year students were also permitted to do some "job shadowing" in fields of interest to them. The field trips and job shadow experiences were intended to give students some ideas for future job plans and areas of post high school study.

Influence of the Media Arts program is evident in its graduates. Students who have graduated from the program have gone on to broadcast communications at Moorhead State University and enrolled at the Minneapolis College of Art and Design. Among his year's graduates are students planning to attend Ridgewater College in Willmar and Savannah College of Art and Design in Georgia.

Enrollment for the 1999-2000 Media Arts program is now being accepted. For information contact Alice Hofstad at the media center of Lincoln high school, phone 218-681-7432.

to buy the print at cost. The price of a print has been established at about $95. There will be an extra charge for shipping, taxes and for prints that are shrink wrapped.

Stowart said there has been quite a bit of interest expressed in the print, not only from collectors, but area residents.

If the sale of the print is as successful as many are envisioning, money from the sale of the prints may be used at the depot. Potential projects for the money include development of a historical display, and possibly a cover for the locomotive.

Late summer good time to establish forage crop

Late summer can be a good time to establish a forage crop in Minnesota because a good soil moisture supply increases chances for success, according to George Rehm, soil scientist with the University of Minnesota Extension Service.

"Considering the rainfall pattern from the beginning of summer, there doesn't appear to be a very high probability of a dry seedbed this year," Rehm said. He offered the following suggestions to make summer seeding of forage crops more successful:

- Timing: Seed early enough to allow time for adequate growth of both legumes and grasses before winter. The more late summer and early fall growth that occurs, the greater the chance of the new seeding surviving the winter. Seeding should be completed in early August in northern Minnesota and mid-August in southern Minnesota.
- Lime: A soil pH above 6.5 increases the chances of establishing forage legumes. Soil pH is not as critical for establishing grasses. Apply lime, if necessary, before seeding and incorporate to a depth of four to six inches.

Lime use improves nodulation in legumes. A soil test will show the amount of lime needed. Lime has little or no value if topdressed on the surface of established stands. Research has shown that lime, if needed, will increase yield in many forage legumes, not just alfalfa.

- Phosphate and potash: An adequate, but not excessive, supply of these nutrients in the top six inches of the root zone can improve chances for successful forage crop establishment. Broadcast the suggested rate of phosphate and/or potash and incorporate before seeding. A soil test can show the needed rates.
- Firm seedbed: Seeding into a firm seedbed increases the chance of successfully establishing a stand. A firm seedbed prevents planting too deep, which hinders emergence. Various tillage implements are effective for preparing a firm seedbed.

Scratch scramble event at Thief River Golf Club goes to team from EGF

A foursome from East Grand Forks won top honors in tie-breaking fashion Saturday at the Thief River Golf Club scratch scramble tournament.

Scott Eggers, Brian Perkins, Dan Parker, and Dave Thompson came up with a birdie on the first playoff hole for the win after shooting a regulation round 60.

That score was matched by two Thief River Falls teams, and after the champion had been determined, it took seven extra holes before a birdie gave Jim Barry, Gordie DeLap, Rick Reierson, and Tom Williams second place over Adam Nordin, Chad Hanson, Chad Nordhagen, and Tim Barry.

First place team in the handicap division included Mark Lehrer, Scott Gagner, Jan Nordin, and Clayton Hoyt.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Kruta, USA start 2-0-1

Jodi Kruta and her USA teammates are off to a 2-0-1 start in women's team handball competition at the 1999 Pan Am Games currently being held in Winnipeg.

As reported in The Times earlier this summer, Kruta, a former high school and college basketball standout at Thief River Falls and Montana State Northern in Havre, is a first-year member of the USA National team handball squad that is trying to win a Pan Am title and qualify for the 2000 Summer Olympics in Sydney, Australia.

In the round-robin portion of the team handball competition, the USA picked up Pool A wins over Argentina 22-17 Saturday and Uruguay 24-16 Sunday before playing highly-regarded Brazil to a 22-22 tie Monday. Kruta scored three goals against Uruguay. She did not score in the Argentina and Brazil contests.

Team USA will play Canada today (Wednesday) and Cuba Thursday to complete the round-robin schedule.

Qualifiers will advance to the semifinals Saturday. Finals are Sunday.

Brenda Koperl collected medals in the shot put and discus in the 15-16-year-old age group at both the state and region AAU track meets this summer. The 15-year-old Lincoln High School sophomore-to-be placed second in the discus and third in the shot at the state meet in Rosemount at the end of June that qualified its top four finishers in each event to the region level in Iowa. Her region efforts at Urbandale during the Fourth of July weekend included a third in the discus and a fourth in the shot. Again, the top four finishers advanced – this time to the AAU national meet in Ohio Aug. 2-6. She was forced to miss the national competition, however, because of an ankle injury. Brenda's sister, Nicole, who won the Class AA state high school shot put and discus titles the past two years and is heading to the University of Minnesota on a track scholarship, is recovering from a wrist injury and has not competed since taking part in the prestigious Great West Meet in Sacramento, CA at the end of the school year.

Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament...

Roseau ends season for TRF

Roseau beat Thief River Falls for the sixth time this summer Friday – a 7-4 win in the second-day loser's bracket at the 1999 Ninth District American Legion baseball tournament.

Post 117, beaten by Detroit Lakes 16-12 in the first round of the six-team, double-elimination tournament at Gilbertson Field in Roseau Thursday, wound up 15-19. The six-game Roseau sweep over Thief River Falls included 10-9, 14-5, 15-4, 12-3, and 4-3 regular season wins.

Thief River Falls' lack of baseball success against Roseau stretches back to the 1996 high school season when the Prowlers won a single match-up with the Rams. Since then, Thief River Falls has lost six straight high school games and 17 consecutive Legion match-ups with Roseau.

"There's something about playing those guys, I guess," said Mike Wienen, who completed his second year as the Thief River Falls Legion coach. "But they're legit. They have a good team. They reached the finals."

Thief River Falls' offense, the team's season-long strength, did not come though in the season finale, noted Wienen. "We saved our No. 1 pitcher (Andrew Solem), and he threw well. But we didn't hit the ball very well. We left eight runners on base, and most of them were in scoring position. We couldn't come up with the hits to get them home."

Both teams opened with a two-run first inning, but Roseau had a 7-2 cushion before Post 117 got on the board again in the bottom of the fourth.

Down 7-4, Thief River Falls had a final shot at a comeback when Roseau starting pitcher Ryan Fevold walked the first two batters in the bottom of the seventh. But Josh Olson came on in relief and promptly struck out the side to preserve the win.

"I thought we played okay," offered Wienen. "It's hard to judge our season by our tournament results, but I thought we had a good year."

Moorhead doubled Roseau 8-4 in Monday's tournament final – a rematch from a Sunday contest when Roseau, coming out of the loser's bracket, pushed the playoffs into an extra day by knocking off previously unbeaten Moorhead 10-5.

The Blues advanced with wins over Crookston 6-4, Fergus Falls 13-0 and Perham 5-1 to reach the finals. Roseau, after a first round 9-1 loss to Perham, began its trip through the loser's bracket with the win over Thief River Falls that was followed by victories over Fergus Falls 17-5, Perham 10-5 and Moorhead.

Moorhead will advance to the American Legion state tournament in St. Cloud.

Elliot Baker Memorial race slated for Friday

by Bob Hultgren

Elliot Baker Modified Memorial will be run Friday, Aug. 6, at the Greenbush Race Park. All five classes will run, with the winner of the Modified feature taking home the traveling Baker Cup.

Winner of the inaugural Baker Memorial in 1998 was Greg Ferris of Emo, ON. The race is a memorial for Greenbush Race Park fan favorite Elliot Baker of St. Hilaire, who provided excitement no matter where he raced, or what class he raced in. Baker passed away in the spring of 1998.

Races start at 7 p.m. The track is located one-half mile north of Greenbush on County Road 7.

With four races left on the 1999 schedule at the Greenbush Race Park, the points battle is still up in the air. Last week's action only led to a tighter race among the leaders in all five classes.

After a season of top-five finishes, mostly in second and third, Dave Myer of Thief River Falls finally broke through with a feature win in the Super Sport Class. Myer is a close second behind Roger Fiola of Manitoba for the points lead.

Mike Jeffords of Cavalier, ND led the first 13 1/2 laps of the 15-lap Super Stock feature before floating high in turn four, allowing Kevin Sexton of Winnipeg, MB to slide underneath and lead the final lap for the feature win.

Bryon Berger of Badger again broke into the win column, leading flag-to-flag in the Outlaw Streets feature.

The same could be said for Greg Ferris as the popular Ontario racer topped a caution-filled, 18-car modified feature for the win.

Cory Olson of Roseau jumped out to an early lead in the Mini-Sprints before breaking down with just four laps to go. That left the feature for Robbi Peterson of Middle River. Merrick Hietala of Badger still leads the class in points, but has still to win a feature.

■ TRF college, high school, middle school teams

Fall sports schedules are in place for Lincoln High School, Northland Community and Technical College and Franklin Middle School teams.

Reporting date for the Northland football, volleyball and golf teams is Friday, Aug. 13. An information and registration session will begin at 8:30 a.m. that day in the college theater area that will be followed by individual team meetings to confirm all paperwork has been completed and a physical form is on file.

First day of practice statewide for high school football, boys and girls cross country, girls tennis, girls swimming, and volleyball is Monday, Aug. 16.

School District 564 Activities Director Jim Sims reminds all participants to have forms completed and fees paid before the start of practice. Forms can be picked up and dropped off at the Lincoln activities office from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays. Athletes are reminded that physicals are required every three years.

Head coaches for the fall sports programs at Northland include Dan Willoughby, football; Mike Zachow, volleyball; and Rick Nikunen, men's and women's golf.

Lincoln head coaches include Jeff Mumm, football; Chad Persons, boys and girls cross country; Sylvia Sjoberg, girls tennis, and Bruce Jean-Amy Roche, volleyball. A head coach will be named shortly, according to Sims, for the girls swimming program.

Personal watercraft fee collected by state DNR refunded through mail

Personal watercraft owners who paid the $50 surcharge imposed by a 1998 law on these craft, effective this year, are receiving refund checks for that amount in their mailboxes. The refund checks were being mailed out by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources beginning the last week in July. The refund is a result of action taken in the 1999 Legislature to repeal the surcharge in May of this year, and refund the $50 to anyone who had paid the fee up to that time.

Those owners who paid the surcharge between December 1998 and April 1999 will be the first to receive refunds. Approximately 2,000 have been identified so far by the DNR License Bureau. They would fall into two categories, according to Suellen Rau, DNR License Bureau Registration Program manager: Owners who registered a new personal watercraft during that time, or owners who were renewing a PWC registration that expired on Dec. 31, 1998. Refunds for owners with the same registration expiration date, but who paid during May of 1999, are still to be processed. Checks for those owners should follow during August.

Those who have questions about the surcharge refund can contact the DNR by calling 1-800-285-2000 toll free.

Trouble For Noisy Boater

You're out on the dock enjoying the peaceful solitude of a weekend at the lake or river. Without warning, a low rumble starts in the distance and builds to a roar nearly as loud as a jack hammer. Is it an F-15 jet fighter taking a low pass over the lake, or perhaps Metalica tuning up for a concert on the neighbor's pontoon boat?

No. Chances are, it's a boat with an inadequate or nonexistent muffling system or "cutouts" that allow the operator, by means of a dashboard switch, to select whether or not the exhaust passes through the boat's muffler.

"Every summer the DNR receives many calls from shore owners and other boaters about noisy boats," said Tim Smalley, DNR boating safety specialist. "The situation seems to be getting worse. I guess you can't blame folks for being upset when they go to the lake for some peace and quiet, and a few boaters with extremely noisy engines roar up and down the lake or river all day," Smalley said.

Minnesota's watercraft noise laws state that a motorboat must have an efficient muffling system that prevents excessive or unusual noise and keeps the noise level below set limits. That limit, set by the 1980 Minnesota Legislature, is 82 decibels at 50 feet, or equivalent levels at other distances for boats built after Jan. 1, 1982, or 84 decibels before that date.

Also, no one may sell a boat that exceeds the noise standards or one that is equipped with cutouts or any other device designed to increase the engine's noise.

According to Smalley, the only exemptions to the motorboat noise laws are for race boats operating under a written permit from the county sheriff or U.S. Coast Guard during a marine event such as a race for a specified area and time.

Minnesota DNR conservation officers as well as a number of county sheriffs' departments are using sound level meters to enforce Minnesota's motorboat noise laws.

Posters Are Available

First in a series of commemorative posters produced to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Scientific and Natural Areas (SNA) program is now available from any of the Department of Natural Resources regional offices or the DNR central office headquarters in St. Paul.

The 17 x 22-inch poster features the Lutsen Scientific and Natural Area, one of the largest old-growth hardwood forests on the north shore of Lake Superior.

DNR Scientific and Natural Areas program protects and manages natural areas of state significance for scientific and educational purposes, including old-growth forests, native prairie lands, rare plant and animal habitats, and areas containing exceptional geological features. From its first designated site at Rush Lake Island in 1974, the program has grown to 129 sites statewide. SNA sites are open to the public for recreational activities such as birdwatching, nature photography and hiking, which will not disturb the protected plant and animal communities.

A second poster highlighting the prairie grasslands ecosystem will be available in August. The last poster in the series, representing the deciduous woods, will be available in September. All of the posters are free to individuals. Due to the cost, the posters will not be mailed.

Posters can be picked up during normal business hours at the seven DNR offices across the state. Across northern Minnesota the offices are located in Bemidji (Region 1), 2115 Birchmont Road N.E.; Grand Rapids (Region 2), 1201 E. Highway 2; and Brainerd (Region 3), 1601 Minnesota Drive.

DNR NEWS

Tough Times

For many of us, the sight of a pair of Giant Canada geese with a brood of healthy young goslings in tow is a welcome sign that spring is in full bloom. For others, it's a sign of trouble ahead. As the Giant Canada goose population has continued to expand over the past decade, so have landowner problems with geese feeding on young crops, particularly soybean plants.

"Department of Natural Resources Wildlife staff spend a lot of time and money trying to help landowners avoid these kinds of problems," said Wendy Krueger, DNR wildlife depredation specialist at Nicollet. "How much time and money will be available in the future to deal with these problems, however, is now in question."

Because the proposal to increase hunting license fees did not pass during the recently concluded legislative session, the DNR Section of Wildlife is facing "some very tough times," DNR Region 4 Wildlife Manager Ken Varland said. "We were already in a difficult financial situation and now that the license fee increase did not pass, the problem just gets worse. We had the support of hunters and all the major conservation organizations to increase the fees. We'll continue to do the best we can to handle depredation complaints, but the fact is we just won't have the staff or the money to deal with the problems the way we'd like. We'll probably get more complaints because we won't be able to get out to deal with the problems as much as we'd like."

It is during the early to mid-summer period when geese cause the most problems. Flightless and hungry at that time, the goslings tend to walk directly from the water where they were hatched to nearby fields in search of food. Tender young soybean plants are a preferred source.

"There are effective methods that can be used to protect crops," Krueger said. "Usually that involves putting up fencing materials, but there are other things that can also be done." A brochure entitled Grower's Guide to Goose Problems is available by contacting the DNR Region 4 Office in New Ulm at 507-359-6000.

In an attempt to reduce the population of Giant Canada geese, the DNR instituted an early September goose hunting season a number of years ago and has liberalized that season over the past few years by expanding both the daily limit and the hunting zones. Additional changes are expected for this coming season.

"Hunting remains the most effective means for reducing the population," Krueger noted, "so I really encourage landowners to allow hunting on their property. Geese will return to the same general area they were in the previous year, only in larger numbers if some of those geese were not harvested by hunters the previous fall."

Varland said cutbacks in DNR Wildlife staff and programs "are unfortunate but inevitable considering our current financial situation. We hope people will be understanding as we do the best we can with what we have."

Water Patrol Deputy of the Year

Wright County Deputy Sheriff Steve Quill was recently presented with the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' Water Patrol Deputy of the Year Award for his many accomplishments in that field.

Quill, who has been a deputy for Wright County since 1973, is the Sheriff's Department firearms training officer, founded the sheriff's dive team in 1975, serves on the emergency response team, and has been the boat and water safety deputy since 1994.

In 1998, while on patrol, Quill was involved in two separate river rescues, with the assistance of the personal watercraft he uses for patrol on many occasions. The first involved a party of three canoeists in trouble on the Mississippi River who were assisted safely to shore with Quill's aid. The other incident involved three family members whose canoe had overturned on the swift water of the South Crow River. Quill used his personal watercraft to assist all three safely to shore – wet, but with no injuries.

Kim Elverum, DNR Boat and Water Safety Program coordinator, noted that "Deputy Quill's accomplishments in boat and water safety made him a natural choice for this year's award."

Quill, who lives in Monticello, is a 1972 graduate of the Alexandria Technical College with a degree in law enforcement.

Minnesota Stamp Contest

Criteria for the 2000 Minnesota Department of Natural Resources stamp contests are now available for artists considering submitting entries. Contests are held in summer and fall to select designs for the Minnesota Migratory Waterfowl Stamp, the Pheasant Habitat Stamp, and the Trout and Salmon Stamp. (The Turkey Habitat Stamp contest is held in February.) Revenues from stamp sales are dedicated to the development, restoration, maintenance and preservation of the respective fish and wildlife species and their habitats.

The stamp art contests, which are open only to Minnesota residents, offer no prizes. Winning artists, however, usually issue limited edition prints of the artwork and retain the proceeds. A reproduction rights agreement, granting the DNR the right to use the design for the stamp image and other purposes, must be signed and submitted with the design to be considered eligible for the contest.

Each contest will have a separate judging panel consisting of members with expertise in art, ornithology, ichthyology, hunting, angling, conservation and/or printing.

Trout/Salmon Stamp contest entries will be accepted beginning July 26 and continuing until 4 p.m. Friday, Aug. 6. Judging for the contest will be on Aug. 12.

Waterfowl Stamp contest entries will be accepted beginning Aug. 9 and continuing until 4 p.m., Friday, Aug. 20. Judging for the contest will be on Sept. 2.

Timber harvest permits may be extended to aid storm damage salvage

Some state timber sale permits may be extended in order to salvage timber damaged in northern Minnesota forests over the Fourth of July weekend, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

"The Commissioner of Natural Resources is authorized by state statute to provide this type of extension if conditions warrant it," said Bruce ZumBahlen, DNR's forest management section supervisor. "The major windstorms of July 4 severely damaged extensive areas of our northern forests. We must salvage as much as we can in the next one to two years to prevent deterioration of the downed wood."

Extending some timber sale permits is necessary, according to ZumBahlen, because much of the salvage operation will be accomplished by timber operators who currently have permits to harvest undamaged, standing trees. Those permits will expire in the next 1 1/2 to two years. The extensions will allow permit-holding operators to salvage storm-damaged timber without having to worry about the expiration dates of their other permits.

"Extending these permits is in the state's best interest," said ZumBahlen. "Salvaging the downed wood will help reduce fire and pest hazards within and adjacent to the blowdown area, accelerate regeneration of the damaged forest areas, and utilize the damaged trees for forest products before they deteriorate."

Big Trees Go Down In Storm

Three of Minnesota's champion "big trees" went down during the July 4 windstorms that ravaged northern Minnesota, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

"Foresters have verified that the northern white cedar, red maple and sugar maple, all located near the city of Boy River, went down in the storms," said Meg Hanisch, public affairs specialist for the DNR Division of Forestry. "This is a sad loss, not only because the trees are gone, but because the list of big trees, which contains 52 native species, had just been updated and reverified over the last two years."

There is a ready candidate that can be crowned "champion" northern white cedar, but for the sugar maple, which was reportedly more than 300 years old, and the red maple, it's going to take more searching.

"Minnesota's Big Tree Program generates a lot of interest, so much so that the DNR has not been able to keep up with verifying all the nominations that have been received," said Hanisch. "I know there are people out there who were disappointed in the program because they never heard back on the status of their nominations."

All big tree nominations will have to include the correct name of the species (only native species are eligible at this time) and the circumference, height and crown spread measurements of the tree, as well as the basic information such as tree location and owner. No program nomination will be accepted without all of this information.

A new application form for the Big Tree Program is being developed at this time. For more information about this and the program in general, contact the DNR Division of Forestry at 651-296-5958. For more information about identifying and measuring a big tree, contact the local DNR Forestry office.

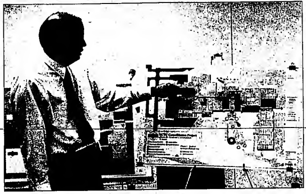
The THE TIMES SECOND FRONT

Volume 88, Number 31 Wednesday, August 4, 1999



Architect Paul Sorum of Triebwasser, Helenska & Associates reviewed plans for Phase II of additions and remodeling at Northland Community and Technical College for members of the House Capital Investment committee Thursday. Phase I of the project is underway.

LSS expands respite services to Pennington Co.

Lutheran Social Service of Minnesota's Respite and Caregiver Support Program is expanding to Pennington County. The organization has received a grant from federal funds through the Older American Act, which is administered by the Minnesota board on Aging. Northwest Area Agency in region one, specifically for the program.

Services are provided to families who are caring for a loved one who is chronically ill, disabled or frail elderly. Volunteer respite services provide short term relief for caregivers so they can take a break.

Non-medical, in-home services are available for persons age 60 or older in their home. The role of the volunteer is to be a friendly visitor and make sure everything stays safe and secure while the caregiver is absent. Caregiving can be a 24-hour-a-day job so it is important for caregivers to take a break so they can continue to do the things they enjoy like visiting friends or just taking time to relax.

A caregivers discussion group will also be available to caregivers in Pennington county. These groups will provide education, support and speakers for area caregivers. An organizational meeting for the discussion group will be held August 17 at Trinity Lutheran Church in Thief River Falls. The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. All area caregivers are welcome to attend.

Efforts to identify caregivers who need assistance and volunteers to provide respite care are now underway. Referrals from public and private agencies, churches and the general public are vital to the success of this program.

Program organizers are also available to speak to interested groups, individuals or congregations about the Respite and Caregiver Support program. For more information, call 1-800-317-4845.

Janie Reese, second, junior division; Danielle Frazer, first, and Bethany Gallman, second, elementary division. Miller attends Lincoln high School. Reese and Gullman attend Our Saviour's Christian Academy. Frazer attends Goodridge school. Winners were awarded cash prizes, and will have their essays advance to State competition.

Maximum weekly benefit amount in MN increases

Minnesota Department of Economic Security has announced that the maximum weekly benefit amount for new Re-employment Insurance compensation accounts will increase from $386 to $410 effective August 1, 1999. This gain is the result of an increase of nearly $36 in the average weekly wage earned by Minnesota workers in 1998 and brings the state's average weekly wage to $614.29.

"It's great news that Minnesotans are taking home larger paychecks than they were just a year ago," said Governor Jesse Ventura. "At the same time, the Minnesota economy is thriving — new jobs are being produced and the unemployment rate is at an all-time record low."

Meanwhile, the minimum Re-employment Insurance tax rate for employers will remain at 0.1 percent of the taxable payroll, the lowest allowable rate. The minimum tax rate is reset annually based upon the Re-employment Insurance trust fund balance on June 30. Employers also pay 0.1 percent tax to Minnesota's Workforce Development Fund (formerly called Minnesota's Workforce Investment Fund), but beginning July 1, 2000, that rate will drop to 0.7 percent.

Persons applying for Re-employment Insurance compensation receive a weekly benefit equal to 50 percent of their average weekly wage, up to the state maximum. To receive the maximum weekly benefit amount, an unemployed worker must have an average weekly wage of $819 based on four quarters of work.

Science facilities at Northland Community and Technical College were visited by members of the Minnesota House Committee on Capital investment during their stop in Thief River Falls Thursday, July 29. Ten members of the committee chaired by Rep. Jim Knobloch of St. Cloud were included in the visiting delegation and joined on the tour by Northland faculty and staff.

Sunday was a full day for LeRoy and Ruth Sustad as they were amongst the bus load of friends and new acquaintances leaving Warren at 4:30 a.m. headed for the Twin Cities, on a trip sponsored by the Valley West Branch of Lutheran Brotherhood. All wore name tags so putting faces and names together was fun. They arrived at the Lutheran Brotherhood Home Office in downtown Minneapolis, where they attended the Sunday worship service. Then it was off to the Metrodome Picnic Pavilion for dinner. By 1:15 p.m. all were in their third row reserved seats and enjoying the game between the Twins and the Seattle Mariners. The Twins lost 3-4. This was a new experience for the Sustads. Following the game, they boarded the bus and headed homeward via Freeport, where they had a break and enjoyed the evening buffet meal at Charlie's. Then on the road again. It was evening, the sun was setting, and there were rain showers; but at their arrival in Warren at 10:00 p.m. there was a full moon shining at the end of a perfect enjoyable day.

Gordon and Adalie Skjerven went to Grand Forks on Monday evening for granddaughter Natalie's fifth birthday, and enjoyed a walleye supper.

Carrie Nicholson and Merles Gillespie were Monday morning coffee guests at Liz Swenson's home.

Tuesday evening, Allen Swenson and his grandchildren, Chris and Alyssa, and Liz Swenson had a meal at the Pizza Hut. The kids were leaving for Ogden, Utah on Friday.

The weather in northwest Minnesota has given us a taste of what the southern states have been experiencing with rain and heat in extreme amounts at times. It makes us stop and think of others when it feels like you are in a "Finnish sauna" when you come from our air conditioned buildings or homes. Roy says if the air conditioner is less than 72°, you will feel like you are swimming in warm water when the humidity and the temperature outside is as high as it has been of late. So no more settings of 79°, I'm not a good swimmer.

The other day when we got a half inch of rain in just a few minutes, we saw a young squirrel busily eating sunflower seeds on the ground beneath the bird feeder during the downpour. I thought that perhaps it was a going to be an all day thing because we figured while growing up, that when the chickens stayed outside and pretended the rain wasn't bothering them, that it would be raining for days. If it was just a shower, they would hurry into the hen house until it was over. Then we learned that his beautiful bushy tail was for more than a debonair appearance when he extended it way over his head until he looked like he had ears like a rabbit. The guard hairs on his body were also standing straight up and out as if he were angry. When enough water had settled on him, he shook himself like a dog coming out of a swimming hole and went right back to eating again. So I found out that he has a built-in umbrella.

The Strandquist seniors met July 29th with 5 members and the following guests, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Koland of Bloomington, Pastor Haskins, Gloria Ronstrom, Alyce Anderson and Anna Satten of Karlstad, and Gula Stromgren and Wally Rud. Iris Berggren served a delicious lunch. Roger and UnaMae Koland donated a can of coffee and also a can of peanuts. Two door prizes were also given away. They were won by Pastor Hoskins and Gula Stromgren.

Pat and Becca Larson, Betty Piotruszowski and LaVonne Swanson of Eveleth visited Judy Kleinvachter this week.

Kevin Kraft of Minot, ND called his grandmother, Elphie Adlis, to tell her he had won grand champion on his photo and first place on his leather work at the State Fair at Minot, ND. Congratulations Kevin!!!

Nelson LaDoux was a dinner guest at Isaac Thompson's home on Thursday. Thursday evening birthday company for Isaac was Elsie Lefrooth, Peter and Pearl Thompson, Morris and Hazel Anderson, Robert, Cathy and Andrew Thompson, Richard and Carol Thompson of Red Lake Falls and Roy and Myrtle Vagle. We had everything to eat including baby potato dumplings. Happy Birthday Isaac!!!

Peter E. Thompson reached his 99th birthday on Friday and on Saturday we all celebrated at the home of their daughter Becky and her husband Danny Johnson. At the same time we celebrated the high school graduation for the twins, Scott and Steffanie Stewart, the children of Sherry Stewart of Bloomington and the grandchildren of Peter and Pearl. They had brought the birthday cakes which had a picture of Peter on one big cake and the pictures of the twins on the other one from the Cities. There was plenty of food for all and we had a great time. Those who joined the local population from outside the area were: the children of the late Edith Vagle and Saxius Anderson, Dan and Marie Vagle and LaVerne and Bev Rasmussen, Mike and Debbie Evans with Eric and Ryan, Jim and Cindy Walterlund of Grand Forks, Darlene Balderston and two grandsons, Dartal and Donna Vagle of Lancaster, Ron Vagle from the Cities, Kevin and Kelly Larson of Blaine, Johnny Bruggerman of Lino Lakes, Sherry, Scott and Steffanie and her friend from Bloomington, and Dwight Palmquist from the Phillipine Islands. We all wish Peter many more birthdays.

Brian Nelson, Brittany, Matthew and Marcus, Karl and June Kasprowicz, and Vance and Kelly Lefrooth visited Judy Kleinvachter this week.

Jim, Cindy and Christy Walterlund came and took Morris and Hazel with them on a tour of the Peace Gardens in North Dakota to see all the flowers. I had been out the night before and cut a couple of buckets of Hazel's flowers which rivaled those in North Dakota. Thanks Hazel.

Congressman Favors National Sales Tax

"We relied on economists for the numbers, but we relied on the American people for the concept," says Congressman Collin Peterson about the "Fair Tax" bill he has introduced with Congressman John Linder, a Republican from Georgia, in the House of Representatives.

"And throughout the country we found that people wanted a tax system that was fair," the Congressman said. "People told us that a single rate, with no exceptions and no special treatment, was the way to go. They also told us that the system had to be easy to understand and easy to implement."

Peterson said all the ideas were put together to create the framework for a system that is fair, simple, revenue neutral and devoid of any policy decisions.

"Here's how it would work," he said. "We simply abolish the federal income tax, payroll tax, self-employment tax, capital gains tax and death and gift tax and we replace them with a revenue neutral sales tax, currently calculated at 23 percent. No exceptions. No exemptions. Just one single-tax on every retail sale of new goods and services used for personal consumption.

"Purchases made for the operation of a farm or a business would not be taxed. Used goods would also not be taxed because they would already have been taxed at the time they were purchased as new goods."

Congressman Peterson notes that Americans have struggled under the burden of the federal income tax for 85 years and that the tax code has been "manipulated and distorted to the point where you need a lawyer and a CPA to pay your taxes."

Since the last major income tax code revision in 1986, Congress has made more than 6,000 changes to the code. Most of these have involved special treatment for special interest groups.

"Though less manipulated than the income tax, the payroll tax burdens most Americans even more," Congressman Peterson says. "The payroll tax amounts to 15.3 percent of every paycheck and most Americans don't realize the burden because the money comes out of the paycheck before they ever see it. With the Fair Tax, you would get to keep your entire paycheck—every penny. Each American will be free to determine his or her own priorities and opportunities."

The Congressman continues as follows.

"We were especially concerned about ensuring fairness to low income families. Our plan includes a sales tax rebate, mailed monthly to each family, which would allow all purchases up to the poverty level to be made completely tax free. In this way, all of the basic necessities of life can be bought without any tax burden.

"And I mean 'without any burden.' Today, tax costs are hidden in the price of everything you buy. Corporate income taxes, payroll taxes, compliance costs and more, are rolled into the price of every loaf of bread and every gallon of milk that American families bring home. Our team of economists has calculated these hidden taxes to be an average of 20 percent of the costs of goods. By abolishing these, we can more fairly distribute America's tax burden, and we might even be able to lower the price of goods.

"By ending these hidden taxes we protect American jobs as well. Without these taxes imbedded in America's production goods, we can compete with foreign competitors on a level playing field, which can mean more jobs and better pay for Americans back home.

"Passing this bill will be no small task, and the coming debate over whether or not it should pass will be no small debate. We are working in Congress with members of all political parties and—most importantly—with Americans throughout all parts of the country to make this proposed change a reality.

"In the short term, this bill will create winners and losers. It's tough to argue that IRS employees won't lose under this plan, but in the end, everyone will win because we will have more fairness in our tax system, more control over our lives, more opportunities. We will be winners because we dared to imagine—and then do—the unimaginable. We will have changed and simplified the tax system for the good of everyone in this great nation."

Congressmen Peterson and Linder will have a tough sell for their "Fair Tax" bill. Not only is it a revolutionary departure from the status quo, it is only one of a number of proposed changes in the nation's tax system.

Achieving "fairness" is the theme behind all of the proposals, but this lofty goal is virtually impossible to reach. The Peterson-Linder plan, despite its claim of "no exceptions, no exemptions" to the sales tax, already makes exceptions for farmers and businesses and offers rebates for purchase of "necessities of life."

It is good that members of Congress realize the failings of the too complicated federal income tax system and want to do something to improve the situation. Wholesale changes, however, must be carefully calculated or they may well bring on more problems than posed by the system they replace.

Fixing What Ain't Broke

"If it ain't broke, don't fix it." Sometimes that bit of folksy advice is worth considering, even as it applies to governments as well as other tinkerers. In essence, the advice suggests that there may be greater risk in trying to make something better than to leave it alone.

That is more or less the way we look at the plan to create a turning lane in the center of Pennington Avenue from just south of the entrance to Hugo's Supermarket parking lot more than half a mile south past the entrance to the School District 564 bus scramble area. The idea has been suggested by state traffic engineering as a means to alleviate the congestion at the intersection with Nora Street by the Northern Pride turkey processing plant.

The plan likely would achieve the desired result of allowing traffic to flow around vehicles slowing or stopped prior to making left turns. In so doing, however, it significantly narrows the traffic lanes, forcing vehicles closer to the curb where bicyclists, runners, joggers, in-line skaters, walkers and slow-moving vehicles will be at greater risk. It will also result in drivers having nowhere to go when vehicles slow to make right turns, thereby slowing general traffic as well.

All of this assumes a clear roadway such as we have in the summer. Snow accumulations in the winter may constrict the traffic lanes even more. While pedestrian traffic is considerably lighter in winter, banked snow also means there is no area walkers or runners can use except the roadway itself.

The main problem area for traffic is the Nora Street intersection. We drive the "airport road" at least four times a day and have found no real problem with traffic year-around in the area south from Nora Street. That includes the few minutes each week-day during the school year when school buses are loading or discharging students and the prime times all year when people are going to and from work.

We understand that it presently is illegal for traffic to pass on the right while vehicles are waiting to make left turns off Pennington Avenue to Nora Street. The hazard would be vehicles turning left from Nora onto Pennington or attempting to cross Pennington and drivers not seeing traffic passing on the right. To our uneducated thought processes, it seems this hazard wouldn't be abated and may even be increased with through traffic lanes.

These are just some thoughts we have on the changes which will probably be made this week or early next week when the lanes are striped and marked. We don't get paid for our engineering expertise or professional planning and we don't have to make those tough decisions. Maybe the new plan will work like a charm and everything traffic-wise will be for the better.

And maybe we shouldn't have tried to fix what ain't broke.

To The Editor:

Democracy is not a spectator sport—for it to survive and flourish, all must become involved. This is the message I heard from 965 Minnesota high school students representing 85 area high schools who recently participated in the Close Up Foundation government studies program in Washington, DC. These students included a group from Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls.

For a full week, these students had the opportunity to develop a better understanding of our democratic process. By observing Congressional proceedings, questioning journalists and meeting with government advisors, the abstracts of history and the process of governing were transformed into concrete experiences. In addition, students were able to share their views with their peers from other areas of the country.

Participants can't help but return home with a deeper awareness of their responsibilities as citizens and the realization that a single individual can make a difference. Their enhanced enthusiasm for involvement in the democratic process is to be lauded and admired.

The Close Up experience was made possible through the strong support of parents and educators. Also, various companies and organizations make Close Up fellowship funding available to students in financial need. On behalf of Close Up, I would like to thank all those who helped in the coordination and funding of this year's program.

Sincerely,
Chad Ford

St. Bernard's Parish Buys King Home On Duluth Avenue

"Negotiations were completed late last week for the purchase by St. Bernard's parish of the W. O. King residence on Duluth avenue, built by the late Judge J. M. Bishop. The spacious house, it was announced, will be utilized for a home for the sisters, whose present residence will be sold and moved off the lot to provide a playground for pupils of the adjoining St. Bernard's school."

Pedestrians Urged Not To Loiter On Old Bridge

"Test piles for the south abutment of the new First Street bridge were driven Tuesday, and preparations are being made to put up falsework under the old span, preliminary to removing the trusses. Stanley Michalski, foreman on the project for the Minneapolis Bridge company, today urged the public not to loiter on the bridge, pointing out that if they keep out of the way, the bridge will remain open to pedestrian traffic longer than otherwise. The span was closed to automobiles last Friday."

"A few hail stones accompanied the heavy rain Monday evening but no particular damage was done in this vicinity."

Assaulted

"There was a ball game last Sunday at Red Lake Falls between that town and Thief River Falls. The writer in company with 175 others from St. Hilaire went down on the special train to see the game. St. Hilaire has several times entertained the citizens of our neighboring cities and have always tried to treat them in a courteous manner and have so far succeeded. Of course, we are not cursed with a 'dead tough gang' who terrorize our citizens and run the town; neither have we ever felt like slugging our neighbors for a fancied wrong. In these matters we differ from Red Lake Falls. We were told upon arriving to be careful as a citizen of that town was heard to remark, 'If these ...... from St. Hilaire don't keep quiet today, we will stir up a row, slug them and then have them run in.' This program was very carefully carried out. The chief of police headed by a crazy mob shamefully assaulted seven or eight of our citizens without the least provocation and would have put one in their miserable little jail only ten dollars was too much for the policeman. He took the ten and let his prisoner go. We did not see a man from St. Hilaire who did not act in every way as a gentleman while at Red Lake Falls. None of the party who were assaulted had drank a drop that day although the front doors of the saloons were wide open. We did see citizens of Red Lake Falls intoxicated and we heard them insult the ladies present by blasphemous, obscene and vulgar language. It was the craziest mob that ever disgraced the quiet of a Sabbath day and our citizens were lucky they did not fare worse. The conclusion was obvious. It is not safe for a citizen of St. Hilaire to go to Red Lake Falls and all should keep away in the future."

Bill Swick of St. Paul spent from Friday until Sunday at the Rick Frolland home, helping with preparations for their up-coming Frolland reunion.

Trip on a Tankful

Taking Bruce Asbury's advice, we headed out on Saturday, journeying though Grand Rapids and Hibbing, then east to Mackinen where we visited brother, John and Arlene Byer, overnight. In St. Mark's Lutheran Church nearby, we met people who grew up at Thief River Falls and attended St. Paul Lutheran Church. A small world! On Sunday afternoon we went on to Duluth and attended the Golden Anniversary of Gene and Helen Niemi at Kenwood Lutheran Church. They are some of our Texas friends, and several other couples from our LLano Grande Park were also there for a very enjoyable time. The scenery of northeastern Minnesota is beautiful, although we saw some storm damage. Highway #4 is virtually a "Back to Nature Road" and new territory for us. Enroute home we visited old friend, Leone Meemkin of rural Bemidji, who has been hospitalized for some time. We returned home that evening and picked up grandson, Reid Vigstol, who had spent the weekend at Uncle Eldon's home. We almost made it home on a tankful!

Norway Visitors

The Kolstoe Clan gathered at the home of John and Jane Kolstoe on Sunday to bid farewell to the relatives from Norway who have been visiting America and head-quartered at the home of Gladys Kolstoe for two or three weeks. Mr. and Mrs. Einar Skele from the Island of Karmoy had also been to California. Inger Linder also attended the event.

Merle and Noreen Johnson, who have been visiting Jerry and Carol Gererdy, left on Sunday for St. Paul with grandsons, Joey and Johnnie Johnson who returned to their home in St. Paul. Merle and Noreen went on to their home in Leedsberg, Florida.

Hazel Dille and Sharon Iverson joined a group of relatives on Sunday at the Merle and Janet Solle home near Mentor to welcome Janet's sister, Renee (Peterson) Hunter and her husband, Woody, of Peteros, Washington.

Orval and Dorothy Roese visited on Sunday with Howard and Margaret Greenwald.

FOUL TACTICS
The Way Red Lake Falls Won the Baseball Game.

"The ball game Sunday between the Thief River Falls nine and the Red Lake Falls Selects on the grounds of the latter was considerable of a farce. The decisions of the umpire were rotten and our boys complain bitterly of the treatment accorded them. Several fights were narrowly averted and when a prominent citizen of St. Hilaire objected to some of the decisions, an attempt was made to arrest him. The score of 7 to 8 was in favor of the Red Lake Falls nine, but had our boys been given a fair chance, they would have undoubtedly won.

"The special train carried a large number of citizens from this place to Red Lake Falls and a number took advantage of the fine day and good roads by riding on bicycles or driving down. A return game will probably be played in Thief River Falls on Sunday, August 13."

Jean Dickinson of Williamstown, VT, "daughter of a Soo Liner", and Thief River Falls Mayor Mark Borsheim unveil the new painting now displayed in the City Council Chambers in the renovated Soo Line depot. The framing of the painting was donated by Pine to Prairie Art Gallery Custom Framing in Thief River Falls.

"Night Departure" painting unveiled at depot building

"Night Departure from Thief River Falls," a painting by Larry Fisher, was unveiled during a ceremony at the renovated Soo Depot Friday. Over 60 people attended the unveiling which was dedicated to former Soo Line employees and families.

It was pretty much a project undertaken by former Soo Line employees and their families. Not many outside the wide circle of Soo Line family knew very much about the painting, but it has generated considerable interest among the general public as well.

As explained in a story printed in the August 4 edition of The Times, Don Stewart, community development director, came up with the idea of a painting while recuperating from the flu. He didn't give it much of a chance to succeed until JoAnn Protz of Mesa, AZ, and Jean Dickinson of Williamstown, VT, walked into his office. They were in Thief River Falls for a class reunion and were interested in doing something special for the depot since they were both "daughters" of Soo Liners. While discussing a number of possible projects, he mentioned his idea about an artist's commission. "They liked that idea right away," Stewart said. With great enthusiasm, Protz and Dickinson began organizing the effort to raise over $7,500 for the project.

For a good reason, the description of the painting wasn't provided in the Wednesday, August 4 edition of The Times. On Friday, August 6, the painting was officially unveiled along with two plaques. One plaque provides historical background for the picture, and the second plaque is a memorial created by contributors.

What follows is the historical description on the plaque that accompanies the painting "Night Departure From Thief River Falls":

"One of the Soo Line Railroad's premiere passenger trains, the "Winnipeger," a 464 mile overnighter from Winnipeg, Manitoba, to St. Paul, Minnesota, makes a twenty minute stop in Thief River Falls, Minnesota, during a cold winter's night in 1950. Running as scheduled, she will depart the Thief River Falls Station at 11:25 p.m. for an 8 a.m. arrival in St. Paul, 318 miles down the line.

"Thief River Falls, the largest community on the Soo's "Winnipeg Line," is about 150 miles south of Winnipeg. The classic depot, built in 1914, ten years after the Soo Line arrived in the City, is one of only two depots that were custom designed for the Railroad by outside architects. Functioning as the Winnipeg Division Point, it served Thief River Falls and the surrounding area for over seventy years.

"As many as thirteen passenger trains a day arrived and departed from her platforms, a large number for a town of this size. The last passenger train departed in 1967. . .the "Winnipeger."

"On the point for this run of the "Winnipeger" is Soo Line No. 1024, a Class L-4, 2-8-2 Mikado. Usually assigned to freight duty, the Mikado is pressed into passenger service this evening. Although the giant steam engine has center stage tonight, the future of steam is in the final countdown. . . . within two years, the "Winnipeger" will be completely dieselized.

"No. 1024, built by the American Locomotive Company, Dunkirk, in 1912, has only been on the Soo roster for nine years. The L-4's purchased from the Mnnan Railroad (CT&L) in 1941 - 42, were among the last steam purchased by the Soo.

"Acquired by the City of Thief River Falls in 1995, the Depot escaped the demolition wrecking ball, was placed on the National Register of Historic Places, renovated and now functions as City Hall. Soo Line No. 1024 continues to serve for a few more years before retirement and escapes the cutter's torch. Donated to the city in 1956, today she is proudly displayed on the Depot site. . . . a pair of classics in Thief River Falls.

"The 30-inch by 48-inch original acrylic painting was done by Larry Fisher, one of North America's finest railway nostalgia artists. Fisher, a native of Harvey, North Dakota, is himself a Soo Line "Son."

"The concept for the painting came from Don Stewart who was

Tom Hunt agrees to become interim principal at Lincoln

Tom Hunt has agreed to become the interim principal at Lincoln High School in Thief River Falls.

Monday night during a school board meeting, School District Superintendent Jerry Robicheau said that after discussions with the leadership team at Lincoln, Hunt agreed to be interim principal. The position remains open and has been posted. The position was held by Terry Some who retired last July. Hunt has been the Dean of Students at Lincoln for seven years. Prior to that he was a sales and marketing instructor. He has been with the district since 1980.

■ The road in front of Challenger Elementary school will not be paved prior to the opening day of school. They had anticipated that the surfacing of the road would be completed before school opened. Superintendent Robicheau said only that the delay was beyond the control of the contractor.

Surfacing of the road is expected to begin the week of September 7. The road is supposed to remain open to traffic during the period it is being surfaced. Flagmen are expected to be on site directing traffic.

■ Jean Larson, school board representative, reported that the committee studying student achievement had met and had completed a pamphlet called "Unlocking Student Potential". The pamphlet will be distributed to every child in the district. The pamphlet lists school, learner, parent and community responsibilities. It also lists a sample of opportunities in School District 564.

■ A request to award diplomas to veterans of World War II whose school was interrupted by the war was approved by the school board. The request was made by the Veterans Administration in collaboration with the Department of Children, Families and Learning.

According to information from the Department of Veterans Affairs, the plan for the goodwill gesture originated in Massachusetts and is presently being emulated in other states.

Superintendent Robicheau said he did not know how many diplomas could be awarded.

Individuals who wish to obtain a diploma because their secondary schooling was interrupted by World War II may obtain an application at the school district service center. They may also obtain a diploma application off the Internet by going to <http://cfl.state.mn.us> or <http://www.mdva.state.mn.us>.

According to the Department of Veterans Affairs, "Already, many Minnesota school districts are receptive to the proposal and, although this agency and the education department suggest Veterans Day, 1999, as an appropriate occasion to hold ceremonies for the awarding of diplomas to the veterans, a few local school districts in the state have already done so, in Darryl Tveitbakk has been named general manager of the Northern Municipal Power Agency (NMPA), the organization that provides electric power for its 12 member cities.

The member cities are Bagley, Baudette, Halstad, Hawley, Fosston, Roseau, Stephen, Thief River Falls, Warren and Warroad, all in Minnesota, and Grafton and Park River in North Dakota.

The appointment of Tveitbakk, who had been NMPA's director of customer service since 1992, comes as part of a re-organization of management duties that recently included the election of Russ Earls, Fosston, as president of the board of directors.

"This transition in management comes at a time when the agency is preparing for what are likely to be significant changes in the way we do business in a restructured electric industry," Tveitbakk says. "Deregulation is something that we really need to keep our eye on. . . on behalf of the member cities. Open access and competition for power aren't necessarily going to be a bad thing but there are still a lot of unanswered questions. NMPA is in the good position of having low-cost capacity available to our members if and when the market becomes free and open."

The changes were triggered by the January 1 retirement of John T. Anderson, who had been both general manager and president of

by Morvin Lundin
Thief River Falls Times Editor

Not only can Ione Austad tell a visitor the species of all the flowers, trees and ornamentals in the yard around her home, she can tell a story about where they came from and how they have developed.

It is an interest which grows along with her plantings and the size of her yard from year to year—and is shared by her oldest son Russell, who has lived at home for the past eight years since tiring of the pace in the Twin Cities area where he was a carpenter for many years.

The Austad farmstead—located just off CSAH 23 (the Oklee Road), 10 miles north of Oklee or two miles south of CSAH 3 (the River Valley Road)—was selected as the 1999 rural beautification award winner by the Pennington Soil and Water Conservation District. This year competition was conducted in Area 5 which includes Mayfield, River Falls, Wyandotte and Deer Park townships.

In The Yard Every Day

"Oh, yes, I go out in the yard to work on something every day," the sprightly Ione says in response to a query about her involvement, her energy and enthusiasm belying her 74 years. "The only thing is, sometimes Russell gets up at four-thirty or five o'clock and has things done by the time I get outside."

With the scope of the yard and the work to be done, there are plenty of tasks to go around. An estimated eight acres are included in the area cared for as a farmstead, including trees, lawn, three very large vegetable gardens, two large flower gardens and an assortment of containers containing floral plantings.

One might think the yard and gardens are a bit ambitious for someone who has had three heart attacks, but Ione views those experiences as a condition, not an excuse. The first attack was in April of 1984, the first day back from a trip to California—her first travel outside the state of Minnesota, except to Grand Forks. The second was in July of 1984 and the third in April of 1995.

Can't Just Sit Around

"But I'm feeling pretty good now," she affirms, "and a person can't just sit around. I'm not supposed to lift anything heavy, but sometimes I just do it without thinking because it has to be done."

Approaching the yard from the south on CSAH 23, a person first notices the large area of neatly clipped grass and an octagonal flower bed carpeted with moss roses and spiced with marigolds. Years ago this was part of the Austad family's pasture.

To the west of the first expanse of grass is the main vegetable garden with its long, weedless rows, terminating at one of several vintage farm outbuildings. Further to the west is more mowed yard, and beyond that to the north are rows of potatoes, cucumbers, string beans, tomatoes, sweet corn, strawberries and raspberries in two more huge gardens.

Potatoes Didn't Blossom

"The potatoes haven't had many flowers this year, just one here and there," Ione muses. "There are potatoes under them, because we have dug some, but no flowers. I wonder why that is?"

Her concern is an indication of her interest in the yard. Little escapes her attention, from the non-flowering spuds to the growth of her green maple trees, now more than two decades old.

"My daughter brought us a shoebox full of seeds from a green maple tree in her yard," Ione said. "We planted them all and I think just about every one of them grew. We sold some as young trees and transplanted a lot of them around the yard. A few of them are just beautiful."

"Just beautiful" is a phrase she also often uses to describe how some of her flower planting has succeeded over the years. She likes to plant flowers in containers, from a copper boiler to painted old milk pails to parts from a pot-bellied stove. Kettles of flowers hang from tree branches and blooming plants around the house peek out from behind a two-rail fence which Russell built from treated posts and closet rod.

Five Hours To Mow The Lawn

Russell said it takes him five hours to mow the yard, and that is steady mowing. He does the trim-

Rural beautification award winner for 1999 in the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District is Ione Austad of rural Oklee. The Austad farm is located about 10 miles north of Oklee on CSAH 5 and 23 or two miles south of CSAH 3 on CSAH 23 (the Oklee road). Mrs. Austad and her late husband Ole planted many trees on the site and she continues with large gardens and flowers, assisted by her oldest son Russell.

STUDENTS IN THE NEWS

Former T.R.F. residents start successful company

Jason Engen and Chris Ortlatt, formerly of Thief River Falls, are two of five college classmates who turned a class project into a business that generated about $320,000 in income during its first 12 months and expects to hit $500,000 in its second year.

Engen serves as president of the company - CORPORATE Interns Inc.—and accepted the title mostly because "a business needs a president people can call up and talk to."

Started by the five former University of St. Thomas students who invested $100 each and outfitted a 1,200 square foot office above a Subway sandwich shop with a truckload of donated used furniture, the company was featured in a column by Dick Youngblood in the Sunday, August 1 issue of the Minneapolis Star Tribune.

The company recruits, screens and hires "just the right interns" for business clients, but also handles all the tax deductions and other paperwork involved. The partners have committed themselves to assuring that the internships they unearth will be productive for the students they recruit, so they screen the employers to determine just how meaningful the prospective internships might be, Youngblood writes.

All five of the partners had disappointing internships while in college and their matching of intern candidates with meaningful internship positions was begun as a business plan for a class in "new venture strategies," part of the entrepreneurship curriculum at St. Thomas.

The partners have concentrated on small companies because large companies recruit interns through their own programs. But large companies, such as U.S. Bank, have sought them out when they had slots to fill on short notice.

"They not only understood what our needs were, but they already had several [prospects] available immediately," a U.S. Bank official said. "We probably wouldn't use them regularly, because we do our own recruiting, but I can see them as valuable to larger companies for last-minute needs or special projects."

He said CI is the first company he has encountered that provides such a service.

According to the Youngblood column, CI focuses on recruiting interns in three areas: (1) computer technology, including web site design, programming and networking; (2) administrative functions, including accounting, finance, sales and human resources; and marketing communications, including public relations, copywriting and graphic design.

"Oh, yes," Youngblood states in conclusion, "their business plan earned the partners an 'A' in that St. Thomas class."

Walrath plans to attend college at St. Benedict

Carolyn Walrath, daughter of Charles and Theresa Walrath of Thief River Falls and a 1999 graduate of Lincoln high school, is planning to attend the College of Saint Benedict in St. Joseph in the fall of 1999. She will be a first-year student in a class of 521.

Greenwald attends youth leaders program

Sheena Greenwald, a sophomore from Pershing High School in Plummer, attended the Minnesota Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership seminar, joining more than 200 young leaders representing as many high schools from throughout Minnesota. The seminar was held June 18-20 at Hamline University, St. Paul.

The three-day seminar centered on the theme "Leadership for Service." Through interactive activities, panel speakers and small group discussions, students met business, government and civic leaders, and discussed pressing current events. This outstanding experience enabled young leaders to share their opinions and enthusiasm with each other, the volunteers, and with leaders from all walks of life. The weekend program provided opportunities for students to explore in-depth ethical and moral questions facing today's variety of fields. During the seminar, lifetime friendships were forged, ideas were exchanged and barriers were broken.

For one interactive session about leadership for service, students congregated in small groups according to region of the state in which they live and identified specific issues in those communities. Then the small groups planned solutions to these community problems. Benj Sampson, Minnesota Twins rookie left-handed pitcher, closed the session by commending the students on their involvement within their communities.

Students taking part in the leadership seminar participated in the following panel discussions: "Technology in the New Millennium and its Affect on Relationships", "The Media: Individual Privacy vs. the Public's Right to Know", "Get Going! Get Giving!", "Rural, City, Private, Public, Are All Students Receiving Equal Education?", and "Young Entrepreneurs".

Lowell Smebys are chosen outstanding conservationists

(Editor's Note: The following article was prepared by the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District office in Grygla.)

Lowell and Rochelle (Bim) Smeby of Grygla have been chosen as Outstanding Conservationists award winners for 1999 by the Marshall-Beltrami Soil and Water Conservation District.

Lowell was raised on the farm owned and operated by his parents, John and Doris Smeby. Lowell farmed with his dad and has taken over the operation, and although John is retired, he still likes to help with the chores and other farm work.

The Smeby farm consists of a dairy operation and Lowell is farming 760 acres of his own and renting an additional 185 acres in Lee and Benville townships east of Grygla in Beltrami county.

Lowell milks 45 cows and with the young stock has about 120 head of Holstein cattle. Besides raising alfalfa for hay, he also grows small grains.

Conservation practices on the Smeby farm include an agricultural waste stacking slab, with run-off going into a holding pond, installed in 1994. The manure is hauled out in the fall. Nutrient testing of manure is part of this practice. In 1998 the Ag BMP loan program was utilized to upgrade the system.

A crop rotation system is another important practice. Cropland is rotated and every five to six years it is rotated with hayland.

Pastures are also rotated during the grazing season. A stock pond was constructed to better utilize pastureland. Trees and shrubs have been planted around the farmstead. Two erosion control structures have been installed and ditching has been installed and maintained.

Lowell started with a dairy herd of 30 cows and has built the operation up to include 45 cows. Other improvements in the diary operation include the addition of a barn cleaner and a pipeline system for milking.

Lowell and Bim are members of Grace Lutheran church where they have both held church offices. He is a member and current chairman of Farm Credit Services (FSA) county committee and a board member of the Red Lake Watershed District. He is also a member of the school board and the Farmers Cooperative Creamery Association board at Goodridge.

Lowell is a past board member of the American Dairy Association and Bim is currently treasurer of the Region I ADA. They are both members of the Grygla Jaycees.

Lowell and Bim are continuing a conservation farming tradition, since Lowell's parents were named Outstanding Farmers in 1974.

The Smebys have two children, Nicholas and Gretchen, who have also been involved in conservation educational activities. Both have been winners in the conservation essay contest with Nick's essay advancing to state competition. Nick has also taken part in area Envirothons and his team advanced to state competition in 1998.

Grams lauds passage of farm relief funding

Passage of the farm relief bill by the U.S. Senate last Wednesday has been lauded by U.S. Sen. Rod Grams. The bill would provide $7.4 billion in immediate relief to the nation's farmers.

Sen. Groms said the overall package also reflects the importance of addressing the long-term needs of agriculture. The bill passed by unanimous voice vote.

"By providing comprehensive relief to address years of problems, including low prices, disease-damaged crops and severe weather, our legislation is a victory for Minnesota farmers," he said. "We deal with those concerns through both an immediate assistance package and long-term mechanisms that will ensure the stability of our farmers as we approach the 21st Century. The final product is not perfect, but I believe we overcame both regional and partisan differences to craft a bill that provides a road map for the future, while tackling the difficult problems of today."

The bill contains the following provisions, Sen. Grams said:

- $7.4 billion in overall relief to farmers;
- $5.5 billion in lost market payments (approximately equal to 100% of AMTA payments this year);
- $500 million for direct payments to oilseed and soybean producers;
- $400 million to maintain 1999 crop insurance premium write downs;
- $325 million for livestock and dairy payments;
- $300+ million for specialty crops;
- Raise loan deficiency payment caps to $150,000 for one year.

"This is a day Minnesota farmers have called for, and I am glad we were able to get the job done prior to the August recess," the senator added. "Our farmers are the most productive in the world, yet they also find themselves in the midst of a transition between the failed federal farm programs of the past and the hope offered by the Freedom to Farm program.

"The step Congress took in passing this bill will help foster that transition and strengthen our farmers' potential in the years to come."

Greater Grand Forks Symphony plans auditions

Auditions for the 1999-2000 season of the Greater Grand Forks Symphony will be held Wednesday, August 25, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at Hughes Fine Arts Center on the University of North Dakota campus.

This year the symphony has openings for strings, oboe, clarinet, trumpet, trombone, tuba and percussion. The auditions will be conducted by the symphony's music director, Timm Rolek, with assistance from principal musicians in the orchestra.

Greater Grand Forks Symphony is a 91-year-old semi-professional community orchestra with offices at UND. Director Rolek divides his time between the orchestra and his duties as artistic director at the Sacramento (CA) Opera. Concertmaster is Donilyn Bergman and the orchestra has about 60 regular musicians from Grand Forks, Thompson, McVille and Fargo in North Dakota and East Grand Forks, Thief River Falls, Crookston, Moorhead, Oslo and Warren in Minnesota.

Four subscription concerts and two special events are scheduled for the 1999-2000 season, beginning with an Oktoberfest on Saturday, October 9 and including concerts November 20, January 30, March 21 and April 15 with the date of a June pops concert to be announced.

Orchestra members need not be available for all concerts to qualify for membership. Advanced musicians from high school and older are welcome to audition. Adult, non-student orchestra members are paid on a per service basis for their participation. Rehearsals are at Hughes Fine Arts Center for two to three weeks prior to each concert.

Interested musicians should contact the Greater Grand Forks Symphony Orchestra at 701-777-3359 to schedule an audition time.

Workshop on valuing diversity Oct. 18-19

Applications are now being accepted for the Northwest Minnesota Foundation's Valuing Diversity workshop to be held Monday and Tuesday, October 18 and 19, at Concordia Language Villages near Bemidji.

The two-day workshop has been designed specifically for the northwest Minnesota population. It offers participants an opportunity to understand how individual attitudes and behaviors influence a community or an organization's cultural environment. Those attending will learn to identify personal barriers to valuing and managing diversity and will explore methods for eliminating community and organizational cultural barriers.

Mendez Russell Training and Development, Inc., an internationally recognized training firm, will conduct the session to reflect northwest-Minnesota's-perspective. All expenses for the workshop are covered by the Northwest Minnesota Foundation.

Since 1996 approximately 344 area residents have attended this program. Individual participation is welcome, however community or organizational teams of three or more people are strongly encouraged. Application forms are available by calling Rebecca Weir or Jennifer Lufkin at 218-759-2057 or 1-800-659-7859. Applications must be received by August 30.

Northwest Minnesota Foundation is a charitable foundation committed to improving the quality of life for the residents in northwest Minnesota. To achieve this mission, the foundation focuses activities toward two principal goals: increasing economic growth and business development through loans and technical assistance, and increasing the capacity of individuals and organizations to shape the region's future through grants and training and education programs.

Secretary of State to visit township meet

Mary Kiffmeyer, Minnesota Secretary of State, plans to be in northwest Minnesota September 22 and 23 to attend Minnesota Association of Townships district meetings for Polk county and for Marshall and Kittson counties.

These sessions will be among 14 meetings presently scheduled for Kiffmeyer to address. She says she has a number of issues that she would like to promote throughout the state. They include:

- A state contract, negotiated by the Secretary of State's office, that is making automated precinct ballot counters more affordable for local governments. This technology will help ensure that every vote counts.
- New training for local election officials to give them the tools they need to conduct elections confidently and efficiently.
- The need for more elections judges. There are shortages statewide, and it is the responsibility of the political parties to provide names of potential judges to local election officials.
- The importance of civic activism at the local level.

Kiffmeyer says she is interested in having a very full itinerary and invites groups to contact her if they have an event they would like her to address when she is in the area. Call 651-297-8919 to see if her staff can work an appearance into her schedule.

Athletic trainer scholarships have been awarded by Dakota Clinic to three individuals involved in the student athletic training program at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls for the past several years. The clinic's athletic trainer scholarship program uses the contribution from Lincoln high school toward the athletic training program to provide scholarship funds for student athletic trainers and other individuals pursuing healthcare careers. From left are Jackie Hoglo, who will be attending NCTC in Thief River Falls and planning a major in secondary education, minoring in psychology and counseling; Lacey Huschle, who will attend the University of Minnesota—Morris and major in biology with an emphasis in sports medicine; Anita Lizakowski, ATC at Dakota Clinic; and Jennifer Swenson, who will attend Northwest Technical College in East Grand Forks and study to become a respiratory care practitioner.

Jan Hoffard copes with health issues one day at a time

by Kathi Carlson
Times Reporter

If, five years ago, Jan Hoffard had looked into a crystal ball and seen what life had in store for her, "I wouldn't have believed it," she says.

While her sunny disposition would never give her away, the 50-year-old has coped with more than most during the past two years, including cancer, her husband's heart disease and two life-threatening aneurysms. However, she says, "I can still smile," and does quite frequently.

Jan and Lowell Hoffard and their three children moved to Thief River Falls from McIntosh in about 1975. Lowell was in insurance sales at the time, and Thief River Falls provided a more central location for his business.

The couple purchased the house on Stevens Drive that continues to be their home and had two more children. Their lives were busy and full and included nothing more than the ordinary problems that many of us face.

In January of 1979 Jan began her part-time job as a receptionist at Northwest Medical Center, and six years ago she started another part-time position at Soo Line Credit Union. Today, those two jobs amount to "full-time plus."

During the summer of 1997 Jan was experiencing some health problems. "I felt like my neck was full," she says. She saw a local physician who ran thyroid tests and a strep culture with the test results coming back negative.

Then, at a credit union meeting, she choked on her food and saw the doctor again. A CT scan revealed a mass in her throat. Believing that the mass was a goiter and because it was pushing on her windpipe, the doctor recommended that she have immediate surgery, forcing the Hoffards to cancel a planned family vacation.

A Thief River Falls surgeon removed the five-centimeter mass and the left lobe of her thyroid gland, and the pathology reports that arrived a week later revealed follicular Hurthle cell carcinoma, a rare form of thyroid cancer.

Jan responded to her diagnosis with the reaction that many others experience. "When you hear the 'cancer' word," she says, "it blows your mind." She also asked the common "Why me?" question.

Subsequent treatment took her to Fargo and ultimately to St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester where the completion of the thyroidectomy was performed on September 23, 1997.

In treating her form of cancer neither chemotherapy nor radiation are affective. Instead, Jan has what is called "ablation therapy," orally taking 150 milligrams of a radioactive drug. When preparing for treatment she stops taking the thyroid hormone supplements, reducing the thyroid-stimulating hormone (THS) level with fatigue as one of the side effects. Ablation therapy is a solitary experience with the radioactive patient kept in total isolation for the duration of the treatment.

Post radiation thyroiditis caused Jan to become ill again during the first week in January of 1998. Another mass was discovered and while she was prepared for more cancer, surgery on January 19 revealed that part of her thyroid had been left during an earlier operation. The remainder of the gland and surrounding scar tissue were removed, and pathology reports indicated that the tissue was not cancerous.

Jan regained her strength and slowly resumed her work schedule. Her health was monitored by periodic CT scans and ultrasound examinations. The mass on her liver that was discovered in July of 1998 was followed by an unsuccessful biopsy in August.

She didn't have the chance to repeat that biopsy for a while as fate handed the Hoffard family another shattering blow on August 21. Jan was working at the hospital when her husband, Lowell, came in clutching his chest and saying, "Help me, honey." Jan and the nurses on duty knew that he was having a heart attack.

Lowell was taken by ambulance to Altru Hospital in Grand Forks where he had quadruple by-pass surgery on August 25. For about ten days, Jan Hoffard and the couple's five children "camped out" at Altru as Lowell's grave condition eventually stabilized. Another family vacation had been planned and cancelled.

One would think that enough was enough and that the Hoffards had been through as much in a year as one family can handle. The story, however, continues.

Lowell was still hospitalized when Jan, on her first day back at the credit union, experienced a tingling sensation and numbness in an arm. While she rationalized her symptoms as possible fatigue or a reaction to stress, she called the clinic and was told to come in. A CT scan of her head showed two aneurysms, one behind her right eye and the other behind the center of her forehead.

Jan joined her husband as a patient at Altru Hospital in Grand Forks where more scans and an angiogram were performed.

Lowell was in rehab by then and was wondering why his wife hadn't called him in a couple of days. In the meanwhile, Jan, their children and his doctor were wondering how he should be told, worried that the news would cause his health to deteriorate further.

Reverend Gary Johnson of Zion Lutheran Church and the couple's son, Jason, told Lowell of Jan's condition with his physician in attendance. He insisted on seeing her and was taken in a wheelchair to her room.

In determining a course of treatment for Jan, her doctor mentioned a new procedure that was being performed at Abbott Northwestern Hospital in Minneapolis.

After reviewing her X-rays, physicians at Abbott Northwestern determined that she was a candidate for the procedure.

During her days at Altru, Lowell was wheeled to her room for a few minutes of visiting every day, and then she was transferred to the Twin Cities where, in a 6-1/2 hour operation, 25 platinum coils were inserted into the aneurysms in Jan's head.

The recovery process in the intensive care unit at Abbott Northwestern was slow with Jan so full of pain-killing narcotics that she was unable to speak at first, and once she was released, she had to spend a week in the Twin Cities, staying with her sister and weaning herself from the drugs. When she returned home, the severe headache that was an expected side effect of the surgery lasted for four months.

Throughout Jan and Lowell's ordeal, they have been very thankful for their five children who have, at times, put their own lives on hold to be there for their parents.

The couple's son, Tim, and his wife, Cassandra, live in Savage. Son Tony and his wife, Jenny, live in Thief River Falls. Daniel is in Randolph near the Twin Cities, and Jason and Melissa are in Thief River Falls.

"I feel so sorry for my kids," Jan says. While all are adults, the oldest is not yet 30 years old, and they are young to have already faced the serious ailments and frighteningly possible mortality of their parents.

Jan and Lowell have also been recipients of many kindnesses from others, particularly Jan's friend, Leona Bugge, neighbors Hal and Nancy Harbott and Jan's many co-workers. Benefits have been held for them to help defray the costs of the many expenses not covered by the insurance that Jan has thankfully carried throughout the years through her job at Northwest Medical Center.

Nearly one year later, Jan and Lowell continue to make frequent visits to their doctors. Jan has regular tests and treatments for the cancer as well as the aneurysms and Lowell, in addition to routine checkups to monitor his condition, experienced a serious bout with pneumonia recently.

In addition to the new procedure that treated Jan's aneurysms, she was the benefactor of advancing technology when a new machine revealed that the mass on her liver was not cancer but a water mass.

While so many, many people have been wonderful to the Hoffards, others have been standoffish, and while Jan understands that it is often difficult for friends and relatives to deal with problems like theirs, the situation can be upsetting. "People often don't know what to say," she says.

Another frustration that the Hoffards have had to deal with is the circumstances and changes in the medical community that have caused them to have to change physicians.

Life in the Hoffard household is now "one day at a time," and no family vacation was planned for this August. For now, Jan has resumed her "full-time plus" work schedule, and as she says, "I am still able to smile."

Many of the smiles at the Hoffard home are caused by their children and three grandchildren. Tony and Jenny are the parents of four-year-old Nicholas and Brady who was born on Jan's 50th birthday on January 17. Melissa's daughter, Bailee, is two years old.

Jan credits part of her ability to handle the challenges she has recently faced with her participation in the cancer support group and "I Can Cope" classes offered by Northwest Medical Center and the Thief River Falls unit of the American Cancer Society.

She also praises the caring individuals at NWMC who run the classes and support group as they have provided her with the materials from sessions she has had to miss while continuously offering encouragement, understanding and friendship.

When asked if the popular saying about the Lord not handing one more than he or she is able to handle is true, Jan smiles and responds by saying, "I guess so."

Without a crystal ball or any way of predicting what fate has in store for her and Lowell in the future, Jan says she strives to remain "upbeat and on an even keel," taking life and attempting to enjoy it "day to day."

The rest of us can offer her and her family our support and prayers and learn from Jan's example of courage while facing adversity. She's quite a lady.

If you were to meet Jan Hoffard on the street, you would never guess that, during the past two years, she has dealt with cancer, two aneurysms and her husband's heart disease. During the Hoffards' ordeal they have appreciated the support of family and friends, and Jan has been helped by a local cancer support group and participation in a previous "I Can Cope" educational series at Northwest Medical Center. I Can Hope classes, sponsored by NWMC and the Thief River Falls unit of the American Cancer Society, are currently being offered at Northwest Medical Center.

Jan Hoffard urges others to take "I Can Cope" classes

Having derived help from a previous session of the I Can Cope series of classes offered by Northwest Medical Center and the Thief River Falls unit of the American Cancer Society, Jan Hoffard recommends that other cancer patients participate in the course as well as the cancer support group, also sponsored by NWMC and ACS.

I Can Cope classes are currently being held at Northwest Medical Center from 6 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. Due to remodeling at the hospital the first session on August 10 session was held in the north lobby where the August 24 class will also be held. The sessions on August 12, 17, 19 and 26 will be held in room B1.

The I Can Cope cancer educational series was developed by two Minnesota nurses in 1977 as a way of providing patients and their families with practical information about the disease, an understanding of the various treatments used to fight cancer and strategies for self-care for those facing cancer.

The I Can Cope series is now sponsored by American Cancer Society units and medical facilities across the nation, helping millions cope with what is often the greatest challenge of their lives.

The program's curriculum includes information about the latest advances in treatment and stresses the role of class participants as partners in the learning experience. Once guest lecturers have presented information about a variety of cancer-related topics, class members are encouraged to identify and find solutions for some of the challenges they face in coping with cancer.

Class members are always encouraged to discuss problems with their physicians and health care providers while, at the same time, taking responsibility for their own well being by learning to better manage such issues as stress, diet and exercise.

Suggested guest faculty includes health professionals, clergy, cancer survivors and mental health professionals, and class titles for the six sessions include:

- Living With Cancer
- Understanding Cancer Treatments.
- Managing the Effects of Illness & Treatment/Keeping Well in Mind & Body.
- Communicating Concerns & Feelings.
- Exploring Self-Esteem/Intimacy.
- Mobilizing Resources and Support/Celebrating Life.

Having faced numerous challenges, cancer patient Jan Hoffard feels that her participation in the classes was very beneficial, and she encourages other cancer patients and their families to take advantage of them.

To register for the I Can Cope classes or for more information, call (218) 683-4446 or (218) 683-4211.

Also, a newly organized cancer support group will begin sessions at the hospital on October 14 and will be facilitated by Joney Poole, RN, and Ilone Gibson NWMC social worker.

Reptile and Amphibian Program at Rydell Refuge Sun., Aug. 15

Are turtles and lizards, a variety of snakes, and "miscellaneous" amphibians and reptiles invading from the swamp? No, it's a hands on program featuring the many interesting and little known lifestyles of these creatures and it's all happening at the Rydell National Wildlife Refuge at 2 p.m. on Sunday, August 15. Ted Hoberg, seventh grade life sciences teacher from Grand Forks will be the featured presenter. In a fun and informative way Ted helps bring a better understanding to the cool world of these cold blooded creatures.

Ted has been recognized as a North Dakota Outstanding Aquatics Educator and has been involved with many interesting projects including developing a reptile and amphibian identification guide for the North Dakota Game and Fish Dept. and setting up an interactive internet site for surveys of reptiles and amphibians in North Dakota.

Touching and handling some of the special guests that Ted brings to the program will be encouraged as you warm up to these cold blooded critters. Snakes, lizards, salamanders, turtles and more — it's always a surprise to see what new critters and old friends that Ted brings to his programs. It's a great photo opportunity for the kids!

This program is free and open to the public. It is being co-sponsored by the Maple Lake Improvement District, the Union Lake Sarah Improvement District, and Friends of the Rydell Refuge Association.

WIC supports Breastfeeding month in Minnesota

August is Breastfeeding Awareness month in Minnesota and WIC is continuing with the theme "Loving Support Makes Breastfeeding Work." August 1 also marks the beginning of World Breastfeeding Week, sponsored by the World Alliance for Breastfeeding Action (WABA). The theme of this year's worldwide campaign is "Breastfeeding: Education for Life."

Breastfeeding rates in Minnesota continue to rise as a result of support from the Minnesota WIC (Women, Infants, and Children) program. The WIC program promotes both initiation and duration of breastfeeding by providing clients with a wide range of breastfeeding information and support. Minnesota WIC program statistics show that initiation rates of breastfeeding among WIC participants have increased from less than 30 percent in 1990 to more than 50 percent in 1999.

The federally funded program provides nutritional food packages, breastfeeding support and health care referrals to pregnant and breastfeeding women and their children up to the age of five. WIC services available to pregnant and breastfeeding women include individual nutrition and breastfeeding counseling, referrals to organizations that provide breastfeeding information and support, and educational materials. Breastfeeding women who are not getting a breastmilk substitute for their infants from WIC get an enhanced food package with larger amounts of foods and some foods not available to other participants.

"The WIC program provides much-needed support to pregnant and breastfeeding mothers," said Minnesota Commissioner of Health, Jan Malcolm. "Breast milk provides the best nutrition and offers many health benefits. When there is more understanding and support for breastfeeding, infants benefit."

It has been shown that increasing support for breastfeeding among families, employers, health care providers and communities will help ensure that more infants receive the benefits of breastfeeding. According to public health officials, the benefits of breastfeeding include greater resistance to diseases and allergies, protection against some chronic diseases, better bonding between mother and child, greater convenience, positive impact on the environment, health benefits for women who breastfeed and cost savings for families, employers and society.

"We all play an important role in helping to provide the best start for infants by supporting breastfeeding," said Connie Hagen, co-coordinator of WIC-Quin county. "We are confident our awareness efforts will help create an environment where breastfeeding is encouraged and supported."

For more information about breastfeeding, please contact: WIC-Quin County at 1-800-223-1591 or the Roseau WIC office at 218-463-4741.

Katie is a 1997 graduate of Lincoln high school and will transfer from Northwest Technical College to enroll in early childhood program management. She is the daughter of Michael and Peg Kraemer.

Gary Rux featured in company publication

Gary Rux of Thief River Falls was featured in the July 22 issue of Northwestern Column, published for agents of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company. The article mentions that Rux will ride his Harley Davidson motorcycle in the "Quiet Riders '99" motorcycle rally during the 119th annual meeting of the company in Milwaukee, WI.

"At first blush, that may not seem like a particularly impressive feat," writes reporter Karen Janka, "but in order to participate, Rux had to go through a change of heart — literally."

The article goes on to explain that Rux had a heart transplant in 1992, after a wait of two years and two weeks after going on the transplant list. His own heart had been weakened by a viral infection and he was out of other treatment options.

Thirteen days after the operation he walked out of the hospital without need for a wheelchair. A few weeks later he was allowed to return home and five months to the day after the transplant he was back in his office. He had missed nearly two years of work.

"I was very worried that my business would just basically disappear while I was gone," Rux was quoted as saying, "but my clients waited for me to get back." At the end of the past sales year, he was among the company's annuity sales leaders.

Rux also takes time to speak about the importance of organ donor awareness and transplants. He urges families to talk about organ donation because the family has the final say in whether organs can be donated. His volunteer efforts were rewarded with an Agent Community Service Award in 1996.

"The biggest point I try to make," he said, "is that there are a lot of people dying who are waiting for organ transplants—and many of those people are teenagers and little kids."

The article goes on to say that "After a 25-year hiatus from motorcycling, Rux returned last summer to the hobby he had enjoyed before his marriage. Not long after putting in an order for a Harley, and resigning himself to several years' wait, he found a slightly used Harley that captured his attention. He bought the Harley, and over the winter had it customized with portraits of (five) timberwolves."

Since last October he has logged over 5,000 miles, including a 1,050-mile round-trip to Bismarck, ND. The next long trip will be to the annual meeting in Milwaukee.

"Several years ago this trip, and others like it, seemed like a world and a heart away for Rux," Janka writes. "He's one member of the 'Quiet Riders '99' rally that can really appreciate the ride."

SPEAKING OF EDUCATION

Jerry Robicheau, Superintendent
School District 564

Speaking of Education
Supt. Robicheau

Dear Citizens of Independent School District #564:

The line from the song, "Summertime and the Living is Easy", does not necessarily ring true in Independent School District #564 this summer. Our district is in a state of change as we have experienced a total of 31 staff changes over the course of this year. That means that this spring and over the summer we had a number of retirees, many of whom had been in this system for 30 years, and a number of teachers who, for personal reasons, relocated or moved out of the state and elected to resign their positions. We also had a couple of positions that changed internally.

All of this reflects the climate of public education. Education means that change will happen based on new information. We are reflecting the definition of education in that as we learn new things and as we experience new opportunities, change will occur.

We look forward to the 1999-2000 school year with high excitement and great enthusiasm. First is the fact that we do have a number of new staff entering our system. These individuals come with credentials to assure continuation of the quality educational opportunities for students.

Perhaps even more important is that we are entering the last school year of this century. As we look at what we have done in the past several years, we know we have provided and will continue to provide the skills necessary for students to succeed. Consequently, we have had a number of individuals who have succeeded as a result of the education they received in Independent School District #564.

But perhaps even more significant is the fact that students entering our school system this year will enter school in the 20th century and will end the school year in the 21st century. The significance of this statement is great! We, as residents in Independent School District #564, need to look at and reflect on what that means for the students in our school system. Have we provided them the skills necessary to function in the 21st century? I believe we have. Must we be satisfied? No. Satisfaction sometimes brings stagnation. We must continue to explore, research and pilot new and different opportunities for students. We don't know what types of challenges students will face in the future. We need to give them a good basic education program that allows them the opportunity to make good, value-based decisions.

This is going to take an extensive partnership on the part of our schools, our parents, the student and the community. Without that partnership we will not be able to provide the educational experiences that these students are entitled to and must have in order to function in the 21st century. That challenge produces excitement and enthusiasm.

I invite you, as parents, to encourage your students to do their very best as we approach the upcoming school year. I ask you to accept nothing but the best they can do. Let them know you are there to support them in every way you can--in their trials and tribulations, in their academic achievements, in their athletic accomplishments. Let them know they are valued. You, as parents, are a critical link in the success that we have in Independent School District #564.

We look forward to a wonderful and exciting 1999-2000 school year. It's going to be a great year! As always, if there is anything I can do to help you or address any questions you have regarding the educational opportunities in ISD #564, please do not hesitate to contact me at 681-8711 or drop me a note at 230 South LaBree, Thief River Falls.

I hope your summer has been relaxing and that you've had a chance to enjoy this wonderful State of Minnesota.

SPEAKING OF . . .

Sherry LaCoursiere

...If A Dog Were Your Teacher

Since one of my recent columns was about cats, I figure I should give equal time to dogs. Following are some things we can learn from our dogs.

When loved ones come home, always run to greet them.
Never pass up the opportunity to go for a joyride.
Allow the experience of fresh air and the wind in your face to be pure ecstasy.
When it's in your best interest, practice obedience.
Let others know when they've invaded your territory.
Take naps and stretch before rising.
Run, romp and play daily.
Thrive on attention and let people touch you.
Avoid biting when a simple growl will do.
On warm days, stop to lie on your back in the grass.
On hot days, drink lots of water and lay under a shady tree.
When you're happy, dance around and wag your entire body.
No matter how often you're scolded, don't buy into the guilt thing and pout – run right back and make friends.
Delight in the simple joy of a long walk.
Eat with gusto and enthusiasm. Stop when you have had enough.
Be loyal.
Never pretend to be something you're not.
If what you want lies buried, dig until you find it.
When someone is having a bad day, be silent, sit close by and nuzzle them gently.

Eric Bergeson

I got rid of my cell phone today, which is kind of a relief.

I signed up for one in a weak moment, thinking it would be a good thing to have in case I got stuck on a township road in a blizzard. I stuffed the phone in the glove compartment and forgot about it. I didn't give the number to anybody.

Then the bills started coming. I was paying $29.99 per month for this thing in my glove compartment that I never used.

That didn't make much sense. So, I decided I would at least use up the free minutes I had coming to me every month.

While ambling down a remote county highway, I attempted to call a friend to chat. With one hand on the steering wheel and the other holding the phone, I tried to dial the little buttons with my thumbnail.

After fumbling through the area code, I looked up to the road to find I was barreling straight for a mailbox. I swerved left, got going straight again and tried to dial the next three numbers. I finished them only to look up to see that I was headed for the opposite ditch.

I finished the final four numbers before screeching to a halt at a stop sign that I didn't see until the last moment. By then I was completely frazzled and in no mood to chit-chat on the phone. There was so much static that talking wasn't that easy anyway.

I got the phone for safety, but much more safety like that and I won't live long enough to get stuck in a blizzard. I have decided to just beef up my winter survival kit with a few more candles and candy bars and leave it at that.

Although cell phones are legal in cars, I am beginning to think that they are as dangerous to safe driving as a six-pack of beer guzzled quickly. I have had many close calls with other drivers who were busily chatting on various gadgets.

Some countries have outlawed the use of cell phones while one is driving, but that will probably never happen here. People with cell phones are the same people who rule the world, and they aren't likely to give up one of their favorite toys, especially one which makes them look so important.

But now that I don't have a cellular phone, you all can rest assured that you and your mailboxes are a little safer.

Help Children to Grow and Develop

Children need adults to care for them. In the beginning, parents must do everything for them. But as they grow, adults need to let go and allow children to do more and more for themselves. Allowing children to try, perhaps to fail, and then try again is one way to help them grow. Here are some others:

•Answer questions. Children who can do many tasks well usually understand the workings of the tools they use. Someone has taken the time to answer their questions along the way. Be a parent who is willing to answer questions. Explain, explain, explain. If he knows how the toilet works, for instance, he'll be more likely to use it correctly.

•Let him try. As you work with your child on a task, stop and ask yourself, "Could he try this?" For instance, as you wrap a gift for a friend's party, allow your child to choose the gift tag, peel off the price label, or hold the paper down as you tape. Monitor yourself. Could your child be helping in some way instead of just watching you do it?

•Admit mistakes. When a parent admits his or her own failures, a child realizes that everyone struggles to do things correctly. Failure is a part of success. In fact we usually learn much more from our mistakes than from our successes. Help your child to overcome his frustrations by acknowledging your own mistakes.

While children mature at different rates, most are helped (or harmed) by what parents do and say. By our very words and actions we encourage children to take an increasing amount of responsibility.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Explanations need not be lengthy. Use words your child can understand. Don't forget to find out what your child already knows. Turn your explanation into a conversation.
